The Charlevoix tennis team defeated several of the teams it will face in regional play while capturing the Grand Traverse Area Invitational tournament this past weekend. Charlevoix took three of nine flights in the tournament.

Tim Jervis took first place in the number two singles bracket for the Rayders. Greg Lewis and Webb Friedly on in the number one singles section while David Puhl and Chad DeYoung took top honors among number two doubles teams.

Charlevoix's number one and number three singles players, Ryan Holmes and Tim Holm each made it to the finals. Holm lost in the finals in a tie-breaker.

Miller breaks record

Charlevoix's Scott Miller coasted with the pack, but it turned out to be a fast pack. Miller stayed toward the back of the pack until the final lap of the 3200 meter relay event at the Alma Relays Saturday, then took control and won the race.

Despite staying with the pack for so long, Miller's winning time of 9:37.8 shaved more than a second off of his own school record in the 3200.

Charlevoix was the only Class C school at the relays and finished fourth among 15 schools. Miller also won the 1600 meter race and ran a leg with the winning 3200 meter relay team.

Charlevoix finished with 56 points in the meet to finish behind Corunna and Bay City Handy, each tallying 95 points and Bridgeport which scored 84. Teaming with Miller on the winning 3200-meter relay team were Bill Crook, Matt Smith and Tim Henne. All four have turned in fast enough times this year to qualify themselves for the state meet. Miller, Crook and Henne are seniors. Smith is a freshman. Smith ran the 1600 meter race in 4:36.3 Saturday to break Miller's school record for freshman.

Another freshman, Matt Stargardt, came close to qualifying for the state meet with a time of 4:49 in the 1600.

Tony Warchol contributed a pair of seconds to the Rayders cause Saturday taking the runner-up position in both the shot put and discus.

Charlevoix's girls finished 11th as a team. Sandy Fershee led the team with a second place finish in the high jump.

The Charlevoix softball team combined defense and offense Monday in clobbering Boyne City 19-2.

Melissa Boss and Stacy Tilton hit homeruns to lead the Rayders. Tammy Holm got the itching win for Charlevoix giving up only four hits and three walks.

Heather Radtke had a big day at the plate with four hits, including a triple. Boss had three hits, including the homerun. Tilton and Heather Keller each had two hits while Marly Bragg, Holm, Angelina Doan and Stacy Skeel each had one.

Charlevoix will host Rogers City Wednesday, May 16 in a pre-district qualifier.

Friedly is academic all-state

Charlevoix senior Webb Friedly has been named to the 1989-90 Basketball Coaches Association Academic All State Team. Friedly carries a 3.91 grade point average on a 4-point scale. He led the Michigan Huron Shores League champion Rayders in scoring this season, averaging 17.5 points per game. He was named to the all-conference team and received honorable mention on the UPI and Detroit Free Press all-state teams.

Webb Friedly

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Cindy Rowell of Charlevoix was named to the 1990 winter Dean's List at Saginaw Valley State University. To be named to the Dean's List a student must carry a grade point average of 3.4 or better on a 4 point scale.

Six students from Charlevoix and three from East Jordan were among the graduates of Central Michigan University this May. Norman Carlson Jr. received a Bachelor's degree with a history major. Jennifer Joy received a Bachelor's degree with majors in finance and French. Sharon Martin received a Bachelor's degree with a major in interpersonal and public communication. Deborah McDowell graduated Magna Cum Laude, receiving a Bachelor's degree with a major in art. Amy Sell graduated Magna Cum Laude, receiving a Bachelor's degree with a major in sports medicine. William Taylor IV received a Bachelor's degree with a major in Health Fitness and Promotion in a Corporate or Hospital setting. Virginia Brooks received a Bachelor's degree in education. Janice Prebble received a Bachelor's degree in education. Amy Roberts received a Bachelor's degree with a major in commercial recreation and facility management.

Sharon K. Huff (Nielsen) recently graduated from the University of Michigan at Flint with a Bachelor's degree in Elementary Education. Huff is a 1968 graduate of Charlevoix High School and the daughter of C. Mary Nielsen and the late Thomas Nielsen. She graduated with honors and lives with her husband James and their children in Byron, Michigan.

Mrs. Bill (Ida) Nall of Charlevoix has six family members graduating from Florida schools this spring. She has five grandchildren and a son-in-law graduating from various Florida colleges and high schools.

New patrol program begins

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office is presently participating in a new traffic safety concept of concentrated patrol to reduce accidents in Charlevoix County.

Any concerned citizen of Charlevoix County who has a concern over traffic safety for any specific road, can contact Sheriff Lasater for concentrated patrol consideration. The traffic safety concern may be speeders, careless or reckless drivers, drunk drivers, etc.

One or more deputies in marked and unmarked patrol units will be assigned to the concentrated patrol for designated periods of time. The citizen or groups of citizens requesting the service will be supplied a written report after the concentrated patrol efforts as to the number of citations issued, traffic stops made, arrest and number of patrol hours spent on the problem area.

When the citizen is requesting this service from the Sheriff's Office, please be able to supply Sheriff Lasater with the following required information: Specific roadway requested for concentrated patrol; nearest cross road; types of violations the citizen has observed; suspects if any (type of car, etc.); time of day and day of week violations take place.

Lake levels remain below average

Precipitation on each of the Lakes Superior, Erie, and Ontario basins was above average for the month of April, while precipitation on the Lakes Michigan-Huron basin was somewhat below average. The water levels of Lakes St. Clair, Erie, and Ontario during April remained above their long-term averages, while the levels of Lakes Superior and Michigan-Huron continued to be below average. This is a continuation of the trend of the last several months, whereby the upper lakes remain below average while the lower lakes are on the average, higher.

The Great Lakes forecast, published in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for the Great Lakes, shows that Lakes Superior and Michigan-Huron are expected to remain below their long-term average levels during the next six months. Lake St. Clair is expected to dip below its long-term average in July, while Lake Erie is projected to approach its long-term average in September, main slightly below average for the remainder of the forecast period. Lake Ontario, being regulated, is projected to approach its long-term average in July, and to remain slightly below average for the remainder of the forecast period.

FORFEITURE NOTICE LAND CONTRACT

TO:
Randy L. Senneker
Deanna J. Senneker
1555 Lake Drive
Grand Rapids, MI 49506

1. You are notified that a certain land contract, dated to be effective as of 22 April 1989 between Richard E. Lobenhertz, as seller and Randy L. Senneker and Deanna J. Senneker, husband and wife, as purchasers, concerning the property located at 11285 Flagg Road, East Jordan, Michigan 49727, Township of South Arm, County of Charlevoix, Michigan is in default because of non-payment of installments of principal and interest and also because of unpaid taxes.

2. You have forfeited your rights under the land contract and payment is demanded by Richard E. Lobenhertz who holds the land contract as Seller.

3. The sum of $1,350.00 is now past due in principal and interest under the land contract, plus the sum of $732.29 for taxes. Monthly installment payments of principal and interest are owed for August of 1989 through April of 1990, together with outstanding 1989 real estate taxes.

4. The total amount due and the material breach of contract must be cured or paid within 15 days from 30 May 1990.

5. Official Notice

ORDINANCE NO. 526

AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE CODE OF THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX BY AMENDING SECTIONS 10.83, 10.84 AND 10.91 OF CHAPTER 148 OF TITLE X OF SAID CODE.

WHEREAS, the current wording of Section 10.83 of Chapter 148 of the City Code is to be completely eliminated with new wording to be adopted as set forth below so that parking regulations can be changed by Traffic Control Orders rather than by Ordinance Amendment, and

WHEREAS, The current language of Section 10.84 designates specific fees for boat launching and parking permits and these specific amounts will be eliminated and in their place the City Council will set fees by Resolution and provide that for certain events those fees may be waived by the City Council, and

WHEREAS, The current language of Section 10.91 designates a specific fine for a violation of the Ordinance and this will be eliminated with the new language to set fines for parking violations under the Uniform Traffic Code and all other fines to be set by Resolution of the City Council and the City Council having held a Public Hearing on this matter.

THE CITY OF CHARLEVOIX ORDAINS:

1) That Section 10.83 of Chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10.83 PARKING. Parking in the Ferry Beach Parking Lot, including but not limited to the parking of vehicles and/or trailers, shall be regulated by Traffic Control Orders issued by the City Traffic Engineer. The terms "Traffic Engineer" are as defined in the Uniform Traffic Code as adopted in Chapter 145 of the City Code as amended.

2) That Section 10.84 of Chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10.84. PERMIT REQUIRED. Any person launching a boat from the Ferry Beach boat launch; or parking a vehicle with or without trailer or parking a single trailer shall be required to obtain a permit from the City of Charlevoix and display the permit on their vehicle. Charges for the Permit shall be set by resolution of the City Council. The City Council by Resolution may revise or waive fees for special or public events. The term "special or public events" shall mean a tournament, festival or other type of event, whether or not open to public participation or observation, the occurrence of which will, in the judgment of the City Council, benefit the City economically or by virtue of the publicity surrounding the event.

3) That Section 10.91 of Chapter 148 of the Charlevoix City Code is hereby amended to read as follows:

10.91. PENALTY. Any person violating a Traffic Control Order regulating parking shall be guilty of a civil infraction with the amount of penalty to be set pursuant to Section 10.56 of Chapter 147 of the City Code. Any person violating a provision of this Ordinance unrelated to parking shall be guilty of a civil infraction and the penalty for such violations shall be set by resolution of the City Council.

Section No. 10.83 was adopted by the following yeas and nay vote:

YEAS: Councilmembers Potter, Haggard, Hoffman & Gaskin.
NAYS: Councilmembers Russell & Whitley.
ABSENT: None.

Section No. 10.84 was adopted by the following yeas and nay vote:

Manager receives four percent raise

By L. Scott Swanson

Two councilmembers changed their position Monday evening eliminating a council deadlock concerning a pay increase for city manager Mike Wiesner.

When it became obvious that the decision was between four percent and nothing, Pat Gaskin and Cheri Hoffman, two councilmembers who earlier supported giving Wiesner a larger increase, changed their position and voted for a four percent pay hike. They were joined by councilmen Butch Russell, Jim Potter and Ken Whitley who supported four percent all along. Councilman Bill Haggard favored a larger increase and voted against the four percent raise.

Wiesner had requested a 33 percent salary increase which would have brought his base salary from $39,000 up to

In voicing support for the four percent increase, Russell and mayor Gary Probert cited the four percent pay increase given to other city workers.

Russell said contract negotiations with other city employees would be difficult next time around if the council gave Wiesner more than the four percent other city employees received.

"I would not support any more than the city employees got," Probert said. "I think we should keep looking at keeping an even keel all the way across."

Hoffman referred to Wiesner's involvement in city infrastructure work, electric system renovation and contract negotiations. She said she believes he has done several

Council approves airport charter contract

By L. Scott Swanson

The city council approved a contract with Robert Haveman Air Charter Monday evening and there are now two charter services operating at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport.

If a working definition of a compromise is an agreement which doesn't make either of two parties completely happy, then the contract allowing Haveman to compete with Island Airways at the Charlevoix Airport can be considered a compromise. Attorneys for both Haveman and Island Airways expressed reservations about some aspects of the contract during discussion prior to the council vote.

Island Airways operates a charter service to and from Beaver Island and also manages the airport. As the airport management, Island Airways plows the runways and maintains the airport while occupying the terminal building and keeping revenues generated at the airport. Island Airways pays the city approximately $8,000 per year to rent the airport.

Prior to Island Airways taking over management of the airport, the city maintained the airport, but lost money doing so.

"If the purpose of the council is to promote economic development and growth, I don't think you get that by fostering monopolies," Scott Beatty, attorney for Robert Haveman Air Charter.

Earlier this year, Haveman expressed interest in operating a charter service from the Charlevoix airport. His charter service will be in direct competition with Island Airways for charters to and from Beaver Island.

The city is in the initial stages of renovating and updating the airport. Federal and state grants will cover at least 50 percent, and in many instances 90 percent, of the cost associated with airport renovation. Regulations governing the grants require the city to allow a competitive service at the airport. Were the city not to allow a competitive service, future grants would be jeopardized.

At earlier council discussions, representatives of Island Airways expressed concern that Haveman would operate a shoestring operation at the airport during the profitable summer months and then leave during the winter, effectively skimming the cream and leaving Island Airways to maintain the airport during the winter.

The contract the city negotiated calls for Haveman to install a modular office next to the terminal building and keep that office open and staffed at least 20 hours a week throughout the year for at least one year.

"Island Airways has no problem with competition as long as all of the parties are playing on a level playing field," Glenn Borre, attorney for Island Airways.

The contract also calls for Haveman to pay $200 per month in rent to the city and landing fees to Island Airways. Landing fees at Charlevoix Airport only apply to commercial aircraft and are currently $3 per landing. However, the council plans to raise the fees to $5 per landing.

An earlier draft contract proposed for Haveman to pay $500 per month to Island Airways and $3 per landing. The final contract presented to the council suggested $200 per month to Island Airways and increasing the landing fees to $5.

Councilmembers said they felt the rent should go to the city and be set aside for airport improvements. They amended the contract accordingly.

Scott Beatty, an attorney representing Haveman, said, "There are many things in the contract we think are unfair, but we can live with it."

He said raising landing fees

Wreaths will be tossed into the lake by representatives of the American Legion and VFW Auxiliaries. American Legion Commander Frank Marquardt and VFW Commander Bill Behrens will place a wreath at the Submarine Memorial. A firing squad will give a 21-gun salute and taps will be played. Flags will be raised and lowered to half mast as the band plays the National Anthem.

The parade will continue to Veteran's Memorial Park where another wreath will be placed and a flag will be raised and lowered to half mast.

From Veteran's Memorial Park, the parade will proceed to the cemetery.

Rev. Perry Fowler will offer an invitational prayer at the cemetery ceremony. He will be introduced by master of ceremonies Robert J. Rajewski, Lt. Col. U.S.A.F. ret.

Lt. Commander Richard Lynch, U.S.C.G. will give the Memorial address.

A floral presentation will follow the address as will a 21-volley salute and the playing of taps.

Lisa Parrish of the elementary school will sing the National Anthem, accompanied by the high school band. As the National Anthem is performed, the Legion and VFW commanders will lower and then raise the flag.

Rev. Thomas Black of the First Baptist Church will offer the benediction.

good things which have been in the best interest of the city and she supported giving him more than a four percent pay increase.

Haggard cited Wiesner's engineering expertise and suggested the possibility of paying Wiesner something, in addition to his base salary, for engineering services.

The motion for a four percent increase did not pass until the second time it was made. Two other motions received support, but died before the second motion for four percent passed.

The first motion for a four percent increase failed by a 3-3 vote. Russell, Potter and Whitley voted in favor of four percent. Gaskin, Haggard and Hoffman voted against four percent.

Probert normally breaks the votes and attempted to vote in favor of four percent. But Wiesner pointed out that according to the city charter the mayor can't vote on amending the city manager's contract. City attorney Jim Young reviewed the charter and verified that Wiesner's interpretation is correct.

After further discussion, Probert said the council appeared to be at a "stalemate" on the issue.

No action meant no increase at all. Gaskin objected to that. Russell said he was willing to again make a motion for a four percent increase. Young pointed out that according to parliamentary procedure, a motion to reconsider must come from someone who voted with the prevailing side. In this case, since the previous motion failed 3-3, that meant a motion to reconsider must come from Gaskin, Haggard or Hoffman.

Haggard made a motion to raise Wiesner's salary to $52,000 over a three-year period. That motion never got off the ground because according to the city charter the city council can't enter a contract extending beyond a single fiscal year unless it publishes notice, holds a public hearing and enters the contract through an ordinance.

With the $52,000 (or 33 percent) over three years motion scrapped, Gaskin then moved to give Wiesner an 11 percent increase for the present year.

Wiesner noted that with inflation, three 11 percent raises over three years would not equate to $52,000 (or a 33 percent increase) in present-day value.

Gaskin's 11 percent motion failed along the same voting lines as the first four percent motion. Gaskin, Haggard and Hoffman favored the 11 percent increase. Russell, Potter and Whitley opposed it.

After the 11 percent motion failed, Gaskin moved to reconsider the four percent increase. The second time around, the four percent increase passed. Only Haggard voted opposed.

at the airport is an issue which never came up until a competitor asked to go into business.

Glen Borre, an attorney for Island Airways said, "Island Airways has no problem with competition as long as all of the parties are playing on a level playing field." He added that he doesn't believe the contract does that.

"Without substantially larger payments, Island Airways is going to have a problem with operations at the airport," Borre contended.

Beatty pointed out that the contract is between the city and Haveman and the Island Airways is Haveman's competition. He asked the council to consider the unusualness of a business sitting down to negotiate a contract with a third party, the businesses competition, also at the table saying what they want in the contract. "If the purpose of the council is to promote economic growth and development, I don't think you get that by fostering monopolies," Beatty stated.

Councilman Butch Russell asked city manager Mike Wiesner how the $200 per month rental fee was determined. Wiesner said it was comparable to what other northern Michigan airports charge with consideration given to the site's proximity to parking and the airport terminal.

Russell also asked Wiesner if he felt the rental should go to Island Airways or to the city.

Wiesner said he felt the rental should go to Island Airways because the contract with Island Airways to manage the airport has been beneficial to the city and the rent money might further the solvency of Island Airways.

Despite Wiesner's recommendation, the council voted to have the rent money go to the city and be placed in the airport improvement fund.

Toys to be demolished

Things not designed to be toys serve as the best toys in life.

The baby's playpen holds a variety of brightly colored toys that rattle, squeak, ping, bong and play music. These toys are meant to be toys. They are meant to be played with and meant to keep the baby occupied. Toys hold the baby's attention for but a moment. The TV guide booklet, a sheet of newspaper, the dog, the TV remote control or an ornamental lock on a chest which sits in the living room keep the baby spellbound for sometimes as long as half an hour which seems to be about the maximum attention span for a baby.

Saturday afternoon Mom wanted to work in the garden so Dad stayed indoors on kid patrol. While Dad watched sports on TV, the baby cruised around the living room in her little baby cart, a.k.a. the gnomemobile.

She rolled over to a pine chest which sits next to the end of the couch. She tilted her head back and peaked up on top of the chest to see what she could find there. She smiled. She'd found a treasure chest. Although she had no way of knowing what was inside the chest, a lot of treasures sat on top of the chest.

A stack of goodies on the chest contained a newspaper, the TV booklet and the TV remote control. The opportunity to get her little mitts on any one of these things generally brings a grin to the baby's face. Having a shot at all three...well, that was just a jackpot.

The baby got that determined look in her eye that baby's get when they decide they're going to get their hands on something. She maneuvered her cart as close to the chest as possible. The edge of the cart sticks out far enough so that her little arms can't reach too many things.

Fortunately, the newspaper hung over the edge of chest by a few inches. It was the break she needed. The baby latched onto the edge of the newspaper and began tugging.

Dad noticed the commotion. "Kid. Do you have to get into everything?" Dad asked, snatching the remote control from the top of the pile.

Stupid question.

"Dad. Getting into everything is my life."

Although Dad had saved the remote control, the newspaper and TV booklet were still fair game. She pulled the pile over far enough where she could get her hands on the TV booklet.

She picked the booklet up by its cover. Now that she had it she wasn't sure what she was going to do with it, but she smiled with pride for having acquired the thing.

She only had the booklet by its cover. She waved her hands and the booklet in the air, shaking the booklet's cover free from its guts.

When the booklet's innards hit the floor, the baby looked over at Dad and gloated deviously.

Now that she'd broken this project down to a more manageable size, she could get on with some serious ripping and dismantling.

She tore off a small corner of the booklet cover.

"Don't even think about eating that," Dad said sternly. The baby looked at him and scowled.

"If I only had a nickel for every time I picked up something and Dad said, 'Don't eat that.' I'd be a wealthy baby," she thought.

She threw down the small corner piece and focused her attention on the main body of the cover. She clutched it between the fingers of her little hands and pulled. Not much happened. She held it up in front of her and tugged. Still, nothing happened.

Finally, she put the booklet cover over top of her head. It kind of looked like a little hat until she pulled down with both hands and used her head to rip the cover in half.

I've seen karate experts use their heads to break boards. Maybe that's how they got their start—as babies using their heads to rip paper apart.

Once the paper was shredded, the baby had no more use for it. She tossed it on the floor.

"Pick that up when you get a chance Dad. I'm moving on to bigger and better things."

Out of the Blue

We hope that George's and Gorbie's backs
Are strong, so whatever come it Means they can get right down to brass tacks
When they meet up there at the summit

Letters to the Editor:

Supports millage increase

To the Editor and the voters of the Charlevoix Public School District:

On June 11, our school district will vote on a millage to sustain current school funding and a small amount to expand the educational program in some special areas such as computer technology. Both represent basic needs which we owe to our children as they prepare for their future in our complex world.

As a parent who has a child in each of the three Charlevoix school buildings, I feel I have an especially good insight into what's going on in the high school, the middle school, and the elementary school. I have attended many parent meetings, athletic events, music concerts, and other extracurricular activities. I have talked with teachers, administrators, aides, school board members and other community leaders. I have visited the school frequently during school hours. In every instance I have concluded that we in Charlevoix have a superior school system worthy of our greatest support.

Though I will be away from Charlevoix on voting day, I have already cast my absentee ballot and would urge others to do the same if they cannot be present on June 11. I am glad to make my vote known ahead of time. I have voted "Yes" on both issues and hope that everyone else will also.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Wheeling and dealing

This year's crop of TV commercials for new cars have one thing in common: They all make me dizzy.

For some reason the auto moguls have come up with the idea that Mr. Average American wants nothing more out of life than to ram around in his Swashbuckler V8 on an unpaved mountain road full of boulders as big as VWs.

When the mountain gets too crowded, Mr. AA dodges rattlesnakes in the desert in a cloud of dust and a swirl of light and color.

Zoom! Corner! Zoom again! Tromp the brakes! Stop on a dime! Take off through a patch of cactus!

Holy Moses! Are they selling automobiles or patent medicines for nervous exhaustion?

You really don't get a good look at any of the vehicles themselves. They either are traveling too fast or they are obliterated by special-effects lighting.

Then there's the problem with the video photographers who don't know how to focus their cameras. Fuzzy pictures are supposed to be artsy, but they're only annoying.

I think the advertisers want to leave their audience with a feeling of ambiguity because their cars look like they were stamped out in an M&M factory. There's not a dime's worth of difference between them so far as I can tell from the commercials.

Of course, some of the ads border on high comedy when they venture into price.

One model costs more than Rhode Island. All the others cost two or three times as much as I paid for my house and a lot a few years ago.

The rebate schemes are ridiculous.

"Buy my car and I'll cross your palm with silver."

It seems if you buy a car, the dealer will give you so much cash on the barrelhead to go out and have one helluva weekend on the town.

Of course, your soul will be indentured to the financing company for four years or until Doomsday, whichever comes first. With any luck it will be Doomsday.

Some dealers give you the option of financing the car for 7.9 percent interest if you forgo the rebate. They don't say how much interest they'll charge if you pocket the kickback. Probably 6 percent.

In the auto industry, things aren't always the way they seem.

I know it's sexist, but whatever happened to all the pretty girls who used to pose with new cars in TV commercials? The main idea was to leave a pleasing impression—and it worked.

WITH WINTER weather lingering into late spring, our TV viewing season has been extended unexpectedly.

A couple of the new pilot programs are exciting, including "Carol and Company," starring Carol Burnett, and "Wings," starring a lot of funny people I have never seen before.

Burnett's new series is nothing like her previous variety shows. Each C&C program is a tightly wrapped short story in the classic mode, starring Carol in the lead. The format is a perfect vehicle for her wide-ranging dramatic and comedic talents.

Carol is still the little girl who likes to dress up in mama's clothes and pretend she's different people. C&C is usually on Saturday night—sometime after "Golden Girls." The time-slot seems to jump around.

PBS also has a couple of entertaining British comedies on Friday nights after "Wall Street Week." The first is "French Fields," about an English couple who move across the channel to France. The second, immediately following, is "Executive Stress," the story of a man and wife team who head the British office of an American publishing company.

Neither is very deep, but who needs deep on Friday night?

Particularly after "Wall Street Week."

United Way helps fight dyslexia

"We have witnessed lives change firsthand," says Jane Andrews, director of the Michigan Dyslexia Institute: Northern Michigan Center. The Center is one of the many local agencies supported with funding from the Charlevoix Area United Way.

Nancy Potter, president of the board of directors of the Charlevoix Area United Way, recently presented a check for $1,275 to Judy Hoffman, assistant director of the Center. The agency receives payments from United Way twice a year. "Our support for the Michigan Dyslexia Institute is a prime example of the very good use made of the community's United Way contributions," Potter noted.

The Michigan Dyslexia Institute: Northern Michigan

Center, located in Harbor Springs, was founded in 1986 by Jane Andrews and Judy Hoffman of Potoskey. Formerly the Dyslexia Resource Center of Northern Michigan and now a regional center for the state institute, it has 23 active instructors serving people of all ages with reading disabilities from as far south as Cadillac and as far north as Escanaba and Marquette. The Michigan Dyslexia Institute has six centers throughout the state.

While much of the local center's funding comes from grants and private donations, contributions from the Charlevoix Area United Way provide financial aid directly to people whose reading disabilities make them candidates for treatment.

Dyslexia refers to persons who, for no apparent reason, do not learn to read, spell, and write as expected. Their reading and related language skills fall well below their general intelligence. Without professional treatment for this hidden handicap, a dyslexic is likely to be unable to live up to his or her real potential.

In Charlevoix County, a number of people have become independent learners because of the assistance provided by the Northern Michigan Center. In addition, instruction is offered to teachers so that they are better equipped to recognize the symptoms of dyslexia and how to work with the unique needs of dyslexic students.

The Center is located at 140 West Main in Harbor Springs and is open from 9 a.m. until 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday. The telephone number is (616) 526-9282.

Novotny - Jones

Terri L. Novotny and Thomas L. Jones exchanged marriage vows Saturday, April 28, at the First Congregational Church.

The Rev. Philip Schairbaum officiated at the afternoon double-ring ceremony before approximately 250 guests.

The bride is the daughter of William and Carol Novotny of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Helen Selfridge, also of Charlevoix.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with a deep lace flounce, a regal Queen Anne neckline, and puffed sleeves. The sleeves and bodice were inset with Venise lace and simulated pearl trim. Her headpiece was a dainty spray of fabric flowers and simulated pearls with a fingertip veil, and her bouquet was a cascading arrangement of lilies, freesia, Sonja roses, ivy, and baby's breath.

Kim Lalley assisted her sister as matron of honor, and Maria Saigeon served as bridesmaid. They wore floor-length coral satin gowns fashioned with a V-neckline and puffed sleeves. They carried cascading bouquets of Sonja roses, white mini carnations, ivy, and baby's breath.

Richard Ager served as best man; Clayton Jones, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsmen; and Gary Novotny and Tim Novotny, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Terri & Tom Jones

Elizabeth Humphrey provided organ music for the ceremony.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the American Legion Hall, with Mr. and Mrs. Ron Van Wormer, the bride's uncle and aunt serving as host and hostess. Afterward, the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to the Bahamas.

They are now at home in Charlevoix, where the bride is employed by the City of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is employed by Hoskins Manufacturing.

Herholtz - Lynch

Terry Lynch & Erika Herholz

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Herholz of East Jordan announce the engagement of their daughter, Erika, to Terry Lynch. He is the son of William Lynch, also of East Jordan.

The intended bride is a graduate of East Jordan High School and is presently employed by Davis Chevrolet in Charlevoix.

Her fiancé is a graduate of Warren Cousino High School.

The wedding will take place September 8 in the Boyne City Presbyterian Church.

Groves 25th

Lynn & Scott Groves

Maxwell (Scott) and Lynn Groves of Charlevoix will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary May 25.

The former Lynn Maxfield and Maxwell Groves were married May 26, 1965 at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

As part of their anniversary celebration, they recently took a trip south to Memphis and Nashville, Tennessee and Lexington, Kentucky.

The Groves have made their home in Charlevoix since their marriage. He is employed by Medusa Cement Company and she is employed by the 90th District Court.

They have one son, Chris, who is a student at North Central Michigan College, and a son and daughter by Mr. Groves' previous marriage. Van Groves lives in Minneapolis and Vicki Spencer lives in Merced, California.

The couple also has two grandsons.

Blood drive scheduled May 31

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Charlevoix Thursday, May 31 at the American Legion Hall on Garfield Street. Times to give are between 1 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. You may call Nancy Fowler at 547-9314 to make an appointment. Appointments are not required, but are appreciated as they make scheduling easier.

Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr. is contacting volunteers to work at the Bloodmobile. Mrs. Thomas Carey is responsible for scheduling registered nurses to assist the Red Cross staff during the drive. Mrs. David Fowler is organizing the calling committee to call former donors and will again keep the master schedule. Mrs. Herman Izor is again handling the publicity for the drive.

The American Legion donates the use of their building for the Bloodmobile, and men from the Lions Club help to unload and reload the van. The Kappa Sigma chapter of Beta Sigma Chi sorority provides workers for the canteen. First State Bank furnishes coffee and Olesons Food Stores provide juice for the donors and also cookies when enough homemade cookies cannot be solicited. Charlevoix donors think that homemade cookies are a "nice touch". However, it takes over 25 dozen cookies per bloodmobile. If you care to help by baking cookies, they can be dropped off at the American Legion the day of the Bloodmobile, Thursday, May 31 after 11 a.m.

Charlevoix has narrowly missed their quota the last few blood drives. The committee is hoping this time to make its quota of 100 pints of blood which can give someone another shot at life.

Garden Club tends Memorial Garden

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club encourages people to remember loved ones and friends by contributing to its "living" Memorial Garden.

Established in 1977 and maintained since then by the Charlevoix Area Garden Club, this garden is located on the northern island at the end of East Dixon Avenue on Mercer Boulevard.

The garden includes such plantings as weeping mulberry, purple-leaf plum, variegated dogwood, burning bush, tamarix, juniper and hosta.

Medusa Cement Company has donated a huge boulder soon to be placed at the southern end of the garden. An engraved bronze plate identifying the garden will be attached to the rock.

Memorial contributions made by members and friends throughout the year enable the club to plant and care for this garden. Club members hope that people will walk or drive by this garden maintained as a living memory for many friends or loved ones. People need not be a Garden Club member to make a memorial gift. If interested in contributing, call or write Nancy Fowler, 409 East Dixon Avenue, Charlevoix.

CHURCH

Assembly of God hosts guest speaker

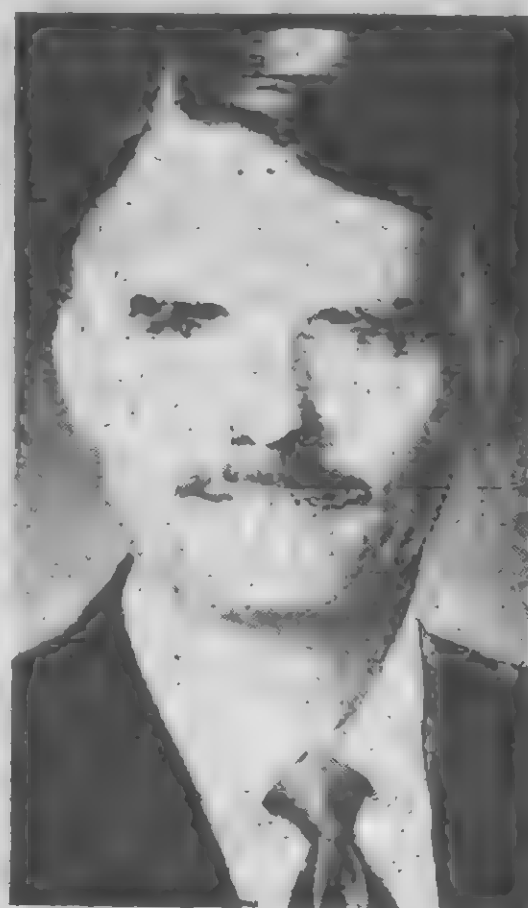

Services at the Charlevoix Assembly of God will feature a Missions Mini-convention Sunday, May 27. The Reverend Raymond Zents, veteran missionary to Cote d'Ivoire (Ivory Coast), will be the guest speaker in the morning service at 10:30. The evening service at 6:00 will feature students from Teen Challenge in Muskegon, Michigan with the Director Reverend Phil McClain as speaker.

Cote d'Ivoire (the name was officially changed from Ivory Coast in Oct. 1985) is a country enjoying material success yet experiencing spiritual poverty. Only 12% of the population claims to be Christian. Approximately one out of four Ivorians are Moslem while more than sixty percent cling to ancient animistic beliefs. The Zents' work involves establishing new churches and encouraging those already in existence. In addition, they direct International Correspondence Institute which provides home Bible studies and currently serves 8,000 active students.

Teen Challenge of Muskegon is a Christian growth and development program that works primarily with drug abusers, alcoholics, and others with life-controlling problems. The students will be sharing their life stories and how they experienced a total life change by accepting Jesus Christ as their personal Lord and Savior.

The presentation is a timely, God-spurred message that will challenge young and old alike. Pastor Lowell Anderson extends a personal invitation to the public to attend these services.

Funeral will be 1 p.m. Saturday, May 26, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Bruce E. Hamilton of the community church of God will officiate and burial will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Burke was born Nov. 3, 1970, in Charlevoix, the son of Gerry and Joyce (Kruklik) Burke. He grew up in Charlevoix and moved to Naples four years ago, returning to graduate with his classmates from Charlevoix High School in 1989.

He was owner and operator of Gulf Breeze Chevron Station in Naples, Fla.

Survivors include his parents; one sister, Marla Burke of Naples; three brothers, Kenneth and Allan, both of Charlevoix and Jeffrey of Naples; his maternal grandfather, Kenneth Kruklik of Charlevoix; paternal grandmother Minnie Burke of Charlevoix.

Friends may call 6-8 p.m. Friday, May 25, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Two candidates challenge city mayor

Mayor Gary Probert faces opposition from two candidates in his efforts toward reelection. Former mayor Ken Staley and former planning commission chairman Dave Novotny have filed nominating petitions to run against Probert in an August primary election.

Along with the three mayoral candidates, five council candidates filed nominating petitions by the May 15 filing deadline. Since there are no more than two candidates for any of the three council seats up for election, there will be no primary election.

In the November general election, incumbent first ward councilman Bill Haggard will be challenged by former first ward councilman Norm Probert. Probert lost the other first ward council seat last year when he was beaten by Cheryl Hoffman.

Another former council member is running in the third ward. Former councilmember Shirley Roloff will be matched against John H. (Jackie) Cross III. Incumbent councilman Jim Potter chose not to seek reelection.

In the second ward, Theodore S. Felter, a former zoning board of appeals member, is running unopposed. Incumbent councilman Ken Whitley did not file for reelection.

The winners of the three council seats will join Hoffman, Butch Russell and Pat Gaskin on the council.

According to the city charter, council members and the mayor run on a nonpartisan ballot and serve two-year terms.

Several file for county board of commissioners

By Peg Ohle

For the first time in several years, there will be real competition in the August Primary Election for seats on the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners.

There will be no competition in only two of the County's six Districts—District 6 (Charlevoix) and District 3 (Boyne City). There, incumbents Walter Hufford and Phillip Johnson are assured of reelection in the November General Election.

In District 1 (Hayes, Bay

Evangeline, and Melrose Townships), the seat vacated by Larry Matthew is being sought by Albert Reeves, 48, of Melrose Township and Carl Price, 53, of Hayes Township. Both are Republicans and will face each other in the Primary, with the winner being assured of election in November.

In District 2 (Boyne Valley, Chandler, Hudson, Wilson, and eastern Eveline Townships), incumbent Ralph Harmon of Boyne Valley, a Democrat, will not have Primary opposition, but in November he will face either James Behling, 55, of Robert Herrmann, 61, both of Wilson Township. They will oppose each other in the Primary.

In District 4 (City of East Jordan, and South Arm Township), the seat vacated by Tom Breaky is being fought over by four Republicans and one Democrat. The Republicans who will try to come out on top in the Primary are Dennis Jason, 50, Lyle Etcher, 61, and Lee Arnold, 46, all of East Jordan, and Patricia Sweet, 53, of South Arm Township. The Primary winner will face Democrat Howard Glenn Hosler of East Jordan in November.

In District 5 (eastern Eveline, Marion, Norwood, Charlevoix, James and Peaine Townships), there will be no Primary contest, but incumbent Republican Don Smith, 43, of Charlevoix Township will face Democrat Katherine Johnson, 49, of Eveline Township in November.

Charlevoix County was divided into six County Commission Districts in 1981, following the 1980 census. It will be re-districted again next year after 1990 census figures are processed. This will probably result in changing District boundaries and perhaps adding more Districts. The only requirement is that the Districts be as near equal in population as possible.

The 1981 re-districting cut the number of County Commissioners from 15 to the present six (one for each District), a situation which many feel has put an unduly heavy work load on the Commissioners.

Re-districting is the job of the County Prosecutor, the Probate Judge, and the County Clerk.

Veterans to sell poppies

The Ladies' Auxiliary and Veterans of Foreign Wars, Post 153 will be selling poppies May 24-26. Last weekend poppies were sold by the Ladies' Auxiliary and Leslie T.

Shapton, Unit 226 of the American Legion. Proceeds from poppy sales benefit Veteran rehabilitation programs and the families of veterans.

Josephine Bindi, Katie Curtis, Angie Borths and Marilyn Finck are chairing the Charlevoix poppy sale. Poppies will be sold throughout the community.

BUSINESS

John Roeser stands next to some of the bikes at the Charlevoix Bicycle Shop located beneath Bannanarama next to Bridge Park.

New bike shop opens for business

Charlevoix Bicycles is the new business in the lower level of the building next to Bridge Park, under the Bannanarama Shop.

Facing Round Lake harbor, Charlevoix Bicycles is in an ideal location for visiting boaters to rent bikes for a trip around town to conduct business or to see the sights of the town.

John Roeser, owner of the bicycle shop, has even prepared a map of the city indicating interesting pedaling routes.

Charlevoix Bicycles also sells three lines of bicycles. One line is the Off-Road make, a mountain bike which features shock absorbers, and which comes in a small frame size with regular wheels. Another is the ReFlex, a mountain bike which features an aluminum frame. And the third is the Myata, a road bike which has been made in Japan for 100 years. This road bike is of "super high quality," according to Roeser.

In addition to renting and selling bicycles, the shop will make repairs on all types of bicycles and Roeser promises quick, professional service.

Another service of this new business is selling bicycle parts and accessories, including clothing and helmets.

However, Roeser says, "Rentals will be our big thing. We offer high quality rental bikes, not something that has been abused for five years. Ours are brand new."

Roeser also operates a bicycle shop and ski shop in Vail, Colorado.

Area adolescent health parallels nation's

By L. Scott Swanson

Health problems of Charlevoix and Emmet County adolescents closely parallel health problems of adolescents across the nation.

In a health department survey conducted last year, 1,466 area high school students identified the top three health concerns of adolescents as: substance abuse (primarily alcohol); sexual activity (pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases); and mental health (anxiety and depression).

On the bright side, 93 percent of the students surveyed see themselves as healthy or quite healthy and the majority of the students consume a nutritionally adequate diet which includes the four basic food groups.

The process leading to the survey began in 1987 and led to a grant which funded the survey in 1989. For the past several months, information from the survey has been collected, analyzed and compiled into a 57-page report. The report also contains information from related adolescent health surveys in which the respondents were parents of adolescents or area people who work with adolescents.

Responses to questions involving substance abuse, sexual activity and mental health indicate among other things that:

-Alcohol is the most commonly used substance by adolescents, with 28 percent drinking weekly and an additional 36 percent drinking monthly.

-Approximately 21 percent of area adolescents smoke marijuana on a daily, weekly or monthly basis.

-While more than 50 percent of the adolescents who engage in sexual intercourse always use contraceptives, between 25 and 30 percent rarely or never use contraceptives.

-Approximately 44 percent of the adolescents surveyed said they had been depressed for more than one week during the year preceding the survey.

In response to the question, "Who could you turn to for help with a personal or emotional problem?" the majority of the students indicated that they turn to their parents, parents of a friend or their own peers and friends.

The District 3 Health Department conducted the survey in the winter of 1989 under the direction of the Adolescent Health Task Force. Representatives from the health department, area medical facilities, schools, social service agencies, law enforcement agencies, ministerial associations and parent groups served on the task force.

Students from the alternative education program,

Charlevoix, Beaver Island, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Harbor Springs and Pellston took part in the survey.

Students responded to the survey anonymously. Either the students or their parents could have chosen to have a student not participate in the survey. However, almost all of the students chose to participate.

The purpose of the survey process, according to Carol Paxton, who is director of health promotion and preventive services at the health department, is to make sure area adolescents have access to needed health services and at the same time integrate services offered by area health agencies.

"We really want to work with the community to have all of us be responsive to health needs of area adolescents," Paxton said.

She explained that the survey is only the first step in a process. The purpose of the process is to provide an information service for adolescents and their parents so they can find out what health services are available. Paxton emphasized that the purpose of the process is not to establish an adolescent health clinic.

Paxton said the next step in the process is to use the study to determine a course of action. A new task force is being appointed to do that.

In the time since the survey was taken, the health department received a grant to hire an adolescent health coordinator. The coordinator is Susan Killam. Killam, a registered nurse previously affiliated with the health department, is now working with schools, students and parents in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Petunias prepared to face dirt

Between 5 p.m. and 6 p.m., Thursday, May 24 the people of Charlevoix will plant 50,000 petunias.

Colors this year will be red, white, lavender and three shades of pink. And those are just the colors of the faces of all the hardworking planters as they huff and puff to get those flowers in the ground. The petunias will be pretty too.

Block captains will oversee Operation Petunia and validate each planter's ticket which allows the planter to enjoy the petunia picnic in East Park beginning at 6 p.m.

Rotarians will be providing the staple food at the petunia picnic. That is to say they'll be grilling hot dogs. Potato chips, ice cream, Tom's Mom's cookies and Coke will supplement the Rotary dogs. Student planters will also receive tickets redeemable at the Dairy Queen.

Middle school students Tim Terry and Jill Dreyer have been named 1990 Petunia prince and princess. Theirs will be the only type of reign allowed during the planting and picnic. In fact, there's going to be so much sunshine that a big tent furnished by Kirby Dipert will provide shade for the picnic.

Oleson's is donating hot dogs and buns to the picnic for the ninth year with Coca Cola supplying the beverage.

Bruce MacArthur is coordinating the planting. Steve Stargardt will provide entertainment at the picnic from 6 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Block captains on the south side will be Nancy Allison, Laurie Keller, Jim Block, Tom Bergmann and Troy Bonar. Captaining the north side will be Ty Conklin, Tansley Stewart, Don Meggison, Frank Zednick, John Kurtz, Bonnie Mundell and John McKown. People wishing to participate in the planting should contact a block captain.

Monday evening, the city council expressed a desire to have the entire week of May 18-26 be a time to emphasize community clean-up.

Memorial travel expected to be high

Imagine making 38,000 trips around the equator. That's how far motorists are expected to drive in Michigan over the Memorial Day holiday, if predictions by the Michigan Department of Transportation (M-DOT) prove correct.

Given good weather, M-DOT predicts motorists will drive a record 920 million vehicle miles in Michigan during the three-day reporting period from noon on May 25 (Friday) through noon May 29 (Tuesday).

That's an increase of nearly two percent over the previous record set in 1989 when Michigan motorists logged 905 million vehicle miles.

It continues a steady rise in travel since 1982. The 1990 figure is more than a 36 percent increase over the 675 million miles driven in 1982.

M-DOT officials attribute the trend to a strong economy coupled with an increase in out-of-state visitors to Michigan.

To make holiday driving safer and more convenient, State Transportation Director James P. Fitz has banned all construction except for emergency work on all state highways.

Slowdowns may still occur in some construction area where lane closures or detours can not be eliminated for the holiday.

DNR accepting bear hunting applications

Bear hunting applications will be available May 27, and hunters have until June 27 to apply for 1990's fall hunting season, for which 4,191 harvest tags are available.

The quota is expected to allow one in every three hunters who apply to receive a harvest tag. The DNR estimates that between 800 and 1,100 bear will be taken this year on the state's eight bear management units.

To distribute hunters and to equitably distribute the harvest, the hunting season of Sept. 10 to Oct. 21 for the mainland units in the Upper Peninsula will be split into two overlapping hunt periods of equal length: Sept. 10 to Oct. 16 and Sept. 15 to Oct. 21.

Several seasons will not be split. They include the Oct. 8-14 season on Drummond Island, the regular Sept. 21-27 season in the Red Oak unit and the archery-only Oct. 5-11 season in Red Oak.

Hunting with hounds will not be permitted until Sept. 15 in the Upper Peninsula or during the Oct. 5-11 archery-only season in the Red Oak unit.

The application procedure for a harvest tag will be similar to that used for turkey applications. Resident applicants, other than senior license holders and lifetime license holders, can buy an application at license dealers or at any DNR office that sells licenses. The cost for the application to receive a license and harvest tag will be the same as the cost of a bear license: $14.35 for residents and $150.35 for nonresidents.

Seniors and lifetime license holders can pick up applications at any DNR office. There will be no charge for lifetime license holders or seniors with a current valid senior hunt license.

Nonresidents must purchase an application at the License Control Section office in Lansing, 517-335-3318. They can be purchased in person, by mail or by phone.

Applicants will have several options. First, they must select the management unit and hunt period for which they wish to receive a harvest tag. Hunters may apply with a "buddy," in which case they will either both receive a harvest tag if drawn, or neither applicant will receive a harvest tag.

If an applicant does not receive a harvest tag for their unit of choice, they will also have the option of taking a leftover tag, if available, or receiving a license without a harvest tag if they wish to participate in a hunt behind hounds.

Successful applicants will be notified by July 10. If the applicant does not receive a tag, or does not want a license without one, their application fee will be refunded.

For more information, contact the DNR Wildlife Division, Box 30028, Lansing 48909; phone 517-373-1262.

School tax meeting draws sparse crowd

By Wendi Wright
The Charlevoix Board of Education hosted a "Truth in Taxation" hearing at its regular meeting Monday evening, but very few people attended and no questions were asked.

Without the Truth in Taxation hearing, the school board would have been required to decrease the school millage levy due to increased property values (SEV) in the school district.

Without the hearing, the school operational millage would have been rolled back from 26.658 mills which was levied last year to 25.2371 mills. With the hearing, the school may levy up to 26.9377 mills.

A mill is $1 per every $1,000 of State Equalized Value (SEV). SEV is one-half of a property's market value. The school district SEV is the combined value of all property within the school district. In the Charlevoix School District, each mill levied brings the school district more than $200,000.

Voters will also vote on two millage proposals June 11. If either, or both, pass, the millage will be raised above 26.9377. If proposal one, asking for a waiver of the Headlee Amendment passes, the school will be able to levy 27.44 mills. If proposal one passes and proposal two, a request for 9 of a mill to purchase computers and fund school operational costs, passes, the school may levy 27.8377 mills. If both proposals one and two pass, the school will levy 28.34 mills. The millage difference between both proposals passing or failing is 1.4023 mills.

In other business Monday evening, the board approved the appointment of Toni Felter as High School Girls Varsity Basketball Coach. Felter, a high school counselor, previously coached the Charlevoix varsity girls team, but in recent years Stan Martin has been the coach.

High School principal Dave Smith announced that graduation ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m., June 3 in the high school gym. Nikki McWhirter, Detroit Free Press columnist will be the commencement speaker.

Plenty of building started in April

Permits for 15 new houses and eight new condominium units were issued during April by the Charlevoix County Department of Building Inspection.

The condominiums will be built at the Pine Lake Club in Charlevoix Township. Three houses will be built in both Bay and Eveline Townships, two in both Charlevoix and South Arm Townships, and one each in Hayes, Marion, Melrose, and St. James Townships, and one in the City of Boyne City.

These permits bring to 38 the number of new houses started in the county this year, at an estimated building cost of $1,076,073. The Pine Lake Club condominiums are the only ones started so far this year. Their estimated minimum cost is $495,860.

In addition to the new residential construction, permits were also issued for nine alteration and remodeling jobs, two garages, three mobile home additions, five pole buildings, and one new commercial building.

Driver's urged to slow down in work zones

State police and the people who build and maintain Michigan's highways are stepping up efforts to persuade motorists to slow down in highway work zones.

Their "Give 'Em a Brake" campaign is aimed at drivers who speed by workers who are building and repairing highways within a few feet of traffic.

In 1988, the last full-year reporting period for State Police, there were 7,828 work zone accidents in Michigan, an increase of 21 percent over 1987. Twenty-four people were killed and 2,828 injured, most of them motorists and their passengers. Accidents totaled 6,529 in the first 11 months of 1989. (There are no figures yet for injuries and fatalities.)

The campaign is a joint effort of State Police, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) and the Michigan Road Builders Association. It got under way as the 1990 construction season, involving thousands of workers, moved into high gear.

Col. Rich Davis, State Police director, said his department is testing a program that puts uniformed troopers, equipped with radar units in state highway vehicles parked in construction zones. It's called "CZAR," which stands for Construction Zone Accident Reduction.

Troopers in highway trucks measure the speeds of passing vehicles. Violators of the 45-mile-per-hour speed limit are identified and other troopers are called in to take appropriate enforcement action.

CZAR got its first test in the Bay City area last month.

State Police reported that average speeds through a work zone on US-10 between Midland and Bay City dropped from 53.1 miles an hour before the test began on April 12 to 47.3 mph when speeds were clocked on May 14.

If manpower resources allow, Davis said, the program probably will be tested in other areas.

State Police also will use speed timing with aircraft this season, Davis said.

"The most expensive, most sophisticated radar detector money can buy will not foil air speed timing," he said. "Let the driver beware."

"Work zones are danger zones, both for motorists and workers," said State Transportation Director James P. Pittz. "We have hundreds of projects on the state highway system this year, and counties and cities have hundreds more.

"We're doing all we can to move traffic through work zones as safely as we can, and with a minimum of inconvenience. In return, we want motorists to slow down, for their sake as well as ours."

T. A. Forsberg, president of the road builders association, said his organization is placing the "Give 'Em a Brake" message on billboards along some of Michigan's most heavily traveled highways.

"It's one more way of getting the attention of millions of motorists," he said. "Work zone safety is a very serious matter for us."

Other elements of the public awareness campaign include:

- Radio and television public service announcements featuring the NBAS champion Detroit Pistons.

- Posters distributed to most trucking companies in Michigan and to AAA offices and other outlets.

- Display of the "Give 'Em a Brake" message on bumper stickers and metered postage envelopes sent out by insurance companies and other businesses.

- Orange and black signs at the exits of all of Michigan's 84 freeway-rest areas and several weigh stations. They are visited by some 40 million motorists a year.

DNR accepting bear hunting applications

Bear hunting applications will be available May 27, and hunters have until June 27 to apply for 1990's fall hunting season, for which 4,191 harvest tags are available.

The quota is expected to allow one in every three hunters who apply to receive a harvest tag. The DNR estimates that between 800 and 1,100 bear will be taken this year on the state's eight bear management units.

To distribute hunters and to equitably distribute the harvest, the hunting season of Sept. 10 to Oct. 21 for the mainland units in the Upper Peninsula will be split into two overlapping hunt periods of equal length: Sept. 10 to Oct. 16 and Sept. 15 to Oct. 21.

Several seasons will not be split. They include the Oct. 8-14 season on Drummond Island, the regular Sept. 21-27 season in the Red Oak unit and the archery-only Oct. 5-11 season in Red Oak.

Hunting with hounds will not be permitted until Sept. 15 in the Upper Peninsula or during the Oct. 5-11 archery-only season in the Red Oak unit.

The application procedure for a harvest tag will be similar to that used for turkey applications. Resident applicants, other than senior license holders and lifetime license holders, can buy an application at license dealers or at any DNR office that sells licenses. The cost for the application to receive a license and harvest tag will be the same as the cost of a bear license: $14.35 for residents and $150.35 for nonresidents.

Seniors and lifetime license holders can pick up applications at any DNR office. There will be no charge for lifetime license holders or seniors with a current valid senior hunt license.

Nonresidents must purchase an application at the License Control Section office in Lansing, 517-335-3318. They can be purchased in person, by mail or by phone.

Applicants will have several options. First, they must select the management unit and hunt period for which they wish to receive a harvest tag. Hunters may apply with a "buddy," in which case they will either both receive a harvest tag if drawn, or neither applicant will receive a harvest tag. If an applicant does not receive a harvest tag for their unit of choice, they will also have the option of taking a leftover tag, if available, or receiving a license without a harvest tag. If they wish to participate in a hunt behind hounds.

Successful applicants will be notified by July 10. If the applicant does not receive a tag, or does not want a license without one, their application fee will be refunded.

For more information, contact the DNR Wildlife Division, Box 30028, Lansing 48909; phone 517-373-1262.

School tax meeting draws sparse crowd

By Wendi Wright
The Charlevoix Board of Education hosted a "Truth in Taxation" hearing at its regular meeting Monday evening, but very few people attended and no questions were asked.

Without the Truth in Taxation hearing, the school board would have been required to decrease the school millage levy due to increased property values (SEV) in the school district.

Without the hearing, the school operational millage would have been rolled back from 26.658 mills which was levied last year to 25.2373 mills. With the hearing, the school may levy up to 26.9377 mills.

A mill is $1 per every $1,000 of State Equalized Value (SEV). SEV is one-half of a property's market value. The school district SEV is the combined value of all property within the school district. In the Charlevoix School District, each mill levied brings the school district more than $200,000.

Track team wins regional title

High school track runners from northern Michigan are finding that while Scott Miller's name is familiar, try as they might they just can't put a face with it. That's understandable. They've only seen him from the back.

Miller won three individual races and ran a leg with a winning relay team in leading the Rayder boys track team to a regional title Saturday at Ewart. Charlevoix compiled 88 points, 20 more than the Kingsley and Lake City teams which tied for second place.

Miller warmed up by anchoring the 3200 meter relay team which included Matt Smith, Matt Stargardt and Tim Henne. The team polished off their competition with a winning time of 8:25.5.

Following the relay race, Miller made an adjustment. He adjusted his own school record in the 1600 meter race for the third time, winning the regional title in 4:24.

The relay and 1600 meter efforts may have tired Miller a bit. His winning times in the 800 meter and 3200 meter races were only 2:01.2 and 9:59.9, times which are virtually human.

While Miller spent his day outrunning a lot of skinny guys, Rayder senior Tony Warchol dominated the brute-force events. Warchol launched the shot put 48' 9" to place first in that event and slung the discus 132' 8" to place second in the region and qualify for state in that event.

Matt Gibbons and Brian Livingston finished third and fourth in the long jump and surpassed the distance necessary to qualify for state finals. Gibbons leapt 20' 6 1/2" while Livingston leapt 20' 5 1/2".

Charlevoix's 400 meter relay team missed qualifying for state by one-tenth of a second. The team of Livingston, Lance Enig, Hideoyuki Maki and Luke LaBlance turned in a third place time of 45.7 seconds.

LaBlance also took third in the 400 meter run while Paul Wakalat took fourth in the 3200 meter run.

None of the Rayder girls qualified for the state meet although the team had three third place finishes. Sandy Fershee placed third in the high jump, clearing 4' 9". The 3200 meter relay team of Michelle Keem, Amy Feindt, Julie Bush and Elsa Conlan placed third with a time of 10:32 and the 1600 meter relay team of Kathy Pease, Aimee Livingston, Keem and Conlan placed third with a time of 4:29.

The Class C state finals take place Saturday, June 2 at Wyoming High School.

Miller will join Drenth at William and Mary

Charlevoix runner Scott Miller has signed a letter of intent to do his college running for Charlevoix alumni Walt Drenth at the College of William and Mary in Virginia.

Miller, a two-time state champion, is one of Drenth's first recruits. Drenth recently became William and Mary cross country coach after coaching at Central Michigan University.

Miller has led the Rayder cross country teams to back to back state titles and this past weekend won three races in leading the Rayder track team to a regional crown.

Scott Miller

Miller, the son of Carl and Nora Miller, will also graduate among the top 10 percent of his high school senior class.

Baseball team wins pair

Charlevoix's baseball team swept a doubleheader with Cheboygan 9-2 and 16-7 Saturday. The two wins raised the Rayders season record back above .500 at 13-12.

Charlevoix scored three times in the third, fourth and fifth innings in the first game. Guy Gengle was the winning pitcher striking out nine and walking five. Dan Terryberry had three hits including two doubles. James Corwin and Chris Seymour each had two hits in the game while Jason Corwin also had a double.

Wayne Joy got the pitching win in game two. Pat Elliott had three hits, including a home run. Jason Corwin also had three hits, including a double. Seymour had two hits while Luke Porath had a double.

Rogers City eliminated Charlevoix from tournament play Friday, beating the Rayders 12-0 in a pre-district qualifying game.

Softball team loses two

Charlevoix's softball team scored a lot of runs and yet not enough runs in losing twice to Cheboygan Saturday, 19-10 and 24-22.

Stacy Tilton took the loss in the first game, giving up 13 hits and seven walks while striking out five. Melissa Cox had three hits including a home run. Melissa Boss had two hits including a triple. Stacy Skeel had two hits including a double.

Tammy Holm got the pitching loss in game two. Cox had five hits in the game, bringing her total to eight for the day. Melissa Murray had two triples among her three hits. Tilton had two hits including a home run. Heather Radle and Skeel also both had two hits in the game.

Friday, Charlevoix lost to Rogers City 12-0 in a pre-district qualifying game.

Tennis team wins regional again

It is fair to assume that Charlevoix's 1990 Regional tennis title is no fluke. After all, it's the sixth straight year the Rayders have won the regional crown.

Charlevoix remained undefeated in 1990 as they won the regional title in Traverse City Saturday. The Rayders will now move on to state competition June 1 and 2 at Battle Creek.

Charlevoix only had two winners in the final rounds, but success in the earlier rounds carried the Rayders past second place Harbor Springs.

Winning the number one and number two doubles flights were the unbeaten teams of Webb Friedly and Greg Lewis and David Puhl and Chad DeYoung.

In the number one doubles flight, Lewis and Friedly opened the day with a 6-2, 6-3 win over a team from Leelanau School, then beat a Harbor Springs team 7-5, 7-5 and in beat a Boyne City team in the finals 6-2, 6-2.

In the number two doubles flight, Puhl and DeYoung beat a Boyne City team 6-4, 6-4 then beat a Traverse City St. Francis team 5-1, 6-2 and closed the day with a 6-4, 6-0 win.

Charlevoix's number three doubles team of Ignacio Lopez and Sam Bingham narrowly missed completing a Rayder sweep in doubles competition. Lopez and Bingham won their first match over a Leelanau team 6-4, 6-0, beat a Northport team 6-1, 6-1 and then lost to a Harbor Springs team 6-7, 7-6, 6-4.

In number one singles, Ryan Holmes beat an Elk Rapids opponent 6-2, 4-6, 7-6, but then lost in the second round 6-3, 6-2 to a Northport player who went on to win the number one singles flight.

In number two singles, Tim Jervis had a bye in the first round, crushed a Leelanau player 6-0, 6-2 in the second round and lost to a Leelanau School opponent 3-6, 6-4, 6-1 in the finals.

In number three singles, Tim Holm had a bye in the first round, came from behind for a 5-7, 6-4, 6-3 win over a Northport player in the second round and lost 6-2, 6-2 to a Harbor Springs player in the finals.

In number four singles, Chris Pemble received a bye, then beat an Elk Rapids opponent 6-4, 7-5 and a Northport player 6-0, 6-7, 7-3 before losing to a Harbor Springs player in the finals 7-6, 6-3.

Catcher Pat Elliott had a home run against Cheboygan Saturday.

Taylor qualifies for TAC finals

Charlevoix's Bill Taylor has qualified for the TAC Senior National Championships in the 10,000 meter race. Taylor qualified by winning a race this past Saturday at Northeastern University with a time of 28:43.

Taylor ran the first 3.1 miles of the race in 14:30 and then picked up his pace running the second 3.1 miles in 14:13.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY DISTRICT

The Downtown Development Authority of the City of Charlevoix will hold a Public Hearing on a proposed increase of .0712 mills in the operating tax millage rate for the Downtown Development District to be levied in 1990.

The Hearing will be held on Tuesday, May 29, 1990 at 6:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of City Hall, 210 State Street, Charlevoix, Michigan.

If adopted, the proposed additional millage will increase the DDA operating revenues from ad valorem property taxes 4.80% over such revenues generated by levies permitted without holding a hearing.

Operating millage	1.6	1.5534

The City Council of the City of Charlevoix has complete authority to establish the number of mills to be levied up to a maximum of 2.00 mills, as authorized by State law.

Need for millage increase contested

By L. Scott Swanson

Depending upon who you talk to, two school millage proposals, which Charlevoix voters will decide June 11 are either:

necessary to stabilize the school's fund equity, purchase new computers and maintain the school's educational program, or are an attempt by the school system to double-dip already overburdened taxpayers by raising millage rates in conjunction with rising property assessments.

The former opinion comes from local school administrators Rich Kelly and Gordon VanWieren. The latter comes from Mike Sessa, Executive Director for the Headlee Tax Cut Initiative.

One of the June 11 millage proposals asks voters to allow the Charlevoix School system to waive the Headlee Amendment for the coming year. The school system could then levy .5023 of a mill more than it could without the waiver. In dollars, the Headlee waiver means approximately $163,000 to the school system.

The second request is for .9 of a mill to purchase computers and maintain the school's present operations. VanWieren, the school superintendent, estimates that about half of the .9 mill will be used for computers with the other half being used for school operational costs.

Property taxes are determined by multiplying a property's assessed value (SEV) by mills levied. If either SEV or mills increase, taxes increase.

State equalized value (SEV) is a property's assessed value. Assessed value is theoretically half of market value. Each mill is $1 per every $1,000 of SEV.

One of several things the Headlee Amendment, passed by Michigan voters in 1978, provides for is that if SEV increases more than the rate of inflation, then millage must be decreased so that there is no net tax increase above inflation.

The Petunias are in

This three-person petunia brigade was looking for a place that needed planting. The children are from left: Stephanie Noirot, Jennifer Noirot and Alva Noirot.

Organizers estimate that more than 1,000 people helped plant petunias this year. Approximately 850 attended the Petunia Picnic, a number which exceeded by 200 the number of people attending in any of the previous eight years. Although the weather was shaky up until the day of planting, it was splendid during planting.

Esther Ringler was the oldest planter at 91-years-old. At the other end of the spectrum, a three and a-half week old baby assisted its mother. Planting coordinator Bruce MacArthur said planting was accomplished, "in an hour, maybe an hour and five minutes."

Future problem solvers bound for St. Louis

With funds in place and the community behind them, four middle school students and their coach will leave for St. Louis, Missouri next week to compete in International Future Problem Solving competition.

The four seventh graders, Paul Henne, Ryan Smith, Mark Schairbaum and Chris LeButt, will compete against teams from around the world. They will be given a problem related to the topic of crime and will have to propose solutions to the problem.

The Charlevoix team won the state competition in April to earn a trip to the international event. Between April and now, more than 30 businesses and civic groups and approximately 20 individuals pitched in with contributions to send the team to St. Louis.

"The community support has been phenomenal, absolutely phenomenal," the team's coach Tom Sothard said. "There's just been an outpouring of support. It's really been beat to be a part of it."

Former U.S. District Attorney Roy Hayes, city police chief Dennis Halverson and sheriff George Lasater each spoke with the team to help them prepare for the competition. The team has also been in contact with the Michigan State Police and the Michigan Sheriff's Association.

"We've got quite a research packet going," Sothard noted. "We're reading everything we can get our hands on."

The team will leave for St. Louis June 8 and will return June 11.

Ahead-lines

Don't be a turnip, give blood

This Thursday, May 31 is no time to be a turnip. It has been said that you can't squeeze blood from a turnip. Recent blood drives in Charlevoix have failed to make their goals. Granted, the drives haven't missed their goals by much, but Turnipdom is Turnipdom no matter the degree. The people of Charlevoix can do better.

This Thursday's blood drive begins at 1 p.m. and drips, runs and fills plastic bags until 6:45 p.m. at the American Legion Hall. This Thursday's blood drive offers the good people of the fair city of Charlevoix an opportunity to leave remove the ugly yoke of Turnipdom from the community neck.

Whoever it is that sets goals for blood drives has established a goal of 100 pints of blood for Charlevoix's May 31 drive. Charlevoix needs 100 men and women to lend a hand, well an arm really, to make the drive a success.

A turnout of more than 100 donors, say 120 or so, would be nice. Bear in mind, the 100 figure is just a goal. It's a minimum. There's no penalty for going over the set figure. This is a blood drive, not "The Price Is Right."

People who wish to give blood at a certain time of the day may call Nancy Fowler at 547-9314 to make an appointment. Appointments are not required, but are appreciated. They help in scheduling the many volunteers who staff the blood drive.

People who can't make an appointment, but would still like to give blood should go ahead and donate on a walk-in basis. Consider the end result. Chances are the person whose life is saved by the gift of blood won't care whether the donor at Charlevoix's blood drive had an appointment or was a walk-in.

While having this Thursday's blood drive fail to reach its 100 pint goal would be Negative, exceeding the goal would be A-Positive thing.

This Thursday, May 31 is no day to be a turnip.

OPINIONS

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

I asked my florist, Roger Peacock, "why do you want to sell your flower shop, 'Expressions Unlimited'?" and was both surprised and disturbed by his answer.

"For the last three or four years, I haven't been a day without pain. Getting up some mornings is agony. I need to move to a warmer climate, like Savannah, Georgia."

Roger, age forty-two, is suffering from arthritis and hardening of the arteries. When Roger was eighteen, he volunteered to serve in the navy as a machinist. The navy then had other plans for him. In August, 1966 he was detached to the Marine Corps and for the next eight months he was dropped by helicopter in Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos. The job of the 2nd Battalion, 26th Marine Corps was to support marines fighting the Viet Cong in what was called HLZ—hot landing zone area. Here they often spent 30 or 40 days in the field without getting any supplies of food or water. What they did get was a frequent spraying of agent orange, a chemical used to destroy enemy crops and ground cover! While the men drank water out of bomb craters and rice paddies, Roger watched the trees defoliate within a day after the spraying.

"They told us the spraying wasn't going to hurt us, but one couldn't help but wonder—if it kills foliage, what is it going to do to us?" But the more immediate concern of the day was not to get shot or killed. After 8 hard months in the field, Roger was assigned to a surgical/medical unit where he transported the wounded from helicopters to the operating room. Just like MASH! Roger says the TV program is more true to life than one cares to think.

"What kind of reception did you get when you returned home?" I asked Roger.

"I was shot at by a disgruntled mother, who had lost her son in Vietnam. A group of us, ten corporals, landed at the Los Angeles International Airport. When we heard the shots we hit the ground and fortunately none was hurt. I still react that way when I hear fireworks. I lost a lot of friends in NAM. It took me five years before I could even talk about it."

"What help are you getting from the Veterans Administration?" I ask.

"They prescribe free pain medication, Tylenol III, Naprosyn 375, Ecotrin and Nitro-bid. I was part of a medical study group run by the VA in '76-80, but in '80-81 all my medical records were 'lost'. They found them in '89 and are comparing the X rays from '76 to those of '89. The VA has taken away so many benefits that were promised to us when we enlisted."

I couldn't help asking, "How do you feel about your war experience now?" and Roger said, "I thought I was fighting for a just cause—knowing what I know now, I would have gone to Canada."

"Well, Roger, it's too late and too cold to go to Canada, but I for one hope you can find a buyer for 'Expressions Unlimited' so that you may enjoy the warmer climate of Georgia! We'll all miss you."

REASONABLE TO ME
L SCOTT SWANSON

Good navigators hard to find

When we got into the car, I told my wife she could ride up front and we could put the baby's car seat in the back.

Moving the baby's car seat wouldn't have been such a big chore. I figured the baby was just going to sleep for most of the hour-long trip anyhow.

But my wife said no. I could just leave the baby seat where it was and she'd ride in the back.

We were headed over to the Pigeon River State Forest to camp for the night with my parents and some friends.

Shortly after we got on the road, I discovered why my wife hadn't expressed any dissatisfaction about riding in the back seat. She hauled out a blanket and pillow, and sprawled out on the backseat to take a big nap.

"Well I guess you know what this means," I said. "If you and the baby are both going to sleep on this trip, then I'll just have to get us lost all by myself."

A lesser man may have cowered in the face of such a task. Even I was on somewhat uncomfortable ground. Normally, I like to make wrong turns and get lost with the aid of a navigator. That way, I've got somebody along to blame the situation on.

Not that falling asleep was going to absolve my wife of blame should I end up getting lost. I'm too resourceful for that.

If I'd have gotten lost I'd have told her, "You should have been awake to spot signs for me, then we'd never have gotten lost. It's all your fault."

Of course if she was awake and we'd gotten lost, it still would have been her fault. In that case, I'd have told her, "If you'd have told me the right places to turn, we'd never have gotten lost. It's all your fault!"

Unfortunately, my wife understood that her staying awake or taking a nap had no bearing on the blame she would bear if we got lost. She knew that when the time came for blame heaping, she would be the heap-ee. So she took a nap.

Surprisingly enough, this weekend's trip to and from the Pigeon River Forest went without a hitch. I credit this trip's success to prior planning. I've been lost twice before on previous trips, both coming and going. Once you've been down the wrong roads a couple of times, you know what's there and the allure is gone.

My brother was with me the first time I got lost over by the Pigeon River. He's no better navigator than my wife. It was night and we were on our way home from camp. We took a wrong turn by Vanderbilt. The roads, which we thought we'd traveled before, began to look distinctly unfamiliar. Finally we broke over a hill and into a town. A sign in the town said, "Wolverine."

I thought, "This is strange. Wolverine has never been on the way home before. Since yesterday, when I drove past here, they must have moved the whole town."

My wife and I once got lost in the Pigeon River area when we were on a drive looking for Elk. We entered the wilderness somewhere near Gaylord. We saw miles and miles of dirt roads, but no elk. Finally, we rejoined civilization somewhere around Indian River. How did we get from Gaylord to Indian River? We were in a car and we drove for a long time. Beyond that, I really can't be more specific.

GM's plenty generous

General Motors shareholders have big hearts.

There is no other way to view their approval Friday of a 100 percent increase in the pension of retiring chairman Roger Smith.

This means Smith will receive roughly $20,000 a week in retirement pay instead of the $10,000 a week he would have received under the old retirement plan.

Thousands of other retired GM executives will receive comparable retirement pay increases, a move of unabashed generosity which will cost the corporation $42 million this year and much more in succeeding years.

The vote wasn't even close. More than 80 percent of the shares voted were in favor of the big increase.

So be it. I don't suppose any of the shareholders even considered that in this age of Grey Power, Smith could get a job flipping hamburgers at McDonald's if he has trouble making ends meet on $10,000 a week.

I hope the GM officials have the good manners not to put on a poor mouth when the United Auto Workers presents its contract demands to the company later this year. After all, fair's fair and GM workers deserve equal treatment with the top brass.

Here's an idea: I think the company and the union should submit the new contract to the shareholders for approval. The company owners are in such a magnanimous mood—they would probably rubber-stamp any proposal put before them.

There may not be any dividends at the end of the year, but Holy Moses! Who cares? It's only money!

JUDGING FROM all the war bodies in Charlevoix over the Memorial Day weekend, it looks like another barn-burner of a summer ahead.

Downtown shops not only appeared to be well patronized, but the restaurants were jammed and the M-66 strip, starting at Captain's Corner, seemed to be doing well, particularly Wolohan Lumber & Home Improvement Center, formerly Kit Carson's, and the new County Post store across the highway.

By July, the new K mart should be open and M-66 will be one of the hottest commercial strips on the North.

CHARLEVOIX'S spring weather is acting true to form. Just let the ground temperature warm up a few degrees, and Bingo! We're back a couple of months. As the warm air rises, cool, misty air is sucked in off Lake Michigan to fill the void and the temperature plunges.

We won't be able to rely on really warm weather until the lake itself warms up. Or until we get warm southerly breezes.

THE NEW UNIFORMS of the Charlevoix High School Marching Band drew a lot of oh's and ah's along the line of march during Monday's Memorial Day parade.

The hats topped with jaunty maroon feathers gave almost a drum-and-bugle-corp flavor to the new outfits.

I also appreciated the fact that the band played more selections than it ordinarily does.

CITY MANAGER Mike Weisner's use of brick and cement in designing Charlevoix's new sidewalks and parking areas is catching on.

Traverse City, judging from recent TV footage, is using the same combination very effectively.

I am sure that brick and cement have been used in juxtaposition with one another in different places at different times.

In Charlevoix, the usage is giving a uniformity to the city's streetscape that is highly attractive.

LARRY SMITH, a former Charlevoixan who now edits "Parade" magazine in New York City, will address graduates at Boyne Falls School at 6 p.m. Saturday, June 11.

The school office reports that since Boyne Falls only has 11 graduates this year there probably will be room in the audience for Smith's Charlevoix friends.

Smith is author of "The Original," a novel based on historical fact and family legend. It is laid in the Norwood area in the early days of the century.

Seven Charlevoix High School students were inducted into the National Honor Society last Thursday. They are (from left) Henri Dhasleer, Kristen Ranville, Dan Boss, Helen Hamlin, Katherine Campbell, Sandy Forshee and Matt Stargardt.

Letters to the Editor:

Chamber building needs spruce up

Editor,
Has anyone really taken a good look at our Chamber of Commerce building? Does anyone even care how it looks?

Here we are at the beginning of another summer season with hundreds of people coming to "Charlevoix The Beautiful" and a good percentage of these people visiting our Chamber of Commerce. The paint job on the building was never completed, leaving one color on the front and another color on the side. The paint (of course brown) is chipped and peeled around the entrance door and the windows, and as you enter, if by chance you are looking down there is a large worn spot on the floor that is the next thing to an absolute hole.

Then there is the famous "green" garbage receptacle which stands tilted to one side and the paint is flaked and peeling. Green of all colors. Not very pretty for "Charlevoix The Beautiful."

Also the two benches need to be stained and the iron painted.

Of course we have petunias planted around the trees in front of the building. Thank Heaven. Maybe if the visitors just keep their eyes on those they will miss the rest of the place. Hopefully that is what will happen.

The Chamber of Commerce building should be a real eye catcher. Of course it is but not for its attractiveness.

And while we are on the subject of paint—are we all happy with the way the sidewalks crossing the bridge now match the blue railings? They are splattered the same color blue. Are they to remain that way for all to enjoy as they walk the bridge?

I do want to compliment the shop owners for a nice job of painting and sprucing up their stores. As soon as the window boxes are filled and hopefully hanging baskets put out it will be really pretty.

Input appreciated

Editor,
As superintendent of schools, I would like to personally thank all the people who participated in the two Saturday morning input meetings. Also, a special thank you should go to all those officials representing the governmental agencies who participated in the evening session. The information the board of education, administration and teachers received from you will be invaluable in making plans and setting goals for the future of the Charlevoix Public Schools. During the summer the board of education will be working on setting short and long range goals after which a report will be published.

Thanks again for your time and effort.

Sincerely
Gordon Van Wieren

FAMILY

Jones-Melling

Bethany Jones and Malcolm Melling exchanged marriage vows on Saturday afternoon, May 5, at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

The bride is the daughter of Neil and Joanne Jones of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Ron and Elsie Melling of Wigan, England.

The Rev. Larry Groeters presided at the double-ring service, in which the bride was given in marriage by her father and mother.

Approximately 250 guests from Florida, Washington State, Colorado, and England were on hand for the occasion.

The bride's gown was of white satin fashioned with a long Chapel train and bodice of white seed pearls and iridescent sequins. Her small veil was fitted on the back of her head with an ornate comb of pearls and white satin leaves.

The bride wore her grandmother's pearls and carried a cascading bouquet of Sonja roses, white carnations, lilies of the valley, and asparagus ferns. The bouquet was designed by her aunt, Sylvia Jones.

Marcia Hand served the bride as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were her sisters, Shari Jones and Kim Stevens; her sister-in-law, Kelly Jones; the bridegroom's sister, Lynn Mitchell; and the bridegroom's niece, Becky Mitchell. They wore peach and white polka dot taffeta tea-length gowns and carried bouquets of white carnations and Sonja roses, miniatures of the bride's bouquet.

Ashley Jones, niece of the bride, served as flower girl, wearing a gown identical to those of the bridesmaids, and carrying a basket of roses and carnations.

Ian Darrington assisted the bridegroom as best man, and groomsmen were Bob Jones, the bride's brother; Rod Stevens, the bride's brother-in-law; Ron Melling, the bridegroom's father; and Ashley Frolick. Bob Jones and Ashley Frolick also served as ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by Susie Mitchell, who sang "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer," and Rod Stevens, who sang "Sunrise-Sunset."

The bride's parents hosted the reception at North Central Michigan College, with Bob and Sylvia Jones, uncle and aunt of the bride, assisting as host and hostess. Naomi Heckendorn, Laura Kemp, and Gail Scharenbrock served the wedding cake; and Dawn Shufflin was in charge of the guest book.

The rehearsal dinner was held at Village Inn Pizza, hosted by the bride and bridegroom.

The newlyweds are now at home in Wigan, England, where the bridegroom teaches school and works as a professional musician. The bride will enter Wigan College of Technology in the fall. (Photography by Jim Elzinga, Oden Photography).

Day of the Eagle planned

Newcomers to the 9th Annual Day of the Eagle Pow Wow may not notice the dance arena has been moved and expanded. People returning to the pow wow site, on Anishinabe Inter-Tribal Council, Inc. land, will see the subtle changes made since last year's pow wow.

The Anishinabe Inter-Tribal Council Board has been busy these past months, planning and working hard, to make the 9th Annual Day of the Eagle Pow Wow one of the finest in the Great Lakes area.

Visitors to this year's pow wow will have the opportunity to browse the trader's booths. A wide variety of Native American crafts, including quill work, basketry, bead work, hand carved ceremonial pipes and many of the supplies to make various items are available for purchase at these booths.

There is also the opportunity to see "works in progress" as many of the traders work on items while enjoying the pow wow.

Not to be missed is the opportunity to sample some of the Native American food available. No visit to pow wow would be complete without sampling a dish of corn soup or a piece of fresh, hot fry.

People were gold, but streets were dirt

When Esther Miles arrived in Charlevoix, in the late teens of this century, she and her family looked for the fabled "streets of gold" her uncle had spoken of in his letters to her father, Edward Goldstick. But, even after discovering that Charlevoix wasn't so golden in appearance, Esther and her family remained here and found "gold" instead, in the hearts of the people.

"My father's cousin, Louie Goldstick, wrote to my father in Springfield, Massachusetts, from his home in Petoskey and told him to come to northern Michigan, for the streets were 'paved with gold'." So we came and found out the truth about the streets and were very disappointed. My father's cousin eventually went back to Baltimore, Maryland, but we stayed, even with the hardships and all.

"My mother, especially, had a hard time because of our strict Orthodox Jew way of life. The food available was not always correct for our eating habits, and shipping it in from the East didn't work out because of the time involved. So, she did the best she could and we got along with the least food."

"My mother also missed her family and friends in the East, but her and my father began to meet people in the town and eventually became good friends with many of them."

"My father did fine with his shoe repair business, called the 'Shoe Hospital', by making and repairing work shoes and boots for the most part. He worked on orthopedic shoes for people also. His building was located next to the old Charlevoix Hotel, on the harbor side of Bridge Street."

"He also dabbled in furs. He would buy the furs from local trappers and then sell them to Mr. Feldman in Petoskey. I remember when my brothers would help him stack the hides and put rock salt between them. After he had collected so many he would have Mr. Feldman come get them. That back room was always 'kind of smelly' to me and my brothers."

"I remember during the Great Depression that the town did 'quite well' compared to some of the industrial towns in the southern part of the state. I think this occurred because we didn't rely on big companies for our money. Instead, since Charlevoix was a resort town, we depended on the local farmers, merchants, and each other. Nobody went hungry like they did in other towns. We kind of took care of each other and everybody came out all right."

Hockey player to speak at banquet

Bob Lemieux, former pro hockey player for the Montreal Canadiens and 1987 recipient of the Michigan PTA Citizen of the Year Award, will be guest speaker at a community Father/Son Banquet on Saturday, June 16, at 6 p.m. at the Charlevoix Assembly of God located on Hwy M66 South. Tickets for the event are $5 per person ($3 for boys 9 and under).

In 1979 Lemieux accepted the job as general manager of the Ft. Lauderdale Strikers of the North American Soccer League, and as a rookie major league general manager he orchestrated the Strikers' only division championship, leading to a Soccer Bowl '80 appearance in Washington, DC.

At this high point in his career Bob learned the most significant lesson of his life from his daughter. "It was near the conclusion of the Soccer Bowl '80 championship game in RFK Stadium in Washington, DC," Lemieux recalls. "I was sitting atop the professional sports world when my 13-year-old daughter, in her second year of treatment for leukemia, looked at me with a tear sliding down her cheek and said, 'Daddy, I'm sorry you won't win the game today. I know that this game means more to you than anything in your life.'"

"It was at that very instant that this father reorganized his priorities in life. This taught me the true meaning of being a 'servant father,' and I made the commitment to carry this concept of servanthood into an outreach movement dedicated to dads."

For the past five years Lemieux has been speaking out against drugs as a concerned dad. For three of those years he has served as chairman of the Michigan Senate's Juvenile Justice Advisory committee and as a member of the Michigan Supreme Court Probate Task Force on Juvenile and Family Issues.

In June 1989 - acting on the belief that if one committed dad can make a difference, then many committed dads fused in solidarity ought to be able to change a culture - Lemieux founded the Dads Foundation, an educational organization for groups and individuals who are concerned about young people and who are committed to the restoration of traditional family values in America.

For tickets or information call 547-6430.

Assembly hosts puppet show

A Kids Krusade, with the theme "Gospel Space Flight" featuring Evangelists Bob and Elizabeth Abbott of Springfield, Missouri, will be conducted at Charlevoix Assembly of God Church, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m., June 11-14.

The Abbotts will also participate in the services on Sunday, June 10, with Reverend Abbott preaching at 10:30 a.m. and 7:00 p.m.

The Kids Krusade programs teach bible truths through the use of puppets, illustrated songs and scriptures, black-lighted Scene-O-Felt pictures, and dramatic stories told by Mrs. Abbott, "The Story Lady."

All children ages 5 through 12 may register as participants and receive a gift and be eligible for other awards to be given. Everyone is invited to attend. Children under 5 years of age should be accompanied by an adult. Free-will offerings will be received. Children needing rides may call 547-6430.

Too many of us think we are not all that important. Ask the skipper of the Acacia what it is like if even one of his men are down. Any pastor worth his salt will tell you the same thing holds true for the church. His congregation is at its best, and in reality is following God's plan, when each and every member is doing their part.

If you are not sure what your part is, God stands ready to reveal it to you. His Holy Spirit has placed within every Christian unique abilities and talents that will enhance not only your faith but the faith of those around you. The church really is at its best when each and every believer is on active duty for the Lord.

There will be a memorial service for Sylvia Dora Lockyer at 1:30 p.m. June 2 in the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. Lockyer died last October at the M.J. Clark Memorial Home in Grand Rapids. She was 99.

Petunia Planting 1990

And you thought all of Charlevoix's flowers were just naturally so colorful. Ha! They're all painted. Not really. David Salmonson was just painting a window box so the flowers in the box didn't put it to shame.

Ben Cross supervises, as his mother, Kathy, prepares the ground for planting.

D'Ann Rothenberger (left) works one side of the petunia bed while her granddaughters Shanya and Taryn Drost work the other side.

Planting petunias was a family effort for the Riley's. From the front are Michelle, Andy, mother Denise holding Timmy and Jeff.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Scott DeYoung, Ann Kroll, Donald O'Brien, John O'Brien and Jill Taylor of Charlevoix are among the students listed on Grand Valley State University's winter semester Dean's List. To be eligible for the list a student must have a full class schedule and at least a 3.5 grade point average on a 4 point scale.

Mei Matchett, the son of Sanford and Agatha Matchett and a 1965 graduate of Charlevoix High School, has been named director of a recently established Michigan State University regional office in Traverse City. The office combines Cooperative Extension Service and Lifelong Education services offered by the university.

"Winter Warmth," a collection of paintings by Kathleen Buday of Charlevoix was recently exhibited in the Gallery of Light Fine Arts Building at Kalamazoo College. Buday, the daughter of Joan and Edward Buday, is a senior at the college. The 12 oil paintings feature settings from the Charlevoix area.

Maureen Buday, Mark Hodgson and Christine Kovach of Charlevoix are among the students to receive degrees from the University of Michigan at spring commencement ceremonies. Buday received a Bachelor of Arts degree. Hodgson received a Bachelor of Science degree. Kovach received a Bachelor of Business Administration degree.

Students prepare for Russia

Five students from Charlevoix High School along with one from Boyne City High School, and one from East Jordan High School will leave Traverse City June 17 for a tour of Russia and other parts of the Soviet Union under the direction of "People to People".

The group, which will be led by Doris Lundteigen of Charlevoix, consists of Troy Bonar, Katherine Campbell, Scott Campbell, Edith Pair, and Tonya Rostar of Charlevoix; Jennifer Breidenstein of Boyne City; and Julie Brunett of East Jordan.

They will be joined in Washington by Chris-Lin Simmons of Pomona, California, Mark Erickson of Reisterstown, Maryland and Tony Lee of Cockeysville, Maryland.

The local group has been meeting once a week for orientation sessions—learning the history, culture, and government systems of the areas they will visit.

Gail Huskey of Boyne City is helping the students learn a few basic Russian phrases and greetings. She was once a Russian interpreter with a U. S. Army unit.

The group's itinerary includes visits to Moscow, Kalinin, Novgorod, Leningrad, and Narva.

From Traverse City, the group will fly to Washington, where they will be briefed by personnel of the Department of State and visit with Senator Carl Levin.

The Charlevoix International Club, a Chapter of People to People, is sponsoring the trip locally to make it possible for area young people to see Soviet people.

BUSINESS

Yvonne Engler shows off some of the merchandise at her new Wedding and Gift Boutique on Sequanota Road.

Wedding boutique opens

For wedding finery, or for many other formal accessories, Yvonne Engler's Wedding and Gift Boutique may be just the place you're looking for.

No other shop in the area offers eight books of wedding stationery or so many ideas for gifts for formal and party occasions.

There's a long list of items, including: black and white gloves; white satin slippers; decorative combs and other hair ornaments; mechanical candles that don't drip and can't start a fire; decorations for wedding cakes; a full line of silver, pearl, crystal, and rhinestone jewelry; balloons of all shapes and sizes for all occasions; silk flowers in all kinds of arrangements, including a wedding bouquet with tiny battery-operated lights; decorative wall plaques with inspirational messages; a full line of headpieces-hats and crowns with different length veils in both white and ivory; an engraving service for champagne glasses or metal or wooden gifts.

In fact, there seems to be everything that is wedding or party-related, even to 50th wedding anniversary mementoes.

For important but once-used items, such as flowering trees, altar bouquets, and hurricane poles and lamps, Engler has a rental service.

Engler eventually hopes to have a full wedding consultant business. Her present shop is brand new. "Having a shop like this has been my desire for a long time and I just decided now was the time to start one," she explained. Engler went to gift shows, decided on the lines of stock she wanted to handle, and found the wholesalers. She even went to floral school to learn to make floral arrangements.

Engler's husband, Tony, helps her with the business. "I do whatever she tells me," he says of his responsibilities.

"He suggested we stock balloons and they've been very successful," Yvonne responded, "and he gives me moral support."

Yvonne Engler's Wedding and Gift Boutique is located at 44106 Sequanota Road, just one block west of Highway M-66.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

William Ratigan Ranger will graduate from the University of Michigan Medical School June 1 with a Doctor of Medicine Degree. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Ranger of Charlevoix and a 1982 graduate of Charlevoix High School. Following graduation, Ranger will do residency work at Hennepin County Hospital in Minneapolis, Minnesota where he will train in Emergency Medicine.

William F. Marquardt of Charlevoix and Timothy A. Drenth of East Jordan are among the students listed on the Ferris State University spring quarter academic honors list. To be eligible for the list a student must have a full class schedule and at least a 3.5 grade point average on a 4 point scale.

Michael Himebauch of Charlevoix, Amy Sell of Charlevoix and Keith Matheny of East Jordan are among the students listed on Central Michigan University's spring semester academic honors list. To be eligible for the list a student must have a full class schedule and at least a 3.5 grade point average on a 4 point scale. Sell had a straight 4-point.

Former student teaches art class

Former Charlevoix high school student Mike Fels recently returned to Charlevoix and presented a one-day workshop to Charlevoix High School art students.

Fels is an artist who received his Bachelor's degree from Michigan State University and who is presently working on his Master's degree and teaching a silk-screening class at Pennsylvania State University. He has exhibited his work at Koucky's Gallery in Charlevoix, at the Route 66 Gallery in Birmingham. He has a show booked for Taipei, Taiwan in 1991 and another show coming up at New York University. At the workshop, Fels showed high school students slides of his own work and the work of other contemporary artists during the workshop. He also demonstrated several different print-making techniques. Fels is a 1983 graduate of Charlevoix High School.

LEGAL NOTICE 210

FORFEITURE NOTICE LAND CONTRACT

TO:
Randy L. Senneker
Deanna J. Senneker
Grand Rapids, MI 49506

1. You are notified that a certain land contract, dated to be effective as of 22 April 1989 between Richard E. Lobenzher, as seller and Randy L. Senneker, and Deanna J. Senneker, husband and wife, as purchasers, concerning the property located at 11265 Flagg Road, East Jordan, Michigan 49727, Township of South Arm, County of Charlevoix, Michigan is in default because of non-payment of installments of principal and interest and also because of unpaid taxes.

2. You have forfeited your rights under the land contract and payment is demanded by Richard E. Lobenzher who holds the land contract as Seller.

3. The sum of $1,350.00 is now past due in principal and interest under the land contract. Monthly installment payments of principal and interest are owed for August of 1989 through April of 1990.

4. The total amount due and the material breach of contract must be cured or paid within 15 days from 30 May 1990.

5. If the total amount due is not paid in full within the time stated, or if the material breach is not cured within the time stated, the land contract will be forfeited, as provided for in the contract, and you will be required to move out and give up the described property without further notice to you.

6. The property is described as:

Land located in the Township of South Arm, Charlevoix County, Michigan, Commencing at the Northeast corner of Section 8, Town 32 North, Range 7 West; thence West along the North line of said section 927.11 feet; thence South 23 degrees 47'19" East 588.78 feet; thence South 28 degrees 12'39" East along the center line of Flagg

...Eagle pow-wow scheduled

Throughout the weekend, visitors to the pow wow grounds will have the opportunity to observe Native Americans participate in dance. Spectators will want to know during Inter Tribal dances, they may dance if they choose it.

The clothing worn in the dance arena is referred to as dress or regalia, not costumes. Many hours are put into the making of a native's dress. In itself it tells a lot about a person. It becomes a part of that individual.

The participants (dancers/traders) at the pow wow travel from as far away as North Carolina, the Dakotas, and Canada to participate in this pow wow.

This year the host drum is Three Fires Society from Lac Du Flambeau, Wisconsin. The head dancers are Darwin Thunder and Orallann Caldwell, both from Wisconsin. The head veteran dancer is Jerome McCullough from Hannahville, Michigan.

George Cornell from Michigan State University is the emcee. Arnie Parish is the arena director. The head judge is Gloria McCullough.

Grand Entry on Saturday is at 1 p.m. and 7 p.m. Grand Entry on Sunday is at 1 p.m.

No alcohol, drugs or firearms are allowed on the grounds. Individuals not complying with these rules will be escorted off the premises by security.

The Anishinabe Inter-Tribal Council, Inc. wishes to invite the public to the 9th Annual Day of the Eagle Pow Wow, and hopes the event will be fun as well as educational. Gates open at 10 a.m. each day.

The 9th Annual Day of the Eagle Pow Wow is supported in part by the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Cheboygan Area Arts Council.

Official Notice

REGULAR MEETING - April 10, 1990; was held at the hall at 7:00 p.m.; all board members were present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were approved.

Richard Siefens, representative for Municipal Underwriter's Insurance Company gave an update on the township's insurance package renewal. Clara Nesson and Nancy Henry from Petoskey brought up their concerns about the old cemetery which is on the property belonging to Waste Management just west of the landfill.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwyn Smith presented a P.A. 116 termination application to the board.

John Furgeson, representing Randy Stripling, requested a rezone for 9.82 acres on the corner of Marshall and Wilson Roads near Advance for a condominium project. A rezoning of 9.82 acres from Ag to R3 was granted. A special use permit was granted to Frank Shaler for a wrecker service and video business at his home near Advance provided that the stipulations spelled out by the Planning Commission be met.

Dave appointed a citizen's committee for further look into the Mountain Road project. Other road work and estimates were discussed.

According to Fred Welch, "Access Site" signs will be erected at the end of several township roads which end at Lake Charlevoix.

The 1990-91 budget, as presented to the electorate at the Budget Hearing and Annual Meeting, was adopted by activity center.

We renewed our Fire and Ambulance agreements with the City of Boyne City at a cost of $9,907.06.

The bills, amounting to $15,625.45, were approved for payment.

Eveline Township will hold a special millage election in August for a 2 mill request for 5 years for roads. It will be on the August Primary Ballot. The township treasurer will collect summer taxes for East Jordan Public Schools.

Several legal and zoning matters were discussed and correspondence was presented.

Adjournment was at 11:45 p.m.

Marsha Beishlag, Clerk

SPECIAL MEETING - April 20, 1990 was held at the law office of township attorney Ken Sparks in Kalamazoo at 8:05 a.m.

It was moved, supported, and carried to go into a closed session regarding settlement strategy in connection with the Cameron litigation. Public meeting was resumed at 8:45 a.m. and adjournment was at 8:50 a.m.

Marsha Beishlag, Clerk

REGULAR MEETING - May 8, 1990; was held at the hall at 7:00 p.m.; Linda Heiermann was absent.

The minutes of April 10 and April 20 were approved as corrected. Correspondence was read and discussed.

Termination of P.A. 116 for Mr. & Mrs. Elwyn Smith was approved and will be sent on to the State of Michigan for their approval.

Amendments to our Zoning Ordinance were approved with the county's recommendations for an addition to be made to Sec. 4.09.

Mountain Road was again discussed and will be reconstructed this summer. The Road Commission will let the bids out in May.

Approval for payment of bills amounting to $2,414.76 was given.

There was discussion on the possibility of hiring a car crusher as a benefit for township residents who have junk cars that need to be removed.

The dry hydrant on the west side of the Ferry is going to be fixed. The pipes will be turned to face away from the boat docks which is what the expected trouble was last summer.

Cemetery lots were approved for Block G, lots E and F to William and Minnie Gaunt.

Adjournment was at 10:10 p.m.

HAYES TOWNSHIP AMENDMENT TO THE HAYES TOWNSHIP, CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN ZONING ORDINANCE Ordinance #90-5 NOTICE OF ADOPTION

IT IS ORDAINED that the Hayes Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan Zoning Ordinance, adopted July 2, 1979, as amended thereafter, shall be further amended as follows:

SECTION 5.13 - SHORELAND PROTECTION STRIP

A. - Shoreland Protection Strip

No building or structure, except boardwalks, docks and launch ramps shall be erected closer than one hundred feet (100) from the shoreline at the maximum or maximum recorded (IGLD) high water level of any lake, stream or creek within the Township; except Susan Lake which shall have a minimum setback of eighty (80) feet. The maximum recorded water level, International Great Lakes Datum (IGLD) shall apply to Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix. In addition, a strip of land fifty (50) feet wide from the maximum or maximum recorded (IGLD) high water mark bordering the body of water shall be maintained in trees and shrubs in their natural state. If there is a dispute IGLD shall be determined by a registered land surveyor, paid for by land owner. The vegetation and the soil shall not be altered or disturbed within the shoreland protection strip, as herein described. Trees and shrubs may be pruned, however, to afford a view of the water.

Any cluster of dwellings or multiple family dwellings, including condominiums, must be approved by the Planning Commission through a site plan review and the shoreline setbacks may be increased up to 150 feet, or more, to compensate for the increased density and impact on the shorelines. The lowest elevation of any part of any structure shall be a minimum of 590 feet above sea level, International Great Lakes Datum (IGLD). For lakes with no established high water mark a minimum elevation of 5 feet above the existing water level shall be required. Filling of land to meet these requirements is prohibited.

B. - Marine Sewage Pump-Out facility

Any dock facility providing dockage for four (4) or more boats with marine sewage holding tanks on board shall provide a marine sewage pump-out facility which shall be capable of providing pump-out service to a Health Department approved sewage disposal facility.

C. - Modification by the Zoning Board of Appeals

The Zoning Board of Appeals may, upon petition and after notice and hearing as approved in Article VII, vary or modify the strict application of this section (5.13 A-B) if it shall determine that undue hardship will otherwise result and the spirit and intent of this Ordinance will be preserved by such variance or modification. The Board of Appeals may, as a condition of such variance or modification, impose such conditions upon the use of the lands and lakefront or streamfront as it shall deem necessary to preserve the spirit and intent of this Ordinance.

D. - Public Access Sites

Land abutting a lake or stream, which land is under the possession and control of a governmental agency including Hayes Township, the County of Charlevoix, the Charlevoix County Road Commission, the State of Michigan, or other governmental agency, and which governmental agency allows public access across the site to the lake or stream abutting the site, is herein described as a "Public Access Site."

Such Public Access Sites may be owned or leased by the public agency, or dedicated to the use of the public, but shall, in any case, be under the exclusive control of one or more public agencies which have the authority to impose regulations and restrictions upon the use of the site and upon access to the abutting lake or stream.

The restrictions of this Section 5.13 (A-B) shall not apply to a "Public Access Site," as above described, provided that such sites are subject to governmental control enabling the control-ing governmental agency to limit boat docking, moorage and boat launching, prohibit overnight mooring, camping, vehicle parking, and other controls upon use of the site.

The governmental agency shall have the authority to impose such controls and restrictions upon the use of Public Access Sites and the abutting waters as are deemed necessary to protect the lake or stream and adjoining properties from pollution, congestion, other damage, or unreasonable impositions upon the use and enjoyment of others using the site, using other private property in the proximity of the site, or the waters which the site abuts.

If not otherwise prohibited by law, the Hayes Township board shall also have the authority to pass ordinances and adopt rules restricting the use of such Public Access Sites and the use of the abutting lake or stream in such manner as is deemed necessary in the future to protect the lake or stream, the users thereof, and properties in the proximity thereof from pollution, congestion, other damage or unreasonable imposition upon the use and enjoyment of others. Such ordinances may designate different rules, regulations and restrictions for each individual Public Access Site as shall be deemed appropriate for the protection of the particular site, the waters, or private property in the proximity of the particular site.

E. - Shoreland Protection Strip Replanting and Restoring Requirement

If the vegetation and/or soil is altered or disturbed within the Shoreland Protection Strip the following conditions shall be met:

1. Any and all fill material placed within the Shoreland Protection Strip shall be removed. Organic soil may be added as needed to provide for growth of new vegetation.

2. A strip of land Fifty (50) feet wide from the maximum or maximum recorded (IGLD) high water mark, bordering the body of water, shall be replanted. The replanted strip shall consist of a mix of deep rooted trees (either deciduous or evergreen) and woody shrubs, with not less than thirty percent of the replanting consisting of deciduous or evergreen trees.

3. Any replanted trees or shrubs that die within one (1) year shall be replanted with comparable size.

Spacing Requirements: Deciduous trees shall be no further apart than 8' x 8', evergreens (pine, spruce and cedar) no further apart than 6' x 6' and woody shrubs no further apart than 3' x 3'.

F. - Property owners may apply to the Zoning Administrator for permission to clear a section of the lakefront for recreational purposes under the following conditions:

1. The cleared area does not exceed 25% of the total frontage on the lake, and consists of no more than 50 linear feet and maximum depth of 50 feet per parcel.

2. A shoreline protection strip or greenbelt of 50 feet in depth shall be maintained, or planted, if none exists, behind the area to be cleared.

3. In areas of wetlands, no sand or fill shall be used, but boardwalks or platforms may be constructed.

4. In areas where steep grades are evident, access paths to the body of water shall meander or curve to maintain erosion control.

G. - Violation of this Ordinance shall be subject to the Enforcement and Penalties as set forth in Section 8.07 of the said Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance dated July 2, 1979, as amended.

H. - This Ordinance shall be subject to the provision of Section 8.09 - validity - of said Hayes Township Zoning Ordinance dated July 2, 1979, as amended.

This Amendment was adopted at the Regular Board Meeting, May 7, 1990.

without voter approval.
Kelly, the school business manager, has pointed out that waiving the Headlee Amendment only allows the school to levy the number of mills voters previously approved.

Sessa contends that even without a Headlee waiver the school system will receive all of the money it received last year, plus taxes from new construction in the district, plus a 4.8 percent increase to compensate for inflation.

Sessa says there is no need for the waiver and voters have already paid too much. "You've given the schools all of the money they need over the rate of inflation," he said. "Most of our citizens, working people, their pay has not increased even by the rate of inflation. But the schools are asking for even more. We've more than compensated them to teach our children."

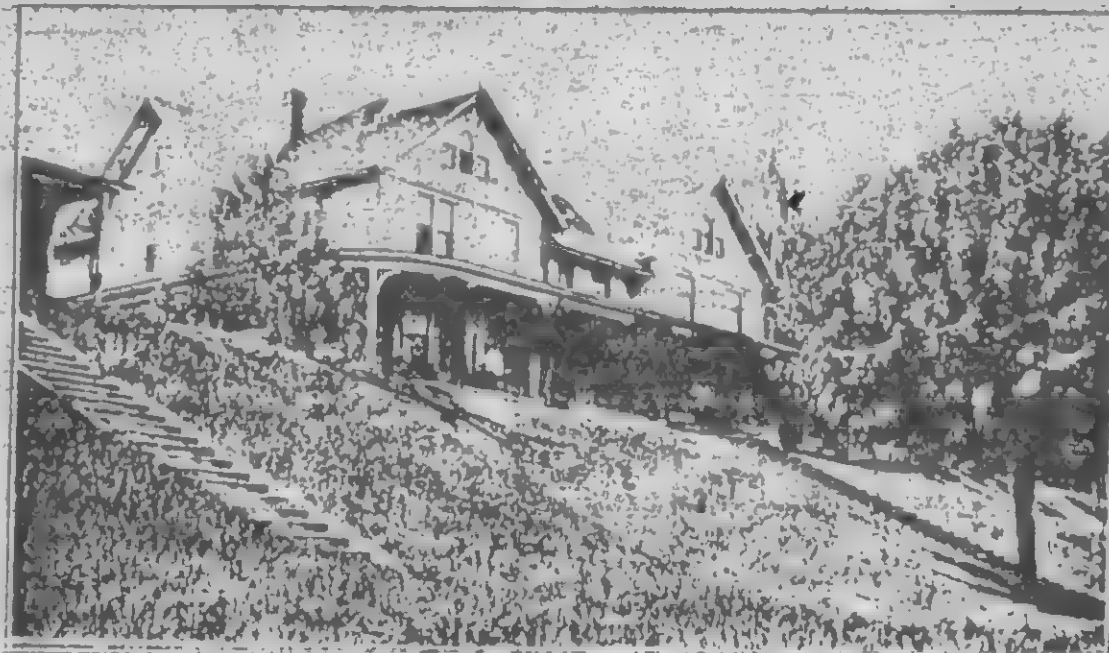

VanWieren and Kelly note that the school's fund equity (reserve funds) has been decreasing and the school faces several possible expenditures which could place additional burdens on the budget. Contract negotiations, possible soil contamination from a buried tank at the school bus garage and cutbacks in state aid are three budgetary issues of concern.

Contract negotiations with the teachers' union will occur this summer. Teachers have received seven percent salary increases this year and for each of the previous two years.

The extent of soil contamination at the bus garage is being investigated.

Although Charlevoix is an "out-of-formula" school district and receives no per-pupil state aid, the state does pay school social security costs totalling approximately $300,000. In recent years, there have been rumblings in Lansing about the state no longer paying that cost.

Sessa says that if the state does reduce or eliminate social security payments to the school, the Headlee Amendment allows the school to take the state to court, seeking to force the state to pay the social security costs and reimburse the school's legal fees. He said that two recent court cases indicate the school would stand a good chance of winning such a case against the state.

Several accommodations like the one advertised above were once available to Charlevoix summer people at (what seem to us now) reasonable prices.

Carpeting closes library

If you're planning to stop by the public library and pick up a few books, you'd best do it right away. The library will be closed from June 4 through June 14 while new carpeting is being installed. However, that's no excuse not to turn in books on time. The drop box will still be available.

HAYES TOWNSHIP
AMENDMENT TO THE HAYES TOWNSHIP
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN ZONING ORDINANCE

Ordinance #90-6
NOTICE OF ADOPTION

IT IS ORDAINED that the Hayes Township, Charlevoix County, Michigan Zoning Ordinance, adopted July 2, 1979, as amended thereafter, shall be further amended as follows:

ARTICLE II

SECTION 2.02 DEFINITIONS

BUILDING HEIGHT - The maximum height of a building or structure shall comply with the following requirements:

Within 500 feet from a lake or stream.....25 feet
On hills or ridges having slopes of 12% or More.....25 feet
All other areas.....30 feet

The height shall be measured from the median height between the eave and the peak or any other portion of the building, whichever is highest, except chimneys. Agricultural structures shall be exempt from this height requirement.

Any roofline having an angle greater than 75 degrees is considered a wall, not a roof.

The building height for any structure or portion of a structure (having its ground floor in a single horizontal plane), is the vertical distance measured from the lowest elevation of the finished grade line of the ground around the structure to the highest point of the roof for flat roofs; to the deck line of the mansard roofs; and to the mean height level between eaves and ridge for gable, hip and gambrel roofs. Intrusions below finished grade about the building for a stair or window wells, courts or yards designed in basements or cellars, to accommodate the minimum glazing area requirements of the BOCA/National Building Code, shall not be considered when calculating building height. Building height for buildings having ground floors in two (2) or more horizontal planes at differing elevations may be calculated as if each ground floor plane area were a separate building.

Seven earn degrees through adult ed.

Six women and one man will receive their Charlevoix High School diplomas through the Community Education Program at commencement exercises next Sunday.

They will don robes and accept their diplomas along with the other 101 high school graduates, with only the years between that occasion and their last days in high school making a difference.

For a grandmother, the time in between has been more than 60 years, for another 35 years, and for others only five or six years, but they all express satisfaction with finally completing something they started a long time ago.

Despite the age differences, these graduates have become friends and will have their own graduation party for family and other friends on Saturday.

One of 12 children, Finck, is the third member of the family to receive a high school diploma, which took her two years. She says her favorite subjects were English and Psychology. Now, she would like to take classes in Word Processing and Creative Writing.

"I feel good about myself, about getting this diploma," she states emphatically.

The mother of two daughters, Lisa and Laura, both of whom are graduates of Michigan State University, Finck will be feted by her family following graduation. Other relatives include her husband, Larry, and her aunt, Elizabeth Peters, who is also receiving a Community Education Program diploma this year.

After 22 years of service to the Belvedere Club, 14 years of cooking for the Rothschild family, and several years of providing care to Jeanette Cameron and Edith Harris, this busy graduate is now employed by Hooker's Cleaners in Charlevoix.

At age 78, Elizabeth Peters is the oldest among this year's Community Education Program graduates.

A resident of Charlevoix for 61 years, this mother of four and grandmother of eight, grew up in Alden and attended high school there for two years.

When she moved to Charlevoix with her family, she was "too shy" to enter a new school, so her education was delayed until two years ago.

Now, two generations later and after studying Math, English, History, Government, and Current Events, she will have her high school diploma.

"It's been an exciting two years," this senior citizen graduate says. Studying and singing in the chorus have kept her busy and developed in her a special liking for Math. In fact, she likes Math so well she says she might go back to school again next year to "take some more Math."

Her family is all excited about Grandmother's graduation; she says, including three grandchildren who received their high school diplomas before she did. She will frame her diploma and hang it on a wall in a prominent place.

The widow of Daniel Peters has had a busy life in Charlevoix, including working at the laundry for ten years and at the hospital for another ten years, but none of it is as important to her as the two years spent at the Adult Learning Center.

Dominic "Dom" Charbonneau quit high school in the 11th grade, but now, at the age of 23, he's getting a high school diploma through the Community Education Program of the Adult Learning Center.

Charbonneau grew up in Detroit and went to school there until he decided to try something else. He came north and has been in the Charlevoix area for six years. Last fall, he decided to "go for" his high school diploma and enrolled in the Community Education Program. He studied Psychology, Government, History, Math, and Current Events, with Psychology being his favorite subject.

Charbonneau says repairing cars is both his job and his hobby. He even lists "welding" among his favorite sports.

Charbonneau eventually wants to become a computer technician, and to that end he will either continue his schooling or enter the Army for the needed training. He's made many friends in school this year and has sung in the chorus as well as taken classroom work.

"I hope everybody (who isn't graduating) comes back next year," he says of his schoolmates.

Ramona McCrary, 23, was raised in Charlevoix and attended Charlevoix High School to the 12th grade.

Lacking only a few credits to graduate, McCrary spent the last few months in the Community Education Program, studying Current Events, Psychology, and History. "I liked History the best," she says.

McCrary is now employed as a maid at Pointes North Inn and hopes that her diploma will help her progress in the job field. She would also like to go to college and take some special education courses.

"I waited five years for this diploma," she mused, "and I'm glad I decided to get it. Going back to school also gave me a chance to meet new people, too."

Joanne Simpson, 30, transferred from the high school night program to the Community Education Program to complete classroom requirements.

She finished the work in January and was elected president of the graduating class. She is especially happy to be receiving her diploma this year because her son, Tracey, is also graduating from Charlevoix High School.

Simpson and her three children are active in the Barnard Church and she is working at the Charlevoix Area Hospital and Marine Cleaners.

Shelly Niswander Erber quit Charlevoix High School at the end of the 10th grade because it was "too much of a hassle."

Now, at age 30, she has spent nine months in the Community Education Program amassing enough credits to earn her high school diploma.

She has also taken some computer courses at the high school and plans to take more computer work at North Central Michigan College, as well as one or two other courses.

Erber says her children, Trisha, 9, and Andrew, 7, are happy about her graduating.

Asked what she likes to do in her spare time and what work she would like to pursue, she replied she likes to play bingo and bowl and would like to be a prison guard.

City considers legal action against state

During repeated discussions in recent months, past and present city councilmembers have implied that the term "railroad" is better used as a verb than a noun regarding the removal of tracks between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

Councilmembers contend state legislators and the Michigan Department of Transportation are ignoring the interests of Charlevoix in removing the tracks. Councilmembers complain that Charlevoix, despite expressing interest in the matter, was not informed of at least one state subcommittee meeting and has been, for all practical purposes, ignored at others.

Monday evening, the council discussed the possibility of taking legal action against the state to prevent removal of the tracks.

Councilmember Pat Gaskin raised the rail issue. Gaskin, who serves on a committee appointed to establish a recreational trail between Charlevoix and Petoskey, said only 15 of 79 parcels of land on the "railroad" corridor are available to the public.

Earlier this year, state legislators voted to remove the tracks despite opposition from Charlevoix. Legislators also appropriated money to fund a recreational trail between Charlevoix and Petoskey. The understanding was that as much of the trail as possible would follow the railroad cor-

At Monday's council meeting, Gaskin maintained that since the premise for the decision to remove the trails involved putting a recreational trail primarily along the rail corridor and that premise is essentially dead, then the decision to remove the rails should be reversed.

She encouraged the city to take whatever action is necessary to convince state legislators to reverse their decision.

She noted that the contract to pull the tracks has been awarded, therefore action to save the tracks must occur quickly.

City attorney Jim Young said the city has two courses of action available: political and legal. Political action means contacting key members of the state house, senate and MDOT and asking them to reconsider the decision. Legal action means seeking a temporary

Millage proposals and board seats at stake

Charlevoix school district voters will fill three school board seats and decide two millage proposals Monday, June 11.

Voters will select two of three candidates to serve a pair of four-year terms and one of two candidates to serve a one-year term.

Voters will also either accept or reject a 5023 mill proposal to waive the Headlee Amendment and a .9 of a mill proposal to increase the school's operational budget and purchase computers.

Steve Smith joins incumbents Scott Beatty and Ardeth Wieland in seeking the two four-year terms up for election.

Smith, 41, is Vice President and engineer for C. H. Smith (construction) Co.

Beatty, 44, is an attorney. He was appointed to the board before last June's election and subsequently elected to fill out the term of Elaine Martin, who resigned in mid term due to business responsibilities.

Wieland, 62, is a dairy farmer who has been on the board for 16 years.

Mike Greeley and Ben Cunningham will compete for a one-year term that will fill out the term of the late Bob Dreth. Dreth died in a car accident last fall. Last fall, former board member Ken Boss was appointed to fill the seat until the June 11 election.

Greeley, 42, is a co-owner of Wharfside Market.

Graduates told to take risks

Detroit News columnist Nickie McWhirter told the Charlevoix Class of 1990 to take healthy risks every day. McWhirter spoke to the class of 101 students during Sunday afternoon's commencement ceremony. She called money, power, celebrity, beauty and romance hollow trophies and said happiness and relationships with people are more important.

Quoting from a speech by first lady Barbara Bush, McWhirter advised the Charlevoix graduates to "live up to your brains."

McWhirter, a proud mother, also noted that some of the best advice she could offer the graduates is, "Never, never, never forget your mother's birthday."

Recycling grants available

Applications are now available from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Waste Management Division for the fourth round of funding under the Solid Waste Alternatives Program (SWAP) funded by the Protecting Michigan's Future Bond.

Grants and loans will be available for Fiscal Year 1992 for projects in 10 categories: recycling (collection and processing); composting; resource recovery; education; market development; marketing; market development research; and demonstration; waste reduction research and demonstration; household hazardous waste centers; waste-to-energy and transfer stations.

Both public and private entities are eligible to receive a grant or loan. All projects must be located in a Michigan county that has an approved solid waste management plan update.

To date, more than 200 projects representing some $62 million in SWAP funding have been approved by the DNR and the Natural Resources Commission. Approximately $88 million is available for projects eligible under this program.

The application deadline for this round of funding is October 1.

There will also be an administrative review period from July 2-August 10, 1990. Draft applications submitted during this period will be reviewed by DNR staff for clarity and completeness.

Program information and applications may be obtained from the Resource Recovery Section of DNR's Waste Management Division by calling 517-335-4863.

School board honors teacher

by WENDI WRIGHT

The Charlevoix Board of Education took time out at its regular meeting Monday night to recognize the efforts of an outstanding teacher, Barbara Bump, who is retiring after 20 years at the middle school.

Max Novak, board president, presented Bump with an envelope, claiming no idea as to its contents, and gave a short speech, reminding Bump of the first time he had met her, commenting that she was in a lot better shape now than then, Novak told the audience that the first time he met her, Bump was "hobbling around on crutches."

The other board members and administrators present at the meeting all congratulated

In fashion terms, one might say Keone Cardenas "accessorized" the traditional cap and gown.

Bump on her retirement, and each made a brief speech thanking her for her efforts over the years. Dennis VanGuilder, middle school principal, called Bump "a true professional," whose presence at the middle school and enriched the program there greatly.

Bump thanked the board, and said she enjoyed her years in the school system, and was saddened at the prospect of leaving, but looking forward to retirement.

In other business, the board voted to join the Michigan High School Athletic Association.

Finally, garbage was discussed at some length; namely, the disposable trays used in the middle school cafeteria. Janet Rathke, board member, reported on a meeting she had had with student representatives from the elementary and middle schools. She said middle school student are concerned about the environment, and expressed dismay at the use of the foam trays.

Energy issue is important

Dear Editor,

For the three years the FOCUS Forum has presented monthly programs on current issues such as education, "right to die," wetlands legislation, recycling, Central America and growth and development in Charlevoix County, to mention a few of the issues we're grappling with in this day and age.

Now a hot debate is shaping up about national energy policy; one that has special implications for our area because we have a nuclear power plant situated here.

This topic was aired Wednesday night because the Charlevoix City Council did not believe their forum was suitable for a discussion of Big Rock or nuclear energy issues and suggested FOCUS sponsor this program.

Yet not one member of Council or a council candidate attended.

They missed a most informative session, albeit somewhat technical, by six panelists, all obviously intelligent citizens who had done extensive homework on nuclear power and related issues. The FOCUS committee, which welcomes differing views, invited Consumers Power to send representatives but it declined.

Our officials, had they been there, would have gotten some important tips on how energy efficiency could save taxpayer money. They would have been reminded that if a few years Big Rock is supposed to be decommissioned and probably a new type of reactor installed. Shouldn't they be well informed on the pros and cons of nuclear power as part of our national energy policy? Someday they may have to vote on these matters or possibly foot the bill.

The FOCUS committee is now disbanding but we hope some other organization will assume the lead for public discussion of controversial issues without fear of intimidation.

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

"It's too boring"

Although earthquakes, volcanoes, floods, hurricanes and tornadoes rarely threaten us in northern Michigan, we do have high school commencement.

No need to fear being quaked, lavaed, flooded, hurricaned or spun to death, but a person could be bored to death.

Ask around to see if you can find anyone who remembers the last local earthquake.

Volcanoes? We have Mount McSamba, not Mount St. Helen.

Even with all of the water we're surrounded by, we don't have much flooding. Lake Michigan and Lake Charlevoix occasionally get a bit turbulent, but they usually confine their fury to their borders.

It kind of looks like a hurricane hit over in one part of Ellsworth, but that's just an old industrial site and they're trying to clean that up.

A few tornadoes occasionally visit but fortunately they seem to be shy and have yet to demolish heavily populated areas.

Commencement ceremonies happen every year. I suppose commencement ceremonies are all right for the graduates, their close relatives and the speakers, but for those of us who are dragged along or compelled to attend for some other reason, they are brutal.

This past Sunday afternoon, more than 1,000 people gathered in the Charlevoix High School gym. If you listened closely, during quiet moments you could hear the hum of VCR machines tapping the Pistons' game in homes throughout the community.

Early in the ceremony a little boy, perhaps six or seven years old, leaned over to a woman he was with and asked, "Can we go now?"

"No, we've got to stay and see this."

"It's too boring," the kid said. I nearly bit off my tongue to keep from muttering "Amen."

During the past six years, I've been to commencement ceremonies in Bellaire, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Falls and Ellsworth.

Charlevoix commencement ceremonies are about middle-of-the-road boring when compared with the other schools.

Boyne Falls and Ellsworth have the area's least boring commencement ceremonies. Each of those schools usually has only about a dozen graduates. The graduates march in slowly to give the band enough time to get all the way through Pomp and Circumstance. The nice thing about having so few graduates is that each student seems to stand out as an individual rather than just being another square hat in the crowd.

East Jordan and Boyne City have the most boring commencement ceremonies in northern Michigan and quite possibly in the world. In Charlevoix, they have an assembly about a week before commencement where the students receive a variety of awards. Unless they've seen the light in the past two years, in East Jordan and Boyne City they give the seniors awards during commencement. It's like the Academy Awards show. East Jordan and Boyne City students fulfill high school graduation requirements at age 18 and enter college at age 30. In the interim, they sit through commencement.

There's got to be a better way to send kids out into the world. Everybody could get together in a park, instead of a gym. We wouldn't need any speeches. The graduates, in their caps and gowns, could just mingle with the crowd, chat with friends, accept congratulations and pose for pictures. At the end of the picnic, someone could read the graduates' names, give them their diplomas and everybody could go home.

Now doesn't that sound like more fun than a traditional commencement ceremony?

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

From 18 to 80

When comedian George Burns was about 80 years old, he recorded a song called "I Wish I Were 18 Again" — a nostalgic look backward by an old man. The lyrics included a few observations about the things Burns would have done differently if he knew at 18 all the things he had learned by 80.

I couldn't help thinking about Burns Sunday when 101 Charlevoix 18-year-olds stepped smartly across the speakers' platform at Charlevoix High School to receive their diplomas.

To a man — and a woman — they were a fine-looking group of young people: taller by several inches than their parents, glossy hair and clear skin with pleasant, unwrinkled smiles on well-scrubbed faces.

To be sure, our Dan was a member of the Class of 1990 and perhaps I'm a mite prejudiced. But to me the entire assemblage seemed to bubble with the energy, ambition, confidence and good humor.

And little wonder. They won't be 80 until the year 2052 — a year so far off that it might as well be light years away on a strange planet in a different time warp.

Yet all of the graduates were blissfully unaware of how fast that distant time is rushing toward them and I hope no one tells them. They'll find out soon enough on their own.

As for George Burns's wish that he had known at 18 what he knew at 80, forget it. Burns's wisdom is the product of painful experience. Sure, he could try to pass his knowledge along to today's 18-year-olds, but they wouldn't believe him.

They'll have to learn the hard way — or not at all.

In the meantime, I hope the Class of 1990 has fun on its trip to 2052.

George Burns certainly has had one whale of a time on his journey through the 20th Century.

WHILE WE'RE on the subject: would you like to be 18 again?

Think about it. If you're honest, you'll probably decline the invitation — with, maybe just a few reservations.

THE CLOCK is running out for Canada.

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney is meeting this week on Ottawa with the prime ministers of the various provinces in an effort to keep Quebec from bolting the Dominion.

But the outlook is not good. Unless the other provinces agree to grant Quebec special privileges, Canada's French-speaking province — probably will declare its independence from the rest of Canada in the not-too-distant future.

Time is running out because Saturday, June 23, has been set arbitrarily for adoption of the so-called Meech Lake Accord, which guarantees Quebec "distinct society" status.

June 23 is a little more than two weeks away. The United States, you'll recall, faced a similar situation 130 years ago when the Southern states decided they would rather go it alone rather than bow to Northern Abolitionists. The upshot was the civil War, the nastiest piece of business that has ever befallen this nation.

Would Mulroney call out the troops to put down a revolution in Quebec? Probably not. The question is more cultural than moral, as it was in the case of America's Civil War. There was no reconciling slavery with democracy.

Furthermore, I sense a weariness on the part of English-speaking Canadians, Mulroney included. The French have championed their Frenchness for so long it gets a little tiresome.

What's worse, both groups are stubborn to a fault. They cannot understand the charm their bilingual nation holds for foreigners — like us.

I cannot imagine such otherwise sensible cities such as Sault Ste. Marie and Windsor, Ontario, passing laws declaring English their only acceptable language. Of course they were only retaliating for Quebec's French-only laws, but for Pete's sake, how childish can you get.

For years the Hamtramck City Council conducted most of its civic business in Polish and no one really cared so long as the good people of Poletown knew what was going on.

Letters to the Editor:

Memorial speech was excellent

Editor,

Thank you very much for the variety of pictures of the Memorial Day services, in one of which I appear. It has been years since I "make the paper," and I appreciate it.

I thought I would like to say a few words about the many who served and gave their all in different armed conflicts, as over the years we have paid less attention to the memory of our patriotic efforts.

The Memorial Day address was given by Lieut. Commander Richard Lynch of the United States Coast Guard and I would like to say that his very well chosen words were the best I have heard here and at other Memorial Day ceremonies. Our hearts and sympathy were, and are with him, and his family, when he mentioned his brother being among the fallen heroes. I feel that the veterans and the visitors at the cemetery who heard his stirring speech would be grateful if he and his most eloquent speech were mentioned in the Charlevoix Courier.

He is the gentlemen who gave that impressive Memorial Day address to us and he deserves the credit for reminding the assembled, so movingly, that we should never forget the great debt we owe to our fallen comrades who participated in the many conflicts our young nation has already participated in.

Sincerely,
Francis J. Seidel
Lieut. Colonel, AUS-Ret.

degrees to the average lake "highs". I can vouch for the indoor pool table having (eventually) experienced these readings personally at East Jordan and at Harbor Springs indoor pools — in mid winter yet!

TWELVE REASONS FOR A POOL-INDOORS
Lake temperatures and weather:

1) Jan. 33-37, Icy, Snowy, Blowy; 2) Feb. 33-36, Icy, Snowy, Blowy; 3) March 33-36, Thin Ice, Snowy, Blowy; 4) Apr. 36-38, Ice Floes, Rain, Blowy; 5) May, 39-50, OK for fish, ducks; 6) Jun. 45-62, Only strong hearts; 7) Jul. 50-75, OK unless it storms; 8) Aug. 63-78, OK unless it storms; 9) Sep. 55-72, OK some days; 10) Oct. 50-65, Strong of hearty; 11) Nov. 45-52, Smart ducks gone; 12) Dec. 37-

43, Icy, Snowy, Blowy. Pool temperatures and weather: 80-83, Balmly, Bright.

Opportunity: Readers who have better "high" temperature readings for any of our local lakes are welcome to report them to our Pool Headquarters c/o The Office, Market Mall, Charlevoix, MI 49720. Readings should be from at least five feet down. I would enjoy revising my "highs". I might even go swimming there. But please, no readings from puddles on asphalt drives taken on a sunny day at high noon!

P.S. We already have a first day of June Lake Michigan "high" report of 48 degrees F.

Wynsma - Murray

Barbara Wynsma & John Murray

Mr. and Mrs. John Wynsma of Byron Center are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Barbara Jane, to John Gregory Murray. He is the son of Nancy Murray of Kalkaska and the late Robert Murray. The intended bride is a graduate of Caledonia High School and is presently employed by Mettler's in Charlevoix. Her fiancé is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and Northwestern Michigan College. He is employed by Vacation Properties Network in Charlevoix. The wedding is being planned for October 26 in the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

Strawbridge-Bromley

Betty Bock Strawbridge of Little Torch Lake and Kokomo, Indiana, and Lee Myron Bromley of Kokomo were married Saturday, May 25, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Raymond Giffin officiated the ceremony before members of the immediate family and local close friends.

The bride's daughter, Susan Dyer, served as matron of honor and two granddaughters were bridesmaids.

The bride's brother, Daniel Bock of Florida, gave her in marriage.

The bridegroom's son, Tom Bromley, served as best man, and John Bromley, another son, offered two solos.

Organ music for the ceremony was provided by Elizabeth Humphrey.

A reception and dinner at the Weatherlane Inn followed the wedding ceremony.

The newlyweds will reside in Kokomo.

Price wins trivia competition

Weldon "Bill" Price of Charlevoix recently won a Michigan Trivia contest sponsored by the Eccentric Newspapers and Community House of Birmingham and Michigan National Bank.

A former resident of Birmingham, Price was active in the Birmingham Historical society, the Michigan Regimental Roundtable, and the Abraham Lincoln Roundtable at Greenfield Village.

Since moving to Charlevoix 15 years ago, Price has been active in the Charlevoix Historical Society, serving as a board member and president. Although knowledgeable about state and local history, Price's specialty is the Civil War, about which he has spoken on many occasions.

Price admits he had some trouble with questions about later events, but answered all questions from memory.

Price's sister, Patricia Price accepted the $500 U.S. Savings Bond at a ceremony in Birmingham.

City band begins rehearsals for summer concert season

The first Charlevoix City Band rehearsal of the 1990 season will take place at 7 p.m. Tuesday, June 12, in the Charlevoix High School band room. The Charlevoix City Band is a community ensemble made up of musicians from Charlevoix and surrounding communities. Membership in the band is open to anyone in the area who plays a band instrument. Weekly rehearsals take place during the month of June, and weekly concerts are presented by the group in Charlevoix's East Park during July and part of August. The band is made up of instrumentalists of all ages and all ability levels. Anyone who has an interest in playing in the group is encouraged to come to the first rehearsal on Tuesday, June 12.

For further information about the band and its activities, contact band director, Terry Isenbarger (office: 547-3234 or home: 533-8382) or band president Warren Shapton (547-5144).

Pool committee raising funds

The Pool Steering Committee has initiated their fundraising effort for an indoor community swimming pool.

Fundraising efforts include: The Rotary Club selling maps of Charlevoix for $5, with $1 being donated to the pool effort;

Kappa Sigma Gamma Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi donated proceeds from a June 2 garage sale to the pool fund;

The Kiwanis Club will host an auction during the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) Petunia-Party, July 23 at the Barn at Dunmaglas. Among the items auctioned will be a llama, and a piece of the Berlin Wall. Items may be donated by calling 547-1991. Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce, Pool Steering Committee headquarters or from KCB board members.

Letters to the Editor:

Millage supported

The Charlevoix Senior Center enthusiastically endorses both of the millage proposals on the June 11 election ballot. We feel that the 1.4 mill increase in school operational funds is absolutely essential.

Operating and maintaining a quality school system is a vital part of our communities life. The school is the community, and offers many programs that not only concern the young people of our school district, but the adult as well. Allowing the school system to levy the full amount of all approved millages for the 1990-91 school year makes sense.

Our world is changing. Technology is King, all of us, young and old need to learn about computers and our schools need to be knowledgeable of the changes in the computer industry and how it effects the job market for today's students.

The proposed .9 millage increase represents a sound investment in what will surely be a computer-oriented future. We sincerely hope that the community will see the far-sighted wisdom of passing the two millage proposals on June 11.

Sincerely,
Sherry Black
Coordinator-Director

Thanks for field day

Dear Editor,

We would like to thank the following Charlevoix service organizations for sponsoring the 9th Annual Charlevoix Invitational Field Day on Friday, May 11, 1990 for the special education students of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District and clients of the Little Traverse Enterprises, Bergmann Center and Antrim-Kalkaska Industries: the Knights of Columbus, the Oddfellows and the Masons.

We would also like to thank Mr. Terry Isenbarger and the Charlevoix High School Band for playing at the Opening Ceremonies and Jasper and the Tag-Alongs for entertaining us after dinner.

Our thanks also go to the many volunteers who helped make the day such a success.

Sincerely,
Carl Kilander,
Special Education Supervisor

Adults may go back to college

Workshops for adult students interested in beginning or resuming college work are scheduled June 27 at 5:30 and 7 p.m. at the Central Michigan University office at Northwestern Michigan College's Boardman Lake campus in Traverse City.

Prospective students can meet with a CMU representative at the sessions to learn more about the undergraduate degree program. Options are offered in community development or administration through CMU's Extended-Degree Programs.

Topics to be covered in the workshops include correspondence courses, learning packages for independent study, condensed courses, telecourses, credit for prior learning, and off-campus library services.

Participants are encouraged to preregister for one of the workshops by calling the CMU office in Traverse City at (616) 922-0537.

CHURCH

Agnes G. Buttrick

Charlevoix summer resident Agnes Gardner Buttrick, 96, of Nashville, Tenn., died May 28, 1990, at Nashville.

Memorial service was held at the Presbyterian Church in Nashville, Tenn., on June 1. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix, at a later date.

The former Agnes Gardner was born Sept. 15, 1893, in Red Hill, Borough of Reigate, Surrey, England, the daughter of the Rev. Dr. John and Agnes (Baker) Gardner. She received her education at the University of London and held a Ph.D. from the University of Chicago. After college she taught school for two years before her marriage to the Rev. Dr. George Arthur Buttrick on June 27, 1916, in Chicago.

As the wife of Dr. Buttrick, she was active in the parishes where he served, including Congregational churches in Quincy, Ill. and Rutland, Vt.; the First Presbyterian Church in Buffalo, N.Y. and the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church in New York City and the Memorial Church at Harvard University.

After Dr. Buttrick retired as Plummer Professor of Morals from Harvard University, the couple moved to Evanston, Ill., then Nashville, Tenn., and Louisville, Ky., where Dr. Buttrick held teaching positions. She also assisted Dr. Buttrick in the research of more than 25 books he authored.

Dr. Buttrick preceded her in death in 1980.

Mrs. Buttrick is survived by: three sons, the Rev. G. Robert Buttrick of San Antonio, Texas, Dr. John A. Buttrick of Toronto, Canada, Prof. David G. Buttrick of Nashville, Tenn.; seven grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. Richard (Gladys) Jenkins, of Iowa City, Iowa; Dr. John A. Gardner of Tryon, N.C.

She was preceded in death by two sisters, Dr. Evelyn Gardner and Mrs. nan Glover.

Jessie R. Short

Former Charlevoix resident Jessie R. Short, 96, of Traverse City, died May 30, 1990, at Traverse City Osteopathic Hospital.

Funeral was Saturday, June 2, at the Bible Baptist Church in Traverse City. The Rev. Jerry Bauman officiated with interment in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Jessie R. Hamlin was born July 15, 1893, in Hayes township, Charlevoix County, the daughter of Loren and Anna (Jericho) Hamlin. She was a former cook at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Mrs. Short had resided most of her life in Charlevoix, moving to Traverse City in 1965. She was a former member of the Charlevoix First Baptist church and the Bible Baptist Church in Traverse City.

She was preceded in death by her first husband, Jess R. Gregory and her second husband, Clifford Short. She was also preceded in death by two brothers, one sister and an infant son, Ralph Gregory.

Survivors include one son, Edwin G. Gregory, of Kalamazoo; one daughter, Arlene M. Garrison of Williamsburg; five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family suggest memorials to the Bible Baptist Church in Traverse City or the First Baptist Church in Charlevoix.

Church honors Purdy

The Women of the Charlevoix Community Church of God recently honored Crystal Purdy as the church's woman of the year. Rev. Bruce Hamilton is shown with Purdy during a recent service. Purdy has been active in the church for years as a member of the church choir and serving as Spiritual Life Director for the women's group.

Bible school planned

"Bibletimes Marketplace" serves as the theme of the community Vacation Bible School in Charlevoix this summer. The school sessions will take place at the First Baptist Church on M-66 Highway, June 18-21.

Children will relive Bibletimes' events, exploring and experiencing Bibletimes' occupations and relationships. From their family clusters, with a mother figure in charge, the children will venture forth into the Marketplace, where they will participate in the activities of the many and varied shops. In addition, they will experience Bibletime songs, games and dances. Bible stories will be dramatized in their midst.

Children who will be five years old by September 1 through those who have recently completed the fifth grade may register. Immediate registration is requested. Forms are available in local churches, stores, and other community businesses.

Bus transportation for children living in and around Charlevoix will be provided. Approximately six stops, all adult supervised, will be set up. Children riding the buses must register before the first day of classes. Bus schedules will be mailed to all registered families.

Please note - Monday through Wednesday, June 18-20, each child should bring a sack lunch!

Hospital staff completes neonatal resuscitation course

All of the Charlevoix Area Hospital obstetrical staff including nurses and physicians have completed an intensive American Heart Association course on neonatal resuscitation. The voluntary effort brings the hospital's physicians and nursing staff up-to-date on current standards of care for neonatal (newborn) resuscitation. The national course requires a sizable commitment of time. Each class is a full-day with eight participants per class. The two-year certification at Charlevoix Area Hospital was achieved in two days.

#1 - - - AGAIN!!

Someone said it's easier to GET to No. #1 - than it is to STAY #1.

GOLDWELL BANKER/SCHMIDT REALTORS has been northern Michigan's leader in sales volume for years!

THANK YOU again for helping us to be recognized as the #1 Coldwell Banker company in the 13 state midwest region and #5 of over 1,300 Coldwell Banker offices nationally. Coldwell Banker is America's Premier Real Estate Firm and in 1989 was involved in the sale of nearly one out of nine sales nationally.

Yes, that's important to us - but what is more important is to be #1 to you! In 1989 we closed nearly 1,800 real estate transactions - and, yours was the most important!

We want to earn your business - not take it for granted. We only ask that you COMPARE Realtors BEFORE listing.

Already in 1990 we are far ahead of our sales pace of 1989 - we have more buyers than sellers.

David Starzyk and John Wulf pose on the deck of the Cafe at the Edgewater Inn. Starzyk recently reopened the cafe after extensive remodeling. Wulf is his service coordinator and banquet manager.

Cafe management changes

There's good news for gourmands, for those who eat only because they are hungry, and even for those who are health-conscious.

The Cafe at the Edgewater Inn has re-opened with a new owner who is professionally trained and who is using his years of experience in restaurant work in other parts of the country to add a fine dining opportunity to Charlevoix.

David Starzyk is a graduate of the Western Culinary Institute in Portland, Oregon and has worked and learned at the Hotel Ponchartraine in Detroit, the Sundial Beach and Tennis Club on Sanibel Island, and the Four Queens Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas.

Northern Michigan is not new territory to Starzyk, who visited the area many times to see an uncle who lived in Petoskey. "I've always liked it up here and now I'm enjoying the change of pace and the friendly and helpful people," he says.

Starzyk came by his restaurant career honestly, he says, because "I always liked to cook and I decided to make hospitality my life's work."

"Breakfast at the Edgewater Inn Cafe could be the beginning of a great day. One might like to try the Danish Pancake Rolls (Aebleskiver), or Stuffed Toast, or Eggs Cafe (Potato Pancakes, Canadian Bacon, Poached Eggs, Hollandaise Sauce, and Fruit); the 'I've got to eat because it's that time' person might relish Corned Beef Hash and Eggs, some Plate-sized Hot Cakes, or a B.L.T. with a Fried Egg; health-conscious persons could settle for half a Grapefruit and Raisin Bran Muffins, or a Lo-Cal Omelette (made with three parts of egg white and one part egg yolk), or Yogurt with Fruit and Granola.

The luncheon menu also offers foods for all needs—salads, soups, and hot and cold deli sandwiches (including a chance to "build your own"). Of special interest to many is the availability of junior portions of some salads and half sandwiches served with a cup of soup. There are also complete luncheons featuring such delicacies as Pan Fried Perch topped with a lemon butter sauce, Broiled Whitefish served with a lime and ginger butter, and Chicken Charlevoix, a chicken breast stuffed with spinach, mushrooms, duxelle, white cheese, and ham. The chicken is breaded and served with hazel nut cream sauce.

For the health-conscious, there is fish served with tomato-zucchini coulis, vegetables, and fresh fruit, and chicken that is marinated and broiled, served with vegetables and fresh fruit. Other items are vegetables topped with melted low-fat cheese, Teriyaki stir-fried vegetables, and a Seafood-Pasta Salad.

Working with Starzyk are John Wulf, his service coordinator and banquet manager; Bob Clark, line cook; and Levi Sanford, his

Big Rock production stays up

Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant produced a record amount of electricity during the past six months. The plant, which has been generating at or near full power continuously since last November 4, produced 293,445.7 megawatt-hours of electricity during the six-month period since then—the best six-month production output in the unit's 27-year history. The six-month output record is only one of many accomplishments earned by the plant. Earlier this year, Big Rock Point employees were recognized for achieving the best safety record of any electric generating plant in the Consumers Power system. In 1988, the State of Michigan recognized Big Rock Point's long industrial safety record as the best in the state. In 1977, Big Rock Point set a world record by remaining on line for 343 consecutive days.

Big Rock Point was refueled last summer and has been generating power almost continuously since then. It is scheduled to remain in service until the next refueling in September.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Army Spec. Todd J. Veenstra, son of Miner J. and Patsy D. Veenstra of Ellsworth has been named cook of the month for the 6th Infantry Division at Fort Richardson, Alaska. Veenstra is a 1988 graduate of Ellsworth High School.

Charlevoix High School junior Scott Campbell recently participated in a student program which simulated the workings of state and local government. Campbell, the son of Larry and Kay Campbell, joined 99 other selected Michigan high school juniors for the week-long program sponsored by Albion College.

In simulating a city government, students assumed the roles of mayor, city manager, council member, planning commission members and civic activists in a city of fictitious city of 120,000 people. Through role-playing, students deal with issues facing city government. Lectures on different forms of city government and parliamentary procedure supplement role-playing.

The second part of the week focuses on state-level politics. Students visit the State Capitol and talk with members of the legislative, executive and judicial branches of Michigan's government.

Debra Seelye of Charlevoix has been named to the Northwood Institute Dean's List for the winter term. To be named to the Dean's List a student must have a grade point average of at least 3.5 on a 4 point scale.

Flights added at Pellston

Air service to northern Michigan received a boost last week with the addition of two non-stop flights between Pellston and Detroit Metropolitan Airport, the Michigan Department of Transportation (M-DOT) announced today.

Beginning today, Northwest Airlin, which is operated by Mesaba Aviation, will expand service to provide five non-stop flights a day between the two airports.

The two new flights will use 45-passenger turbo-prop aircraft, nearly tripling the number of seats available under existing service.

The flights were added to meet passenger demand during the busy summer season in northwest Michigan. The expanded service was recommended by Kurth 7 company, an air service consultant under contract with M-DOT and Emmet County, and results from efforts by M-DOT, the Pellston Airport Board, Northwest Airlin and American Eagle.

Track team places third at state meet

A nine-man squad from Charlevoix placed third at the Class C state track finals in Grand Rapids this weekend. The Rayders accumulated 30 points, 11 fewer than state champion Fulton-Middleton and nine fewer than runner-up Edwardsburg.

Scott Miller led the Rayders, finishing second in the 3200, third in the 1600 and anchoring a second-place finish by the 3200 meter relay team.

Brian Livingston finished seventh in the long jump with a leap of 20'10" and a quarter inches while Matt Gibbons placed seventh in the long jump with a leap of 20'8" and a quarter inches.

The 3200 meter relay team comprised of Matt Smith, Luke LaBlance, Tim Henne and Miller turned in a time of 8:10.49.

Miller finished his Charlevoix running career holding the school record in the 3200, 1600 and 800. He also led the cross country team to back-to-back state championships, winning the Class C individual title in his junior year and placing second behind a runner from England in his senior year. Miller will continue running at William and Mary College where he will be coached by Charlevoix alumni Walt Drenth.

Tony Warchol, Matt Stargardt and Bill Crook also competed for Charlevoix in the state meet, but did not place.

Charlevoix finished the year as league and regional champions.

Softball team loses two games

Charlevoix ended its softball season Thursday with two five-inning losses to Gaylord, champion of the Michigan-Huron Shores League.

The scores were 10-0 and 10-1. Winning pitcher in the first game was Candy McHugh.

who gave up one hit, walked two and struck out six. Losing pitcher Stacy Tilton gave up six hits, walked five and struck out two. Melissa Cox had the Rayders' only hit.

Stacy Cogswell was winning pitcher in the second game. She granted one hit, walked four and struck out five. Losing pitcher Tammy Holm allowed four hits, walked four and fanned four. Melissa Eaton had the Rayders' lone hit.

Charlevoix coach Ron Cox said his team will improve in 1991.

Little League results

Charlevoix Little League's Minor League division (8-9 year olds) started its season recently with the following games:

McDonald's beat Teachers' Pets, 9-6. For McDonald's, Eric Halverson and Jon Sell both played an outstanding game on defense, coaches said. Mike Evans led the offense with three hits. For Teachers' Pets, Colin Carr had two triples and Wally Fair and Jeremy Rafacz each had two hits.

McKeown Ford beat Twin Bay Glass, 12-10. For McKeown Ford, Corey Tache and Matt

McClellan played outstanding defense, coaches said. The offense was led by Levi Bakker and Eric Butcher, who both doubled. For Twin Bay, Michael Ricks played an outstanding game on defense. The offense was led by Todd Schaperkotter who had three hits.

City softball results

Three games were played in the Charlevoix Men's Softball League Thursday.

Quality Limo-Ironworks Gym beat Bay Shore Steel 12-10 with Dave Cole the winning pitcher. Limo had 10 hits and Bay Shore 18.

Town House took Assembly of God 9-5 as each team had 13 hits. Bob Alexander was the winning pitcher. Pine Hill downed Paul Bunyan Lanes 6-3. For Pine Hill, one of the 11 hits was a home run by Eric Towe. John Simon was the winning pitcher.

Ignacio Lopez and his teammates on the Charlevoix tennis team placed fourth in the Class C-D finals this past weekend.

Tennis team finishes fourth at state meet

Charlevoix's tennis team finished fourth in the state Class C-D tennis finals in Battle Creek this weekend. Charlevoix has made regular appearances at the state meet, winning the regional title six straight years. This year's finish is the Rayders' best at the state meet.

Birmingham Detroit Country Day and Grosse Pointe University Liggett, two teams which draw players from other schools and finish first and second year after year did so again this year. Williamston finished third with 15 points and Charlevoix fourth with 13.

Match results for Charlevoix players follow:

In number 1 singles, Ryan Holmes beat Aaron VanderLoon of Parchment, 6-4, 1-6, 6-1 and then lost to second seeded Sean Byrne of University-Liggett, 6-0, 6-0.

In number 2 singles, Tim Jervis beat Tom Gebuhr of North Muskegon 7-6, 6-1; beat Noel Mangone of Saginaw Nouvel 7-6, 1-6, 6-1 and lost in the semifinals to second seeded Anthony Abiragi of University-Liggett 6-2, 6-1.

In number 3 singles, Tim Holm beat Jim King of Berrien Springs, 7-6, 6-2, then lost to fourth seeded Jon Holstrom of North Muskegon 6-4, 6-2.

In number four singles, Chris

Pemble lost to Tony Sova of Armada, 5-7, 6-4, 6-3.

In number one doubles, third seeded Webb Friedly and Greg Lewis beat Dave Borgerding and Brett Vantil of Calvin Christian 6-3, 6-7, 6-3, beat Joe Milton and Eric Langenau of Williamston 6-1, 3-6, 6-1 and lost in the semifinals to second seeded, John Fish and Eric Keuffel of Country Day, 6-2, 6-

2. seeded Dave Puhl and Chad DeYoung beat Kevin Veltman and Brent Olthoff of Calvin Christian 7-6, 6-1, then lost to Brian Peddleton and Amy Dyer of Williamston 6-2, 6-3.

In number three doubles, Ignacio Lopez and Sam Bingham lost to Grant Wolf and Doug Johannesen of Berrien Springs.

The Rayders finished the regular season undefeated.

Congratulations Rayders

Animal shelter stays busy

By PEG OHLE

The four-legged pets in Charlevoix County would be a lot better off if their owners heeded the advice of Julie Whitley and Pam Korth.

"People have to take care of their animals. It's not their (the animals') fault they get pregnant or become strays," says Whitley, the County's Animal Control Officer.

"Dog owners should be responsible people. They should have their pets spayed or neutered and they should respect their neighbors," adds Korth, caretaker in the Animal Shelter.

Whitley and Korth work closely together, trying to do two man-sized jobs in a limited period of time.

Whitley is employed only 24 hours a week as Animal Control Officer and Deputy Sheriff. During that time, she answers telephone complaints, investigates charges, talks and explains to owners of recalcitrant animals, drives the animal pickup truck, signs warrants, appears in court as a witness, puts to sleep wild and domestic animals, and serves as administrator of the Animal Shelter.

Her territory is the 15 townships and three cities in the County, ranging from the sparsely populated forest area in the east to the more heavily populated areas around Lake Charlevoix.

"With all this traveling, there's no way I can do the kind of job I want to," Whitley explains. "We used to have a full-time Animal Control Officer, but now, even with more people and more animals, I can work only part time."

The money crunch that limits Whitley's time on the job also limits the type of Animal Control service the County and the Humane Society can provide.

"The Animal Shelter is now accepting only stray animals.

That is all we can handle at the present time," Korth, who is a part-time employee of the Charlevoix Humane Society, explained.

"People who own animals should find homes for them. Also, it is the veterinarian's job to put old animals to sleep. We shouldn't be asked to do it."

Animals that are taken to the shelter are well cared for and every effort is made to find them homes. When they are adopted, the new owners must sign a contract agreeing that within a certain period of time they will have the pet spayed or neutered. They are given a coupon which may be redeemed as partial payment for the services of a veterinarian. The Humane Society pays for the rest of the operation.

"Spaying or neutering of cats is especially important," Korth says, because kittens are not so much in demand and the Animal Shelter has to put many of them to sleep.

"Every year, a woman on Beaver Island used to send us a litter of kittens for adoption," Whitley added. "She paid us for caring for them, but she could have had her cat spayed three or four times for less money. We've told her we can't take her kittens anymore."

Many of the larger dogs, which are not adopted are sent to the leader dog school. Even if they don't pass the test as leader dogs, their training makes them good companions for elderly or handicapped persons.

Korth and Whitley try to take the dogs in the shelter on daily walks. "They make better pets if they get outdoors into the fresh air and sunshine," Korth observed. However, there isn't always time to take these walks and Korth suggested that a few volunteer "dog walkers" would be a big help.

As with most service agencies, the Animal Shelter has some special needs. Korth lists some of them as grooming clipper, "to cut the burrs out of the animals' hair," a typewriter, and a copying machine. The Animal Control department recently purchased an answering machine and fans and had the interior of the building painted.

"A contribution to the Humane Society would help, too," Korth added.

Whitley admits her job is a tough one, but she takes it in stride. She and her husband, Patrick, have two children, ages 8 and 9, who will tell anyone who listens that their mother is not a "Dog Catcher" but an "Animal Control Officer."

Both Whitley and Korth are the proud owners of dogs adopted from the Animal Shelter. They agree their pets are "the best dogs anywhere."

Julie Whitley and Pam Korth hold some of the animals in the Animal Shelter. The animals need homes.

Area man seeks Irwin's state senate seat

A Charlevoix County resident would like to represent northern Michigan's 37th District in the State Senate.

Bill Huber, who lives in rural Charlevoix, has filed for the seat being vacated by Mitch Irwin of Sault Ste. Marie.

Huber is well-known to most Charlevoix County residents since he has represented Congressman Bob Davis as Chief of District Staff specializing in public relations and senior citizen legislation in a 19-county area of northern Michigan for 13 years. During that time, he has worked with almost every township, village, city, and county in the district. He is particularly well-known for his appearances at Senior Center meal sites.

Huber, a Republican, will be opposed in the August Primary by George A. McManus of Traverse City. The winner of that contest will face Democrat Tom Weiss of Gaylord in the November General Election.

Lansing is familiar territory for Huber because he started his political career there in 1977, when he took the job of Administrative Assistant to Davis, who was then the Michigan Senate Minority leader. He remained on Davis' staff when the State Senator became Congressman.

It is that extensive relationship with the people of the 37th District that Huber feels give him the advantage. "The people of northern Michigan will not have to train someone," Huber said.

Ensuring well-planned economic development while maintaining environmental quality will be a Huber campaign thrust. His other primary concerns focus on fundamental education finance reform for more equitable K-12 school funding, as well as solving ongoing issues of concern, such as recycling and environmentally sound solid waste disposal.

Improving state implementation of the Wetlands Protection Act is one area where state-local interaction could be improved, according to Huber. "I'm not in favor of repealing the (state) Wetlands Act in any way, but we need to put a human face on it," Huber said.

Advocating an expanded state role in supporting northern Michigan's growing population of senior citizens is also high on the Huber agenda. Several years of day-to-day involvement with seniors provide Huber with the background essential to make sure those issues are effectively addressed in Lansing.

Huber served in Vietnam as a "MASH" unit pharmacist-medic. He is a graduate of Ferris State University, and outside the political arena, he has experience in teaching, sales, and lab analysis. "The breadth of my life experiences, as well as my positions serving a legislative leader in Lansing, and more than a dozen years of continual interaction with the people of the district, that's the formula for a well-prepared State Senator representing northern Michigan, and I am ready for the job," Huber said.

Huber and his wife, the former Mary Lee Schwartzfisher of Petoskey, have one son, Bryant, who is five. Mary Lee operates "Wintergreen Herbs and Potpourri" at their home on Burnett Road.

Watershed Council completes water study

The final results of Phases 1 and 2 of the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council's nitrate testing program have just been released. The results show the percentage of wells with severe nitrate contamination have not increased in the area since a previous well survey in 1975. They also indicate that nitrate levels in this part of Northern Michigan are lower than both the statewide and national averages.

The Watershed Council's nitrate testing program is part of a three-year Groundwater Protection and Education Program funded by a grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation. In Phase 1 of the study, the Watershed Council randomly sampled 940 homes in Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan Counties. Phase 2 tested well water submitted by 325 concerned homeowners from this same area. Phases 3 and 4 involved more intensive sampling of areas in which higher than normal levels of nitrates were found.

The results reveal that 14 percent of the wells in the study area have nitrate levels which are thought to be higher than normal (equal to or greater than two parts per million). Of these, two percent have nitrate levels of 10 ppm or greater. This is the Maximum Contaminant Level at which the Michigan Department of Public Health recommends that water not be consumed. The remaining 86 percent have levels of nitrates less than 2 ppm.

Nitrate is a compound composed of nitrogen and oxygen, and occurs naturally in groundwater in low amounts. Drinking water with high levels of nitrate can cause adverse health effects in very young infants and in some susceptible adults. Nitrate contamination is most commonly caused by the overuse of chemical fertilizers, the improper disposal of animal wastes, and from malfunctioning septic systems. Of the thousands of organic and inorganic chemicals known to contaminate groundwater, nitrate is most commonly found. Worldwide, its level has increased greatly in the last 20 years, showing the dramatic impact that humans are having on groundwater resources.

A nationwide study by the US Geological Survey in 1985 found six percent of wells above 10 ppm. A 1989 study done in 73 Michigan counties by the Farm Bureau found nine percent of wells above 10 ppm. The results of the Watershed Council's study indicates that nitrate levels in this area are less than both the statewide and national averages. In a 1974-75 survey conducted in Emmet and Cheboygan Counties by the University of Michigan, two percent of the 1400 wells sampled had nitrates higher than 10 ppm. A comparison with the Watershed Council's results shows that this percentage of contaminated wells has not increased since the U-M study.

Doug Fuller, Watershed

Council Water Quality Technician is coordinating the nitrate sampling program. He will next enter the study data into a computer using a digitizer. This will enable him to draw contour maps showing where different nitrate levels are found, and to enter the well data into a statewide inventory system so that it will be available to other researchers.

The primary objective of the project is to establish valuable baseline information about locations of contaminated aquifers and the degree of contamination. This information will be provided to area residents in an effort to prevent them from drinking contaminated water.

Distillation or reverse osmosis are the only types home water treatment systems which can remove nitrates from contaminated wells. Another option to avoid drinking nitrate contaminated water, in some areas, is to deepen the well to a more protected aquifer. The Watershed Council's project found that wells less than 70 feet deep had a 13 percent incidence of having nitrate levels exceeding seven ppm than did deeper wells.

A secondary objective of the survey is to establish the relationship between nitrate levels, and land uses and soil types. This will allow identification of areas most sensitive to groundwater contamination and will be valuable for planning and zoning activities at the county and township level.

The results of the study will identify the extent of nitrate contamination and enable us to draw general conclusions about sources of nitrates. However, exact cause and effect relationships for specific wells will require more detailed study. Information about individual wells will remain confidential.

Central Drug adds FAX service

Public FAX International of Irvine, California has designated Central Drug Store as a local agency in the Public FAX 6,000 member nationwide fax network. With its selection, Central Drug Store is able to offer more than just basic "fax to fax" service. Local businesses and residents can use the Public FAX network to send fax mail even to people who are without fax machines of their own.

When a sender wants to fax something to someone who is not fax-equipped, the recipient is directed to a nearby Public FAX network location to pick up the urgent material. The purpose of the network is to make fax capability universal. People with fax can send to people without fax and vice versa, thereby saving them the one-day delay that comes with having to use overnight letters.

Another service offered by Public FAX agencies is the provision of a free fax number. Without requirement of guaranteed usage, Central Drug Store will allow area people to use its local fax number as their own. Users can issue the number to would-be fax senders or even print it on their business cards and stationery. There is a small per-page charge for materials received. Central Drug Store makes immediate telephone calls to advise local users of fax mail that has arrived and, then keeps it confidentially in a personal folder until it is picked up.

Other service features include the capability of sending pictures and photographs and having mail faxed for international delivery via INTELPOST.

... board members and millage on ballot

the millage increases, which total slightly more than 1.4 mills, are necessary to stabilize the school's fund equity, purchase new computers and maintain the school's educational program.

An official of the Headlee Tax Cut Initiative says the proposals are an attempt by the school system to double-dip already overburdened taxpayers by raising millage rates in conjunction with rising property assessments.

Taxes are the total of millage multiplied by a property's assessed value (SEV). A mill is $1 per $1,000 of SEV. SEV is 50 percent of a property's theoretical market value.

The Headlee Amendment, which Michigan voters passed in 1978, forces schools and other taxing entities to roll back millage rates when taxes increase more than inflation due to rising property assessments.

During the past year the total assessed value of property in the Charlevoix school district increased by about $18.7 million, or 8.5 percent, from $220,469,001 to $239,207,600.

The Headlee Amendment, unless waived by voters as the school board is requesting, doesn't allow school tax revenue to increase by 9.5 percent, but allows school tax revenue to increase by 4.8 percent (this year's inflation rate according to the Consumer Price Index) plus taxes generated by new construction in the school district.

The difference due to the Headlee Amendment is .5023 of a mill or about $163,000. The Headlee waiver request is incorporated into a request for a renewal of the school's other operational school millage. The renewal is not for the '90-'91 school year, but for the '91-'92 school year.

Tax revenue on a portion of property within the city and school district funds Downtown Development Authority (DDA) and Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) projects. The city initiated DDA and TIFA areas in 1982. In the past eight years the assessed value of property in the DDA and TIFA districts has increased by $14 million. Taxes generated by mills levied against that $14 million fund DDA and TIFA projects rather than going to the school or other taxing entities.

However, last year the school and negotiated an agreement calling for a portion of DDA and TIFA tax revenues to go to the school and county. This year, the school will receive approximately $100,000 due to that agreement.

The .9 of a mill would bring the school system a bit more than $200,000 in the coming year. School superintendent Gordon VanWieren estimated that approximately $100,000 would be spent on computers with the other half of the money spent to maintain the school's existing programs.

In June 1989 voters rejected two school millage requests before approving a smaller request in October. In June voters defeated a .9 mill proposal for buses and other transportation costs by a vote of 588-486 and denied a 1 mill request for increased operational costs 669-412. In October, voters approved a .79 mill proposal for new buses by a vote of 556-530.

Sixth trout tournament rules

The Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. will start 5:00 a.m.

Fri., June 8, 1990 and end at noon Sunday, June 10, 1990. The official time for the contest will be the clock displayed at the weigh-in station located in the East Park, downtown Charlevoix. All fish must be weighed in on or before 12 noon Sunday, June 10, 1990. All fish must be in the weigh-in coral by noon Sunday. The weigh-in coral will be open 10:00 a.m.-10:00 p.m. Fri., and Sat., and 9:00 a.m.-12:00 noon on Sunday.

2. In consideration of the opportunity to participate in the Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. and being fully aware of the dangers that may befall the mariners and fishermen, each of the undersigned, for himself and his heirs, legal representatives, successors and assigns, hereby waive and release any and all claims which he and any of them may have against the Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. and its members, employees, agents and sponsors rising out of the participation of the undersigned in the Trout Tournament and its related activities.

3. Each entrant is entitled to only one prize in each division and grand prize drawing. (Registered entrant must be present to win grand prize drawing).

4. Winners will be determined by the weight of the fish. The decision of the judges will be final in the event of dispute or in the event of a tie, first fish weighed in will be declared the winner.

5. Each catch must be verified by a registered witness to the catch. Every person fishing in the Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. must be registered whether on shore or in a boat.

6. All fish entered must be whole, and contain no foreign matter. No gaffed or snagged fish will be eligible for any prizes. Each fish is subject to opening for inspection at the discretion of the judges.

7. You are allowed to register for another person.

8. Each contestant agrees to abide by the official rules and state fishing regulations upon signing the entry form. Any failure to observe any rule will result in disqualification. Safe boating conduct must be observed at all times. Boats must be equipped with Coast Guard approved equipment.

9. The boundary lines are: All of Lake Charlevoix, Round Lake, Pine river Channel and from the village of Norwood to the Penn Dixie Cement plant located south of Petoskey. Shore line and pier fishing approved. Roves and streams are not considered legal fishing waters. (See map for lake Michigan boundary lines.)

10. All fish must be weighed in at the official weigh-in station located in East Park, downtown Charlevoix.

11. Award ceremony starts at 1:00 p.m. Sun. must be present to win grand prize drawing.

12. Registration fee for the Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. will be $20.00 per adult and $5.00 for 14 and under. Each registered entrant will receive a hat, Stinger lure and one chance in the Grand Prize Drawing.

13. Each registered person and registered witness entering a winning fish in the Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. will be subject to a polygraph (lie detector) test if determined necessary by the judges. If either fails the test, he agrees to pay for the test.

14. CANCELLATION: The Charlevoix Trout Tournament, Inc. committee may cancel the tournament for any reason. Safe boating conduct must be practiced throughout the tournament. Announcement will be made at 10:00 and 10:30 a.m. over radio station W-AIR 92.5, Marine Channel 70 and also CB channel four opening morning of the tournament.

15. Any contestant wishing to officially protest the conduct or score of another's entrant must do so on or before 12:30 Sunday, June 10th. The decision of tournament directors is final.

16. All fish registered must be a minimum of 18" SIZE LIMIT.

ENTRANTS WILL BE DISQUALIFIED FOR THE FOLLOWING REASONS:

1. Passing objects from boat to boat.
2. Not having everyone on board registered.
3. Fishing alone - must have registered witness on boat or on shore.
4. Registering fish containing foreign matter, or a fish that has been frozen.

5. Being cited by a peace officer for any fishing violation.

6. Not abiding by all the rules of the tournament.

The board of directors further suggest entrants be courteous to other anglers. i.e. Keep safe distance from other boats. The use of planer boards is discouraged.

BONUS PRIZES

Largest fish of the tournament mounted by Jeff Lutz of LASTING MEMORIES. Special $1,000 Bond if largest fish of tournament is caught on a Stinger lure.

1st Place Lake Trout will be awarded the Rex Blanchard Memorial Trophy.

There will be a port prize for the largest entry of each day.

* The city has waived the launch fee during tournament hours.

* Award ceremony to start at 1:00 p.m. in East Park on Sunday, June 10th.

* Must be present to win grand prizes!

* You are responsible for reading your rules thoroughly.

Fishing is something family can share

Charlevoix Courier, Wednesday, June 6, 1990—PAGE 3

Three Charlevoix Area Trout Tournament veterans will be aboard the good ship "High Bid" when she takes to the seas this weekend. Dr. or in this case Captain Dr. Tom Schaperkötter will be joined by his able crew of nine-year-old son Todd and seven-year-old daughter Abby.

Counting this year's tournament, the three fishermen... (Oops, pardon us Abby) fisherpeople share a combined 10 years of Charlevoix Trout Tournament experience. Tom and Todd will be fishing in their fourth tournament. Abby, her second.

While her family rises early and takes to the sea, Kris Schaperkötter will stay ashore and maintain the homefront. Shortly before her family returns, she will take out a frying pan. Although the frying pan will be one perfectly suited for preparing fresh trout, Kris Schaperkötter expects to be frying up hamburgers. She's seen the results of this crew's past fishing trips.

Fishermen, as a lot, are known for telling big tales and spinning long yarns. Todd Schaperkötter, on the other hand, gets right to the point.

"We've never caught anything in the tournament," he says.

Todd casts an accusing look in the direction of the captain, who is quietly smiling and pulling a lure out of the tackle box.

Asked how it is to launch a boat and fish with his crew, the captain replies, "With the two kids, it's a challenge."

"You don't see too many kids, surprisingly. I would think there would be more."

Trout Tournament organizers try to encourage young people to enter by keeping the entry fee low ($5) for people 14 and under.

"I just think it's really a good idea that they include a few more kids," Dr. Schaperkötter says.

Schaperkötter's boat, the "High Bid" has its roots in the Trout Tournament. It was the grand prize in the drawing at the first trout tournament. Schaperkötter didn't win it, a fisherman from Canada did. But the Canadian fisherman didn't want to take the boat back to Canada. So he took sealed bids in East Park. Schaperkötter submitted the "High Bid."

Dr. Schaperkötter hadn't done a lot of trout and salmon fishing before purchasing the boat, but now it's something he enjoys with his children.

The Schaperkötters will be on the water by 7 a.m. Saturday morning.

"We get up at maybe five," Abby explains.

Her father and older brother gasp and flash her a look that asks, who gets up that early?

"You wake me up," Abby concedes.

The Schaperkötters plan to stay on the water from about 7 a.m. until noon.

Asked what the best part of the tournament is, Todd answers, "If we ever catch a fish, probably that."

License fee waived for weekend

More than 65 fishing events are planned statewide during Michigan's Free Fishing Weekend, June 9-10, when Michigan residents and nonresidents can fish the state's inland and Great Lakes waters without a fishing license or trout/salmon stamp.

"These fishing events have become the cornerstone of this special weekend," said David Hales of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR). "Last year, fishing instruction and fishing conservation values were passed along to nearly 10,000 new anglers at 45 free fishing events—that's a great investment in the future of Michigan fishing."

"One hundred smiling kids faces is reward enough for hosting our annual free fishing clinic," said Bill Thompson of Port Huron Township. "We provide some basic fishing instruction, bait and tackle, some prizes, hot dogs and punch; the kids and parents love it!"

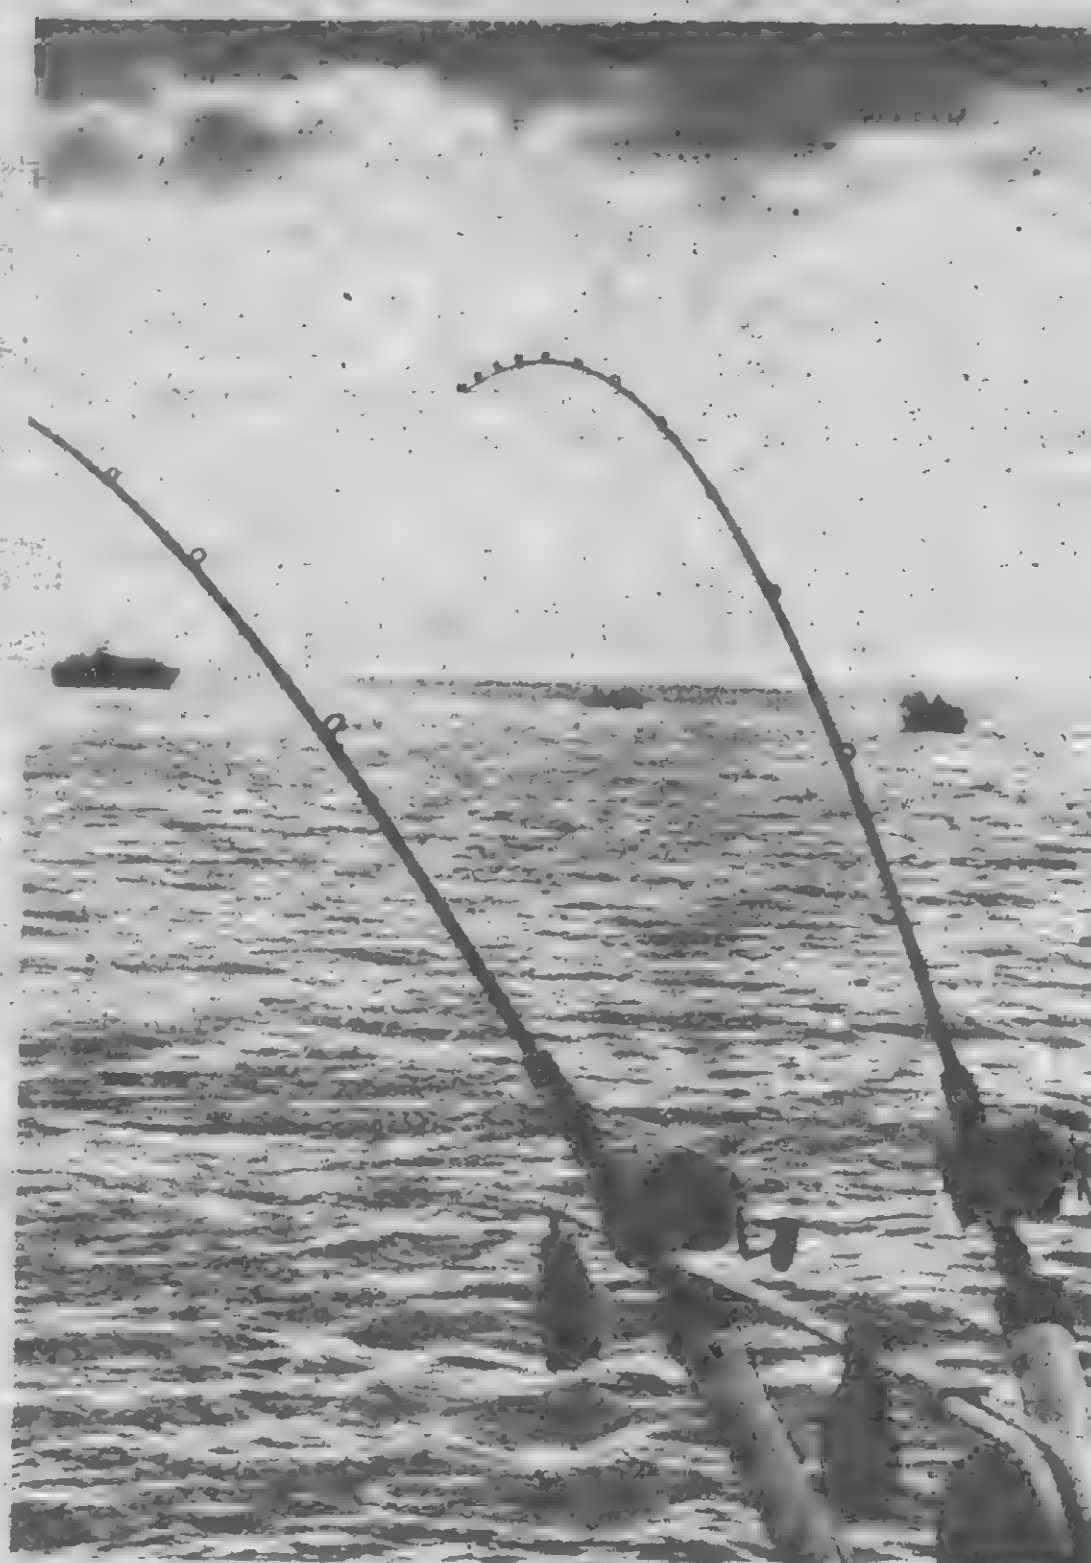

DNR statistics indicate more than two million anglers fish in Michigan annually. More than 50 game fish varieties, ranging in size from tiny sunfish to giant lake sturgeon, are available to anglers within the state's 38,000 miles of Great Lakes waters, 12,000 inland lakes and 36,000 miles of rivers, including 12,600 miles of trout waters.

For additional information on Michigan's Free Fishing Weekend, contact the DNR Fisheries Division at 517-373-1280, for an up-to-date report on Michigan fishing conditions and hot spots, call the DNR's 24-hour, recorded fishing hotline: 517-373-0908.

These fishermen challenge their sea-legs as they hop aboard their fishing boat.

The poles are set and waiting for a big fish, or any fish, to strike.

Anglers need to know the angles

Wash your hands well after applying insect repellent when fishing. Seems the chemical ingredients not only repel mosquitoes and gnats, they can repel fish from your plug or spinner as well. They may also weaken your fishing line.

Speaking of line, try to store it in a dark place during the off-season. Exposure to sunlight over time can dramatically weaken monofilament line. In fact, some anglers like to wrap spooled line in aluminum foil to cut down the harmful effect of ultraviolet rays.

Don't toss your used fishing line onto the shore or into the water where it can be a hazard to birds, animals and outboard motor props. Treat old line as litter and dispose of it properly.

Under high-glare conditions, it's often difficult to see a white or brightly colored bobber. Spray a couple black and use them at those times you need heightened contrast because of the glare.

A plastic gallon-size bleach jug makes an excellent boat bailer. Simply cut out the bottom leaving the cap in place. It can also serve as a handy funnel by removing the cap.

Successful live bait anglers know fresh bait attracts fish best. Soon as your bait begins to lose its spunk, replace it.

When approaching a prime fishing spot, cut your outboard motor well away from the spot and drift in or use a small electric motor. Bass and other sport species spook easily and a noisy approach may just scare 'em off.

And while we're talking of not scoring the fish, anchors should always be handled carefully and not allowed to band on the boat bottom or against the gunwale. Try to make as little noise as possible with the anchor and never abruptly drop it into the water. Instead ease it down so that the anchor creates a minimum of disturbance.

Sharp hooks catch more fish. Experienced anglers carry a small hook sharpener with them so that they can keep their hooks that way.

Another tip having to do with hooks is to avoid placing wet ones in your tackle box. Damp hooks will eventually rust and need to be replaced.

Carry worms and nightcrawlers safely and neatly in a plastic margarine container. A bedding of wet peat moss will help to keep the bait lively. Be sure to puncture the lid for ventilation. If you accidentally drip the container into the water, it'll float.

Always face into the sun when casting for bass. The reason? Even more so than most fish, bass are very shadow conscious and will often spook when a shadow falls on the water above them.

To keep minnows alive when you're traveling, try taking a bicycle pump along with you. Every so often, place its hose in your bait bucket and pump a few times to replenish the water's oxygen supply.

Need a ruler, but forget to bring one with you on your fishing trip? No problem. If you have a dollar in your wallet, you'll be prepared just the same. A bill measures just over six inches in length.

Your local conservation officer can be a wonderful source of up-to-date fishing information. He or she is on the water nearly every summer day and knows local angling conditions firsthand.

In muddy or stained water, try fishing when the sun is bright. The visibility in such waters is quite limited and the sun can't penetrate further when the top couple of feet or so making them oxygen-rich. There's where you'll find bass, even in the middle of the day.

However, big bluegills are more apt to be on their spawning beds overcast days than on sunny ones. Successful 'gill fishing seems to relate to the amount of sunshine with the least success coming on the brightest days.

Scraps of carpet glued to the bottom of waders or hip boots will help to keep you from slipping when wading rivers and streams.

One way to prevent squeaky carlocks from scaring off the fish is to wrap the pins in plastic sandwich bags. You'll then row in silence.

Always try to net a fish head first. If you do, the fish can't jump out and any wiggling motion the fish makes will only drive it deeper into the net.

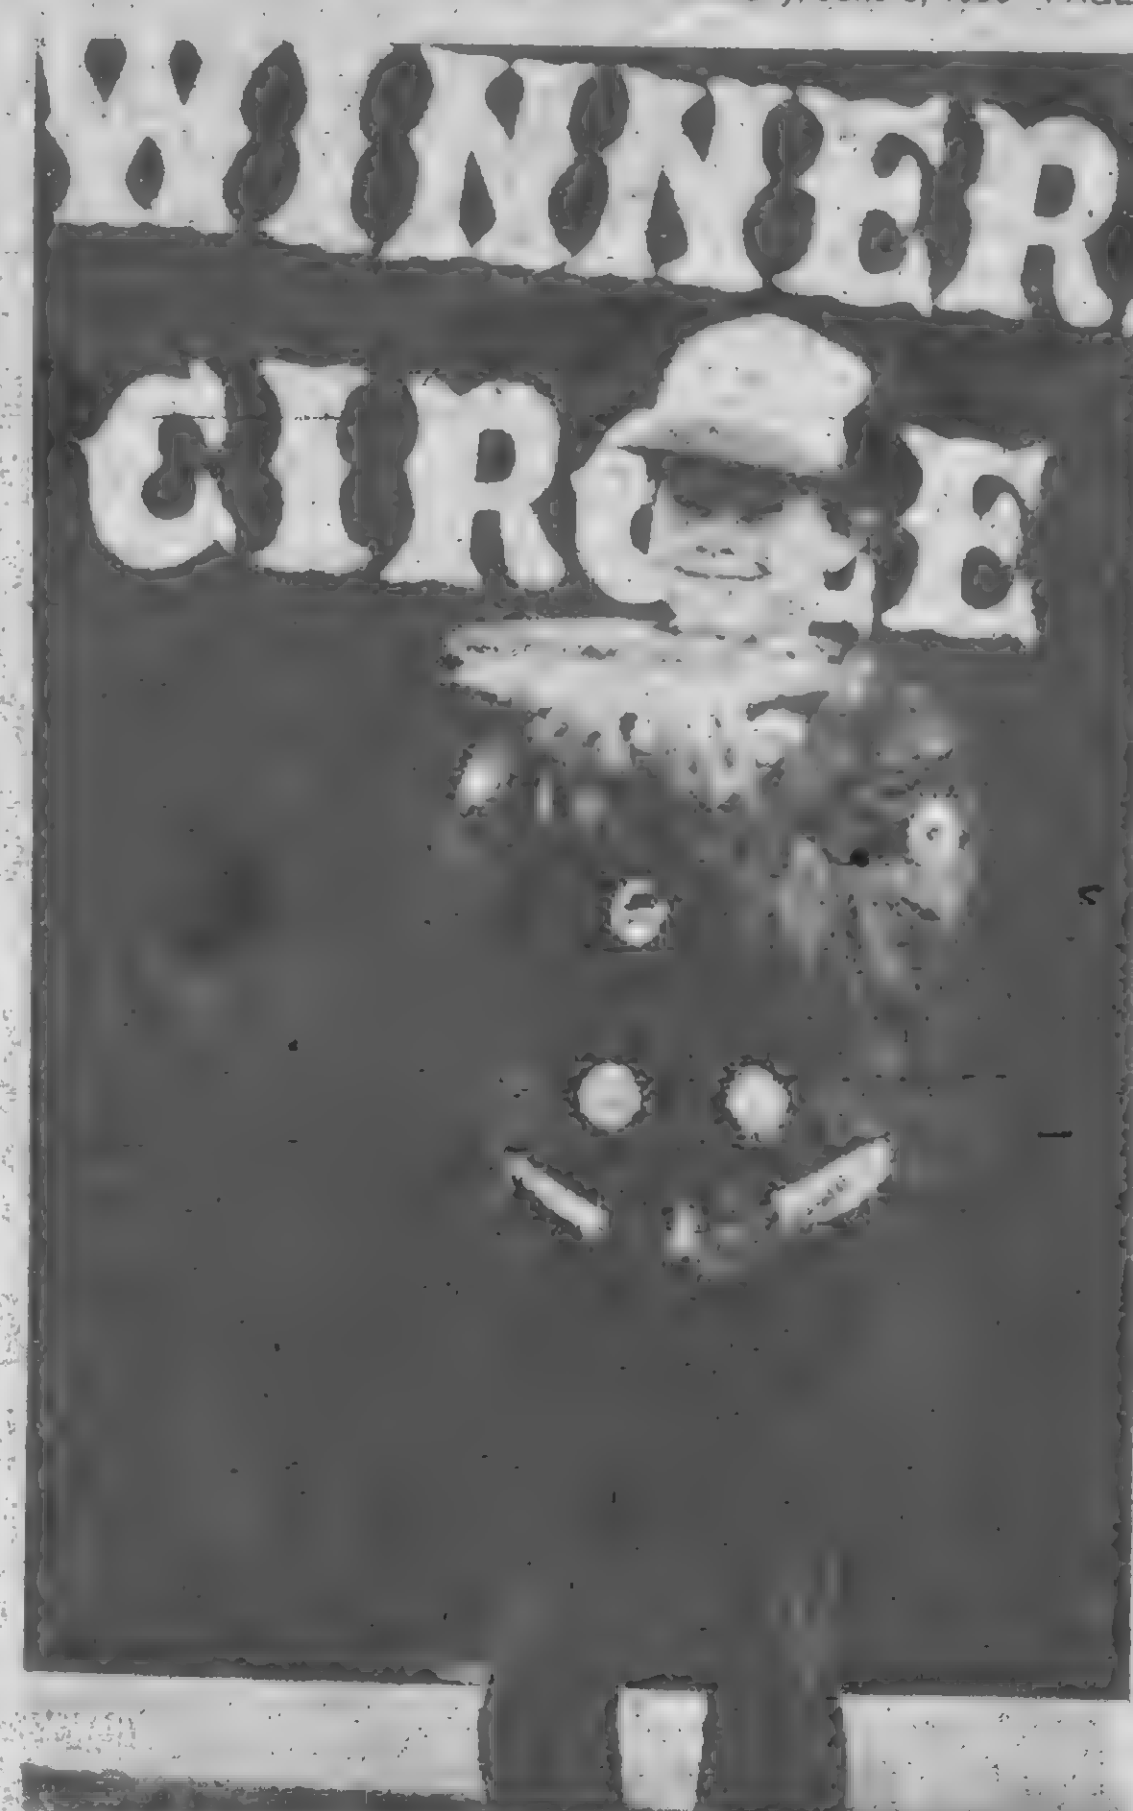

Should you see a fish feeding on the surface, don't cast directly to that spot. You might just scare it away. Instead, cast your line above the fish's feeding spot and let the current naturally "float" your offering to it.

Empty plastic pill bottles make excellent containers for hooks, sinkers, lures and other small items. They pack neatly and safely in your tackle box or pocket.

Fish have a keen sense of smell. Always be sure to wash away tell-tale odors from your hands before handling line or lures.

More hatches of aquatic insects take place near dusk than at any other time of day. This fact makes the hours just before and after sunset many anglers' favorites.

A piece of carpeting or rubber

It's not necessarily the size of the fish, but how much fun a person has catching it which is the important thing.

mat placed in the bottom of your boat will help deaden sounds that might frighten the fish. The mat or carpeting can be easily removed and shook out after each trip.

Somebody cast a $163,000 vote

One millage proposal squeaked past by a vote, a second proposal got clobbered and three school board members were elected by voters in Monday's school election.

A proposal to override the Headlee Amendment passed by one vote, 592-591. The override means the school will receive approximately $163,000 more in the coming year than it would have if the proposal failed.

The Headlee Amendment, passed by Michigan voters in 1978, forces schools to roll back millage levies if tax revenues increase more than the rate of inflation because of increased property assessments. Overriding the Headlee Amendment means the school will not have to roll back the millage levy.

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of a property's assessed value. The millage proposal which failed asked for .9 of a mill for operational expenses and to buy additional computer equipment. Voters rejected the proposal by 160 votes, 663 to 503.

Had the proposal passed, the school would have received approximately $203,000 more in tax revenue in the coming year. Prior to the election, information from the school emphasized that the money was for computer purchases, although nothing in the millage proposal locked the school into spending a specific percentage of the funds on computers. Prior to the election school superintendent Gordon VanWieren estimated that about half of the money would have been spent on computers and the remainder on other school costs.

Incumbents Scott Beatty and Ardeth Wieland were reelected to four-year board terms. Beatty received 861 votes, Wieland 787 and a third candidate Steve Smith received 400. Ben Cunningham defeated Mike Greeley for a one-year term. Cunningham received 754 votes while Greeley received 337.

These two youngsters weren't sure what to think of the fish at the Sixth Annual Charlevoix Trout Tournament this weekend. More than 700 fishermen competed in the tournament. (See story and photos on pages 10 and 11. Photos courtesy of Trout Tournament Board.)

Council backs away from legal action on rails

By L. Scott Swanson

Since legal action against the state appears to be an expensive waste of time, the city council will use other means to get answers about rails between Charlevoix and Petoskey. State representative Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon, and an official of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) will be at the Charlevoix City Council's June 18 meeting to answer questions and clarify the state's position on the removal of the rails.

At a special council meeting June 7, city attorney Jim Young told the council that taking legal action against the state would be an "iffy" proposition. He said the city might be able to get a court to rule that the state violated some procedural requirement in deciding to tear up the rails, but then the state could just go through the process again and correct the error. Then the tracks would still be torn up.

"You can win the battle and spend a lot of money and not win the war," Young told the council.

Young said the city could easily sink $20,000 to $30,000 into litigation.

He did outline alternatives and other questions which the city might pose to the state. Those questions are:

- the possibility of removing the rails, but landbanking the rail corridor for a recreational trail and the possibility of future rail service;

- the question of where a recreational trail will be located (i.e. predominantly along the rail corridor or predominantly along the shoulder of U.S. 31);

- the possibility of removing the rails and then having the state acquire the railroad corridor property for a recreational trail through condemnation?

Mayor Gary Probert and third ward council representative Pat Gaskin are serving on a committee which has been established to create a recreational trail between Charlevoix and Petoskey. The state established the committee earlier this year in conjunction with voting to remove the rails.

When the committee was established, indications were that the trail would be mainly on the railroad corridor. Now, it appears that most of the trail will be on the shoulder of the road. The state has ownership of only 15 of 83 parcels of property the railroad crosses. There are only easements for a railroad across the other parcels of property.

Probert said a trail by the road is not as desirable and that he believes there will be a time, perhaps as much as 30 to 40 years into the future, when some form of train service between Charlevoix and Petoskey will be needed.

Gaskin said she doesn't want to continue serving on the trail committee if the concept of creating a viable recreational trail is just an illusion.

"I can appreciate the costliness of a legal situation," she said. "I am not necessarily promoting that."

But she said she wants information from the state, not an illusion. She said she is comfortable waiting until June 18 to hear what Ostling and the MDOT official have to say.

City works on traffic problem

By L. Scott Swanson
While local drivers polish up their use of profanity, city officials have taken other steps to relieve downtown traffic congestion.
At a recent council meeting, police chief Dennis Halverson told the council of three steps the city has taken.
Beginning this summer, the bridge will open only on the hour and half-hour between 6 p.m. and 10 p.m. rather than on demand as it has in the past.
The city coordinated two other traffic changes with last fall's sidewalk construction. First, the city rearranged some parking spaces on Bridge Street and sidestreets to improve the sightlines at downtown intersections. The city also improved the turning radii at downtown intersections.
Halverson said these two improvements will allow people to make turns on to, and off of, Bridge Street with less waiting and traffic tie-up.

In an intersection, by intersection breakdown, Halverson said the Bridge Street and Clinton Street intersection is the town's busiest, but corrections have been made to improve traffic flow there. A few years ago the city removed parking from the south side of Clinton Street near the intersection to create a right turn lane.
The Park Avenue and Bridge Street intersection is the town's second busiest. The city discussed putting a left-hand turn lane on Bridge near the Park and Bridge intersection, but the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) wouldn't go for the plan. Halverson said MDOT felt the left turn lane would be too short and there isn't enough area for a suitable approach.

Traffic surveys indicated that during the summer one of every four vehicles southbound on Bridge Street turns right onto Park Avenue.
Three times as many cars turn right onto Park Avenue as compared to Mason or Antrim Streets. The traffic survey also indicated that during the summer few cars try to turn, particularly to the left, from Mason or Antrim Streets on to Bridge Street.
MDOT did an extensive study of Charlevoix's downtown traffic in 1987 and issued a report suggesting five possible changes. All five changes recommended removing parking from either one or both sides of Bridge Street and the city wasn't willing to do that. Instead, the city has reduced evening bridge openings and improved intersections.

City band continues a Charlevoix tradition

By PEG OHLE
When Terry Isenbarger conducts the Charlevoix City Band in its first concert of the season in July, he will be continuing a tradition of local band performances dating back more than 60 years.
Before his death in 1985, Pat Moran recorded some of his memories of what he called the "Old City Band" and its musical travels over a long period of time. He also included the minutes of an organizational meeting, which took place Aug. 10, 1939, listing the first officers of the band organization.
This was apparently a reorganization of the band because the accompanying band picture dates back to 1927 or 1928.
While the present City Band concentrates on its weekly evening performances in the park, the band of Moran's memories was a traveling group which seems to have had the slogan, "Have instruments, will travel".
Moran's notes indicate the band "Traveled all over the north—Mio, Gaylord, Grayling, East Jordan, Fair, Ellsworth, Central Lake, Petoskey, Boyne City—dedicated the Eastport Fire Department big holiday."

In Charlevoix, the Old City Band made regular appearances at the Charlevoix Beach Hotel, the Charlevoix Inn, Hooker's Riding Academy, and at various outdoor locations. Among the latter, Moran remembered playing at the Lake Michigan Park, at the corner of Mason and State Streets, at Memorial Park, and at Belvedere and Bridge Streets, where the Chamber of Commerce building now stands.
Moran called this location "Our first real Band Stand."
The Band also played in Fourth of July parades and even in the Polar Bear Parade, held during the winter months.
One memorable occasion was the time the Old City Band greeted the S. S. North American as it docked in Charlevoix, then went aboard to entertain passengers as the only water on odd-numbered dates. The restrictions will be in effect until Sept. 1.

The water plant takes in water through a pipe and filter bed in Lake Michigan. On some windy days, when the water is rough, the filter bed clogs up. There have been certain days when the plant has not been able to produce water as fast as the city uses it. Fortunately, plant tanks and the water tower held enough water in reserve to get the city through until usage decreased and the filter bed unclogged.
Fixing the problem is expected to cost approximately $300,000. The city and Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) are currently debating who is going to fund the repair. The city contends that the problem is a design problem and the intake was designed by the EPA. The EPA argues that the problem is operational and the city is responsible for operations.

The city and Charlevoix Township, which also has a water system, recently negotiated an agreement to share water if either system has an emergency shortage.

This picture of the Charlevoix City Band, taken in 1927 or 1928, shows a military-sharp looking group of men, many of whom were active in other Charlevoix activities. Warren Shapton furnished the photo with band members identified as follows: (Front row from left) Floyd Webster, Ted Miller, Chuck Novotny, Albert Novotny, Merritt Miller, Saunders, Bill Brown and Floyd King. (Middle row) Warren Shapton, Rex Supernaw, Glen Heise, John Terwee, Bud Winnick, Ilo Helms, Charles Krulik and Franklin Ross. (Back row) Lee Shapton, Bill O'Neill, Carl Beattie, Charley Blaha and Charley Starrett.

Band were many of the same men who are remembered for other contributions to the City of Charlevoix.
In today's busy world, Band members are not so easily found.

FAMILY

Durance recalls strawberries

by GEOFF REYNOLDS

The summer season has finally arrived in Charlevoix. This is true because one of Charlevoix's oldest residents, Frances Durance, has returned from sunny Florida to her family's homestead on Waller Road. Although a little late in arriving to her farm, she is ready for the sun to brighten her home as it has so many summers past.

"My parents moved our family to the corner of Mercer Blvd. and Waller Road in 1889. With us came the house we lived in, which used to be located on Mercer and U.S. 31. The original house was quite small so after we moved it to this spot, we had Johnny Curtis build on the large part of the house. When we had Alvin Stover do the inside and finish work, like the trim and cabinets.

"We also had the barn built about 1909. Ernest Peaselee did the stone mason work, and then Tommy Russell built the top part for us.

"After we had settled on Waller we began farming and raising strawberries. We raised about two acres a year. One acre was for strawberry plants that were going to bear the following year. With those we just picked off the blossoms during the growing season so they wouldn't bear any berries and stunt next year's crop. The second acre was used for growing berries for that season.

"My dad would hire the local neighbor kids, mainly the Reynolds' kids, Doug, Don and little Betty. They would work two or three hours, five or six days a week. They usually started about daylight. We raised berries like this for about forty years.

Frances Durance is featured in this week's Charlevoix Memories. She recalls growing strawberries on her parents farm near Mercer and Waller Road.

Charlevoix Memories

"After we had the berries picked my father and brother, Alvin, peddled them on the resorts or sold them to the stores downtown. Later, we sold most of the berries to the stores or let people come and pick the berries themselves, and then pay us.

"When we first moved to this corner the only neighbors we had were the Reynolds' and the Boulder Farm across the street. The Wilson sisters, from one of the resorts, bought the property where the Carr's now live. The sisters usually hired someone to run the farm in the summer to raise vegetables to sell to the resorts and some of the stores downtown. They built a house for the hired hand and his family to live in when they bought the land. It is part of the large house that sits there now. Other than those families, it was quite quiet around here. It is a little busier now, but I still love living here on my family's land."

Family and friends of Huldah Cross joined her at her home recently to celebrate her 90th birthday, Friday, May 25. Cross is the widow of John H. Cross Sr., founder of John Cross Fisheries. She is the mother of John Cross Jr., Carol Stephan and Jill Picha. She has 10 grandchildren and four great grandchildren. Cross owned and operated the Nautical Restaurant in Charlevoix for several years.

Lucille Robbins

Lucille Robbins, 79, of Charlevoix, died June 5, 1990, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility, East Jordan.

Graveside service was 10 a.m. Friday, June 8, at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix. The Rev. Benton Heisler of the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix officiated.

The former Lucille Hendrickson was born March 30, 1911, in Manistee, the daughter of Robert and Olga (Camillo) Hendrickson. She grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1929. She spent most of her adult life in the Grand Rapids area, returning to Charlevoix 10 years ago.

Mrs. Robbins was a licensed practical nurse and had worked at St. Mary's Hospital in Grand Rapids. During her nursing career, she had also worked as a private nurse in doctors' offices.

She married E.L. (Jack) Robbins on May 4, 1962, and he preceded her in death in February, 1983.

Mrs. Robbins attended the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix and was an honorary life member of the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Survivors include two daughters, Sally Balcer of Grand Rapids and Gaye Scott of Auburn, Ala.; one stepdaughter, Chera Polyzaj of Grand Rapids; nine grandchildren; nine great-grandchildren; one sister, Luella Wlodkowski of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the Grandvue Medical Care Facility or the Charlevoix County Humane Society.

Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix.

Marion students to reunite

The school building has been turned into a residence, but the old Marion Center School on Marion Center Road harbors many happy memories for its former students.

Everyone who ever attended Marion Center School is invited to bring those memories with them to a school reunion and picnic to be held Saturday, July 7, at 14438 Ferry Road, the home of Darlene Hisey, who attended Marion Center School as Darlene Williams.

It was Darlene's grandfather who purchased an acre of land adjacent to the school house to provide a playground for the children. The previous owner of the property would not permit its use.

There was a similar reunion of former Marion Center School students two years ago. Twenty-three attended that reunion, including the hostess for this year's picnic.

Society plans book

The Charlevoix Historical Society is compiling a Historical Guide Book of the Charlevoix area to commemorate the 100th anniversary of the Marsha House in 1991.

The Guide Book will contain a numbered centerfold map indicating the historical sites of Charlevoix and surrounding area, with suggested walking and driving tours.

Anyone who can offer assistance with this project will be welcome to do so.

McCune to host summer plays

Central Michigan University opens its summer theater season in Petoskey July 4-7 with performances of A.R. Gurney Jr.'s 1981 play "The Dining Room." All shows begin at 8 p.m. at the Virginia M. McCune Community Arts Center.

Director Timothy D. Connors said the play is set in the dining room of an upper middle class family. Cast members show the room evolving from its early role in family forums to its current function as a snackshop, Connors said. Each actor in the play portrays 10 or 11 characters whose age range from 7 to 70, he added.

"Parts of it are funny, while other parts are moving," Connors said. "It's bittersweet." University Theater members also will perform "I Ought to Be in Pictures" by Neil Simon July 11, 13, 19, and 21 and Leonard Gershe's "Butterflies Are Free" July 12, 14, 18 and 20. Admission is $7 for the general public and $8 for students and senior citizens. For ticket availability, phone (616) 347-6647.

SPORTS

Two teams shut out

Although slow pitch softball is normally considered a hitters' game, there were two shutouts in Charlevoix slow pitch action Monday night.

Quality Limo-Ironworks blanked Charlevoix Assembly of God 18-0. The Limo-Works troops had 22 hits, including two home runs by Scott Morgan. Dave Cole got the pitching win.

Paul Bunyan Lanes came up empty in a 12-0 loss to Charlevoix Cinema. Brian Wilmot had two home runs among 17 Cinema hits. Dave Novotny was the winning pitcher.

In the only game of the evening where one team didn't hog all of the runs, Pine Hill Nursery snuck past Bay Shore Steel 10-8. Eric Tow homered for Pine Hill while Chris Havens and Jim Melke homered for Bay Shore Steel.

Women's play opened June 7 with three games.

Venture Video beat Nanny's

Restaurant 17-4 with Pam Cashen, Teri Wilson and Teri Steffens each collecting three hits for the winners. Paula Fralick got the pitching win.

In a south-county battle, Tapawingo-Romas-Rocky Top Farm got the best of Arnold's of East Jordan 3-2. Tammy Allen led the T.R.R. team with three hits. Pam Ellison was the winning pitcher.

Investment Management and Research beat Townhouse 16-6. The winners had 21 hits, including three hits and a home run by Teresa Noiro.

The women's schedule for Thursday, June 14 is: Nanny's plays Townhouse at 6:30; Investment plays Wojan Aluminum at 7:45; T.R.R. plays Kwikie Duplicating at 9 p.m.

In men's play Monday, June 18: Paul Bunyan plays Assembly of God at 6:30; Cinema III plays Townhouse at 7:45; and Pine Hill plays Limo-Ironworks at 9 p.m.

Major team wins

Charlevoix's Michigan Officeways edged East Jordan Pharmacy 5-4 in a Senior Division Little League game that went right down to the final play Monday.

For Charlevoix, the winning pitchers were Brandon Webb, Josh Scheels and Don Jess, combining on a four-hitter with six strikeouts and eight walks. Jess and Justin Gengle had two hits and Jeremy Boss, David Skeel and Scheels all singled. For East Jordan, Tom Reed Jr. pitched five plus innings, allowing four hits, walking two and striking out seven while Scott Chanda pitched one inning plus, allowing one hit and walking one. For East Jordan, Wayne Hart had two hits and Mike Noiro and Chanda one.

Coaches Mike Reed Sr. of East Jordan and Larry Porath of Charlevoix commended both teams for a good game.

On Friday, Officeways beat East Jordan Plastics 7-4 with Jess the winning pitcher and Brent Leach the loser. For Officeways, Skeel and Gengle had three hits and Jess one.

Little League

Legion-Oleson's beat Lions, 13-12, in seven innings Monday in Charlevoix Little League Major-League action.

Mark Bosa was the losing pitcher and had four singles, also for Lions. Steve Spiegel and Chris Mikulski had two hits and Brad William had two singles and a double and two home runs, including one in the seventh inning that won the game.

Adam Dobrowski had two singles while Craig Swanson, Dan Pardee, Jason Smith and Shay Arnold added singles for the winners.

Trout Tournament runs like clockwork

The fish bit, the weather held and everything went smoothly at the 6th Annual Charlevoix Trout Tournament this past weekend.

"I think this was our smoothest year. We just didn't have any problems," Sherry Withers, secretary-treasurer for the tournament board.

The 716 fishermen in the tournament brought in 111 fish and collected thousands of dollars in prize money. Brown trout and lake trout accounted for the majority of the fish with 15 steelhead and one salmon thrown in.

Of the 716 entrants, 80 were kids under 14 years old. The 716 entrants were the second highest number in tournament history.

Tournament board members offered special thanks for the seven sponsoring companies who make the tournament possible. They are: Walstrom Marine; Grand Bay Marine; Dillworth Boat Shop; Charlevoix Visitors and Convention Bureau; Belling Marine Service; W-AIR 92.5 FM; Stinger Lure-Advance Tackle.

Top fishermen in the various divisions were:

SALMON - Claudia Thomas, Edenville, 5 lb. 15 oz.

Friday port prize winner - Dan Millward.

Saturday port prize winner - Jerry Glaser.

Sunday port prize winner - David Cole.

In tournament drawings, Bob Hater of Charlevoix won two airline tickets to anywhere in the continental United States donated by Passageways and Travel Kiosk while George Rowe of Charlevoix won an inflatable raft from Walstrom Marine.

This year's trout tournament also had a food trailer in the park. Withers said that went well and will be continued in subsequent years. Food for the trailer was donated by Glen's Markets, Dawn Donuts, the Breadbox Bakery, Cinema III, Coke, Pepsi, Frito Lay and Tom's Mom's Cookies.

Margaret Merchun (left) is holding a Whitewater Kayak while Gerry Brindel holds a Sea Kayak. These and other kayaks may be seen at Great Lakes Kayak.

Kayak shop opens

By PEG OHLE

The lakes and streams of northern Michigan may soon be host to many more kayaks.

Several makes of this watercraft are now being sold in Charlevoix by the Great Lakes Kayak Company. Proprietors Gerry Brindel and Margaret Merchun, both experienced kayakers, are available for demonstrations, boat trials, and information about kayaks and how they can be used locally.

They are selling two basically different types of kayaks: Sea Kayaks, which they call excellent watercraft for both inland lakes and the Great Lakes, and Whitewater Kayaks, which are designed for maneuverability in streams ("can turn on a dime") and which are also good for Great Lakes surfing.

It is believed kayaks were first made by Arctic Eskimos. They are a canoe-like structure made of a frame covered with fiberglass or plastic or another lightweight material. The original Eskimo models were covered with animal skins.

Unlike canoes, kayaks are propelled by a double-bladed paddle, which makes them more efficient—they can go faster with less effort. There are kayaks for one person or two persons, called "solo" or "tandem" and each one has a "cockpit" which can be used to transport a small child, a dog, or just gear.

Merchun says she fell in love with kayaks while paddling in the Jordan River. "It was so quiet and peaceful," she recalls. And as a teacher of mentally handicapped children, that kind of solitude is a welcome relief.

Merchun also appreciates the lightness of kayaks. "I needed a craft I could put on and take off the car by myself," she explained. Her first kayak weighed only 33 pounds.

Some people use kayaks for leisurely touring along the lake shores and others use them as an exercise machine to develop their upper extremities.

In some ways, kayaks are safer watercraft than canoes, Merchun pointed out. Expedition-fitted sea kayaks have deck lines to help in getting in and out of the craft and also to help in taking persons or objects out of the water. Because a kayak rolls more easily than a canoe, in the case of capsizing, it is easier to climb back in. Also, since the deck of a kayak is enclosed, there is little chance of water getting into the boat, as sometimes happens with a canoe.

Besides kayaks, Great Lakes Kayak sells all types of "go with" accessories, including paddles, flotation and storage bags, instruction books, and a complete line of clothing. Brindel stresses that Great Lakes is devoted to kayaking and does not branch out into other types of sports equipment.

Sea Kayaks average $1,845 in price and Whitewater Kayaks average $685.

Great Lakes is located at 11723 Boyne City Road, Charlevoix, phone 547-4888. Brindel and Merchun are eager to explain the fun of kayaking to all who ask.

Glass shop hosts open house

Studio One Art Glass will host a Grand Opening June 14-16. There will be a drawing for a hand-crafted clock at 4 p.m., June 16. Studio One is located in the Edgewater Inn.

Studio One is owned by Kim P. Kostuch. Kostuch also owns four shops in Wisconsin, in the communities of Egg Harbor, Sister Bay, Greenfield and South Milwaukee. The Charlevoix store is his first in Michigan.

Kostuch began the business as a basement enterprise in the '70s. He began by marketing hand-crafted window panels, sun catchers and other stained glass items. Today several stain glass artisans are employed by Studio One creating products which are distributed through both wholesale and retail marketing.

Citizens group changes name

The Charlevoix Concerned Citizens group has changed its name to PEARLS, an acronym for People Encouraging A Responsible Life-Style.

The group formed in 1989 with the purpose of serving as a catalyst in the community to get youth and parents to work toward decreasing alcohol and drug abuse by young people.

Thusfar, PEARLS has sponsored a two-day seminar in February of 1989, sent a person to a five-day training session to learn how to organize and lead student support groups, and worked with senior class parents in organizing the post-graduation party.

PEARLS meets at 7:30 p.m. on the third Thursday of every month in the high school study hall. The meetings are informational and usually feature a guest speaker. The public is welcome to attend.

Officers of the group are: Benton Heisler, president; Debbie Bellinger, vice president; Toni Felter, treasurer; Carol Havens, secretary.

FOR ONCE, ENTERING A GAME IS THE SENSIBLE WAY TO MAKE MONEY.

Who doesn't feel like having a little fun with their money now and then? But for the most part, a game isn't thought to be a smart money management tactic.

That is, unless the game is like the First of America Great Rate Sweepstakes that guarantees you'll win bonus interest on deposits. Up to one percent. And that's on selected savings products already offering competitive returns.

Come in between now and July 31 and get a game envelope. You'll win other great prizes and have a chance at the $25,000 Loan Pay-Off or Deposit Bonus Grand Prize.

So enter the Great Rate Sweepstakes. It may not be the only game in town. But it is one you can't lose.

Good News Again!

DID YOU KNOW?

That the IRS will allow 100% of your donation again for the year 1990!

Just file the itemized form to receive the 100% deduction.

So, why not avoid the hassle, time and expense of yard, garage and moving sales.

Just give the Rainbow Shoppe - sponsored by Charlevoix's churches a call and we'll pick up everything and give you a tax deduction slip for whatever value your sale would bring.

The Rainbow Shoppe is a Michigan non-profit corporation and proceeds go into the community for many needy projects.

Just phone 547-2815. We're open every day Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. year round. We'll pick up or you may drop off.

Pick ups in Charlevoix area only. Pick ups in other towns only before sales. We need clothing, household items, furniture and collectibles.

Parents help graduates party all night long

Parents of the senior class, with the help of PEARLS (formerly known as Charlevoix Concerned Citizens) and contributions from several local businesses and people threw a $6,000 all-night party for the 1990 graduates.

Although this was the first year for the party, 87 of 101 graduates showed up. Organizers hope to make the post-graduation party an annual event. They wanted the first party to be a success to set a tone for coming years. And that's what happened.

"The kids loved it," said Debbie Bellinger, one of the parents who organized the party. They're still talking about it. We're still getting phone calls from kids and parents."

The graduates weren't the only ones who enjoyed themselves. About 30 parents took shifts to chaperone the all-night party. Bellinger said that, far from being a hassle, the kids were fun to be with and some of the parents hated to see their chaperoning shift come to an end.

The party began at about 9 p.m. June 3 with a cruise and dance aboard the Beaver Islander. KHQ deejayed the dance which lasted until about midnight. The dance included food on the upper deck along with limbo and lip sync contests.

At midnight the party moved to Paul Bunyan Lanes and the Flight Deck. Party organizers credited John and Sherry Fiedorek, the owners of the complex, for really going the extra mile for the graduates. They donated their entire complex for the evening. In order to do so, they had to jump through a lot of legal hoops - removing all alcohol from the premises, covering all signs relating to alcohol and suspending their liquor license for 24 hours.

The party at the bowling alley lasted until 4 a.m. The graduates played Las Vegas type casino games, bowled and devoured pizza, pop and other food donated by local pizza establishments and other businesses.

At 3:15, auctioneer Carl Miller presided over an auction where plastic chips won at the casino games were used to bid for $100 bills and a multitude of other prizes.

At 4 a.m. the party moved to the Edgewater Inn for breakfast. Johanne's Bakery donated rolls and Buday Electronics brought in a big screen TV so the

City still wants rails preserved

By L. Scott Swanson

Representatives of the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) explained to Charlevoix's city council why MDOT wants to remove railroad tracks between Charlevoix and Petoskey, but they failed to convince the council that tearing up the tracks is the right thing to do.

At the end of a lengthy discussion at Monday evening's council meeting, councilmembers unanimously voted to request State Representative Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon, to ask the chairman of the House Subcommittee on Appropriations for Transportation to reopen the meeting which led to a decision to remove the tracks. Tuesday, subcommittee chairman Francis Spaniola agreed to reopen the meeting. Reopening the meeting may buy some time, but is no guarantee the decision will be changed.

Ostling attended the council meeting with Phil Kazmierski and Terry Elder of MDOT.

At the council meeting, Kazmierski listed MDOT's reasons for supporting removal of the tracks.

Of 72 parcels of land the railway crosses between Charlevoix and Petoskey, the state has clear title to only 15. The state holds only easements for rail lines on the remaining parcels.

There are major washouts on portions of the track between the two communities. In some places, tracks dangle in midair.

"You could not operate a train on that track today. It's just impossible," Kazmierski stated.

There is an unresolved lawsuit affecting a portion of City police train with new 9 mm guns

By L. Scott Swanson

City police officers shot approximately 6,000 rounds of ammunition and went through several hours of classwork in acquainting themselves with new 9 mm Sig Sauer handguns during a three-day gun training course last week.

Charlevoix police officers, like the Michigan State Police and other officers throughout Michigan, have traded in their old 38 caliber police revolvers for the 9 mm semi-automatics.

The 9 mm guns fire more rounds, are faster, lighter and offer more safety features than the old guns. The course, taught by State Police Trooper Mike Tilley, covered safety, technical and tactical aspects in using the gun.

From a safety standpoint, the 9 mm Sig Sauer has features which make it safer both for the officer and for the general public.

The most impressive aspect of the gun, from the officer's standpoint, is that it allows an officer to fire 46 shots without ever taking the gun off of the target. The gun holds one shell in the chamber, 15 in the clip and the officer carries two extra clips.

With the old revolvers an officer had six shots. Then he had to take the gun off target and reload. Although most officers carried speed loaders (a circular device so that all six shells could be loaded at once rather than one at a time) reloading was still awkward and potentially fatal when under fire.

With the 9 mm, an officer may shoot 16 shots, push a button to release the empty clip and put in a new clip without ever removing the gun from the

Charlevoix County Road Commission Engineer Fred Welch wants taxes raised.

Not all taxes, mind you, but the taxes on gasoline, which generate a large part of the Road Commission's operating funds.

"Let's look at it this way," Welch told the County Board of Commissioners last week. "If a person drives his car 10,000 miles in the course of a year and he gets 20 miles to a gallon of gas, he uses 500 gallons of gas a year."

"At the present 15 cents a gallon tax rate, that means he pays only $75 a year in gas taxes. That's not much for the use of our highways and roads for a whole year."

Welch may be the only person in Charlevoix County advocating an increase in any kind of taxes, but he sees an increase in the gas tax as the only way out for local road commissions striving to maintain roads and bridges through ice, snow and summer heat. Welch has been taking his message to whomever will listen—service clubs, chambers of commerce, government agencies, plain individuals.

Last year, Charlevoix County received $1,698,987 from the Michigan Transportation fund (derived from gas taxes and license plate fees); another $45,239 from the State Economic Development Fund; $104,388 from the Federal government for maintaining U.S. 31 and U.S. 131; $291,461 from local townships; and $318,929 from other sources, all adding up to $2,462,004.

These monies paid to maintain the 179 miles of primary roads and 543 miles of local roads the Road Commission is responsible for in Charlevoix County, and to construct new roads.

At the end of last year, the Road Commission had spent $2,478,796, resulting in a deficit of $16,792.

target. Clips can be changed almost in the blink of an eye.

The 9 mm also has a trigger mechanism to help prevent accidental shootings. In order to fire the first round, the officer has to apply 12 pounds of pressure to the trigger and draw the trigger back approximately an inch. That's substantially more pressure and a greater pull distance than is necessary with most guns. The first shot requires a very deliberate motion.

Subsequent shots require a much shorter trigger draw with much less pressure.

In order to go back to the initial trigger position, with the heavier pull requirement (called the decocked position), the officer must flip a lever with his thumb. One of the things Tilley taught Charlevoix officers during the course is that whenever the gun is taken off target, it is to be returned to the decocked position. That was drilled into the officers through repetition until it became habit.

Tilley, who is now out of the Petoskey post, but previously spent a year and a-half in Lansing teaching State Police how to use the 9 mm gun, noted that while it's important for police to be able to shoot criminals before criminals shoot them, it's just as important that police don't shoot someone who they don't want to shoot. Police are taught to decock the gun so they don't fire a shot and then begin pursuing a criminal only to end up mistakonly shooting an innocent person with a subsequent shot.

Tilley explained that the Sig Sauer is a German pistol. The state police tested seven pistols, before deciding upon the Sig Sauer. The gun has proven to be reliable and even carrying 16 rounds, it is lighter than a .38 caliber carrying six rounds.

City police chief Dennis Halverson said the six guns the department purchased cost $508 apiece, or $3048 total.

The classroom section of the course featured blown-up drawings of the different parts of the gun to give the officers a better idea of the gun's operational and maintenance requirements.

Techniques of shooting from behind cover while exposing only a minimal portion of your body were among the items covered in the tactical and skills portion of the course.

City police are also using the same holster system as state police and received training in how to efficiently draw and fire from the holster.

One of the requirements for passing the course was that the officer be able to draw and shoot a decapitating shot within two seconds. Charlevoix officers who took course all met that requirement. They were: Chief Halverson, Sergeant Dale Meredith, officer Gerard Doan, officer Pete Sheriff, officer Paul Ivan and auxiliary officer Mark Groenik.

Tilley said that according to federal statistics, the combatants in most gunfights are within eight feet of each other. The 9 mm are supposed to be reasonably accurate out to 50 yards. Officers train at distances of 15 yards.

City police officers practice shooting from the prone position during training last week. Officers shooting are: (from front to back) officer Scott Hankins, auxiliary officer Mark Groenik, Sgt. Dale Meredith and officer Paul Ivan. Standing is instructor Mike Tilley.

Officer Scott Hankins draws and shoots. In order to pass the handgun course, officers had to be able to draw and fire an incapacitating shot within two seconds. All Charlevoix officers passed.

Trooper Mike Tilley shows Courier editor L. Scott Swanson the proper shooting grip which officers were taught.

A headline in last week's Courier concerning a school election said, "Someone cast $163,000 vote." While the election issue in question had an effect of $163,000 for this year, next year it will be only $114,000.

OPINIONS

Letters to the Editor: Separate ballot issues

Charlevoix School Board:

Schools and government functions must be supported. But why, on such important issues as school millage and tax money, not legally entitled to, did you members find it necessary to lump them together? There were two clear cut and separate issues to be decided here and they should have been treated as such. The excuse given about not wanting to burden the taxpayers with another proposal isn't worth the space it took to explain. You members know this is true.

The legality of your actions, as the taxpayers understand, was covered by getting an affirmative opinion from some bureaucrat who just happens to be in the State Education System. How very convenient! He said it had never been done before but it would be legal. Legal, maybe, but was it honest?

Why didn't you members ask some of the taxpayers who elected you for their opinion concerning the legality of your proposal? Most taxpayers aren't college educated but they aren't stupid or ignorant either. They know enough to get jobs, pay taxes and support school systems. So tell it like it is. There are voters right today who aren't sure if they voted their choice because of the ambiguous and non-explicit terms of Proposal One. There should be truth in advertising for School Boards too.

There never was an election like this before and it's a lead pipe cinch there won't be another. As the man said, "You can't fool all the people all the time." What would have been the result if the proposal had been defeated? The taxpayers would have spent several more thousands of dollars unnecessarily on yet another election with different proposals. There must be a lesson for we taxpayers in here somewhere.

This rignazole called an election is reminiscent of the old Dalton Gang who came riding into Coffeyville, Kansas, with the express purpose of extracting funds from the good citizens of that community. They used bullets. They were shot down. Maybe they should have used ballots.

Apologies to any board members who didn't support this proposal.

Pool supported

Editor:

I read with interest Bernard Cannon's article on water temperatures at Charlevoix. This is not a recent innovation. In the early 1900's the Pere Marquette Railroad management, who owned and operated the Inn Hotel conducted such a survey. They proved that very few days during the summer were comfortable for swimming, so they constructed a Swimming Pool on the shores of Pine Lake (now Lake Charlevoix). The pool was a two story affair, with bathrooms and the pool on the first floor and a balcony for guests on the second floor and by the way swimming suits then covered the body from neck to ankle. REASONABLE TO ME

Bringing a ship to dock

I'm not sure who was at the helm of the Acacia as she drew up to the dock for last Friday's welcoming ceremony, but I've got to hand it to the guy, he did a fine job. He eased that 186-foot ship up next to the dock and didn't frighten a soul, much less crush a piling.

Having spent several summers while in high school and college working at the gas dock of a local boatyard, I have an appreciation for people who can dock a boat without creating a major threat to life and limb.

Granted, the Acacia had the advantage of a reserved parking space. Had this been a commercial gas dock rather than a U.S. Coast Guard operation, another 186-foot ship would have been coming from the other direction, racing the Acacia to the dock, playing the maritime version of "chicken."

And I enjoyed the way the Acacia got a line to shore and tied up the ship. The ship pulled slowly up next to the dock and came to a stop. A guy in a uniform walked out on deck, picked up an orange rubber ball with a line attached to it and gently tossed it down to another uniformed guy on land. The guy on land picked up the ball, pulled the line across and tied the ship to land.

Had this been a recreational docking, the process would have been completely different.

A middle-aged lady in a swimsuit would have pranced out on deck. Dancing precariously, as the boat surged forward, then backward, she would have picked up a coil of rope and started swinging it about her head like a drunken cowboy. Instead of a guy in uniform, the guy on the dock would have been a college kid wearing sunglasses to hide the skepticism in his eyes.

As the lady flailed with the coil of rope, she would call out to the guy on shore, "Are you ready? I'm going to throw you this line."

The guy on shore, having assumed the lady was preparing to throw the line and not just flailing it about to scare seagulls, would be ready.

The lady would then unleash a coiled-line equivalent of a Nolan Ryan fastball with the end of the line headed right for the center of the line catcher's nose.

At the last instant, the line catcher would realize that rather than being weighted by an orange rubber ball, the end of this line was weighted by a metal shackle or something equally lethal. He would tip his head to the side as the piece of metal whizzed past his ear. Then he would catch the line and bring the boat to the dock.

No doubt about it, the Coast Guard is one up on recreational boaters when it comes to getting a line to shore.

One thing disappointed me in watching the Acacia being docked. I think they had their knots pre-tied. Either that or there were loops spliced in the ends of the ropes. That's cheating. As much time as those Coast Guard guys spend around boats, they should all be able to tie knots.

I suspect the lines were pre-tied as a precaution against the inevitable embarrassment that would occur if a ship was at a big ceremony like the one last Friday and some young recruit forgot how to tie the right knot.

The poor guy would be standing on the dock and have to call to ship above, "Commander, Commander, Pardon me, but how do you tie that knot again. You know, that one where you end up with a loop in the end of the rope."

And the commander, all spiffy in dress uniform and standing in the midst of all the dignitaries, would have to pause from the ceremony and call down, "Now, darn it Ensign, I've told you this a thousand times. Take the rope in both hands and cross it to make a hole. Then the end of the rope is a rabbit. The rabbit comes out of the hole, goes around the tree and back in the hole. Now, remember that."

It just doesn't make for a pleasant scenario. No wonder, they have loops in the ends of the lines.

CLOCKWISE

Waiting on people

I had a telephone call the other day from a good friend who had a complaint to register about the salespeople in some Charlevoix shops.

My friend was looking for a particular kind of T-shirt and if you can't find the T-shirt you want in Charlevoix, something is wrong.

Charlevoix, as we all know, is the T-shirt Capital of the Civilized World.

However my caller couldn't find exactly what she wanted and ended up visiting five different T-shirt emporiums.

"The problem," she said, "was that no one would wait on me." "You have to be kidding," I said.

"I mean it," she answered. "The stores weren't crowded and there were plenty of sales clerks on the premises. But they all stayed in the back of the store talking to each other."

"No one offered to help me find what I was looking for," she said, "until I hit the fifth shop. There I met a nice lady who was very helpful."

While I pondered man's inhumanity to man, my friend said the clerks didn't appear to be rude—just disinterested in the business at hand.

"As I was about to leave one of the stores, a pretty little sales clerk called out, 'Have a nice day.'"

"I told her, 'I would have had a much nicer day if you had helped me find what I was looking for,'" my friend said.

Then she marched down the street to the next T-shirt shop with her pocketbook still bulging with greenbacks.

MY FRIEND'S complaint took me by surprise. I have always been rather enthusiastic about how Charlevoix's young people keep the old town humming during the summer—cooking, waiting on table, bus-ing tables, making beds, cleaning motel rooms, washing sheets, making fudge, doing yard work—and clerking in summer shops.

I began to wonder just how much training these kids get before they start their summer jobs.

Restaurants seem to be doing a top-notch job. I have never seen such prompt, courteous service anywhere. Our restaurants are manned by some real hustlers.

But sales clerks? Has anyone ever taken them aside and pointed out the direct connection between sales and jobs?

Has anyone ever told them how to sell? There is a knack to it, you know, and it's not something you pick up on the street.

Has anyone ever driven home the point that the success or failure of the business rests directly on the shoulders of that frail little lady pawing over a stack of T-shirts near the front door?

IT COULD BE that my friend just hit downtown on a bad day.

Then again, we may have a serious problem on our hands.

What bothers me about our large discount-type stores is the exact role the stock handlers in colorful smocks are supposed to play in the sales process.

Are they there to assist customers or are they supposed to stock shelves—period?

I think they should try to be helpful, since they are the only store personnel a customer encounters until he reaches the check-out counter.

But most of the stock clerks I have run into aren't helpful at all. Most of them try to ignore me.

"Pardon me, but could you tell me where I can find the flap-doodled film-flams," with the built-in grommet busters?" I ask.

"Sorry, we just sold the last one," the stock clerk advises me. "A man just drove in from Ellsworth and bought a gross of them. You should have been here 10 minutes earlier."

Guilt ridden, I wander off only to find a whole bin filled with flap-doodled film-flams, with built-in grommet busters, a few aisles away.

County considers 911 service

By PEG OHLE

Although Charlevoix County currently doesn't have 911 emergency services, county commissioners are considering it.

How does 911 service work? Pick up a telephone, dial 911, and tell the person at the other end of the line what kind of help you need.

Within seconds, a screen in front of the 911 operator will show the telephone number, name of subscriber, and address from which you are calling, as well as which police, fire, and emergency services agencies cover your area.

That, in a nutshell, is how Enhanced 911 works, according to Michigan Bell representative Jan Fater, who appeared before the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week.

"The basic problem in getting emergency help is that people have difficulty describing where they are and how to get there," Fater pointed out, adding that with all the information on the screen, help can be dispatched immediately.

However, installation of a 911 system takes planning and time and it is expensive, Fater acknowledged. "If Charlevoix County were to set up a 911 system, it would be responsible for all the costs associated with it. The only part of the system that is now in place is the telephone equipment," she explained.

Also, in Charlevoix County, the house numbering system must be completed and in use before a 911 system can be put to work.

There are grants available to help pay for 911 installations, but only after a preliminary plan has been developed and adopted. Asked for a ballpark figure, Fater estimated that the initial costs might run from $60,000 to $80,000, and another probably larger amount for special radio equipment. To this would be added regular maintenance costs and the salaries of two operators on a 24-hour basis.

By state law, the most a telephone subscriber can be charged for 911 service is 71 cents a month. However, if the cost of providing the service runs over that figure, the county must make up the difference.

In light of these costs, some northern Michigan counties are joining together to provide 911 service and share the costs. Since distance is no problem in electronic forwarding of information, messages from three or four counties can be handled in one central office, Fater reported.

Also, because about 85 percent of 911 calls are for police help, the Sheriff's Department is the operating center for 911 calls in most counties, she added.

Grand Traverse, Benzie, and Leelanau Counties have already agreed to join together in a 911 system, and it is expected Antrim County will also sign up with them.

Emmett County has been working on plans for a 911 system since last January under the direction of Emmet Emergency Services Director Lou Schomberger. He told the Charlevoix Commissioners how to take the preliminary steps to set up a 911 system and noted some of the problems he ran into.

Before the meeting was over, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners agreed to appoint a study coordinator, and it was also agreed to look into a possible union with Emmet, Cheboygan, and perhaps one or two counties to the east for joint 911 services.

FAMILY

Griffin-Mielke

Sarah & Stephen Mielke

Sarah Griffin and Stephen Mielke recently exchanged marriage vows at St. Mary Star of the Sea Church in Beverly, Massachusetts.

The Rev. Robert S. Bourcy officiated at the ceremony before approximately 150 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Griffin of Beverly, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Mielke of Charlevoix.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of silk and lace fashioned with long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of white tulips.

Suzanne Clerkin served as maid of honor, and Mary Folio, Elizabeth Meade, and Diana Snapp were bridesmaids. They wore rose-colored velvet dresses and carried white tulips.

Steven Sivak was best man, and James Griffin, Jr. and Thomas and Fred Mielke served as groomsmen.

Following the wedding ceremony, the parents of the bride hosted a reception at Hamilton Hall in Salem. The bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Hawthorne Inn in Salem.

Following a wedding trip to Paris and the Maldives Islands, the newlyweds are at home in Beverly. The bride is employed as a clinical social worker at McLean Hospital and the bridegroom is an architect employed by Jeremiah Eck of Boston.

Michele Hollow and Daniel Grady were married Saturday afternoon, June 2, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

The bride, who has been making her home in Roswell, Georgia, is the daughter of Barbara and Louis Hollow of Charlevoix. The bridegroom, who also lives in Roswell, is the son of Nancy and John Grady, whose homes are in Connecticut and New Jersey.

Approximately 100 guests witnessed the double ring rites performed by Father James Gardner.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown fashioned with a lace bodice covered with seed pearls and iridescent sequins. The gown featured a semi-cathedral-length train which bustled up after the ceremony, and her veil of illusion was dotted with pearls and attached to a crown of lace, pearls, and sequins with a pouf of veiling in back.

The bride carried a bouquet of lavender and blue stargazer lilies, larkspur, pink roses, Queen Anne's lace, and scabiosa.

Deborah Trent assisted her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Lori Hollow, another sister, Sharon Grady, sister of the bridegroom, and Annette Meyer and Beth Reynolds.

The attendants wore teal-length Laura Ashley gowns of lavender and blues on a background of turquoise. The bride's niece, Emily Sussman, served as flower girl, wearing a dress of white chintz and carrying a basket of flowers.

Jay Giacco assisted the bridegroom as best man, and groomsmen were Mark Hollow, brother of the bride, Dean Armstrong, Greg Pigeon, and Bill Green.

Martina LaBlance provided organ music for the ceremony.

The wedding reception was held at Stafford's Bay View Inn, and the rehearsal dinner was held at the Weathervane Inn.

Following a wedding trip to Florida, the new Mr. and Mrs. Grady are at home in Roswell. (Photography by Marell Staffell).

School adopts controversial health model

by WENDI WRIGHT

The Michigan Model for Comprehensive School Health Education was on the agenda again Monday night as the Charlevoix Board of Education met in regular session. The board voted unanimously to adopt the program as part of the school system's regular curriculum.

The board has discussed the Michigan Model at several other meetings as parents questioned certain aspects of the program. In November, the board hosted a special meeting devoted entirely to addressing these concerns.

The program encompasses many aspects of health education, nutrition, family health, emotional mental health, and substance use and abuse. Parents have expressed concern over two portions of the program specifically, "Problem-Solving People," which teaches children alternative methods of solving problems; and sex education.

Three people at the meeting objected to what they considered to be a lack of respect for parental authority in the program. One woman stated that she felt her kindergarten-age child should be taught that what a parent says is right; regardless of what the teacher or the child thinks is the right way to solve a problem.

Another woman put it differently; she felt her child should be taught that when presented with a problem, the parent is the first person the child should go to for help.

Rev. Lowell Anderson objected to another aspect of the problem-solving portion of the program, what he referred to as meditative kind of relaxation techniques, which he said could be construed as more than that. Anderson said he felt there could be religious connotations to these calming breath exercises, and that concerned him.

Anderson said also that he was concerned that abstinence was not included in the sex education portion of the program.

Following this discussion, Janet Rathke, board member, read aloud a letter in support of the Michigan Model signed jointly by representatives of several state organizations, including the Dept. of Education, Dept. of Public Health, Dept. of Mental Health, Dept. of Social Services, and the Office of Substance Abuse Services.

Among other things, the letter stated that the Michigan Model received a national award as one of 20 exemplary drug abuse prevention education programs in the country by the National Association of State Alcohol and Drug Abuse Directors.

The board voted to adopt the Michigan Model in its entirety with the following provisions: 1) that teachers or principals may supplant, remove, or make necessary modifications to any part of the program they don't feel comfortable teaching; and 2) that a parent may remove a child from any lesson considered objectionable.

The Michigan Model is funded by both the federal and state governments, and is currently being used in 76 percent of the Michigan school districts, involving approximately 800,000 children, grades K-8. The state provides training and all the materials needed to use the program at no cost to the schools. Until Monday night, Charlevoix had not officially adopted the program; yet teachers have had inservice training and have tested the program in their classrooms.

In other business, the board discussed and approved unanimously a $6,747,410 budget for the 1990-1991 school year. The largest single line item was $3,399,060 appropriated for basic programs, which according to Rich Kelly, school business manager, includes teachers' salaries, employee benefits, textbooks, and teaching supplies.

Conservancy hosts nature tours

The Little Traverse Conservancy and the Petoskey Regional Audubon Society will be offering field trips the next two weeks covering a variety of topics. All field trips are open to the public and free. Participants must register in advance by calling the conservancy office at 347-0991.

SAFARI TO THE JORDAN VALLEY

Saturday, June 23 at 9 a.m. Janie and Bonnie Stout from Petoskey Regional Audubon Society will be leading this field trip in a very scenic area of northern Michigan. Participants will meet at Deadman's Hill Scenic Overlook and head out in search of wildlife and wildflowers. Bring a picnic lunch if you would like to stay on and explore in the afternoon.

GRASS BAY-CHEBOYGAN COUNTY

Sunday, June 24 at 1 p.m. Glen Chown, Associate Director for Land Protection at the Little Traverse Conservancy, will be leading a group to the Grass Bay Nature Preserve, located five miles east of Cheboygan along Lake Huron. This nature preserve is protected by the national Nature Conservancy and is a botanical paradise with a great diversity of habitats and hosts over 250 vascular plants. The field trip will descend from a steep bluff and cross the old beach ridges, dunes, swales and a primeval lake to the unspoiled stretch of Lake Huron coastline. The national Nature Conservancy acquired this property in 1980 with the support from the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, the Michigan Botanical Clubs and the Michigan Natural Area Council.

HORTON BAY WILDFLOWER WALK

Saturday, June 30 at 10 a.m. Mary Siegwart from the Charlevoix area will lead this popular field trip on Lake Charlevoix. This area of Horton Bay has a tremendous diverse sampling of wildflowers, so bring your cameras and field guides!

Lecturer to speak June 23

The Christian Science Society will host a lecture by Godfrey John, CSB, at 11 a.m., June 23 at the society's building at 205 Clinton Street. John, who is from Toronto, Canada, is a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

CHURCH

Mary Trayte

Mary Trayte, 92, of Fort Myers, Fla., died June 10, 1990, at Lee Memorial Hospital, Fort Myers.

Funeral was 10:30 a.m. Thursday, June 14, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Harold E. Kruse Jr. of the Ironton Congregational Church officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Mary-Skye was born June 26, 1897, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Charles and Christina Skye.

She grew up in Charlevoix and in 1914 married Capt. John Roen in Charlevoix.

In 1936, she married Oscar Trayte in Charlevoix. He preceded her in death in 1943; Capt. Roen died in 1970.

Mrs. Trayte attended the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix and the Ironton Congregational Church. She was a past member of the Charlevoix Rebekah Lodge.

From 1936-70 she was owner and operator of Mary's Motel in North Fort Myers, Fla.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Charles (Hilda) Asher of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., one son, Marquis Roen of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., six grandchildren: one brother, Karl Skye of Boyne City, one sister, Cecile Linington of Mount Clemens.

The family suggests memorials to the Ironton Congregational Church or the Charlevoix County Humane Society. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

East Park hosts music

Three summer Sunday evenings of inspirational music in East Park, downtown Charlevoix, will feature both sing-a-long music for everyone as well as vocal and instrumental music by guest musicians. The dates are June 24, July 15, and August 19; 8 to 9 p.m. each evening.

Featured musicians on Sunday evening, June 24 will be vocalists and instrumentals from several Charlevoix Churches. On July 15 the guests will be a group of musicians from Traverse City who have formed a band called New Mission. They play a mix of instrumental and vocal music that appeals to people of all ages. Oregon, a soloist from Spring Arbor College, will be the featured guest on August 19. Oregon, who accompanies herself on guitar, is a vibrant personality whose music and witty humor is enjoyed by everyone.

The evenings of Inspiration in the Park, which involves participation by people from several of the churches in Charlevoix, are being organized by the Assembly of God whose musicians will be leading the sing-a-long segments.

Joseph Zitka

Former East Jordan resident Joseph A. Zitka, 80, of Charlevoix, died June 11, 1990, at Tender Care Nursing Home, Gaylord.

Mr. Zitka was born July 18, 1909, in the Bohemian Settlement near East Jordan, the son of Jim and Frances (Josefek) Zitka. He grew up in the area and was an attendant nurse at the Traverse City State Hospital for 22 years, retiring in 1973.

He is survived by two sons, Leon Zitka of East Jordan and Clare Zitka of Holt; five grandchildren; two brothers, William Zitka of East Jordan and Jim Zitka of Kalkaska; a sister, Mrs. William (Margaret) Esch of Traverse City; many nieces and nephews. Arrangements were handled by the Paulin Funeral Home, East Jordan.

OF BLESSINGS

by REV. DUANE NELSON Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene

For the next few weeks, I'm going to be looking at the topic of living up to our privileges with God. This is a topic which I believe, has been misused and abused. But before we get too far let's look at the scripture where this topic originates.

"Give, and it will be given to you. A good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over, will be poured into your lap. For with the measure you use, it will be measured to you" (Luke 6:38, NIV). And in Luke 11:9-13 it says, "So I (Jesus) say to you: Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who asks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. Which of you fathers, if your son asks for a fish, will give him a snake instead? Or if he asks for an egg, will give him a scorpion? If you then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him" (NIV).

Now I don't know about you, but when I looked at these scriptures, I found myself a little confused as to what Jesus meant and wondered if I was living below the privileges God has granted me as His child—a Christian. With much curiosity and confidence in the Lord, I began to study this topic in the light of scripture. Here's what I found in regards to living to my privileges God has granted me as a Christian.

I believe that before we can deal with the above promises we must establish who God is and is not and what He will do and will not do. Let's begin by looking at the "not" in this query. First of all God is not a genie who grants us three wishes or a divine gumball machine full of blessings if we put in the right amount. Nowhere in the Bible do we find God described as this way. There are places in the Scriptures which give examples of people treating God this way. The prophet Amos alludes in his book that the Israelites were attempting to invoke blessing (in this case, a good harvest, protection from enemies, more children, etc.) from God because of their religious behavior.

Michigan Singers plan Charlevoix concerts

Michigan Singers, a youth choir affiliated with the Church of God and Anderson College of Anderson, Indiana, will stop in Charlevoix June 27 as part of a Midwest tour. The group will perform at 3 p.m. in East Park and at 7 p.m. at the Church of God campground on Loeb Road.

Charlevoix High School senior Amy Shupert is a member of the group which contains musicians and vocalists between 15 and 25 years old from throughout Michigan.

Michigan Singers meet for rehearsals in Lansing and tour midwestern states. Shupert, the daughter of Jerry and Barb Shupert, joined the group last year.

"They did a concert in Charlevoix two years ago. I was impressed and auditioned," she explained.

The singers perform a variety of music, everything from soul and gospel to a little rap. They even do a couple of special numbers geared toward young children.

As Shupert explains, "It's a good mix. Senior citizens aren't offended and teenagers aren't bored."

Michigan Singers recently gave a concert before an audience of 1,500 at Western Michigan University during the Church of God State Youth Convention.

Although the group often performs in churches or at church-related functions, this year they're making an effort to branch out.

"Our theme this year is missions, so we're not hitting as many churches," Shupert remarked. Along with Charlevoix's East Park, stops on the tour include the courthouse steps in Gaylord and a juvenile detention center in Indiana.

Boating course offered

Michigan Pleasure Boating, a boating safety course, being sponsored by Charlevoix County 4-H and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is free of charge and open to all young and old.

If you are between the ages of 12 and 16 years old, you will receive a Boater's Safety Certificate upon successfully completing this course. This allows you to operate a boat with an engine of 6 horse power or more on the waters of any state without supervision.

Topics covered will include: Marine Laws, Required Safety Equipment, Rules of the Road, Nautical terms, Courtesy on the Water, Water Sports, and Safe vessel Operations.

The dates for these classes are July 25th and July 27th, 1990. Classes will take place from 9 a.m. to noon at the Cooperative Extension Service Office located at 3198 North Lake St., Boyne City. (Right-in-City Hall Building). Registration is needed by July 20th.

You must attend both sessions to receive your certificate.

If you have any questions regarding this two-day session, please feel free to call either 547-4461 and ask for Mark Loding, or call the Cooperative Extension Office at 582-6232.

Chamber seeks shirt designs

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce is looking for a winner for their Venetian Logo Shirt Design Contest.

Each year the Chamber awards $100 to the person completing the winning design featured on this shirt.

This year the Annual Venetian Festival will take place July 26-28, Thursday through Saturday. It is the 60th anniversary of an event which began as only a boat parade with fireworks. Today other event highlights include the Miss Charlevoix Pageant, a Grand Street Parade, a "night of music," and a multitude of various entertainment.

Designs are now being accepted at the Chamber office, 408 Bridge Street, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Local gallery exhibits artists' dolls

Dolls — not necessarily for children, not necessarily be doll makers — but dolls created by artists best known for their works in other media, will be the focus of a major group show at The Koucky Gallery, June 21 through July 12.

For "Celebration of Dolls," The Koucky Gallery has invited some 40 prominent artists to create dolls reflective of their work as painters, sculptors, jewelry makers, glass blowers, weavers, potters, and in a few cases, doll makers.

Thus there are glass dolls, neon dolls, wooden dolls, painted dolls, stuffed dolls, carved dolls, metal dolls, and dolls of myriad other materials. They are friendly and formidable, fantastical, tribal, angetic, monstrous, whimsical, and beautiful.

There will be dolls to be hung on walls, worn as jewelry, propped on a pillow, or stood on a pedestal. They will be life size and earring size. Some will make statements, political or otherwise, some will be purely decorative.

"We have challenged artists to make a personal statement as well as artistic statement," says Nancy Koucky, gallery owner.

"We are getting a strong range of dolls and a terrific reaction from artists who say this has stimulated their creativity, forced them to move out of ruts and try new forms.

The artistic "doll-makers" in the show are among the best. Wendy Midener Froud, an associate of Jim Henson and the Muppets, and who created Yoda for the Star Wars movies, and characters for Labyrinth and Dark Crystal, has sent from her Devon, England, studios, several fantastical creations.

Barbara Kelley of Birmingham, Michigan, is contributing whimsical soft sculptures which can be loosely defined as "dolls." Prominent Massachusetts sculptor Sandie Fenton has created "dolls" concerned with connections and with exploring the relationship between the past and present, the contemporary and primitive. Her figurative work appears ritualistic and inspired by other cultures.

Fenton, who participates in a limited number of shows, coast-to-coast, agreed to do the Koucky Gallery show, "because it forced me to carve out time to explore new directions."

"Creating dolls takes me back to my beginnings," muses northern Michigan painter Susan Bolt. "Dolls exist on many levels. They were something that gave comfort to carry us through the terrors of growing up. So creating dolls is a getting back in touch process."

Sue Bolt's brilliantly painted collage "dolls" of canvas carry the color and themes of her much sought paintings.

Sculptor David McCarthy's "dolls" will be "tribal" pieces reflecting his long association with Native Americans. "This was a welcomed challenge. It forced me to rethink many elements of my work," McCarthy reflected.

"My dolls definitely won't be pretty," laughed Allen Littlefield of Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania. A sculptor, Littlefield describes his current ceramic work as "future artifacts, objects that foreshadow what may be found in museums 3,000 years from now. My dolls will be based on pre-Columbian masks and African fetishes. Some will be wall hangings, some will stand."

Detroit sculptor Sally Kaplan is contributing a series of small figurative works, one of which may perch from the gallery roof. Gerri Palmer, Akron, Ohio ceramicist whose food sculptures have been called "seductive" is creating "dolls" inspired by "the arts and artifacts of Egypt."

Peggy Midener, of Detroit and northern Michigan, best known for her intricate three-dimensional box paintings, said, "I have created fantasies but not specific creatures before. It is interesting that out of something so mundane as a doll can come so many manifestations."

Koucky Art Gallery of Charlevoix will host an exhibit of dolls made by artists who are better known for their work in other mediums. Some of the artists are local, while others are from different parts of the United States.

Local officials and the families of crewmembers joined the Acacia crew in bringing the boat through the Pine River Channel and into her new home port.

Acacia welcomed to Charlevoix

Charlevoix officially welcomed the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Acacia into her new home port Friday afternoon. Between 200 and 300 people turned out for a brief, but festive little welcoming ceremony on the shore of Round Lake.

The Acacia hovered off of Charlevoix in Lake Michigan Friday morning and picked up family members, local and state dignitaries and members of the press before gliding into the harbor shortly before 1 p.m.

A Coast Guard helicopter accompanied the ship into port, as did a Coast Guard boat from the lifeboat station. Local firemen sprayed an archway of water across the channel to welcome the ship. A small band provided music for the occasion.

Six speakers offered brief words of welcome at the ceremony. Chamber of Commerce president Dan Barron noted that when the Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite, which had been stationed in Charlevoix, ran aground in Lake Superior last December and subsequently had to be decommissioned, the local chamber initiated a petition drive asking that Charlevoix continue to serve as a Coast Guard port.

Community Church of God pastor Bruce Hamilton, who serves as chaplain for the local coast guard, offered an invocational prayer and noted that the Acacia bush for which the ship is named has Biblical connotations in that it is the bush the Bible mentions as the burning bush.

Congressman Bob Davis, R-Gaylord, who was instrumental in having the Acacia reassigned from Grand Haven to Charlevoix told the audience that Charlevoix is a logical place for a cutter to be stationed.

"It is fitting and proper that you are here," Davis told the Acacia crew.

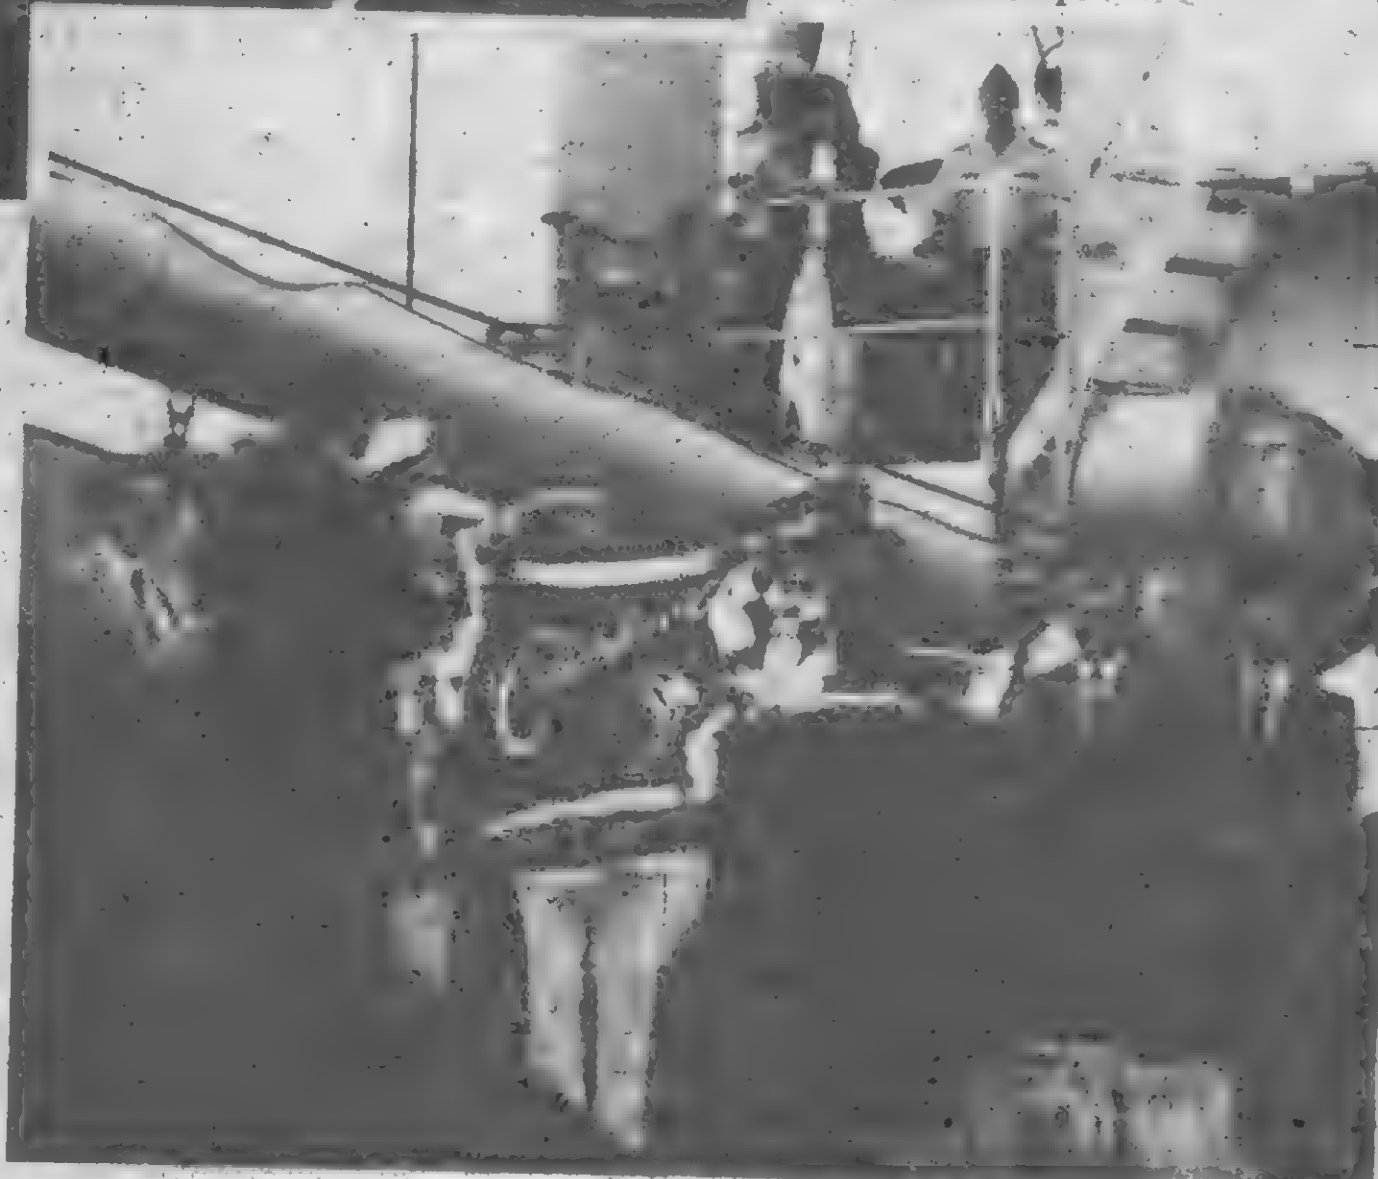

Capt. Jimmie Hobough, of the Coast Guard command station in Sault Ste. Marie, thanked the people of Charlevoix for standing by the crew of the Mesquite during the difficult times which followed the grounding.

Mayor Gary Probert expressed pride in the number of people who turned out to welcome the ship and presented the ship's commander, Lt. Cmdr. James Dwyer with a city flag.

Dwyer said the crew is pleased to be in Charlevoix and most of the families of crewmembers have already made the move and are residing in the community. Dwyer said the crew and family of the Acacia "look forward to making a lot of new friends and neighbors."

Congressman Bob Davis addressed the people assembled to welcome the new Coast Guard ship.

Local officials were taken out to meet the Acacia in Lake Michigan by a boat from the Coast Guard lifeboat station.

Crooked Tree plans annual concert series

The Crooked Tree Arts Council has begun its sales campaign for the 1990-1991 CONCERT SERIES which celebrates the Council's 20th anniversary year. Appearing in the series will be: KARL HASS, pianist, conductor, lecturer and producer of the daily radio series "ADVENTURES IN GOOD MUSIC"; MERIDITH PARSONS, mezzo-soprano, international recitalist and opera performer, a native of Traverse City; and THE ASBURY BRASS QUINTET, an instrumental ensemble who have received marvelous reviews for their exciting music from Bach to jazz.

The ETAC Concert Series will offer three choices of series tickets - Basic, Patron and Family. The Basic series consists of the 3-concert program with unreserved seating for $25. The Patron series at $40, features the three programs and includes seating in the reserved section as well as admitting patrons to the "afterglows" with the concert artists. The Family tickets at $60 admits parents and their children to all three concerts with unreserved seating.

All concerts are at the barrier-free McCune Arts Center. The HASS and PARSONS programs will take place on Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. October 14 and November 18, respectively. THE ASBURY BRASS QUINTET will appear on Tuesday, April 9th, 1991 at 8 p.m.

For further information or if you haven't yet been contacted by a CONCERT SERIES sales representative, please call the Crooked Tree Arts Council office at 347-4337 to reserve your series ticket.

Pine Pt. hosts block party

Pine Point residents celebrated Memorial Weekend with a "Getting to Know You" party. It was the first annual spring get-together and was hosted by Abe and Betty Ran at their Beach Drive home. Thirty enthusiastic friendly folks gathered to become better acquainted with their neighbors in keeping with the well known hospitable spirit of Charlevoix. Several children were included adding a family atmosphere to the festive affair.

In past years, Pine Point Subdivision has held a yearly Labor Day picnic and the Rans hope that an earlier party to "kick-off" the summer season will give everyone, especially summer residents, an opportunity to form closer friendships making the annual picnic even more meaningful.

Plans are already in the making for the Second Annual "Getting to Know You" Social to cement these new found friendships and welcome newcomers to the neighborhood.

City softball results

Three games were played in the Charlevoix Men's Slow Pitch league Wednesday.

Town House took Paul Bunyan Lanes 15-6 with Al Weaver the winning pitcher.

Ironworks-Quality Limo shut out Charlevoix Cinema 17-0 as winning pitcher Dave Cole allowed eight hits.

Bay Shore Steel edged Charlevoix Assembly of God 5-4 with Alex Neidzialkowski the winning pitcher.

Today, in the Women's League, Nanny's Restaurant meets Venture Video at 6:30 p.m., Investment Management and Research faces Wojan Aluminum at 7:45 p.m., and Tapawingo-Roma's-Rocky Top Farms takes on Kwikie Duplicating at 9 p.m.

Three games were played in the Charlevoix Women's Slow

Pitch League Thursday.

Town House took Nanny's Restaurant 26-9 as each team had 12 hits. For Town House, Vickie Flowers had three hits while for Nanny's, Jennifer Sell had three hits. Winning pitcher was Sherry Fiedorek.

Investment Management and Research downed Wojan Aluminum 16-2. The winners had 15 hits including three by Teresa Notrot while Christie Persall had two of the five Wojan hits. Mary Lieberman was the winning pitcher.

Kwikie Printing downed Tapawingo-Roma's-Rocky Top Farm 17-6. The winners had 19 hits, three by Anne Sanford with Chris Nunemaker the winning pitcher. For Tapawingo-Roma's-Rocky Top, Brenda Bruce had three hits.

Golf tournament benefits charity

The 11th Annual Kentucky Fried Chicken March of Dimes Golf Tournament took place Sunday, May 27th at the Belvedere Golf Club. What had been forecast as a rainy day turned out to be a gorgeous and sunny one. Although this gloomy forecast affected the numbers of players somewhat, those who were there had a great day for golf and in total raised $1,037 for the March of Dimes and its continuing campaign for healthier babies.

Contributing sponsor Pepsi provided pop to go with the meal catered by Joe Etienne and Kentucky Fried Chicken. Dave Poquette and the Belvedere Golf Club did a great job hosting the event despite some ongoing renovation occurring at the clubhouse. The 8:30 a.m.

shot-gun start went off without a hitch after a continental breakfast.

Bob Davis came within 4 feet of the $10,000 hole-in-one prize, providing a moment of excitement. Joe Etienne who has run this tournament for eleven years commented, "The community was once again very supportive, donating prizes for each hole and the Belvedere always does a great job for us in getting the greens ready. Even though we had fewer teams than we like to have, those who participated enjoyed it immensely and that makes it a success!"

The winners of the tournament were as follows:

Championship Flight: 1st: M. Jackson, B. Jackson, D. Ferdig, 2nd: J. Etienne, T.

Broggers, B. Davis, 3rd: B. Hahn, S. Redman, S. Sherwood.

First Flight: 1st: O. Walker, J. Gels, D. Bickersteth, 2nd: Mike Z., L. Thomas, J. Duncan, 3rd: S. Supernaw, H. Holden, J. Rundquist.

Second Flight: 1st: B. Lorenz, J. Donnelly, S. Sweet, 2nd: J. Ryan Jr., H. Weiss, J. Shea, 3rd: J. Etienne Sr., M. Etienne, B. Schultz, C. Mollar.

SPECIAL AWARD WINNERS

Straightest Drive: Vince Peterson, Putting Contest: J. Ryan Jr., Longest Drive: Digger Froding Big Skin Game: Team of Jackson, Jackson, & Ferdig.

Closest to the pin: #4 - Skip Sherwood, #8 - Ken Balch, #14 - Dan Bickersteth, #17 - Bob Davis.

Other Rayders making all-district were catcher Pat Elliott, outfielder Chris Seymour and shortstop James Corwin, all seniors.

Corwin receives All-state mention

Charlevoix second baseman Jason Corwin has received all-state honorable mention recognition by the Michigan High School Baseball Coaches Association.

Corwin batted .500 this season for the 16-13 Rayders and also received first team all-district and all-region recognition.

Stevens' team wins in Senior Division

Stevens Construction of Charlevoix defeated East Jordan Plastics 14-2 in Senior Division of Little League Friday.

Winning pitcher was Ken Olinger who struck out seven and walked five. Olinger also had three hits. Steve Kang added two and Bill Dreyer, Travis Blissett and Travis Woods had one. Jim Lord was the losing pitcher and he had 10 strikeouts while Mayhew had two hits and Leach and Russell one hit.

Basketball camp scheduled for boys

Charlevoix basketball coach Jim Kanine will host a summer basketball camp for fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys June 25-29 at the high school gym.

Fourth grade boys will meet from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Fifth and sixth grade boys will play from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m.

The cost of the camp is $25 and each player will receive a reversible mesh jersey. A parental permission slip and a consent for emergency treatment are required for the camp.

Participants may register in advance or on the first day of camp. Checks should be made payable to the Charlevoix Basketball Program.

People with questions may contact Kanine at 547-3206 or 547-9495.

Friend of Court needs more office space

By PEG OHLE

Lead pencils and pads of paper are not entirely extinct, even in this world of electronics.

George Ebenhoeh, Friend of the Court in Charlevoix County, reports that members of his staff use this manual process in writing out some 12,000 individual receipts each year.

These receipts are sent weekly to a computer center in Bellaire which key punches them and writes the necessary checks to distribute the monies covered by the receipts, and then returns the checks to Charlevoix for mailing.

Ebenhoeh says he has been using this system while waiting for the county to provide office space for another employee and for the State of Michigan to supply the necessary computer equipment to do the work in his office.

To bridge the wait for space and equipment, Ebenhoeh told the Board of Commissioners last week that he is initiating a system utilizing three desk top terminals that will fit into the computer center's equipment and make it possible to do the key punching and check writing in the Charlevoix County building.

Receipts issued by the Friend of the Court cover monies turned into the office for child care costs, medical payments, confinement costs, alimony, and any other domestic situation involving children. As many as seven separate checks may have to be written to distribute monies from one receipt.

Ebenhoeh says this new system will shorten the time between the day a divorced parent pays his debt to the Friend of the Court and the day his children and former wife receive what is due them.

All in all, about $1-1/2 million pass through the office of the Friend of the Court each year. Operating costs of the office are paid for by the State of Michigan, 70 percent; the Federal government, 10 percent; and statutory fees the rest.

Ebenhoeh has been serving as Friend of the Court for 13 years. During that time, he has seen a considerable increase in the number of people going to his office for help. "Fewer people are using attorneys in divorce cases, for one thing," he says, "and they are asking us for help in their 'pro quo' proceedings. There's just not enough time to go around."

The state has also increased the responsibilities of the Friend of the Court. In addition to collecting child support payments locally, the office is asked to engage in interstate child support collections, tax interception support collections, and solving cases of expanded custody and visitation cases, as with grandparents.

Last year, the Charlevoix County Friend of the Court handled 1,281 cases, most of which involved divorces, and 304 Aid to Dependent Children cases.

The burgeoning work load of the Friend of the Court is made worse by lack of office space, Ebenhoeh emphasizes. "As far back as 1985, the state said we needed at least one more person to do our job. The state will fund the job, but we just don't have a spot to squeeze in another person."

Ebenhoeh indicated he has considered hiring a person for evening work that would not require in-person client contact. There is plenty of desk space available during the evening hours.

Arts center displays figurines

One of the best collections of Staffordshire figurines in the United States will be displayed at the McCune Arts Center in Petoskey June 21 through July 29.

The touring collection, entitled "Fragile Memories: Staffordshire Figurines from the Jerome Smith Collection" is co-sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council and the Detroit Institute of Arts.

The molded and painted earthenware ceramics were produced between 1760 and 1900 by the Staffordshire-England potteries which were noted for their tableware, tiles and bricks. Popular categories include the British royal family and other popular historical figures as well as characters from everyday life.

The brightly glazed figures were peddled door-to-door and sold at seaside stalls and outside theatres, in county and city shops. The result was a visual chronicle of the people and events which captivated popular interest in Georgian and Victorian Britain.

The show can be seen from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday at the Center 461 East Mitchell St. Petoskey and special tours can be scheduled by calling (616) 347-4337.

MDOT has determined that there is no need for rail service between Petoskey and Charlevoix.

Pat Gaskin, the city councilmember who has been most vocal in support of leaving the rails in place, said there are two philosophies regarding the rails. She said Charlevoix is operating under the philosophy that the rail corridor is a resource which should be preserved for the future. The other philosophy is that since there isn't a need for the rails at the moment, they can be torn up. Gaskin said she views the second philosophy as "short-sighted."

Gaskin conceded that removing the rails may be advantageous for Petoskey and the Three Fires Point development but noted, "We stand to lose a great deal here at this end of the corridor. And we don't see any gain for us."

Gaskin said she doesn't think a proposed recreational trail, which Elder described, is feasible because most of the trail will be on the shoulder of the road (U.S. 31) or on an extension of the shoulder of the road.

Other councilmembers echoed Gaskin's opinion. As mayor Gary Probert has done at past meetings, Cheri Hoffman noted that it's possible that some type of non-traditional rail service might become necessary in the future and be able to use the rail corridor.

"I don't think we can afford to be short-sighted here," she said.

Elder indicated the state can't make decisions based upon railway rules which might exist in the future and is simply trying to operate within the rules which exist now.

Bob Hoffman, a public accountant in the audience, asked Kazmierski what the disadvantages would be if the track is left in place while exploring options to preserve either the tracks or at least the corridor they are on.

Kazmierski said the state is currently liable for the corridor, that the rails are holding up Petoskey and Three Fires Point development plans, that there is a pending lawsuit concerning the tracks and that cancelling a contract process for track removal could create a financial burden.

Martin Bohn, who owns one of the parcels of property the tracks cross, said he doesn't mind seeing the tracks left in place, but he opposes replacing them with a recreational trail.

Ostling said he will request that the subcommittee reopen the hearing and within a few days will inform the council of the chairman's response.

State reps hear rail arguments

It might not change a thing, but people who want to keep the railroad line between Charlevoix and Petoskey have been heard by the state.

Representatives Francis Spaniola and Mickey Knight of the House Subcommittee on Appropriations for Transportation met in Charlevoix Monday evening at the request of Representative Ralph Ostling.

The majority of people who spoke argued in favor of keeping the rails, or at least the rail corridor, for future use. They contended washouts along the corridor will have to be repaired regardless of what happens with the rails. They said putting a bike path beside the highway is not a viable trade off for a corridor.

Tom Pointer, one of only a few people not to speak in favor of keeping the rails, said easements establishing the rail corridor granted only a very specific privilege—the privilege of constructing, maintaining and operating a railroad. He said rails between Charlevoix and Petoskey have had neither operation nor maintenance in recent years.

City attorney Jim Young said the city prefers to have the rails preserved, but suggested that if that is impossible, then perhaps the state would consider working with the city to acquire parcels to create a recreational trail on, or near, the corridor rather than beside the highway.

Family reunited after 41 years

Adoption separated six brothers and four sisters in 1949 when it became financially impossible for their widowed mother to keep the family together. For several years the only knowledge most of the children had of their brothers and sisters was what they'd kept stored in their hearts.

But several years of searching and more than one fortunate twist of fate allowed nine of those 10 brothers and sisters to be reunited in Charlevoix this past weekend. For several, it was the first time they'd seen their brother Melvin since 1949. The family still hasn't been able to locate Ken, their youngest brother.

John Clark of Elmira died of cancer in 1947. By February of 1949, it became financially impossible for his widow Dorothy to keep the family of 10 children together.

The older brothers and sisters still recall their mother crying one winter night. When the children came home from school the next day they found ears lined up in front of the house.

Charles (Chuck) Pardee, the oldest of the children, said that when the children were taken and put into the different cars it was like watching cattle being separated at a stock yard. Rachel Niswander, the third oldest of the children, compared it to people choosing from a litter of puppies.

Seven-year-old John (Kirkpatrick) had an inkling that something was amiss. He didn't come home from school with the others that day. He hid in a shack where he could see the house. From the shack, he watched as his brothers and sisters were taken away.

Authorities had to chase John down. They caught him, but he resolved to himself that one way or another he was going to see his brothers and sisters again. As John found out later, his brothers and sisters shared that resolve.

"We've been searching for 41 years," Chuck said Saturday.

When they were separated, the children ranged in age from 14 on down. Their names now (all changed due to adoption or marriage) are: Chuck Pardee of Kewadin; Rachel Niswander of Charlevoix; Mary Novotny of Charlevoix; John Kirkpatrick of Bellaire; Fred Turner of Frederick; Ted Odell of Mancelona; Melvin Vallad of Killen, Texas; Betty Kirkby of Kewadin; Sharon Hargraves of Mishawaka, Indiana; and Ken who is still missing. They also have a half-sister, Doreen, who was born later when their mother remarried.

To understand the difficulty

Ten brothers and sisters were separated in 1949 when it became financially impossible for their widowed mother to keep the family together. Through the years the brothers and sisters have found each other again. This past weekend, several of them were reunited in Charlevoix. They are (from left) Doreen Pardee, Betty Kirkby, Melvin Vallad, Ted Odell, John Kirkpatrick, Mary Novotny, Rachel Niswander and Charles Pardee.

the family faced in finding each other, one must keep in mind that the prevailing philosophy of that era was not to tell adopted children about their siblings. The brothers and sisters say their adoptive parents, while good people, adhered to the prevailing philosophy and were generally reluctant to say anything about the other brothers and sisters.

John still gets emotional as he recalls his frustration. He lived in Bellaire, which is the county seat, and he knew that some of the people who worked in the courthouse had information about his brothers and sisters that they wouldn't share with him.

Chuck, Ted and Betty never really lost contact. Ted and Betty were adopted by a family in Kewadin. Chuck was adopted by another family in Kewadin. The two families were friends. Although the families never referred to the three children as brothers and sisters, the three rode the bus and attended school together.

The family began to come back together in 1951. Dorothy, their mother, married Tom Pardee of East Jordan and later Charlevoix. Rachel moved back with her mother a short time later. Mary moved back in with her mother in 1952.

High school sports reunited John with Chuck and Fred. In 1951, Chuck was playing football for Elk Rapids in a game at Bellaire and got tackled on the sideline. As he got up, he saw a boy standing on the sideline watching the game. That boy was his brother John. They recognized each

Arts group offering classes

Only a few openings remain in art classes offered in July by four area artists at Jordan River Arts Council Arts Center, but the drama and music workshop scheduled for the week of August 6 has room for many more students.

Pottery, fiber arts, printmaking and sketching and painting will be offered to three different age groups of children, ranging from grade one through grade eight.

All classes will meet weekly from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. for four weeks. The fee is $35, or $31.50 for each JRAC member child.

Pottery for grades one through three will meet on Monday starting July 9, grades four through six on Tuesdays starting July 10 and grades seven through eight on Wednesdays starting July 11. It will be taught by June Otis, who with her husband David, owns and operates Otis Pottery on M-66 north of East Jordan. Otis holds a BA degree from California State University and her MA from University of California - Berkeley.

Fiber arts for grades one through three will meet on Mondays starting July 16, grades four through six on Tuesdays starting July 17 and grades seven through eight on Wednesdays starting July 18. It will be taught by Marion Veryzer, who does restoration work of antique coverlets, Indian rugs and lace articles. She holds a BS from S.U.N.Y. at Oneonta, New York.

Sketching and painting for grades one through three will meet on Mondays starting July 23, grades four through six on Tuesdays starting July 24 and grades seven through eight on Wednesdays starting July 25. It will be taught by Robert Veryzer, professor emeriti and former associate professor of Industrial Design at Purdue University. He holds a BA and MA from Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, New York.

Printmaking for grades one through three will meet on Mondays starting July 30, grades four through six on Tuesday starting July 31 and grades seven through eight on Wednesday starting August 1. It will be taught by Lori Bolt, the 1989 Purchase Prize winner at Portside Art Fair. She holds a BA in textile design from Cleveland Institute of Art.

The one-week drama and music workshop will run from 9 a.m. to noon Monday through Friday, August 6 through August 11. Open to children grades one through eight, the $35 workshop will culminate with a stage performance.

It will be taught by Margaret Thomsen and Fran Tollas, co-directors of Jordan River Community Chorus. A long-time public school music teacher, Thomsen holds a BA in education and music from University of Dayton, Tollas, voice and piano teacher at McCune Art Center, holds degrees from University of Michigan and Grand Valley State College.

JRAC's summer arts program was organized by board member and planning chairman Denise Steely, who will accept phone registrations at 536-2090 and 536-3308.

Pool group receives major grant

The campaign to raise funds for an indoor community swimming pool recently received two major contributions.

The Frey Foundation of Grand Rapids presented a check for $10,000 to the Pool Steering Committee. The check is the first installment of a pledge totalling $70,000.

John Upjohn of Kalamazoo and Charlevoix made the second major contribution, a 21-foot twin-engine power boat. The boat, valued at $19,900, will be one of several items auctioned off July 23 at The Barn at Dunmaglas. Proceeds from the auction will go toward the pool campaign.

According to fundraising co-chairman Bruce Reid, the $70,000 pledge brings the fundraising drive total to $250,000. Pool supporters are trying to raise approximately $2 million to pay for construction and operation of a pool.

They have set an initial goal of $500,000 to establish a pool endowment fund. Interest earnings from the endowment fund will be used to defray pool operational costs in excess of revenue generated from pool user fees.

While pool proponents are still speaking of putting the pool on school grounds, the school board has not committed to allowing a pool to be constructed on school grounds. Some members of the public have voiced support for a pool at the school while others have voiced opposition.

Those who oppose placing a pool on school grounds contend that if a pool is built on school grounds, it will eventually become a financial burden to taxpayers. Pool proponents argue that the endowment fund will cover pool operational costs and therefore tax dollars will not be required for the pool.

The July 23 auction will take place in conjunction with a Petunia Party dinner sponsored by Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB). Proceeds from the dinner will fund 1991 petunia planting while proceeds from the auction will go into the pool fund.

Along with the boat, several other items will be auctioned off. Among the items are: a live llama; a candlelight dinner for four on the Medusa Challenger; a private box for eight at a Pistons' basketball game; and a ski week for six at Breckenridge, Colorado.

Jeanne Gorkewitz and Joanne Curtis are serving as acquisition co-chairs for the auction.

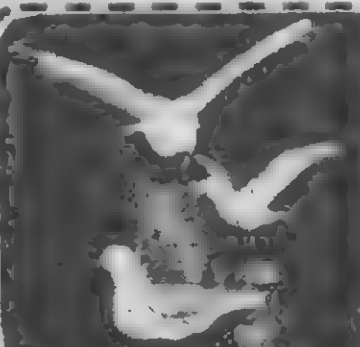

Grange will host craft show

The Barnard Grange will host their annual salad luncheon and hobby craft show Saturday, June 30.

This year the show will include a mini carnival for children. The carnival will feature a trout fishing tank, games, pie sale and Smiley the Clown.

The craft show begins at 9:30 a.m. with the salad luncheon taking place from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The carnival will be between 11:30 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. The corner of Barnard and Klooster Roads south of Charlevoix.

KCB elects officers

Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) named four new members to its board of directors at the organizations annual meeting Saturday, June 23. Forty people attended the meeting which took place at The Inn of Dunmaglas.

Troy Bonar, John McKown, Ralph McRae and Ardeth Wieland were the new members named to the board. Lyle Gennett will serve as alternate.

Officers elected for the coming year are: Bruce MacArthur, president; Don Dannecker, vice president; Vel Kammerman, treasurer; and Terry D'Angelo, secretary. All have previously served on the KCB board. At large members of the executive committee are Dave Strawbridge and Jackie Krusch.

Pat Ranger chaired the nominating committee for the slate. Presently KCB is planning the annual Petunia Party dinner which will take place in conjunction with an swimming pool fundraising auction July 23 at Dunmaglas. The dinner will feature a short concert by the 56 piece Northwood Orchestra.

D'Angelo is ticket sales chairman for the dinner. Tickets may be purchased at the Chamber of Commerce. For additional information, phone 547-1991.

A HIGH SWEET SONG FILLS THE MORNING AIR. THEN A FLASH OF COOL BRIGHT YELLOW AS THE AMERICAN GOLDFINCH MAKES HIS WAY TO THE FEEDER FOR BREAKFAST. NOW THAT SUMMER IS HERE THIS LOVELY LITTLE BIRD AS MOLTED HIS DULL WINTER PLUMAGE, DOWNED A BLACK CAP AND BEGINS COURTING. THE FEMALE GOLDFINCH'S PLUMAGE IS MUCH DULLER THAN THE MALE'S. IT IS A SOFT YELLOW-GREEN A GREAT CAMOUFLAGE WHILE PROTECTING HER NEST! ALSO KNOWN AS A WILD CANARIES, THESE LITTLE BIRDS ARE A DELIGHT TO WATCH AND A GREAT BARDMETER FOR THE SEASONS. THEIR SINGING MARKS SPRING, FLIGHT DISPLAYS MARKS MIDSUMMER AND THE CALLS OF THE FLEDGLINGS MARK THE END OF THE BREEDING SEASON AND THE IMMINENCE OF FALL COLORS.

Eating the right foods

Some people cower when faced with a Mexican roll. Not me. Bring on Mexican rolls, jelly rolls and an army of glazed doughnuts. I'll deal with them. I associate with a lot of dietarily pure people, but I haven't let their qualms about junk food turn me against the stuff. If anything, I think I've made progress toward corrupting them.

My wife is one of those people who eat a lot of healthy stuff like vegetables and chicken and don't save enough room to do dessert justice.

Personally, I view all vegetables with a certain amount of skepticism and contempt. How clean can they be? They grow in dirt.

And this stuff about eating chickens instead of dead cows. I don't buy it. It's all part of that cholesterol scare which was manufactured by people who think blue caps look prettier than red caps on milk jugs.

One night last week, I grilled hamburgers on the charcoal grill. That's probably another no-no to health conscious eaters. But those burgers were good.

After polishing off the burgers, I observed that the charcoal was still burning well. This brought out the conservationist in me.

"Be a shame to waste good heat and charcoal," I thought. "I'm gonna make s'mores."

I checked the house and found that we had graham crackers, but no marshmallows or candy bars. A lesser junk food eater would have thrown up his arms and abandoned the mission. I pressed on.

"The dog and I are taking a road trip," I hollered to my wife. "We're going to the store." There was no problem securing the marshmallows, but I encountered a small hitch with the candy bars. Plain Hershey Bars were my candy bar of choice, but the store was out of them. So I went to Plan B and bought a package of Nestles Crunch bars.

Back at home, I roasted a couple of marshmallows, swiped a graham cracker from the stockpile we keep for the baby, broke open the candy bars and slapped everything together for a fine dining experience.

I put the bag of marshmallows and the five remaining candy bars in the kitchen pantry.

The next day as my wife ate a bowl of salad (a culinary staple of healthy eaters) during lunch, I commented that I had noticed there were only four candy bars left in the pantry.

"We've got a sneak candy bar gobble lurking in our house," I said.

"Who do you suspect?" my wife asked.

"I have a list of suspects. It's a short list."

Knowing that an ace detective such as myself would soon have this case solved, she confessed.

It seems she'd paid the kitchen a midnight visit. Upon looking into the pantry, she discovered a stack of candy bars.

I'm sure her initial impulse was to resist, but the temptation proved too much. She opened one up, telling herself she would only eat half of it.

She ate half of the candy bar and began to leave the kitchen, but then, as she describes it, she thought, "That was pretty good."

She turned around, went back and finished off the rest of the candy bar.

Another health food eater gone bad.

Collecting nouns

Live and learn.

A few weeks ago, I took exception to a Masterpiece Theatre announcer who assaults the Queen's English every week when he reports that the program is sponsored in part by the Mobil Corporation, which invites you to join "them" in supporting public service television.

My quarrel was with the word "them." According to American usage, the Mobil Corporation is singular and should, on second reference, be referred to by the singular pronoun "it."

But Sharon Monteith Doan, presently living in London, England, has set me straight.

The British apparently don't believe in collective nouns such as "group," "team," "company" and "corporation."

Ms. Doan says such usage "is not incorrect to the born and bred Englishman. It is simply a difference between 'English' English and 'American' English."

"When I first arrived in the UK nine months ago and later when I began working with a British company, the difference grated on my ears," she continues. "But to the British, the Mobil Corporation cannot invite anyone to join them. In any thing, they do not personify the corporation. Presumably, however, the corporation is comprised of many people who can invite you to join them."

"You can hear this difference everywhere and spoken by people who are well educated," Ms. Doan writes. "For instance, on the evening news you might hear 'The government are discontinuing...' (the government is made up of people who are discontinuing something); in TV commercials: 'Nescafe don't want others imitating...' (again, Nescafe is a company presumably composed of people); and in casual conversation, such as: 'Here are some of the stuff,' 'stuff' being made up of more than one thing."

So there you have it. Apparently, the concept of the collective noun is an American invention and Americans have become so accustomed to it that anything else sounds grossly ungrammatical. "Nescafe don't..." "C'mon, American school-

HOW WELL DO you remember the days of radio?

The other morning my co-worker Betty Washburne mentioned that a tape of "The Great Gildersleeve" radio program was played at a recent meeting of the Boyne City Friendship Club.

"The Great Gildersleeve" How I loved that program. It was a sitcom about an avuncular gentleman named Gildersleeve who was water commissioner of a small city, probably in the Midwest. Gildersleeve lived with his nephew, a young kid who was always getting into trouble.

Gildersleeve himself was capable of getting into plenty of trouble without any outside help. He was always in hot water of some kind involving other city officials, his housekeeper or one of his many girlfriends. None-the-less, he had a booming, infectious laugh and always managed to come out on top of whatever mischief he was involved in.

But who played "The Great Gildersleeve"?

Betty couldn't remember and neither could I and we are the only folks old enough to have listened to "The Great Gildersleeve" during radio's heyday.

The question gnawed at the back of my poor brain all morning.

Jim Jordan? Naw, he was Fibber McGee. C. C. Bradner? Naw, he was a newscaster. Cliff Arquette? Wrong again.

Finally, just before lunch I ran into our finance minister, Dale Glass, a gentleman considerably advanced in years, at the water cooler.

"Who played 'The Great Gildersleeve' on radio?" I demanded.

Dale hesitated. "I can hear his voice and his laugh, but I just can't remember his name," Dale answered as he bent over for a drink of water.

"That's it!" I shouted. "Why didn't I think of it sooner! 'Water commissioner,' 'hot water,' 'water cooler.' It was Willard Waterman."

The brain -- or what's left of it -- works in mysterious ways.

Water presents problem

On the surface, all seems to be going smoothly with the popular petunia project. It's been an unqualified success for nine years. There's no doubt about that! The picnic in the park this year drew more than 800 people who planted 50,000 petunias in one hour! It was a balmy evening and Round Lake never looked lovelier layered with a tapestry cloud formation.

But behind the scenes a problem is developing.

It started with the water conservation project the city fathers are promoting because of the filter problem in the water plant. Among other recommendations, it was announced that the petunias should only be watered every other day. Now when it comes to the petunias, everyone knows that nothing is decided without the full approval and support of Dale and Marilyn Boss. This dedicated couple think the petunias should be watered every day. Like always.

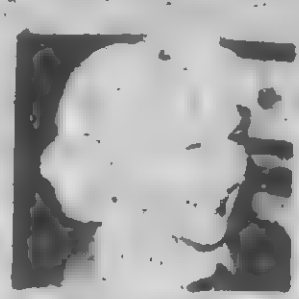

Mike Wiesner suggested that Keep Charlevoix Beautiful should buy a pump to the tune

Temple plans pot-luck

Temple B'Nai Israel has announced the return of student Rabbi Jonathan Biatch for the 1990 summer season. Biatch served with the Temple last between years at college.

Summer Shabbat services will begin Friday, June 29. Greeting will begin at 7:45 p.m. while services will begin at 8 p.m.

An informal pot-luck dinner will begin at 4:30 p.m., Sunday July 1. The purpose of the pot-luck is to welcome Biatch and his new wife Bonnie and to become acquainted with new Temple members. People planning to attend are asked to bring a dish to pass and to R.S.V.P. by calling either 347-8033 or 547-2636. The Temple is located at the corner of Michigan and Waukazo streets in Petoskey. EDITH GILBERT of $450 and pump water out of Round Lake. Dale nixed the idea. He thought the water problem is the city's responsibility and the city should buy the pump. Temporarily we have a stalemate.

Then it was suggested that instead of drawing water from the city water plant on Lake Michigan, Dale should fill the watering truck from the pump at the foot of Antrim Street—the pump that services the fish pond and draws water out of Round Lake. Gary Probert, the mayor himself showed Dale exactly where to park the truck and what to do.

So in the middle of the day, Dale drives the petunia truck to the foot of Antrim Street and tries pumping water into the truck. But the process is much too slow and with the truck parked on an incline, it is feared that the truck might tip over when it is completely filled. Disappointed, Dale backs the truck up the hill and unfortunately bumps into another car. There's no damage to the petunia truck but there's $300 worth of damage to the other vehicle. And here's the hitch—Dale is given a ticket by the police officer, who was called to the scene!

Now Dale hasn't received many tickets in his 59 years, and he and Marilyn are not taking this matter lightly! Remember, they have driven the truck all over the state for years to appear in parades, including the Thanksgiving Day Parade in Detroit and most recently in the Frankenmuth Parade, often with police escort. All this effort, over 5,000 hours of volunteer labor, is of course given free for the love of Charlevoix.

To its credit, in steps the Chamber of Commerce and offers to pay the fine. President and attorney, Dan Barron, has also offered to appear in court before Judge Varnum in fourteen days with Dale to plead his case.

I still don't know if the petunias are going to be watered every other day or not. Is someone going to buy a pump and if so who? Is someone going to have to pay a fine and how much? Dale wonders if the people of Charlevoix really care? What about future risk? Is the petunia project worth the effort?

Most people who drive from one end of town to the other admiring the ribbon of flowers on both sides of the street will say "Yes, it's worth the effort!" Beyond this, let's hope they will not only appreciate the delightful presence of the flowers, but they will also appreciate the many touchy, behind-the-scenes decisions that need to be made when promoting any civic project such as this.

Bennett - Mathews

Danita Bennett & Craig Mathews

Lawrence and Patricia Bennett of East Jordan announce the engagement of their daughter, Danita Jane Bennett, to Craig Leroy Mathews of Charlevoix. He is the son of Vernon Mathews, Jr. and Andrea Mathews, Jr. of Charlevoix.

The intended bride graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1989 and is employed by the Charlevoix Federal Credit Union. Her fiancé graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1986 and later attended the O.M.C. School for Marine Mechanics in Waukegan, Illinois. He is a certified O.M.C. Technician and is employed by Belinger Marine.

The wedding will take place October 13 in the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix.

Cutler - Ongemach

The United Methodist Church in Bellaire was the setting for the recent marriage ceremony uniting Mariam Cutler and Jeffrey Wade Ongemach.

The bride, who has been living in Traverse City, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cutler of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom, who lives in Williamsburg, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Ongemach of Waupaca, Wisconsin.

Rev. Dan Minor officiated at the ceremony before an altar decorated with candelabra and arrangements of gladiolus, mini carnations, baby's breath, and green vines.

The bride's gown of white satin was handmade by family friend Catherine Lord. It featured a sweetheart neckline, puffed sleeves, fitted dropped waist, and shaped bodice with a flared and pleated skirt. The bride's headpiece anchored a cathedral-length veil and her bouquet was made up of minuted roses and tendrobium orchids.

Chele Cyr served as matron of honor, and Karen Golovich, Tammy May, and Vicky Morton were bridesmaids. Amanda Hillinger assisted as flower girl.

Bret Ongemach was best man, and Thomas Hayes, Jeff Hayes, and Aarick Danielson were groomsmen. The latter also served as an usher, along with Jesse Lord.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at Shanty Creek Inn. The rehearsal dinner was held at the Lamplight Inn in Central Lake.

Mariam & Jeffrey Ongemach

The newlyweds are now at home in Williamsburg. The bride, a 1981 graduate of Charlevoix High School, recently received an Associate Degree in nursing. She is employed by Munson Hospital in the Coronary Care Unit. The bridegroom is a licensed EMT firefighter with the Acme Fire Department currently enlisted in the United States Coast Guard Air Station in Traverse City. (Photography by Terry Burton).

...family reunited after 41 years apart other immediately.

Before returning to the huddle, Chuck told John he wanted to talk to him after the game.

John said that when he saw Chuck, "I didn't want to let him out of my sight. I wanted to be constantly with him. And it was that way with every one of them."

After the game, Chuck and John talked for a few minutes and made arrangements to meet again.

Four years later, John was on the high school basketball team. He normally didn't start, but was the sixth man.

One night Bellaire played Frederick. Prior to the game, the Bellaire coach made an announcement which almost knocked John off of his seat.

After announcing the first four starters, the coach said, "The fifth man who's going to play tonight is John Kirkpatrick. Because I want him to play against his brother."

John said he and his brother Fred were too overcome with emotion to play well that night. After the game, the visiting team waited on the bus so John and Fred could spend half an hour together.

A quirk of fate brought Rachel and Mary together with Chuck in 1953. Rachel and Mary were passing through Elk Rapids on their way to Traverse City when they saw two young men playing catch on a lawn beside the road. One of those young men was their brother Chuck. They stopped and talked to him. Later that year, Chuck moved back home with his mother, stepfather and sisters.

In the late 1950s, Mary was in Frederick and stopped at a gas station and asked a person there if he anyone knew of a 'kid' named Fred, who was adopted in the late 1940s. By coincidence, Fred was at the gas station. Fred knew where Melvin was and took Mary to visit him. At the time Melvin was only about 10 years old and Fred wasn't too much older. That visit lasted only a few minutes.

Melvin said that as a boy, he knew he had some brothers and sisters he'd been separated from. But beyond that he knew very little about them.

After that brief visit, Melvin's family moved and his brothers and sisters lost contact with him.

The older brothers and sisters felt a special obligation to find Melvin. They said their father's last words to them were, "Take care of little Melvin."

Sharon wasn't found until 1978 and in a way she found the rest of the family. Sharon's adopted father came to the Pardee's house and visited with them. He then told Sharon about her brothers and sisters and gave her the option of contacting them. A few weeks later Sharon called and subsequently arranged a visit.

The family found Melvin only a few years ago. As things turned out, he'd also been looking for them. Melvin grew up in Crawford County and then joined the military. A few years ago the family found out that Melvin was living in Killdeer, Texas. Some additional research turned up his phone number.

Rachel and Mary called from Charlevoix. Melvin said he'd placed an ad in the Traverse City paper and written to the Emmet County Courthouse, but hadn't been able to find out anything about his brothers and sisters.

Melvin said he wrote to Petoskey because his birth certificate says that's where he was born. His older brothers and sisters told him this weekend that the certificate is wrong. A doctor from Boyne City delivered Melvin at the family home in Elmira.

Ken remains the missing piece to the puzzle. The family hasn't had any luck finding him and has very few clues to go on. Chuck said that at one time he heard Ken had been adopted by a family in Gaylord, but he's never been able to confirm that. Ken was placed up for adoption in February of 1949.

Rachel said it's also possible that Ken was adopted out of some type of childcare facility in Grayling. She said that Sharon recalls that she, Melvin and Ken were placed in a building with a lot of other children.

The family doesn't even know if Ken's name is still the same. Some of their first names as well as their last names were changed when they were adopted. Prior to being adopted, Sharon's name was Mildred.

At this weekend's reunion, the brothers and sisters were asked how they felt about being separated.

"So many years went by. And we missed so much of our childhood together," Chuck said.

John gets the most emotional when talking about the separation. He expresses sympathy for Middle Eastern hostages separated from their families.

"In a way, I felt like a hostage," he said.

John has tried to channel some of those emotions in a positive direction. Over the years, he and his wife have taken in several foster children.

"I wanted to make sure they didn't go through what I went through," he says.

But the family didn't spend their reunion commiserating about the problems of the past. Instead, they rejoiced at the way things have turned out.

This weekend almost 100 people, including spouses, children and grandchildren gathered to celebrate the reunion of a family. Against the backdrop of a sad February day in 1949, one might reasonably argue that the celebration was a miracle.

While sitting in the midst of a house filled with brothers, sisters, nieces, nephews and their grandchildren, Ted considered the circumstances which had separated the family for so many years.

He summarized his feelings about those unfortunate circumstances in three words: "We beat 'em."

BEACONS

By Duane Nelson

It says in Amos 5:22, "Even though you bring me burnt offerings and grain offering, I will not accept them. Though you bring choice fellowship offerings, I will have no regard for them" (NIV). Drop an offering in and BOOM out comes a blessing! No God does not deal in bargains but relationships.

Secondly, God will not (cannot) hear the prayer of someone not in a right relationship with Him or attempting to make the relationship right (repenting of one's sins). "But your iniquities have separated you from your God; your sins have hidden his face from you, so that he will not hear" (Isaiah 59:2, NIV). Once the forgiveness of sins takes place through repenting, god will hear us because we are no longer separated from Him because of our sins (iniquities). How can God give back to the person who refuses a relationship with Him and runs from Him because of their sins?

We have set down only part of the foundation for this topic and established two biblically-based trues about God: He will not just drop blessings out of the sky because of our works and will not hear us if our sin stands between us and Him. Our conclusion so far is on our relationship with God, and that gives us a foundational insight into the above scripture and living up to the privileges granted to us as Christians by God. Next week we will look at who God is and what He will do in relation to our scripture and topic.

Mary Novotny

Mary Louise Novotny, 76, of Charlevoix, died June 19, 1990, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals. Funeral was 2 p.m. Friday, June 22, at Christ Episcopal Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. Lander Carter officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Mary Louise Gallagher was born June 10, 1914, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Francis and Emma (Cheney) Gallagher. She was a 1933 graduate of Charlevoix High School and married Frank Novotny September 29, 1944 in Traverse City. The couple made their home in Charlevoix.

Mrs. Novotny was a member of Christ Episcopal Church and a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary No. 1153 in Charlevoix.

She is survived by her husband; one daughter, Mrs. Warren (Betty) Reinhardt of Grayling; seven grandchildren. The family suggests memorials to Christ Episcopal Church. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix, where arrangements were handled.

Group addresses vision problems

By PEG OHLE

A support group for persons with low vision is being formed in Charlevoix County under the auspices of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging and Charlevoix resident Jerome F. DeLaSilva.

DeLaSilva, known locally as "Jerry D.," is serving as temporary chairman of the group. He has low vision and is a familiar sight around town as he comes and goes with his guide dog Mic.

The first meeting of the support group is scheduled for noon Wednesday, July 18 at the Commission on Aging meal site in the V.F.W. Hall on U.S. 31 North. Thereafter, the group will meet the first and third Wednesdays of each month, alternating meetings among the meal sites in Charlevoix, East Jordan, and Boyne City.

Special bus service to the meetings will be supplied by Charlevoix County Transit. Those who need rides should call Carol Willis at the Commission on Aging, 582-7301.

Jerry D. suggests that since people with low vision do not read newspapers, those knowing of people with that problem should advise them of the new low vision support group. Members will talk about their legal rights, the

Charlevoix hosts antique boats

Charlevoix's "Second Annual Antique and Classic Boat Show" will take place June 30 at the city docks in Round Lake.

The show, hosted by the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, began last year. Despite dreary weather, collectors exhibited 18 beautiful old boats which were scrutinized and praised by a steady stream of people.

The Chamber of Commerce initiated the boat show after the Michigan Amateur golf tournament left Charlevoix. The chamber felt an antique and classic boat show would serve as a June drawing card for the community.

"There are a lot of people here with classic and antique boats, so we thought it would be a natural," Chamber of Commerce executive director Jacqueline Merta explained.

"We wanted a quality event and we thought this answered what we wanted."

Charlevoix's protected harbor and downtown docking facilities at the edge of East Park provide a perfect setting for the show.

Antique boat enthusiast Bill Munro provided the chamber with information and pointers on how to organize a successful show. This year, the show is again being organized by people with strong backgrounds in boating.

Bill Stewart chairs the boat show board. He is assisted by board members Bill Bellinger, Jeff Porter, John Danly, John and Vera McKown and Lou Raugh.

While last year's show featured 18 boats, organizers are hoping to have between 25 and 30 exhibited this year. Most of the boats displayed last year were mahogany runabouts.

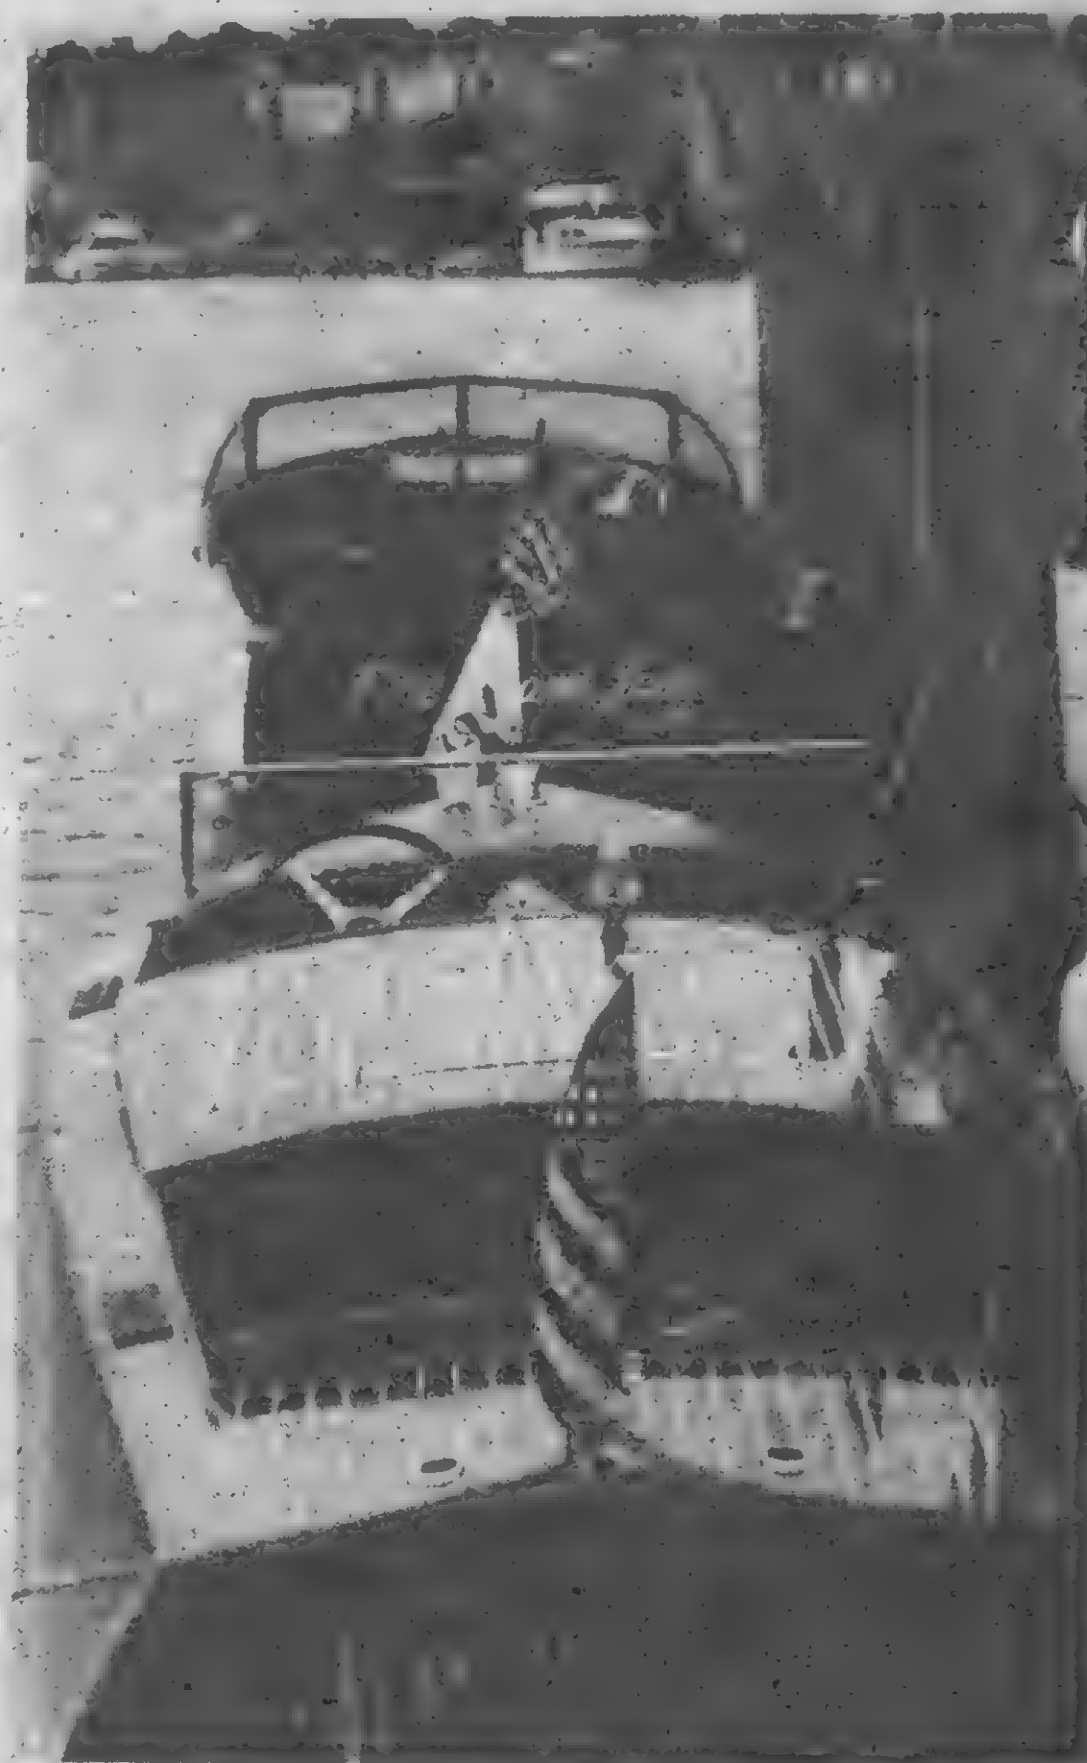

Organizers would like to have a greater variety this year. They want to include sailboats, launches, rowboats, outboards and even canoes for a broad cross section of boating history.

Three awards are presented at the boat show. Awards are given for Peoples Choice, Skippers Choice and to the boat which is Most Historically Significant.

Following the show, the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau sponsors an appreciation cocktail reception for the boaters at Stafford's Weathervane.

While the majority of the boats will be displayed in the water, a couple will be on trailers.

There is a $15 entry fee to exhibit boats. Anyone wishing to display their boat may contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Area prepares for July Fourth celebrations

By PEG OHLE

As Charlevoix gears up for the Venetian Festival July 26, 27, and 28, other towns in the area are ready to celebrate Independence Day.

East Jordan

The four-day celebration will be jammed with activities, including carnival rides, a flea market, art fair, basketball tournament, gymnastics exhibition, men's fast pitch softball games, lip sync contest, antique car show, grand parade, a professional variety show, fireworks, and on Sunday, an event called "Mud Hog."

At 10 a.m. Saturday there will be a Talent in the Park exhibition. Local dancers, singers, musicians and puppeteers will display their talents from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event will also include a fashion show.

The Grand Parade to celebrate Independence Day will begin at 4:30 Saturday afternoon with the theme "New Freedoms for the Nineties." Dan Devine, who coached football in East Jordan during the 1948, 1949, and 1950 seasons then went on to a distinguished college coaching career, will be the Grand Marshall.

The East Jordan Ironworks will sponsor the variety show "Mainstreet," which begins at 8:30. It will feature singers, dancers, and musicians offering songs from yesterday to today.

The fireworks display Saturday night will take place over the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at dusk.

Bozette City

Celebrations will begin Tuesday, July 3, when the Annual Waterside Arts and Crafts Fair sets up shop in the park.

The annual Independence Day Footrace will start Fourth of July activities at 8:30 a.m., and the "Fantasy Fourth of July Parade" will begin moving at 10 a.m. The Fantasy part of the parade will be the fantasy characters who have been invited to town: Miss Piggy, Batman, the Cookie Monster, Mickey Mouse, Ninja turtles, Pink Panther, and others to delight young and old.

The Arts and Crafts Fair will operate all afternoon; a dollhouse will be auctioned off at noon; the duck race will take place at 2:30 in the City Park; there will be a band concert at Veterans Memorial Park from 3 to 6 in the afternoon; the Boyne Valley Raft Race is scheduled for 3:30 in Sunset Park; the Frog Jumping contest will take place at 4:30; the Boyne City Yacht Club Boat Parade will begin at 6; the Eagles Dance will start at 8 and continue to midnight and to top it all, the fireworks display will begin at 10.

Horton Bay

Ever since 1975, people in the area have gone to Horton Bay to see what those people have cooked up for their Fourth of July parade.

This year, when they go back, they will find quite a bit has been "cooked up", say parade organizers.

The long list of entries reveals the fun and creativity which have become the trademark of this homemade red, white, and blue celebration.

A hunting scene by the Voice family—two deer carrying a hunter on a stick; the Ironton Ferries (with three godmothers) Mark Staffels group with music by Robin Berry; the University of Horton Bay Silent Marching Band—the Dillworths, Ripstras, and friends will not violate the noise ordinance; the Whirlwinds Square Dancers—led by Leo Schwartzfisher with Jerry Featherly calling; Horton Bay's Air Force Group—"Be alert, we need all the lerts we can get to fight the enemy so Democracy can prevail."

The list goes on with entries equally entertaining and creative. The theme of this year's parade is "An Impossible Dream," which will be reflected in many entries.

While the Horton Bay parade does not start to move until 1 p.m., spectators are warned to arrive much earlier in order to get a good viewing spot. Also, the Charlevoix-Bozette City Road on the parade route will be closed off well before the parade starts.

Charlevoix city beaches are now open and manned by lifeguards from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week. Serving as lifeguards and swimming instructors this year are (from left) Theresa Brennan, Mark LaBlanc, Valerie Barnes, Bruce Beaudoin, Wendy Crick, Kathy Washburn and Kathy Klimas. Swimming lessons began June 25 and a second session will start July 25. Lessons are available for people aged five to 15 ranging in ability from beginner to advanced. Contact the city recreation department for additional information.

City softball

Kwikie Duplicating, Venture Video and Investment Management and Research (IMR) posted wins in women's softball play June 19.

Kwikie squeaked past Arnold's of East Jordan 7-6. Anna DeAngelo was a force to be reckoned with at the plate for Kwikie as she had three hits. Chris Nunemaker was the winning pitcher. Kim Snowden had three hits for Arnold's.

In another close game, Venture Video beat Wojan Aluminum 8-6. Kathy Cross had three hits for Venture in support of winning pitcher Paula Fralick. Marcie Wynkoop hit a home run and Christie Pearsall had three hits to lead the Wojan team.

IMR just got by Tapawingo-Romas-Rocky Top Farms 14-13. Teresa Noirot led IMR with three hits while Brenda Bruce hit a home run for the losing team. Carrie Nelson was the winning pitcher.

In men's play Wednesday, June 20, Bay Shore Steel Ironworks Quality Limo and Pine Hill Nursery came away with wins.

Bay Shore beat Charlevoix Cinema 8-1. Butch Potter, Chris havens and Gary Smith homered for the winners. Alex Neidzialkowski got the pitching win.

I.Q.L. beat Town House 9-5 behind the pitching of Dave Cole.

Pine Hill beat Charlevoix Assembly of God 15-6 behind the pitching of Ken Peebles.

In women's play Thursday, June 21, IMR, Town House and Kwikie recorded wins.

Little League

Stevens Construction defeated NBD of Boyne City 17-14 in Senior Division Little League play June 20.

Winning pitcher Jody McGlinch tossed a complete game, striking out 13 while allowing only six hits. Ken Olinger had two hits including a home run while McGlinch, Eddie Johnson and Josh Watros also had two hits for the winners.

American Legion-Olesons Foods defeated Dairy Queen 10-3 in Major Little League play Thursday.

T.J. Carey and Gary Leitner combined for the pitching win.

Leitner also took a ball over the wall for a home run. Zak Kehrer had an inside-the-park home run.

Todd Carpenter took the pitching loss while Casey Crain led the Dairy Queen hitters with two hits.

Legion-Olesons followed last week's win by clinching the league title Monday with a 10-5 win over Round Lake Lodge.

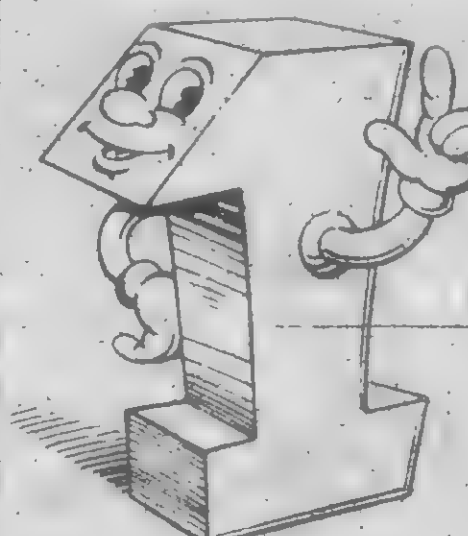

Leitner was again the winning pitcher. He also had two singles and a double in the game. Kehrer had three doubles.

Jim Beall stands among some of his gallery items at his recently opened My Favorite Things shop.

Shop has "favorite things"

"We operate on a gallery concept. We emphasize our framed prints, offset lithographs, and sculptured items. We buy from artists all over the country, most of whom are well recognized."

This is how Jim Beall describes his gift shop, "My Favorite Things," which he recently opened on the south side of Park Street around the corner from Bridge Street.

The Charlevoix shop is a smaller version of the same type of store Beall and his wife Irene have operated on Cass Street in Traverse City for some time. Beall is a native of Traverse City; his father was Dr. John Beall, well-known eye surgeon, so he feels he knows the tastes of his northwest Michigan customers.

Beall is especially proud of his offset lithographs, which he points out are "more affordable" than originals or limited edition prints. "They run in price from $70 to $250. They come in colors that fit into the modern decor, and if someone wants to change a piece in five years or so, they haven't made a great investment."

Another favorite item in the shop is the large and colorful selection of silk flowers, ranging from large peonies to petite lilies of the valley. Each week, customers' names are drawn to receive a basket of bright red geraniums.

Other items for the home featured by My Favorite Things include lamps, rag rugs, porcelain, pewter, unusual picture frames, table linens (including vinyl placemats for cottage use), and baskets for floral arrangements.

Among personal items are several lines of designer jewelry in both dazzling and subtle styles, Bella soap and scent products, greeting cards for all occasions, and many little giftables.

Beall has hired five young women from the Charlevoix area to help run the shop. Cheryl Monteith of Charlevoix is site manager, assisted by Janet Noirof of East Jordan, Barb Boss of Charlevoix, Lisa Guidi of Charlevoix, and Wendy Allen of Central Lake. Guidi and Allen are recent high school graduates, and the others are in varying stages of their college education.

"They are all friendly and outgoing," Beall says of his employees. "We offer good service, treat our customers well, and always welcome them."

My Favorite Things is open from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. Beall and his wife Irene are in the shop three days a week, usually on Wednesday, Friday, and Sunday.

"We have been warmly welcomed here," Beall says of Charlevoix. "We looked all over the north before settling on Charlevoix for our satellite store."

WATCH plans annual meeting

The Annual Meeting of WATCH, Inc. will take place at 8:30 a.m., July 7, at the First Congregational Church, Fellowship Hall, 101 State Street.

The agenda will include guest speaker, John Rohe, an attorney and environmental advocate, who will address the topic of growth in Northern Michigan. "Balancing Growth with Community Interest" is the title of his speech. Rohe is active in the Growth and Development Forum group which recently wrote the essay "The Year—1999" and its sequel about the year 2020.

In addition, WATCH members will elect the Board of Directors.

Lastly, the Presentation of Scholarships to the three high school senior winners will be made by WATCH Executive Administrator, Michelle Rick-Biddick. Winners include Chad DeYoung, Tim Henne, and Christie Barber.

Please contact Michelle Rick-Biddick at 547-5530 if you plan to attend. Parents and interested others are welcome and encouraged. Any members who are unable to attend, please mail your proxy card to WATCH, Inc. P.O. Box 615 Charlevoix, MI 49720.

agencies which offer services for the visually impaired; and practical skills for independent living. A similar group has been meeting in Emmet County for some time, with some Charlevoix County residents attending.

Chris Curtin, a registered nurse who covers Charlevoix

County for Northwest Senior Resources (parent agency of the County Commission on Aging), says she has found at least 20 people who could benefit from such a support group.

"The quality of life is the issue for the visually impaired," Curtin said. "Being unable to read or drive can take some of the pleasure out of life. It's important to maximize what you have."

With transportation being made available to the meetings, and a hot lunch being served there, persons with low vision will be motivated to get out of the house, Curtin believes. "There may be some resistance at first. However, once the group is in place and working, the people will realize they're not alone," she added.

Oral Sutliff of the County Commission on Aging wrote in a letter to Jerry D. "The desire of elderly people is strong, to remain in their homes and be as independent as possible. We feel that a support group that offers information on dealing with low vision would help the elderly and their families. One of the first assists to the support group was a gift last week by the First State Bank of Charlevoix of 50 embossed Guideline checkbooks, larger than regular checkbooks with embossed printing and guidelines for easy writing. Writing checks is a difficult chore for persons with low vision, Jerry D. pointed out.

COMPLETE MINUTES ARE AVAILABLE AT CITY HALL DURING REGULAR BUSINESS HOURS.

Who doesn't feel like having a little fun with their money now and then? But for the most part, a game isn't thought to be a smart money management tactic.

That is, unless the game is like the First of America Great Rate Sweepstakes that guarantees you'll win bonus interest on deposits. Up to one percent. And that's on selected savings products already offering competitive returns.

Come in between now and July 31 and get a game envelope. You'll win other great prizes and have a chance at the $25,000 Loan Pay-Off or Deposit Bonus Grand Prize.

So enter the Great Rate Sweepstakes. It may not be the only game in town. But it is one you can't lose.

Jury convicts driver of negligent homicide

After deliberating for ten hours, a jury found Kenneth Schrum guilty of negligent homicide in the traffic accident which killed Bob and Maxine Drenth. Following Friday's verdict, the 26-year-old Warren man faces sentencing July 23.

The verdict concluded a four-day trial stemming from a Sept. 17, 1989 accident at a curve near the cemetery on Marion Center Road. Schrum and a friend, Scott Hartley, were in Charlevoix to fish for salmon. At the time of the accident, they were driving toward town. The Drenths were on their way home following a Sunday evening church service.

According to testimony, Schrum lost control of his 1986 Dodge Conquest while coming around the curve. Schrum's car went into the Drenths' lane and the cars collided.

Schrum and Hartley both survived. Hartley was a key prosecution witness at the trial.

Charlevoix County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman charged Schrum with two counts of manslaughter with a motor vehicle. The jury convicted Schrum of negligent homicide, a lesser charge.

The manslaughter charge carries a maximum penalty of 15 years in prison. Negligent homicide carries a maximum penalty of up to two years in prison.

To convict Schrum of manslaughter, the jury would have had to find that Schrum acted with gross negligence. A conviction of negligent homicide required a finding of only ordinary negligence.

Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas officiated the trial and explained the legal difference between ordinary and gross negligence to the jury.

Pajtas explained that ordinary negligence is "want of reasonable care." It is not doing what an ordinarily sensible person would do. Ordinary negligence is characterized by thoughtlessness, heedlessness and inattention.

Gross negligence is willful, wanton and reckless disregard and indifference to the rights of others. A finding of gross negligence requires a jury to find that a defendant knew of a danger, had the ability to avoid harming other people yet failed to use care and diligence when it was apparent that serious harm could result.

During the trial, Lieberman attempted to prove that Schrum was guilty of gross negligence.

Hartley testified that one day before the accident, Schrum had trouble negotiating the curve where the accident occurred. Hartley also testified that seconds before the accident he told Hartley to slow down, but that Schrum did not do so.

State police accident reconstruction expert Joel Mars testified that according to his calculations a vehicle would have to be going at least 63 to 67 miles per hour through the curve before losing traction.

Mechanic Ron Gates testified that the engine of the Schrum vehicle indicates that it was accelerating at the time of the accident.

Barry Loper, of Marion Center Road, testified that a short time before the accident

Schrum boasted about how much alcohol he had been drinking earlier in the day.

Defense attorney Steven R. Sorenberg of Southfield attempted to counter the prosecution by indicating that road conditions and Schrum's lack of familiarity with the road were the primary causes of the accident.

Schrum's testimony conflicted with Hartley's. Schrum said he did not have a problem the day before the accident on the curve where the accident happened. Instead, he said he had a minor problem on a different curve closer to town earlier on the day of the accident. He said the problem was just a matter of a wheel

City taken to court again because of a zoning decision

Fred Spooner has filed an appeal in Circuit Court over the city's denial of zoning variance requests and a site plan to build a home on a narrow lot along the south shore of Round Lake.

Spooner wants to build a single family residence on a narrow lot at 119 Belvedere Avenue, just to the west of Bellinger Marine Service. The lot is zoned Marine Commercial.

The central question of the appeal is whether Marine Commercial or Residential zoning setbacks apply to the project. Marine Commercial setback requirements are less stringent than Residential requirements, therefore allowing a larger building. The city zoning board of appeals (ZBA) used Residential setback requirements in denying several variances requested by Spooner. Subsequently, the city planning commission and city council rejected Spooner's site plan. Following the ZBA's May 16 decision, the planning commission recommended the site plan be rejected May 23. The city council concurred with the planning commission June 4 and Spooner filed an appeal to the Circuit Court June 6.

Sharlene Spooner and R.J. Butler are also listed as plaintiffs in the appeal. Butler sold the property to Spooner with the provision that if Spooner can't build a residence on the property, Butler will buy it back. Charles Johnson of Petoskey is listed as the plaintiff's attorney, although at city meetings attorney Jim Murray spoke on Spooner's behalf.

At the June 4 council meeting, Murray argued that Spooner could build a larger commercial building than the residence proposed in the site plan. Murray said Spooner is "trying to build a nice home versus a big commercial building, and not having much luck."

At the beginning of the council discussion, city attorney

Jim Young advised the council that given ZBA denial of the variances, it would be difficult for the council to do anything other than reject the site plan.

"The way your (zoning) ordinance is written, the ZBA decides on variances. Not you folks," Young explained to the council members.

Murray said the lot is small and slopes toward the water.

Council member Cheri Hoffman noted that the site plan requires four variances and she had a problem approving so many. She also cited the city attorney's opinion that the council can't override the ZBA.

A motion to reject the site plan passed by a 3-1 vote. Hoffman, Ken Whitley and Jim Potter voted for the motion to reject the plan. Bill Haggard voted against it. Butch Russell was absent from the meeting and Pat Gaskin abstained because she lives near the lot in question.

As of June 2, the city had not filed a response to the appeal.

by Geoffrey D. Reynolds

Now that summer has arrived, according to the calendar that is, the fishing industry in Charlevoix is at its best. But the type of fishing Gerald Left did as a boy and young man is all but a memory to most people who have spent some time in Charlevoix. His type of fishing was hard, rough, and exhausting as he and his father dropped and lifted nets for years in the waters of Lake Michigan surrounding the Beavers.

"My father, Frank Left, was a commercial fisherman from Beaver Island, as was my grandfather Joseph Left. And when I was ten years old I became a fisherman too. My two older brothers were partial to seasickness, so I had to help my father when he went out onto the lake to fish. I think I might have missed about five days total that I didn't fish on my father's boat before I entered high school.

"When I was in high school on the island, I didn't work every day with my father, because of school. But I remember a few times when one or two of the men wouldn't show up for work, and my mother would wake me up about six a.m. to help my father. I would think to myself about how much easier it would be to go to school, but instead I had to go out on father's boat, the A.M. Link, and fish all day.

"When we went out I was either a deck fisherman or the engine man. When I was on deck fishing I helped lower and raise the nets. We usually dropped about half a 'gang' of nets. This was equal to about half-a-mile of nets. The nets had weights on the bottom to pull them down onto the banks where fishing and the cedar floats on the top of the net would make it float. It looked like a fence on the bottom of the lake with our buoy floating on the surface to mark it.

"When I was below decks I ran the one-cylinder engine. I had to run the boat real slow, backwards and forwards, so that the deck men could drop and raise the nets. I was only ten years old and it was tough to swing that engine lever back and forth to control the tug. Sometimes the cylinder would stop and I would have to yell to one of the men on deck to help me get the cylinder running again.

"When we finished fishing for the day we would sell our catch to the fish companies that paid the most per pound. Companies like Booths, Beetle, and Robinson's Fish Company bought our fish. One time Olaf Nordrum, of Booths, offered Fred Sondenborgh a good price per pound, but they had to have their heads cut off, and Fred told him that he couldn't figure out how to catch fish with their heads already off!"

Program helps families communicate

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood (NMPP) is continuing a program called "The Family to Family Education Network," which was tested as a pilot program in 1989.

According to an NMPP news release, "Family to Family's" objective is to encourage open, honest family discussion about relationships, sexuality, and family values and to impart a base of factual information. One of the precepts of "Family to Family" is that parents are and should be the primary sexuality educators of their children.

The "Family to Family" program was developed in response to parents who said they're concerned about helping their teenagers get the correct information about sexuality, but aren't quite sure how to where to begin.

According to "Family to Family" program coordinator Christine Painter, workshops stress all or portions (depending on the desires of the group) of the following areas of discussion:

- 1. Communication skills for parents and young people;
- 2. Discussion of family, church and community values;
- 3. Discussion of relationships and social influences;

- 4. Learning about goal setting, decision-making and gaining self esteem;
- 5. Providing factual information on: anatomy, sexually transmitted diseases, teenage sexuality, pregnancy prevention and available community and agency resources;
- 6. Providing tools for future interactions between parents and young people.

"Family to Family" is coordinated through the NMPP offices with workshops conducted by trained teams of Outreach Educators. NMPP is currently recruiting outreach teams who will present the program to interested groups throughout Emmet, Antrim, Cheboygan, Otsego and Charlevoix counties.

The "Family to Family" program is available to small groups throughout northern Michigan free of charge. The Michigan Department of Social Services is funding the program through January 1991 with a goal of reaching 600 families.

People interested in scheduling a workshop or learning more about the program may phone (616) 347-9692.

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

Hoops for young and old

One thing leads to another. Last Thursday morning, I went up to the high school and took photos of the fourth grade boys' basketball camp. Basketball coach Jim Kanine had about 15 of the little nippers scurrying around the gym.

At the fourth grade level, the kids are just learning basketball fundamentals. And in this case, fundamentals doesn't just mean dribbling, passing and shooting. Those are advanced fundamentals. There are things even fundamentals. One basic fundamental is when the coach says pick a guy to guard, pick a guy who's on the other team. As a general rule, you don't guard your own teammates. That may seem like a picky little detail. And yet, it's important.

By the end of the week, most of the kids had mastered the basic fundamentals and were working on that passing, dribbling and shooting stuff. They were throwing the ball and chasing it around and having a pretty good time. It was just an introduction to the game and gave the kids a foundation to build upon.

Saturday, I went to Bellaire and played in a three-on-three tournament. Little kids' basketball camps are at the beginning of the basketball cycle. Summer three-on-three tournaments are at the end of it.

It's hard to appreciate just how popular the game of basketball is until you see one of these three-on-three tournaments.

The Bellaire tournament takes place in a little park near the center of town. It started a few years ago when some people wanted Bellaire to host some type of summer festival event. The initial plan was to have a canoe race on the Chain Of Lakes. The basketball tournament was kind of an afterthought, or a supplemental event.

Now they don't bother with the canoe race anymore, but the basketball tournament is going great guns. This year they had 42 teams in the 17-35 year-old mens' division and another 15 or 20 teams in the high school boys division. They also had a few teams in the geezers division for guys 35 and older. Sunday, they had a girls tournament.

They also had a three-point shooting competition. For a $2 entry fee, a person could see how many three-point shots they could make in a minute. At the end of the competition, the top finisher took home 75 percent of the money. Talk about popular, you had to wait in line about 15 minutes to take your best shot.

I watched one lady pay the entry fee for her kid. He was a short chubby kid, who couldn't have been more than eight or nine years old. When it got to be the little guy's turn, he heaved up rainbow shots for the full minute and just before time ran out made a couple. The competition in the three-on-three tournament was good. There were several players with college experience.

At the meeting for team captains prior to the tournament, the tournament director said, "The talent in this tournament gets better every year."

I turned to the guy next to me and said, "Not mine. Every year I get older and have less time to practice."

In the high school division, a kid (if you can call anyone standing about 6'9", a kid) named Chris Webber played. Webber, who will be a senior this year, is one of the top college basketball prospects in the nation. Rumor had it that somebody from Bellaire called Webber up and asked him if he would come up and play. He and his family and one of his high school teammates came up for the tournament.

Webber and company barely broke a sweat in winning the high school division. In between games, Webber chatted with people and signed autographs. He seemed to be an amiable and pleasant guy.

After the high school kids finished up, the geezers division played on the same court. Now there was a study in contrast. One minute the court contained kids who had more energy than they knew what to do with. The next minute it held old guys who had energy they weren't sure what they'd done with.

In order to keep the rims from getting bent, the tournament has a no-dunking rule. That might have held back some of the high school kids and 17 to 35 year olds, but in the geezers division, the no-dunking rule didn't seem to cramp anyone's game.

The old guys didn't worry about dunks or other flashy stuff. They just stuck to the fundamentals: dribbling, passing, and shooting.

In a way, the principals at play kind of reminded me of the kids' basketball camp.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Dressed to kill...or bowl

With the season of junior proms just ending and the season of summer weddings just starting, I know you are fairly panting to learn where we got the word "tuxedo."

You aren't?

I'll tell you anyway, because I ran across the word in Webster's Dictionary the other day and I don't know what to do with my newly acquired information.

I always assumed Tuxedo was a seaport in one of the Mediterranean countries, probably one supported by casino gambling. But I was wrong. I must have been thinking about Toledo, Spain, or Toledo, Ohio, neither of which is on the Mediterranean Sea.

Tuxedo Park is in the foothills of the Pocono Mountains, just a short hop north of New York City and the New Jersey border.

The dictionary doesn't say, but I assume the tuxedo was some kind of costume adopted by the Tuxedo Park Country Club for its male members.

It is described as "a man's tailless, semiformal jacket for evening wear, orig. black and with satin lapels; dinner jacket." The second definition is "a suit of such a jacket and dark trousers, worn with a dark bow tie."

White ties, in case you have forgotten, are worn only with swallow-tailed coats. Such outfits apparently are not considered tuxedos in the strictest sense of the word.

To the best of my recollection, I have only worn a tux once in my life. I was forced to rent one so I could be an usher at a friend's wedding.

For my own wedding, if memory serves, I wore an orange bowling shirt, blue jeans, white sweat socks and tennis shoes.

If that particular combination of clothing ever gains wide acceptance, I suggest we call it a "toledo" to differentiate it from your standard tuxedo.

The point here is that I am not exactly a clothes horse. But I am fascinated by the fact that the world is filled with people who attend so many top-flight social events that they actually own their own tuxedos.

WILL THE euphoria surrounding the visit of South Africa's Nelson Mandela to the United States ever subside?

Probably not right away. He is a remarkable gentleman who has led a remarkable life—a third of which was spent behind bars as a political prisoner of the white South African government.

How long would you be willing to remain in prison for your beliefs?

Good question.

In Mandela's case, the long incarceration certainly must have been made easier by the certain knowledge that he was right and his captors were wrong.

A few years ago, the University of Michigan refused to grant Mandela an honorary degree in absentia despite pressure from blacks and liberals in general.

Now I wonder if the governing board would change its mind if the proposal comes up again?

Mandela plans a return trip to the United States in October. That would be a good time to confer the degree, if Mandela can work another trip to Michigan into his schedule.

LAST WEEK I recounted the mental anguish I went through trying to remember the name of Willard Waterman who played "The Great Gildersleeve."

However, I was only partially correct, according to Howard and Rosemary Horton of Charlevoix who are into radio and TV trivia.

Waterman did play Throckmorton P. Gildersleeve in the early days of television, and probably in the movies as well; but the original radio role was created by someone named Harold Peary.

I don't remember this guy at all, but I certainly remember hearing "The Great Gildersleeve" on radio.

Rosemary says the voices of Peary and Waterman were very much alike, which is probably why Waterman was asked to play the role on television.

Letters to the Editor:

Students visiting Russia

Editor,

Many weeks ago seven of our area high school students signed up for a trip to the Soviet Union. Not exactly an easy decision, as it costs a hefty bundle of rubles to fly that far and then travel by deluxe bus for three weeks through many cities of Russia. Unthinkable just two years ago.

Some of the students had more resources, but none had enough money. Overly solicited and usually generous civic groups mostly responded by suggesting, "they earn their own way." The students proceeded to do just that. The challenge turned out to be a worthy dividend, giving them responsibilities and goals.

Later, as they fastened their seat belts in the plane, a wide range of feelings must have surfaced, a great relief, a personal victory, and visions of interesting experiences to come.

People to People International is sponsoring this journey through its Friendship Caravan; its local chapter, Charlevoix International Club, assisted the students in their efforts to come up with the required costs. Three area donors generously gave a total of $2,000, which in turn resulted in a $2,000 grant from the People to People home office, thus giving each of the seven students a $750 reduction on their expenses.

The Charlevoix International Club also offered different ways to raise funds. Such as pushing Burger King and Pizza Hut coupons, can and bottle collecting, and selling very attractive T-shirts, 110 of them, designed by the high school art class. Each of the kids did their own thing, like one of them came up with $300 of Glen slips, another mailed out 120 letters in Boyne City and received in return $2,000. And one student from the bowl-a-thon and working after school realized $2100.

So the seven students, mostly on their own raised almost ten thousand dollars. They studied Russian language tapes and attended six orientation sessions conducted by Mrs. Doris Lundteigen, their teacher-leader on the soviet visit. Our students were in the second contingent leaving Washington, D.C. People to People's Friendship Caravan will be sending 2000 students through out the summer to forty some cities in Soviet Republics.

So Sunday morning, June 17th, Troy Bonar, Katherine Campbell, Scott Campbell, Edith Pair and Tonya Rostar from Charlevoix, Jennifer Breidenstein of Boyne City and Julie Brunett of East Jordan and their families came together at the Traverse City airport. The students all eager to begin an exciting foreign experience, equal to two years of regular school education. As the plane took off they never looked back. They were finally on their way to Moscow.

On this very day and date they will be meeting the Soviet citizens in the city of Narva.

Hand - Shue

Marcia & John Shue

Marcia Hand and John Shue exchanged marriage vows Saturday, May 19, in the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

The Rev. Bruce Hamilton officiated at the ceremony, assisted by the Rev. John F. Shue.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Hand of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Shue of Pueblo, Colorado.

Karen Kellogg, a cousin of the bride, served as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Linda Jolliffe, Nikki Kuchinski, and Sally Miller, all of Charlevoix, and Becki Crandle of Portage. Kelly Hand, a niece of the bride, of Central Lake, and Dana Johnson, another niece, of Aurora, Colorado, shared flower girl duties.

Travis Shue, the bridegroom's brother, of Pueblo, was best man in absentia because of surgery.

Justin Shue, another brother, served as groomsman, along with Elvis Alicia of Anderson, Indiana, Dave Adams of Attica, Indiana, and Craig Holman of Cromwell, Indiana.

Russell Hand, the bride's brother, of Charlevoix, and Steve Dierks of Carmel, Indiana were ushers. Rayne Johnson, nephew of the bride, of Aurora, was ringbearer.

The bride is a 1986 graduate of Charlevoix High School and later attended Anderson University in Indiana, where she met her husband. The newlyweds are now living in Colorado Springs, Colorado.

Dale and Janis Glass of Charlevoix have announced the engagement of their daughter, Laura Glass of Tonawanda, N.Y., to Scott Thomas, also of New York. Thomas is the son of Wayne and Judy Thomas of Kernersville, N.C.

The bride-elect is a 1990 graduate of State University of New York, Empire State College, with a bachelor's degree in environmental journalism.

Her fiancé is a 1977 graduate of Washington and Lee University and is an author.

The couple will be married Aug. 18 in Tonawanda, N.Y.

Services to aging input sought

The Michigan Office of Services to the Aging (OSA) is asking for public comment on proposed services for older adults to be offered during the next fiscal year.

OSA Director Olivia P. Maynard, in commenting on the importance of such public input, stated: "We want programs and services to be what people really need and we depend on what seniors and others tell us at public hearings and by written communications."

Of special interest to northern Michigan is the ruling that next year senior citizens in rural areas will be put in the category of having "greatest economic or social need."

Also new in the proposed plan is the bringing together of employers, job developers, service providers, older workers, and the aging network to discuss ways of coordinating resources for the employment of senior citizens.

Consideration is also being given to the problems of home care for frail elderly persons. It is hoped that arrangements can be made to charge home care fees through Medicaid reimbursements and through coordination with other human service programs.

In Charlevoix County, the County Commission on Aging is concentrating its efforts on congregating noon meals, home-delivered meals, homemaker service (indoor), homecare service (outdoor), home repair service, friendly visitor calls, senior center operations, and information and referral services.

Comments about present services and the need for other services should be addressed to: Office of Services to the Aging, P. O. Box 30026, Lansing, Michigan 48909.

touching a tarred spot near the road shoulder.

Schrum testified that he doesn't recall Hartley telling him to slow down just before the accident. Schrum said he came into the curve at 55 miles per hour or less and lost control. He said he tried to regain control, but there was nothing he could do.

Sonenberg questioned speed calculations made by Mars. In his closing argument, Sonenberg said that if the curve is safe at 55, why didn't Mars, or any of the other officers who testified, drive through it at 55. Sonenberg called a traffic engineer from Troy to the stand. That traffic engineer testified that according to his calculations, a car would begin to lose traction on the curve at between 48 and 53 miles per hour.

Sonenberg noted that following the crash, Schrum's speedometer was locked at 54 miles per hour. He said that if, as Gates said, the car was accelerating at impact, then Schrum must have been going less than 54 miles an hour when he entered the curve.

Schrum denied Loper's testimony that he had bragged before the accident about how much alcohol he had consumed.

Sonenberg introduced as evidence pictures, taken six weeks after the accident, which showed patches on the road. Fred Welch, of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, testified that the patchwork was just routine maintenance done in preparation for winter.

Lieberman, in his closing argument, told the jury that throughout the trial the defense tried to divert responsibility from Schrum.

Lieberman referred to five witnesses who examined the roadway following the accident and testified that there was nothing wrong with it.

"Any attempt to shift the responsibility for this accident to the road surface falls short," the prosecutor said.

Lieberman argued that the defendant claims that anyone who disagrees with his account of the accident is mistaken. Lieberman to four witnesses who would have to be mistaken, according to the defense's position.

"Do you start to see a pattern here?" he asked the jury.

Lieberman referred specifically to contradictions between Hartley's and Schrum's testimony.

"If you believe Hartley, there's no question the defendant operated in a grossly negligent manner," the prosecutor said and noted that Hartley is the only surviving witness.

In regard to the disparity in testimony about which curve Schrum had problems on prior to the accident, Lieberman pointed out that Hartley had been familiar with Marion Center Road for 16 years and was not likely to be mistaken about which curve the problem occurred at.

Lieberman told jurors, the defendant wanted them to believe he doesn't know much about the road, yet knows which curve he had the problem on.

Lieberman referred to a quote from a Spanish philosopher that says, "Those who do not learn from their mistakes are condemned to repeat them." He said that when Schrum did not learn from his earlier mistake on the curve he condemned himself to repeat it and in doing so condemned Bob and Maxine Drenth to die.

In his closing argument, Sonenberg argued that Schrum had not operated in a wanton and reckless manner. He said that Schrum was wearing his seatbelt and had driven eight miles before reaching the curve without any problem.

"Mr. Schrum did not change from a good driver to a grossly negligent driver. The road changed," Sonenberg said.

"The curve had more to do with this than anything else," Sonenberg maintained.

Regarding incongruities between Schrum and Hartley's testimony, Sonenberg said that Schrum remembered details while Hartley's did not and his testimony changed over time. Sonenberg accused Hartley of "tailoring testimony" to fit what other witnesses said.

"There are no winners in this case," Sonenberg told the jurors. He told them that if they told Schrum to go home and get on with his life, he still wouldn't win. He told them that if they threw the book at Schrum it still wouldn't bring back the Drenths.

The jury began deliberation at about 3:30 p.m. Thursday. They deliberated until 8 p.m. and broke for the night and resumed at 8:30 Friday morning. They came back into court several times. On one occasion they asked for written copies of the charges and a blank chalkboard. Those were provided. On another occasion they asked for some examples of cases reflecting the differing degrees of negligence. Pajtas said those could not be provided.

Shortly before 3 p.m., the jury came back into court and declared Schrum guilty of two counts of negligent homicide. Pajtas said that Schrum will be sentenced July 23, following a presentence investigation.

Although each count carries a maximum sentence of up to two years in prison, sentences on separate counts in Michigan are normally served concurrently (as one) rather than consecutively (serving first one and then the other).

Grandvue Auxiliary to install officers

The Grandvue Medical Facility Auxiliary will host their annual Membership and Installation Potluck at noon, July 12 at the facility. Each member is asked to bring a dish to pass and table service.

The group's fiscal year ends June 30 and the group will renew memberships at the July 12 meeting.

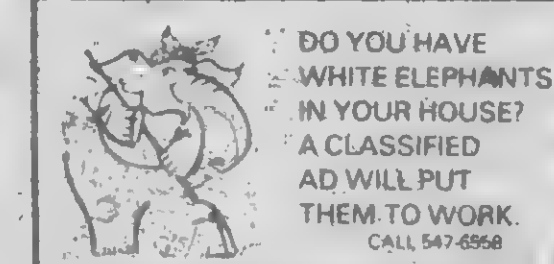

1990-91 officers who will be installed are: President, Ruby VanAlstine of Boyne City; Vice President, Mary Glenna Malpass of East Jordan; Corresponding Secretary, Claudia Grusch of East Jordan; Secretary, Jean Korthase of Boyne City; and Treasurer, Mary M. Geiken of Charlevoix.

The Grandvue Auxiliary is preparing for their annual Tag Day July 20. Proceeds from this year's Tag Day will be used for a Gurney to be used with Grandvue's Century bath tubs.

Grandvue workers, residents and auxiliary members are also preparing to mark the facility's 100th birthday which will be observed during the second weekend in August.

Betty J. Cooper

Betty J. Cooper, 58, of Ironton, died June 27, 1990, at Otsego Memorial Hospital.

The former Betty J. Orvis was born May 13, 1932, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Vaughan and Lydia (Halverson) Orvis. She grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1950.

She then attended Michigan State University where she earned a business degree. She worked for Capitol Airlines in Detroit and on May 13, 1953, she married William C. Cooper in Flint. The couple moved to Pellston in 1953 and to Ironton in 1954.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper owned and operated King's Restaurant in Charlevoix for a number of years. They had wintered in Hawaii since 1985.

Mrs. Cooper was a member of the Ironton Congregational Church and attended the Michigan School for the Blind in 1983. She also did volunteer work with the blind.

Survivors include her husband; three sons, Scott G. of Stuart, Fla., Eric W. of Jacksonville, Fla., and Garrett D. of Pensacola, Fla.; two daughters, Denise M. Regdon of Jacksonville, Fla., and Mrs. Doug (Callie A.) Daugherty of Petoskey; two brothers, Vaughn Orvis of Ironton and Sam Orvis of Flint; two sisters, Audrey Russell of Charlevoix and Mary Hill of Alanson; five grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Ironton Congregational Church or to the Lupus Foundation of America, 1717 Massachusetts Ave. N.W., Suite 203, Washington D.C. 20006.

No services are scheduled at this time. Arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home.

Ruby L. Davis

Ruby L. Davis, 88, died June 24 in Okemos. Davis was born in Petoskey, but spent most of her life in Charlevoix. In recent years she resided in Tecumseh and Haslett.

Davis was preceded in death by her husband R.T. and a son, John, in 1975. Surviving are her daughter, Patricia Lelling of Detroit, and son, Ritchie Davis of Bath. She is also survived by five grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at the Carlsline-Runciman East Chapel in East Lansing. Interment was in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Contributions in memory of Davis may be made to the Charlevoix Baptist Church where she was a lifelong member.

Local musician receives award

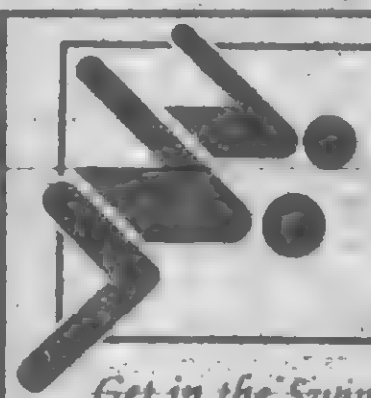

Charlevoix musician Kurt Puffpuff recently received an award for finishing fourth out of 50,000 entrants in a national amateur song writing competition. Puffpuff entered his song "Sweet Dreams" in the pop category of the Second Annual Billboard Song Writing contest.

Puffpuff has written and produced two tapes of his songs. "Sweet Dreams" was taken from the first tape titled "Puff I - Don't Wait 'Til It's Too Late." The second tape was titled "Puff II."

Puffpuff is currently writing songs and putting funds together to record a third tape. When finished, the tape will be forwarded to radio stations and record companies across the United States.

"November Bells," one of the songs which will be on the third tape, has drawn the attention of the Great Lakes Shipwreck Historical Society. The Society is putting together a special documentary on the Edmund Fitzgerald and is considering the song as part of the musical accompaniment.

BUSINESS

Rose Cottage antique shop is now open

By Peg OHLE

Tucked between the Charlevoix Post Office and a city parking lot on Mason Street is a small frame house painted a soft rose color and surrounded by a white picket fence with a border of old-fashioned flowers. That house has been there for a long time; in fact, it is one of the oldest houses in Charlevoix. The house lay vacant for several years, but it was bought and restored a few years ago for use as a gift shop.

Now, Jinx Panoast, who owns Stonehill Antiques in Bloomfield Hills, has restored the house further and opened "Rose Cottage Antiques."

Panoast and her husband Bob are not newcomers to Charlevoix. They bought an old Victorian house at the corner of Park and Grant Streets six years ago and have restored it to its original beauty. They spend their summers in Charlevoix now, and as much time during other parts of the year as possible.

Walking into Rose Cottage is rather like walking into the home of a favorite old aunt who has more treasures from years gone by than she has room for, but which she wouldn't part with for the world.

However, Panoast will part with her treasures because she likes to have other people enjoy nice things. These "nice things" include Early American pieces such as a pie safe, pine hutch table, child's desk, trunks, coffee grinder, and child's rocker. Eighteenth Century English pieces like a corner cupboard, blanket box, occasional tables, and framed prints; bedroom furnishings, including brass bed; white wicker pieces, and lots of white starched linens to cover everything.

There are smaller pieces galore: toys, table ornaments, decorative plates, wall hangings, lamps, the more modern rag rugs and candles, and just about everything to help make a house a home.

People going to the Rose Cottage should look at the outside floral plantings, and when approaching the front door, notice the beautiful wood and glass and brass door handle. When inside, see the wooden floors and the narrow stairway steps to the second floor painted in two colors and hand-decorated with designs. This old Charlevoix house has a new lease on life.

The Rose Cottage is open four days a week, Wednesday through Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Panoast is handling it herself right now, although husband Bob does much of the behind-the-scenes heavy work and assists on buying trips.

Home Tour scheduled for July 11

By PEG OHLE

The Charlevoix Area Hospital will once again benefit from Kappa Sigma Sorority's Home Tour, which will take place next Wednesday, July 11.

Six Charlevoix residents are opening their homes for viewing from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

The tour, which has become an anticipated event, has grown to the point where the number of tickets sold is being limited to 1,000, according to Michele Dipert, tour chairman. Tickets, at $10 each, are now available in Charlevoix at the Shop of the Gulls, the Apple Tree, and the Chamber of Commerce office. They are also available at the Tin Soldier in Harbor Springs, and Chamber of Commerce offices in Boyne City, Petoskey, East Jordan, and Traverse City. In addition, they will be available at all six homes on the day of the tour. Children under 12 are not permitted on the tour.

This year's Home Tour will not require much driving or walking between homes. Two of them are on Belvedere Avenue just two blocks apart, three of them are on Mt. McSaubia Road, within walking distance of each other, and the last one is within easy driving distance of these three.

The homes and their numbers are:

No. 2: The home of Robert and Jean Hater at 401 Belvedere Avenue. This home is just two blocks down the street from the Perreys. It is also on the left side of the street, but on Belvedere Club grounds. It is described as an "Historic Cottage with Classic Styling."

These are the only two open houses on the south side of town. To get to the others, turn around and driving north on Bridge Street and U. S. 31 to Mercer Boulevard, at the far end of the Charlevoix Golf Course. Turn right at the corner.

No. 3: The home of Ron and Mary Pair, located at 501, is about three-tenths of a mile from the highway. It is described as a "Traditional House on a Golf Course."

Leave the Pair home and drive back to U. S. 31. Cross the highway and continue to Waller Avenue. Turn left there and drive on to the end of Waller Avenue, which is Mt. McSaubia Road. Turn left on Mt. McSaubia, past Beechwood Drive and Carson Avenue to the private road bearing the sign "Colorado Club," 08439.

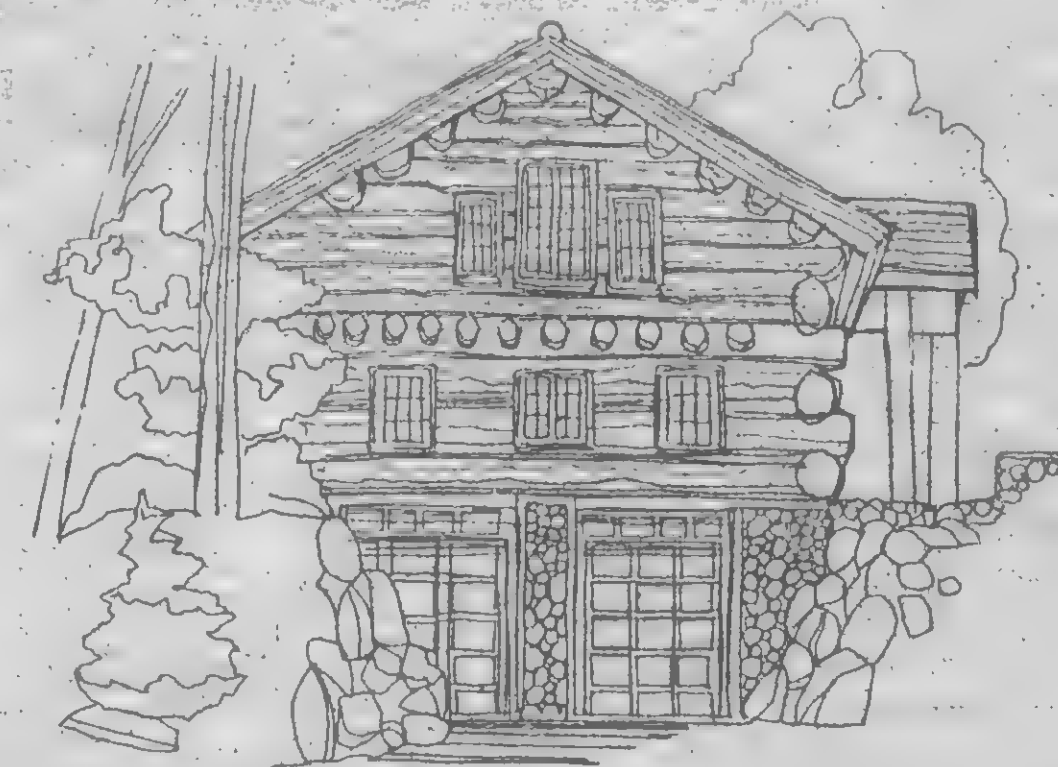

No. 4: The home of Tom and Kris Thomas is on Colorado Club grounds. It is a contemporary house built of stone and cedar which the owners call "Sunset House" because Lake Michigan sunsets can be viewed from every room in the house, and from the many deck areas.

No. 5: The home of Lou and Kathy Mettler is also on the Colorado Club grounds. It is a large log cabin finished with a Ralph Lauren interior.

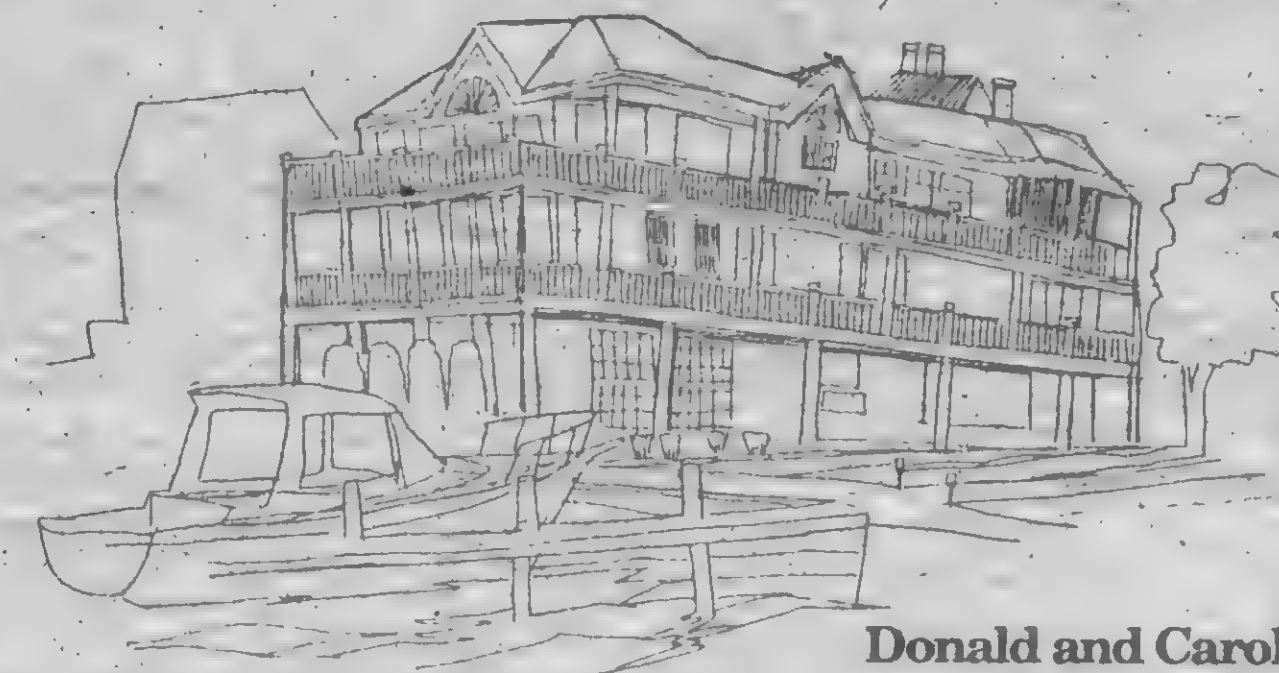

No. 6: Within a short walking distance of these two homes is the cottage of Virginia Olsen, at the corner of Michigan Avenue and Mt. McSaubia Road. Her "Applecore Cottage" is a unique rounded design with a curving roof and surrounded by an old-fashioned garden. The garden will provide the setting for a reception for tour-goers. The house itself will not be open for the tour.

Grange donates phone for hearing impaired

Deaf people may now phone the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department. Last week the Barnard Grange donated a Telecommunications Device for the Deaf (TDD) to the Department.

The TDD is hooked into a phone line, but works like a typewriter or computer keyboard. Lisa Graham, a hearing impaired person who has a TDD in her home, showed sheriff's department staff members how to operate the machine.

Purchasing the machine and installing it cost about $600 according to Grange official Donna Stevens. The money was raised through donations, a barn dance and several other fundraising events. The TDD is the latest of several things the Grange has done to help deaf people in the area.

The phone number for the Sheriff's Department TDD is (616) 547-1009. Sheriff George Lasater would like area people with TDDs to call the department so he can compile a record of those who might call on the machine.

H&R Block Franchise Available

We are seeking a responsible individual capable of operating a volume business for the largest income tax preparation firm in the world. Prior tax knowledge is helpful, but not necessary. An H&R Block franchise is compatible to most service-oriented businesses. As a Block Franchisee you will be provided with professional training, national advertising based on in-depth research, and supplies.

Please send me your brochure outlining the H&R Block Franchise Program. I understand there is no obligation on my part.

SPORTS

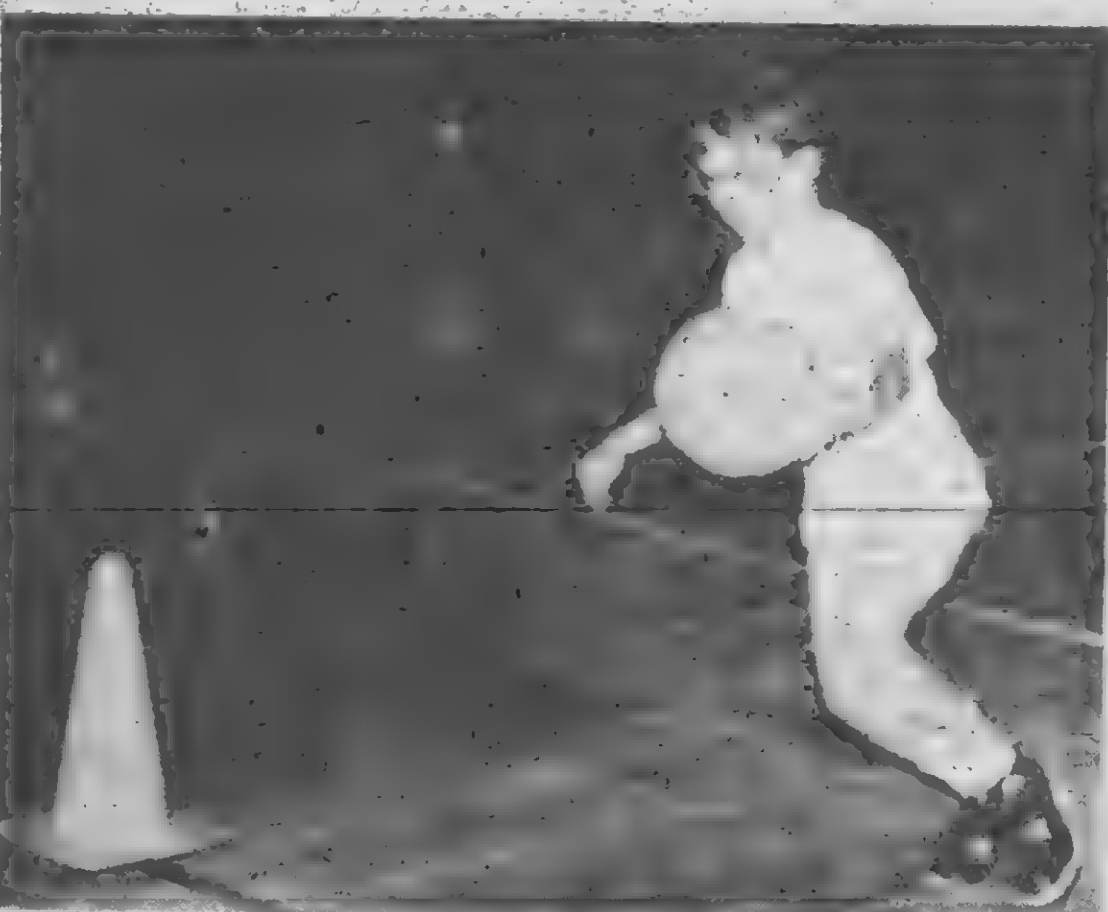

These players are up against the wall as they attempt to reach new heights in testing their vertical leaping ability.

Nathan Metiva takes a deep breath as he prepares to fire up a shot during last week's basketball camp.

James Michael Kanine concentrates as he dribbles around pylons.

Boys play basketball at camp

Approximately 40 fourth, fifth and sixth grade boys participated in a week-long basketball camp at the high school this past week. High school coach Jim Kanine ran the camp.

For the fourth grade boys, the camp offered an introduction to the game and taught them some of basic skills. The fifth and sixth grade boys worked on refining their basic skills.

Fourth graders participating were: Colin Carr, Brian Ward, Andrew Kitley, Todd Schaperkotter, Devin Post, Tom Cunningham, Caleb Levensgood, Andrew Moats, Wally Wujcik, Tommy Yaroeh, Jed Eisenberger and Jim M. Kanine.

Camps for older boys will take place in coming weeks. For more information, call Kanine at 547-3206 or 547-9495.

City softball results

One team was shut out and another scored but a single run in three womens softball games June 26.

Brenda Ciuk pitched a shut out as Wojan Aluminum beat Nanny's Restaurant 9-0. Paula Thorp had four of Wojan's 15 hits.

Tapawingo-Romas-Rocky Top Farm beat Venture Video 12-11 in the highest scoring game of the evening. Brenda Bruce had three of 12 hits for the winners. Teri Steffens had three hits for Venture. Mary Hopp got the pitching win.

In game three, Investment

Management and Research beat Kwikie Printing 7-1. IMR pitcher Laura Kemp held Kwikie to just four hits.

In mens play Wednesday, June 27, Town House, Paul Bunyan Lanes and Pine Hill Nursery picked up wins.

Town House beat Bay Shore Steel 5-1 with winning pitcher Al Weaver allowing only three hits, one a home run by Butch Potter.

Paul Bunyan defeated Ironworks-Quality Limo 7-2 with Larry Nunemaker getting the pitching win.

Pine Hill got past Charlevoix

Cinema 6-4 with Ken Peebles tossing the victory.

In womens play Thursday, June 28, TRR, Arnold's of East Jordan and IMR were victorious.

TRR clobbered Town House 26-5. Brenda Bruce and winning pitcher Mary Hopp homered for TRR.

IMR pitcher Laura Kemp shut out Nanny's Restaurant 11-0.

In the only close game of the evening, Arnold's shaded Venture Video 6-5 with Kelly Jo Carson pitching for the win. Anita Pentcost had three hits for the winners.

Tom Cunningham looks to get the ball back down and under control as he zig-zags through they pylons during a dribbling drill.

Little League results

Stevens Construction of Charlevoix beat East Jordan Pharmacy 10-1 in Senior Division Little League play Wednesday June 27.

Jody McGlinch picked up the pitching win, striking out five and allowing only a single hit over four innings. Travis Blissett relieved McGlinch and gave up no hits and struck out four over two innings. Bill Dreyer closed the game, pitching an inning of hitless ball and striking out one.

At the plate, Blissett doubled while Ken Olinger, Dreyer, McGlinch and Eddie Johnson

each had singles.

American Legion-Olesons Foods wrapped up the Major Little League Championship June 27 with a 14-3 win over Round Lake Lodge. Gary Leitner had a grand slam for the winners while T.J. Carey doubled and Hans Frey and Craig Swanson singled. For Round Lake Lodge, George McClellan doubled while Noel Kammerman, Rory McKeown and Jeremy Bickerteth singled.

Charlevoix Lions beat Dairy Queen 11-2 behind the pitching of Steve Carland. Steve Speigl

70-foot yachts to race in Charlevoix

The 70-foot yachts Stripes and Pied Piper will have a showdown on the waves of Lake Charlevoix July 4 as Maxi-Boat Match Racing comes to northern Michigan.

Charlevoix is the first stop on a three-race circuit for these two yachts. They will also race July 14 in Detroit and July 26 in Chicago.

The Charlevoix race will begin at 11 a.m. Wednesday morning at the Charlevoix end of Lake Charlevoix. During the day, the two boats will square off in three triangular match races on the western end of the lake.

Both boats feature well-known skippers. Stripes will be under the command of Bill Martin, the top American in the 1984 Admiral's Cup in England and current president of the United States Yacht Racing Union. Martin's counterpart aboard the Pied Piper will be Dick Jennings who broke the speed record for the Chicago to Mackinaw Race.

The Charlevoix Yacht Club will host a "Meet the Maxis" bash beginning at 7 p.m. July 3 at the Depot. There will be a drawing for two people to ride the rails aboard one of the maxi boats. The winners must be present at the drawing.

People attending the bash must have their yacht club membership card, be a guest of a member, or pay $3 at the door. There will be a cash bar.

The maxi boats will be moored in downtown Charlevoix July 3 and 4.

Hospital Guild announces Bridge winners

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild recently announced the winners of their bridge tournament. The tournament is an annual event which benefits the guild's scholarship program.

This year's winners are:
Flight A - first place, June Couse and Keith Morris; second place, Joyce Totten and Jill Washburn.

Flight B - first place, Angie Supernaw and Eileen Fessenden; second place, Marie Webb and Florence Uhrick.

Flight C - first place, Marie Webb and Mona Doyle; second place, Barb Bump and Kathy Krueger.

Flight D - first place, Nancy and Dave Fowler; second place, Barb and John Danly.

Flight E - first place, Evie and Jim Hilligan; second place, June and Don Couse.

Veteran and beginning bridge players are welcome to join the tournament. Play begins in mid September and runs until April 30 with one match every two weeks, except in December when there is only one match. Evening, afternoon and weekend groups are available.

Postcards will be mailed to players in late August to set up the tournament. For additional information, or to join the tournament, phone Keith Morris at 547-2693.

Baptists plan Bible clubs

The Safe Harbor Baptist Church will host Backyard Bible Clubs for children of all ages from 10 a.m. to noon July 9 through 12 at 406 Sheridan and 109 E. Lincoln Streets in Charlevoix. The clubs will feature puppets, clowns and bible stories. For additional information, phone 547-6283.

A black and white photograph of a large group of children, approximately 40-50, posing in front of a wooden building with horizontal siding. The children are arranged in several rows, with some standing on the roof of the building. They are dressed in early 20th-century clothing, including dresses, shirts, and ties. The photo is grainy and has a vintage appearance.

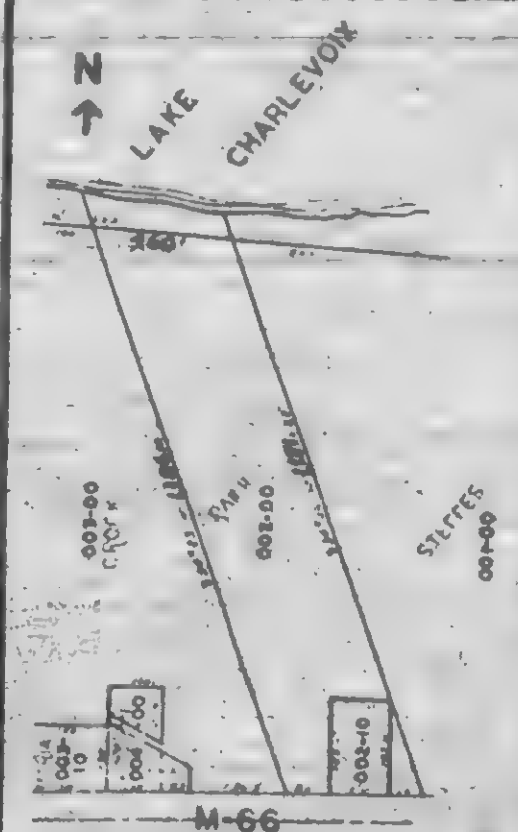

These happy youngsters were students at the Lincoln School in Charlevoix in the 1920s. The picture was loaned to the Courier by Phyllis Trimble Klimas, whose mother, Elizabeth Kranz, taught at the school.

Downtown parking requirements change

A city council decision Monday evening indicates that the council is prepared to take a new stance on downtown parking.

In approving a site plan for an addition to a building at 212 Bridge Street, council members said that rather than providing additional parking spaces, as is currently required by the city zoning ordinance, owners of the building may instead contribute to a city fund which will be used to build additional downtown parking areas in the future.

The net effect will be that rather than developers finding parking spaces when they build new buildings or add to existing buildings, they will be able to contribute to a fund which the city will use at some time in the future to construct additional downtown parking.

The council action took place at a special council meeting prior to a regularly scheduled work session. Although no firm price figure per parking space has been established, at Monday night's meeting council members and city manager Mike Wiesner talked about $5,000 per space with increases each year to compensate for inflation.

The city zoning ordinance stipulates that when construction of a building or an addition to a building creates an increased demand for parking, that the person proposing the construction or addition will make provisions for additional parking spaces.

In cases where parking can't be provided on site, the zoning ordinance provides that "the City Planning Commission may through negotiations with the owner of such property vary the location of such required off-street parking spaces or agree to the owners participation of (in) other off-street parking facilities."

In a June 29 memo to city planning commission members, city planner Gerry Harsch wrote, "It would seem that the wording (of the zoning ordinance) is probably broad enough that the Planning Commission could agree to require that the applicant contribute to the City's parking fund to provide additional parking spaces. An alternative could be that the applicant provide a letter of credit to the City to guarantee the cost of providing such parking spaces, at such a time that the City does in fact develop additional parking. A letter of credit would not tie up the applicant's cash until such a time that the City is in fact ready to undertake the additional parking development."

Arch Wright of the Charlevoix Development Company, owners of 212 Bridge Street (the old Burnside building) spoke on behalf of the project at the council meeting. The roof line of the building currently steps down from the front to the back. The development company wants to add two office spaces and a deck at the top of the back of the building. The addition will make the roof line close to level, with the exception of the deck.

According to the zoning ordinance, the added space would require the building to have three additional parking spaces. Wright suggested three possible ways of addressing the parking requirement. He said developers could either contribute to a city parking fund, construct parking beneath the rear of the building or purchase parking spaces somewhere else in the downtown area if any become available.

Wright said placing parking beneath the building is the least desirable means of addressing the problem because there's currently a bike shop operating out of that space. Using that space for parking would require the bike shop to either move or close.

Councilman Butch Russell opposed allowing a contribution to a city parking fund.

"I would really like to see the parking spaces provided by the developer," he said.

Other councilmembers said they are willing allow a contribution to a parking fund.

Currently city officials are considering legislation to establish a parking fund and set specific costs per space although according to what was said at the meeting no such fund exists at present.

Mayor Gary Probert told council members, "If you set up a parking fund, you're opening up for all businesses downtown to go higher."

Councilmembers voted to accept the proposed building addition with a letter of credit for parking. The monetary figures on the letter of credit are to be determined by ordinance at a future date.

The motion passed 4-1. Bill Haggard, Pat Caskin, Ken Whitley and Jim Potter voted in favor. Russell voted opposed. Cheri Hoffman abstained.

No signs in store for idle motorists

Drivers waiting for the bridge may turn their cars off if they wish, but the city isn't going to put up signs advising them to do so.

WATCH (Water and Air Team Charlevoix), a local environmental group, requested the city put up signs near both ends of the bridge politely encouraging drivers to turn off their car engines while waiting for the bridge.

WATCH Executive Administrator Michelle Rick-Biddick offered an explanation of the request at Monday evening's council work session.

The group is concerned about fumes from cars idling while waiting for the bridge, Biddick said.

In conjunction with requesting signs, WATCH is proposing a "Clean Air Campaign and Citizen Awareness Day" for Charlevoix.

In a memo to council members prior to the meeting, city manager Mike Wiesner cited four reasons why he would be opposed to any attempt to require motorists to turn off their cars while waiting for the bridge. Those reasons are: Many times cars in line have to move forward to condense the line. That would necessitate several stops and starts. There are already a lot of signs along the highway and it would be difficult to get the proposed message across with another sign. In some instances stopping and starting a car results in more exhaust than just letting the car idle. In hot weather, some drivers may wish to leave their car and air conditioning running.

Council members concurred with the memo. They said that although they appreciate clean air, they couldn't see much benefit in putting up signs by the bridge.

July 23 dinner-auction planned

Tickets are still being sold and donated items are still being collected for a dinner and fundraising auction which will take place July 23 at Dunmaglas. Proceeds from the dinner will benefit Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's annual petunia project while proceeds from the auction will go toward establishing an endowment fund for a proposed community swimming pool.

Dinner will be served by The Inn at Dunmaglas. Entertainment will be provided by the Northwood Orchestra, a fifty-piece orchestra. Tickets for the dinner are $40 per person. People may call 547-1991 for ticket information.

The auction will feature items ranging in retail value from $25 up to a power boat valued at approximately $20,000. Some of the other items to be auctioned include a live llama, a piece of the Berlin Wall, two nights in the bridal suite at the Bridge Street Inn, and four tickets to the Buick Open pro golf tournament in Grand Blanc. Jeanne Gorkiewicz and Joanne Curtis are serving as acquisition co-chairs for the auction. They have been assisted by Rebecca Haney, Joyce Boydston, Sally Berlage, Sue Bernard, Mike Greeley and Steve Andreas.

Thus far, the committee has collected donated items with a total retail value of approximately $30,000. They hope to collect about twice that much by the day of the auction. Donations should be made by July 19. Pool officials hope to net approximately $40,000 in profit from the auction.

Letters to the Editor:

Cafe complimented

Editor,

That Cafe at the Edgewater is a good place to eat.

We've been coming to Charlevoix for 31 years, every summer and know all the restaurants.

Quality-wise, the Cafe stacks up with the Parkside, Terry's, and the Weathervane, but at the Cafe you also have the choice of light food in the evening.

We recommend it.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Marilou Ikens, formerly of Charlevoix, recently received a 1990 Michigan Minuteman Award. Ikens was one of 13 people to receive the award which is given to state residents for outstanding contributions to Michigan history.

Ikens, the daughter of Polly Verwys and the late Abe Verwys, is a teacher in Rogers City. Five years ago she founded the Huron Shores Summer Writing Institute. The program began as a two-week workshop for Michigan students into a program which includes students and teachers from the Soviet Union in several programs.

Research projects at the institute often involve local history, folklore and traditions. Former Governor John B. Swainson and Secretary of State Richard Austin presented the awards.

Elizabeth Campbell of Charlevoix recently completed her freshman year at Culver Girls Academy. She earned "Silver A's" which are awarded for students with a grade point average of 3 or higher on a 4-point scale. Campbell also rode with the academy's equestrian team and earned spring MVP honors.

Kathleen M. Buday of Charlevoix was among 250 students to receive bachelor of arts degrees from Kalamazoo College recently. Buday is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Buday of Charlevoix.

Keren Anderson of Charlevoix was named to the spring Dean's List at Evangel College in Springfield, Missouri. Anderson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Anderson of Charlevoix. She is a senior majoring in management.

Eric Endress of Charlevoix was named to the spring term Dean's Honor List at Northwestern Michigan College. The list recognizes students with a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4-point scale.

An athletic drama unfolds

It was a wonderful moment of suspense. I hadn't seen such a suspense-filled moment in sports since three nights earlier when I watched a bunch of little kids play T-ball up at the Charlevoix softball fields.

During Sunday's Detroit Tiger game, Tiger first baseman Cecil Fielder who leads the major leagues in home runs this season, stepped up to the plate with the bases loaded. The pitcher rocked and fired and Fielder took a mighty cut. The ball rocketed from the bat sailing toward left field.

"It might be," said Tiger broadcaster George Kell.

Thousands of people in the crowd rose to their feet. Thousands more watching at home held their breath. Was this going to be a grand slam home run or just a long out?

For those of you who aren't familiar with the local T-ball program, it's the strangest and most amusing form of entertainment, short of local government meetings, that this town has to offer.

Local kids ranging in age from about seven to 10 years old get their first experience playing softball. Instead of the ball being pitched, the hitters hit the ball off of a tee. Unfortunately, nobody's ever come up with the fielding equivalent of a tee to aid in catching and throwing the ball. Consequently T-ball is a high scoring affair. The game I watched ended was a nip-and-tuck struggle finishing with a score of 19-15 after four and a half innings. There's a five-run limit per inning, otherwise the two teams might have run up a big score.

The moment of suspense involved a little boy and a pair of baseball shoes.

The boy was one of about eight fielders playing between first and second base. He was playing on the gravel portion of the infield. Almost all T-ball players play on the gravel portion of the infield. Nobody plays in the outfield, because almost nobody hits the ball far enough to get to the outfield.

As the boy stood between first and second base, he began pawing at the ground with his feet. The pitcher rocked and fired and Fielder took a mighty cut. The ball rocketed from the bat sailing toward left field.

"It might be," said Tiger broadcaster George Kell.

Thousands of people in the crowd rose to their feet. Thousands more watching at home held their breath. Was this going to be a grand slam home run or just a long out?

Fortunately, the ball missed him. Not by much, but it missed him. The ball came down a few inches away from the kid's feet. He noticed it and turned around and gave chase.

This was not the first time shoes played a role in a T-ball play. In a game a few nights earlier, the pitcher scooped up a ground ball and heaved it in the general direction of first base. The throw was fairly accurate, but the timing wasn't right. At that particular instant, the first baseman was bent over tying his shoe.

It took a while to convince one little girl to put her foot in the right place...on the plate, when she scored a run.

"Touch the plate! Touch the plate!" a flock of people hollered as the little girl scampered in from third base.

All of the hollering seemed to confuse the girl so she stopped short of the plate and stood there smiling. The next batter understood what all of the noise was about and pointed to the plate with her bat. The little baserunner's face indicated the precise instant when she realized what all of the fuss was about. She tromped her foot on the plate, resumed her smile and ran into the dugout.

A fountain gone mad

Is anyone in town old enough to remember when the drinking fountain in East Park worked properly?

I am a relative newcomer to Charlevoix, having arrived in 1965. Unless I'm badly mistaken, the fountain didn't work then and it has never worked since.

The problem is that it is always running - spraying passersby or dribbling all over the sidewalk - or it never runs.

Sometimes when you try to get a drink it reacts like a water cannon. Other times pressure is so weak you can hardly wet your lips.

The problems vary from season to season and year to year.

Considering America's technological achievements, you'd think we'd be able to come up with a drinking fountain that turns on and shuts off without doubling as a sprinkling system.

JOYCE HOSMER of Charlevoix thinks organizers of the National Cherry Festival in Traverse City deserve a pat on the back for the way they accommodate handicapped youngsters.

Joyce called my attention to an article in the Detroit Free Press by Evelyn Petersen detailing the efforts made by the festival organizers to make the physically and mentally handicapped feel welcome.

The festival is now under way and today, Wednesday, has been designated "Special Kids Day."

The agenda includes a variety of games and events for mentally and physically challenged kids, according to Ms. Petersen. Included are a cherry pit spitting contest, a Frisbee fling, beeper egg hunt, basketball tossing contest, rides past the zoo and marina on an antique fire truck, performances by Ronald McDonald and an obstacle course.

The events are sponsored by Imperial Oil Co. and Next Door Convenience Stores.

Traverse City also has arranged special seating and viewing for children in wheelchairs during the festival's three parades.

Perhaps Charlevoix should start thinking about special accommodations and events for the handicapped at its Venetian Festivals.

HORTON BAY came through again with a highly entertaining Fourth of July parade.

It is difficult to estimate the size of crowds, particularly when the parade watchers are congregated along the shoulders of a twisting highway. Furthermore, a lot of viewers moved into the woods to get out of the sun.

But I'd place this year's attendance at about 10,000 - give or take a couple thousand.

The crowd was certainly bigger than it was last year - at least we had to walk twice as far to the car.

But no one minded. The whimsical parade was well worth the effort.

The folks in Horton Bay live in a world apart. I wonder what they are dreaming up for next year?

I HAVE a young great-nephew, David Heid of Plymouth, who always has something nice to say about Charlevoix and his Charlevoix relatives.

After a visit a few years ago with his family, David turned to me and said: "I'm so glad you belong to us."

Last weekend, he was in town overnight with his parents, Ralph and Mary Heid. The weather was rainy, foggy and far from perfect, but we took a walk to the end of North Pier and then visited the shops downtown, ending up at an ice cream emporium.

As we approached the motel where the Heids were staying, David, a 6th grader, turned to his mother and said: "Mom, I don't ever want to leave Charlevoix."

Which is quite a compliment coming from a lad who has traveled in Europe and Mexico and spent most of June in France.

Food flown in from ports afar

People are talking about the great new eating place, Tom's Oyster Bar on Bridge Street across from East Park.

The owner's buy seafood directly from fishing boats in Boston, then they fly it to Charlevoix via Detroit and Traverse City five times a week.

"We don't always know what we are going to get. It often depends on the catch of the day and the market price," says Charles Whitney Jr., a partner of Tom Brandel, who started the business six years ago in Grosse Pointe Park. "That's why our menus are written on chalk board because all the sea food is fresh. Our menu changes hour by hour."

One of the restaurant's specialties is their New England Clam chowder, as well as Tom's Fish chowder. Tom's Oyster Bar serves four or five varieties of oysters on the half shell, along with twelve to fifteen varieties of fish. They are also proud of their home-made shrimp sauce prepared with Belgian Horseradish. We also have a fine choice of international beers, probably the largest selection in the north.

"We chose this location on Bridge street because of the view of Round Lake—the marina—the boats," explains Whitney. "Our concept of the restaurant relates to the 1880 New England Oyster Bars patronized by sailors, tradesmen and the working class. We borrowed the decor including the checkered blue and white tablecloths, the black and white bakery tile and wood floor, the tin ceiling from the old noisy and sometimes even rowdy saloons. "Plans are in the works for a new facade to carry out the turn of the century theme. This includes ornate wood trim accented with a touch of slate blue color and shake shingles, as well as brass lanterns."

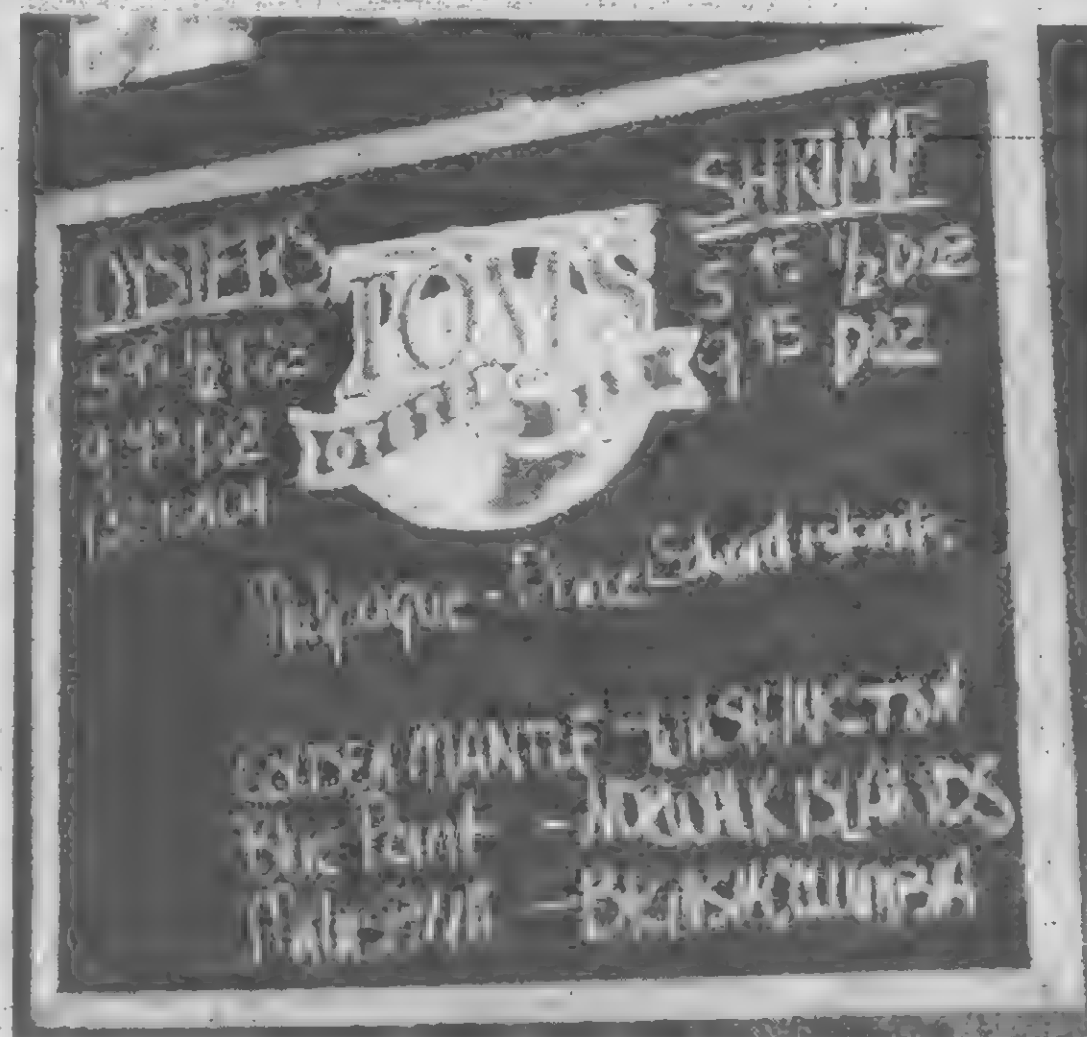

The name Whitney certainly rings a bell with Detroiters. The first David Whitney moved to Detroit in the late 1800s and made a fortune in lumber. He built the Whitney mansion on Woodward and Canfield, now the home of the renowned Whitney restaurant. His son, another David, built the David Whitney building on Grand Circus Park. Charles Whitney is the fifth generation from this long line of successful entrepreneurs.

Charles considers himself a permanent resident of Charlevoix. He plans to keep the restaurant open all winter, possibly on a limited basis. "I love this area. I've been coming up here all my life. I've sailed in the Mackinac races. I love to fish and hunt. My degree from the University of Michigan is in Environmental Science. I spent two years in Alaska where we studied the migration of caribou as consultants for the main contractors for the pipe line. It was an interesting experience.

Managing Tom's Oyster Bar in Charlevoix year round is bound to be another interesting experience. The feedback I get so far from the enthusiastic restaurant patrons is that Charles Whitney has got himself a winner.

The menu at Tom's Oyster Bar is kept on a chalkboard because it changes from day to day.

Bowman - Otmanowski

Michelle Bowman and Joe Otmanowski exchanged marriage vows Friday, June 8, at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix.

Father James Gardiner officiated at the double ring rites before an altar covered with fresh lilacs.

The bride is the daughter of Jimmy and Karen Bowman of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Chet and Mariann Otmanowski, also of Charlevoix.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown fashioned with a high illusion neckline and shirred bodice. The puffed sleeves were ruffled at the bottom and the full pickup skirt with lace flounce hem extended to a chapel-length train.

Debby Slocum assisted the bride as maid of honor. She wore a sleeveless pink and rose print tea-length dress. Daniel Bowman, son of the bride, was ringbearer.

Ken Otmanowski served his brother as best man, and Steve Otmanowski and Dave Bowman were ushers.

Michelle & Joe Otmanowski

Maryanne Stephan sang "Only a Shadow". The processional music was the "Westminster Hymn" and the recessional was the "Wedding March".

A reception in St. Mary's Parish Center followed the wedding ceremony. The rehearsal dinner was held at Grey Gables, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Mackinac Island, the newlyweds are at home in Charlevoix. The bridegroom is a Burns Security guard at Big Rock Point, and the bride is employed as a cashier at Oleson's of Charlevoix.

Rauser - Pischner

Amy Jo Rauser and Michael Pischner

Amy Jo Rauser and Michael John Pischner will be married September 22 in Holy Trinity Catholic Church in Comstock Park.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Rauser of Comstock Park and is presently employed by Northern Michigan Hospitals in Petoskey as an IV technician.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Pischner of Charlevoix. He is employed by Site Planning Development as a carpenter.

Donnelly - Lang

St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix was the setting for the June 23 wedding of Mary Donnelly and David Lang.

The Rev. James Gardiner officiated at the double ring rites. For the occasion, the church was decorated with white wicker baskets of pastel gladiolus, carnations, and daisies. There were also two white chrysanthemum plants and white bows marking the pews for 300 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Patrick and Judy Donnelly of Sequanots Heights, Charlevoix, and the bridegroom, who lives in Midland, is the son of Charles and Julie Lang of Webberville.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white satin gown with long sleeves covered in pearls and sequins. There was a heart-shaped cutout in the back which was draped with strings of pearls meeting at a large satin bow and cathedral-length train. Her headpiece was a satin and pearl bow worn at the back of her head, and her bouquet was composed of white roses, white carnations, lavender freesia, baby's breath, and ivy.

The bride wore a traditional garter and carried a handkerchief made by the bride's mother from material in her own wedding dress.

Melinda Morgan served as maid of honor, and Shawn Elliott, Amy Frank, Bobbie Contko, Tammy Hurstman, and Andrea Whitley were bridesmaids. They wore pastel country floral print tea-length dresses with white lace collars with a V-back accented by a bow. The dresses were handmade by Kris Schapperkotter.

Sally Arnold was flower girl. She wore a dress made by her mother in the same style and material as those of the other attendants.

Dan Lang assisted his brother as best man. Mike Donnelly, brother of the bride, Dave Hall, Marty Melch, Cort Musolf, and John O'Callahan were groomsmen. Scott Diamit, Tim Lyons, and Tim Meagher were ushers.

Music for the ceremony was provided by organist Jeanie Olach and vocalist Marcia Compton.

The dinner reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Petoskey was given by the bride's parents, assisted by the bridegroom's parents. Denny and Nancy LaCroix and Larry and Linda Contko served as hosts and hostesses. David Phillips of Charlevoix catered the dinner and Sound Systems Three of Traverse City provided the music.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at Victorias in Petoskey.

Special guests at the reception were six visiting nuclear plant workers from Bulgaria. They were guests of the bride's father, who had visited their plant in May and invited them here to return his visit. Guests also came from Florida, Georgia, California, and Illinois.

Following a wedding trip to Toronto, the new Mr. and Mrs. Lang are at home in Eastlawn, Midland. Both are 1989 graduates of Central Michigan University. The bridegroom is a systems analyst for Dow Chemical Company, and the bride teaches in the Freeland School District. (Photography by Aartvark Studio).

Support group postpones meeting

Due to the County Commission on Aging picnic on Wednesday, July 18, the first meeting of the low vision support group has been postponed to Wednesday, August 1.

The group will meet at noon at the Commission on Aging meal site at the V. E. W. Hall in Charlevoix.

Jerry de La Silvern of Charlevoix, who is helping organize the group, reports that response to the original announcement has been good.

Those wishing further information should call Carol Willis, Commission on Aging, at 582-7301.

CHURCH

BEACONS

by Pastor Duane Nelson

All too often in our Christianity we live below the privileges God has so graciously granted us. Over the past few weeks, we have dealt with the foundation of living up to the privileges God has granted us. We have based our devotion/study on the following scripture: "Give, and it will be given to you. A good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over, will be poured into your lap. For with the measure you use, it will be measured to you" (Luke 6:38, NIV), and "So I (Jesus) say to you: Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. For everyone who seeks receives; he who seeks finds; and to him who knocks, the door will be opened. Which of you fathers, if your son asks for a fish, will give him a snake instead? Or if he asks for an egg, will give him a scorpion? If you then, though you are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will your Father in heaven give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him" (Luke 11:9-13, NIV).

We have also established that God will not just drop blessings out of the sky because of our works like a divine gumball machine and will not hear us if our sin stands between us and Him, and that He is holy and loving in that He has provided a way to be with Him in heaven and will meet all of our needs. Our conclusion thus far is that God is interested in our relationship with Him and has promised to take care of us and meet our needs.

These passages are for those who know that Jesus Christ is their personal Savior and are truly living as Christ would. God will not let these passages be worked out in your life unless you are a professing, believing, and living Christian. Now before you go on, go back and reread the above passages. Ready...Now let's look at the Scripture more directly.

Luke 6:38 tells us basically that with the amount we give, it will be given to us. However, we do not give to get. If we did, then whatever blessing God has in store for us is cancelled. Our giving is based on selflessness—giving to others/God from the heart. If we expect to see great things from God, then we must give big with a selfless attitude. The great things will be "running over." Please don't mistake this for a money passage! We are also talking about time, talents, everything. We often miss the mark on this passage, because we fail to give big.

The next passage deals with God taking care of us physically and spiritually. From that context we see the physical, and from the last part we see the spiritual by the giving of the Holy Spirit. But we fall by not asking Him specifically to meet that certain need (physical or spiritual); not seeking Him with all of our hearts; and not knocking by being persistent in our requests. Remember God does care for us and our relationship with Him. That is why He opened those prayer lines of communication. Let's use them.

As a full conclusion, God is most concerned about our relationship with Him. We need to be in a right relationship. Then, and only then, can we see answers to our prayers and the great things God is waiting to do for us and with us. Never abuse your privilege as a child of God, but please keep in mind that God does want us to live up to the privileges He has granted us as Christians.

Raymond McClanathan

Raymond G. McClanathan, 40, died July 8, 1990, at his Charlevoix home.

Funeral was 1 p.m. Tuesday, July 10, at the Community Reformed Church. The Rev. Larry Groeters officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. McClanathan was born Jan. 11, 1950, in Charlevoix, the son of James H. and Alice (Brock) McClanathan. He was a life resident of Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1970. He had been employed as a truckdriver for Koboski Redi-Mix in Petoskey since 1971.

On Jan. 31, 1972, he married the former Mary Louise Przybylski in Charlevoix. They always made their home in Charlevoix.

Mr. McClanathan is survived by his wife; one son, Robert S. and one daughter, Tammy Lynn, both at home; his mother, Alice McClanathan of Charlevoix; two sisters, Mrs. Rolland (Shirley) Daugherty and Mrs. Dale (Darlene) Buckner, both of Charlevoix; two brothers and sisters-in-law, James R. and Beverly McClanathan and Ronald L. and Susan McClanathan, all of Charlevoix.

The family suggests memorials to the family of Raymond McClanathan. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Stanley J. Cartier

Stanley J. Cartier, 77, died recently in Stone Mountain, GA.

The former Charlevoix resident was the son of the late Fred and Anna Cartier. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1932.

Survivors include his wife, Elizabeth; son Phillip; daughter, Judy Etrod; and three grandchildren. Cartier was preceded in death by his brothers Harold and Clair.

Services and burial took place June 28 in Tucker, GA.

Local senior director named legislative intern

Sherry Black of Charlevoix has been named this year's senior intern to participate in the Michigan Senior Citizens Legislative Intern Program, September 10 through 14 in Lansing.

Sherry Black

Black was notified of her appointment by State Senator Mitch Irwin. While in Lansing, she will work in the offices of participating legislators as an integral part of their staffs. In addition, she will help with constituent-related work and specific legislative assignments.

There will also be training sessions to help interns become involved in the legislative process both during the program and in their own communities.

Black has been program coordinator for the Charlevoix Senior Center and coordinator for Community Education in Charlevoix for four years. Before that, she worked in the Community Education program in East Jordan for four years and in senior citizens programs in the downriver area of Detroit for five years.

Black is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and has a master's degree from Central Michigan University in community leadership. She and her husband, Bob, live in Norwood Township.

The New Mission Band will perform in East Park Sunday evening. The concert and sing-alongs are the first in a summer series of musical events.

East Park sing-alongs begin

New Mission Band from Traverse City will be the featured guest musicians at the Inspiration In the Park sing-along at 8 p.m. Sunday, July 15, at East Park.

Inspiration in the Park is a once-a-month Sunday evening event featuring sing-along music and special vocal and instrumental music by guest musicians. The events are organized by the Charlevoix Assembly of God music department and involve other participating community churches.

New Mission Band mixes a variety of music styles. The band is made up of five Traverse City men: Ryan Critchfield on saxophone, Nathan Gilmore on keyboard, Matt Hughes on lead guitar, Mark McDonald on drums, and Jim Meyer on bass guitar. All members of the group participate in vocals. Many of the songs featured by New Mission are original compositions by members of the band.

Local artists display work in new gallery

Works of seven local artists are included in an exhibit of twenty-five Antrim and Charlevoix County artists on display at Jordan River Art Center in East Jordan.

The First Annual Jordan River Invitational Art Exhibition, sponsored by Jordan River Arts Council, will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesdays through Saturday and noon to 5 p.m. Sundays through the month of July. The show includes painting, printmaking, sculpture, woodworking, weaving, ceramics and jewelry.

Charlevoix art in the show includes ceramics by Barb Godwin and paintings by Cara Hochhalter, Sue Bolt, Russ Bolt, Jan Glass, Meredith Krell and Steve Toornman.

Other artists displaying their works include sculptors Walter and Peggy Midener, Frank Hasseld, and Dan Roache.

oil painters Betty Osborne and Jody Adams;

water color painters Betty Beeby, Paty Tinney and Donna Kline; multi-media painter Marion McKay; pottery Lynn Fisher and David and June Otis; woodworker Ron Kuhns; printmaker Lori Bolt; weaver Maggie Matthews and jewelers Amy Wilke and Linda Aydoloff.

The invitational exhibition was organized by East Jordan printmaker and multi-media artist Lori Bolt, who is also a member of the JRAC board.

Board member and building chairman Frank Hasseld planned and supervised the painting and construction needed to prepare for the building's grand opening to coincide with the exhibition which opened June 30.

The building, the old Jordan Valley District Library, became available to the arts council a year ago with the opening of the new library next to East Jordan High School. The promise of the building at a $1-a-year lease prompted the organization of the arts council, which has been in existence just over two years.

The council has offered free summer performing arts shows in parks throughout Antrim and

Charlevoix counties, concerts by Northwood Orchestra and Interlochen Band and the world premiere of an original play in Bellaire and East Jordan. Jordan River Community Chorus and Jordan River Players both operate under the auspices of the council.

Barbara Godwin is one of several area artists who will be displaying their work at the Jordan River Arts Center this summer.

Charlevoix will host 22nd annual craft show

Charlevoix's downtown area will be filled Saturday, July 14 for the 22nd Annual Craft Show. Approximately 240 exhibitors will be at the fair which covers three parks along Charlevoix's waterfront.

Items exhibited will include: wooden furniture, pottery, handmade stone jewelry, quilted purses, hardwood toys, original folk art, hand-thrown stoneware, decoys, dried flower arrangements, dolls, stained glass and mountain dulcimers. Jack and Shirley Folkertsma of Alto, Michigan will not only have dulcimers for sale, but will be demonstrating how the instruments are carved and played.

Several local crafts people will participate in the show. Sue Louiselle of Country Blossoms will display dried flower arrangements. Chuck and Kay Britton will exhibit hand-thrown stoneware.

Louiselle and the Brittons differ in their approach to the craft show. Louiselle does most of her business out of her shop. Sales at the show are supplemental. The Brittons do most of their business at the Charlevoix craft show and many others. They also sell much of their work on consignment through galleries. Sales out of their studio account for a smaller percentage of their business.

Louiselle only does two or three shows each year. The shows she does are all in the immediate area. This year the Brittons plan to do about 15 shows between May and December. They'll travel from one end of Michigan to the other.

Stockpiling flower arrangements presents the biggest difficulty in preparing for a show, Louiselle explains.

The hardest part about doing a show is that you'll be making something for the show and someone will come into the shop and buy it, she says.

How does she deal with that dilemma?

"You have to hoard stuff," she notes.

Louiselle tries to take to the Sue Louise of Country Blossoms will be displaying her dried flower arrangements at the Craft Show.

Sculpted critters were among the crafts displayed at last summer's craft show.

Kay and Chuck Britton of Charlevoix are veterans on the craft show circuit. This summer they will attend approximately 15 fairs across the state of Michigan. They shown standing behind examples of their pottery which is designed to be both decorative and functional.

Plates and statuettes drew the attention of the thousands of people who meandered through last summer's craft show.

show a good cross sample of what she sells at the shop. If she were to take only her most expensive arrangements, then people who saw her work at the show might think that's all the shop offered. The same applies to arrangements at the other end of the price scale.

"There are 20,000 people in one space in one day," she says. "You want to have a good display."

Louiselle's shop is off of the beaten path. (To get to it, take U.S. 31 south past the airport. Hang a right on the first paved road and go all the way to the end where you'll see the little cabin which houses her shop.) The shop's location means the exposure of the craft show takes on added importance.

The show means more because it's in my home town, she says. It generates sales after the show.

Although a 2-year-old boy and a six-month old baby at home put a damper on traveling to more shows, Louiselle still has reached the point where, with the help of her husband Dick, she's pretty efficient at setting up her exhibit. Having cover in case of rain is vital she says.

Chuck and Kay Britton have been exhibiting at the Charlevoix Craft show for about seven years. The Charlevoix show is only one of more than a dozen they will do each year. They do a show almost every weekend of the summer.

Chuck taught art in the Boyne City school system until 1987 when he gave up teaching to become a full-time potter. Kay still teaches in Charlevoix and assists her husband.

They refer to their work as functional decorative handthrown stoneware. Their work includes items such as pots, pitchers, plates and vases.

Chuck throws (spins and makes) and carves designs on the pottery. Kay glazes the pottery and pierces designs on certain pieces. Chuck also credits Kay for keeping track of inventory and much of the business work which allows him to devote more time to artistic endeavors.

The Brittons do shows from May through December and rebuild inventory from May through December.

It's hard to guess what items are going to be selling each year and from show to show, Chuck explains.

"You can't predict the buyers," he says.

To cope with that problem, Chuck and Kay take a lot of things to every show.

"We try to take everything that we've got - no matter what show (we're going to)," he said.

It's not only difficult to predict what will sell, but also how well sales will go and the effect of things such as the weather. Chuck said he's been at shows where the weather was rainy and gloomy, yet sales were great. He's also been at shows where the weather was clear and hot, yet sales were terrible.

Although Chuck and Kay are veterans on the craft show circuit, they say there's always room to learn.

"Every time it's interesting because you're in a different situation," Chuck says. "The next thing is being out there with the people."

The Brittons studio is in the basement of their home on Spayde Road south of Charlevoix. The name of the pottery business is in His Hands. Although they don't advertise the studio as a place of business, people who pick up business cards at shows will sometimes phone and arrange to visit.

Charlevoix is in a way just a stopping point where the Brittons and Louiselle add a creative touch that transforms raw materials into beautiful finished products. Chuck and Kay Britton ship 1,000 pound loads of clay in from Minnesota. Louiselle purchases baskets for her displays from a Connecticut importer who gets the baskets from the Philippines, China, Brazil and Africa. From the Charlevoix craft show, the Brittons' pottery and Louiselle's flowers arrangements are likely to end up in homes throughout the nation.

Island plans museum week

The Beaver Island Historical Society will host its 11th Annual Museum Week July 16-21. Designed to acquaint both islanders and summer residents with the cultural, political, and natural history of the island, Museum Week will also present a program for children. Highlighting this year's Week will be a boat trip around the island with Island storyteller and writer Phil Gregg as Tour Guide.

For generations of Beaver Islanders and summer residents, "A trip around the Island" meant a drive by car down the east side to the South End Lighthouse, along beautiful Iron Ore Bay, then up the west side through primitive woodlands often with side trips to Green's Bay or McFadden Pt. With so much of the island's shoreline inaccessible except by private road, the best way to see the changing shoreline now is by boat. With this in mind, the Historical Society has chartered the Beaver Island Boat Company's South Shore for a 3 1/2 hour trip on Thursday, July 19. Along with Island tales, music and a box lunch will be offered.

Museum Week will be inaugurated Monday evening by the perennially popular "Music on the Museum Porch" featuring island musicians. In the afternoon, children will have a chance to show their pets of all species, including rocks.

Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Jim Gillingham, director of the CMU Biological Station on the Island, will once again present his "Live Reptile Show." Dr. Gillingham combines the knowledge of a scientist with the showmanship of a P.T. Barnum to educate young and old about the island's more slippery subjects. Tuesday evening, Robert Morgridge of the Michigan Oral History Council will give a talk on how to preserve the island's human subjects and history through the use of tapes and films. A video of a recent island 50th wedding anniversary weekend will illustrate the techniques. His methods can be utilized by any family or community.

Each year, CMU Biological Station prepares an evening program. This year on Wednesday, Dr. Jim Gillingham will give an overview of the station's activities. He will illustrate his talk, "From Hungry Snakes to Horny Toads" with slides and live specimens. In the afternoon, children will have a Treasure Hunt along the Harbor.

Along with the sites of Beaver Island's history and new construction, a few shipwrecks will be seen on Thursday's boat ride around the island. Steve Harold of the Manistee County Historical Society will explain the shipwrecks Thursday evening. Harold will give a full lecture on shipwrecks of the Great Lakes to round out the nautical day.

The annual CMU Children's Field Trip will be held Friday morning. Dr. Gillingham and other scientists at the station will show children the habitats of the island's wildlife. Friday evening, storyteller Frank Ettawageshik and singer Terry Buasy will present a program of Native American and Irish Folklore and songs, some from the island's early residents. Saturday evening, poetry, legends and drama by today's residents will wrap up Museum Week 1990.

As in other years, island artists and craftspeople will show their work from Wednesday through Saturday afternoons. Dr. Protar's House will be open both Wednesday and Saturday afternoons with Antje Price, the Protar historian, as hostess.

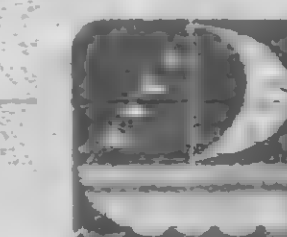

Beaver Island can be reached by ferryboat twice or three times daily from Charlevoix or by plane from Charlevoix, Traverse City, Pellston, and Harbor Springs. Call the B.I. Chamber of Commerce for more information: 448-2505.

First State Bank names new officials

Doug Bergmann has been elected to the board of directors for the First State Bank of Charlevoix while Helen Emmons has been appointed to be the bank's vice president of loans.

Bergmann is a lifetime resident of Charlevoix. He is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and also served with the military in an LCM Boat Company in Vietnam. He and his wife Louise have two adult sons: Bill Taylor and Douglas Bergmann.

Bergmann is employed by Bellinger Marine Service. He is a certified emergency medical technician and has previously held office in the city fire and ambulance department as well as the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club.

Emmons has been with First State Bank since 1967. She and her husband, Arthur, make their home in Charlevoix. Emmons is a graduate of Charlevoix High School and Northern Michigan University's Graduate School of Banking. She is also active with ZONTA, a professional women's group, and is on the board of directors for Northern Michigan Residential Services.

Historical Society elects new officers

Tuesday, July 9, the Charlevoix Historical Society hosted its annual meeting at the Harsha House Museum, 103 State Street. During the meeting the annual elections were held and the following officers were elected for 1990-91: John Gaskin, President; Bud Kohler, Vice-President; Mary Margaret Geiken, Recording Secretary; Hilda Gibson, Membership Secretary; Betsy Reynolds, Treasurer. Directors for 1990-91 included Bud Hallett and Esther Miles. Directors for 1990-92 were Pat Ranger and Louis Edwards. Directors for 1990-93 were Hap Cunningham and Rebecca Hanev.

After the elections, Louis Edwards asked the membership and any other persons interested in writing or contributing information toward the writing of a guide book for Charlevoix to contact Geoffrey Reynolds at the Harsha House Museum, 547-0373 weekdays.

The rest of the evening was spent enjoying a re-enactment of the 1919 State of Michigan vs. Guy Olney trial. The original characters were portrayed by Louis Orlowski, Geoffrey Reynolds, Judge Harvey Varum, Dale Glass, Kristen Wyatt, Eric Hoffman, Hap Cunningham, Matt Gibbons, Louis Edwards, Rita Orlowski, Mary Margaret Geiken and William Ohle.

The society would also like to announce that its annual "Attic Auction" has been canceled.

Preserve guide printed

Residents and visitors to northern Michigan have many interesting nature preserves to enjoy, and the Little Traverse Conservancy has printed a new Nature Preserve Mini-guide to help outdoor enthusiasts find those preserves. Featured in the brochure are eleven of the most popular preserves acquired by the conservancy. Copies of the guide are available free at the Conservancy office or by mail.

From the majestic oaks of Burt Lake's Colonial Point Memorial Forest to the spectacular sand dunes of Charlevoix's North Point and the more subtle beauty of other preserves in Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Mackinac and Chippewa counties, the preserves featured in the new guide offer interesting opportunities to explore and learn about the outdoors in northern Michigan.

Several of the preserves featured in the guide have self-guiding trail systems with a guide brochure to help visitors learn about and understand the natural features of the area. One, Thorne Swift Nature Preserve north of Harbor Springs, even has a nature center with naturalists on duty between mid-May and October. Others, such as the Elmer Johnston Preserve north of Petoskey and Harbor Springs, offer opportunities for a walk in a meadow with a beautiful view of Lake Michigan and Beaver Island. Still other preserves offer a glimpse of dense forests and wetlands where wildlife abounds and wild orchids bloom.

The eleven preserves featured in the mini-guide are the most popular of from among over 16 properties the Conservancy has acquired since its formation in 1972. All of these areas are open to the public, and vary from lakeside beaches to meadows to dense woods and swamps. The Conservancy adds more preserves to its inventory every year.

"Our conservancy is like many other organizations around the nation, known as land trusts," says Tom Bailey, the Conservancy's Executive Director. "The way I like to define a land trust is that it is a group of people who are willing to put their money where their mouth is—and where their heart is—to buy natural and scenic land for the public good."

Episcopal Church gets new look

Christ Episcopal Church recently received new siding which makes the building look more like it did when it was built in 1894. According to parishioner Tom Carey, an old photograph revealed the original strips of siding were narrower than the ones which have been on the building for several years.

Girls attend hoop camp

Junior high and high school girls recently participated in basketball camps in preparation for the coming season.

This year the varsity team will have a new coach, Toni Felter. Felter coached Charlevoix's varsity team for several years in the 1970s then took several years off and is now returning to the program. Felter said the camps gave her an opportunity to assess talent and get the girls accustomed to her coaching philosophy.

The high school girls worked out for two weeks. From June 11-14, the girls had a mini camp. From June 18-22, the girls went to Harbor Springs every night to scrimmage against teams from other area schools.

During mini camp the girls did a lot of drills and running. Felter said she wanted to see where the players are with their ball handling skills and get the players in shape for the scrimmage games.

During the five nights at Harbor Springs, the Charlevoix team played East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Harbor Springs and a team of Harbor Springs alumni. The games were modified to allow the coaches a better opportunity to work with the players.

Felter said the main purpose of the scrimmages was to get the players some floor experience in game situations. Charlevoix's varsity team is going to be extremely shy on returning talent this year and will probably have to bring up several sophomores.

Despite their inexperience, Felter was pleased with the players' performance in the scrimmage games.

"They did real well, I think we're going to surprise people," Felter said.

High school players who participated in the camp or scrimmages were: seniors Heather Radle and Stacy Skeel; junior Gina Webster; sophomores Jodi Allison, Lena Doan, Carl Fershee, Julie Gengle, Kim Keller, Marianne Pfister, Sheila Siegwart and Christy Siwarga; and freshmen Becky Bragg, Carrie Cunningham, Jamie Doan, Trina Holm, Christy Meier, Shannon Rowell, Teresa Seese and Carrie Wakulat.

Junior varsity coach Hank Wagner and alumni players Melinda Langford and LeAnna Mosoryak helped Felter work with the high school players.

Langford and Mosoryak both played for Felter when she previously coached the high school team.

Several parents also helped out by driving the players back and forth to Harbor Springs. Felter said the parents help in making the summer camp a success is much appreciated.

Twenty-eight seventh and eighth grade girls participated in summer camp. The younger players worked primarily on fundamentals, but also worked on some more complicated drills such as the weave. The girls finished each day with three-on-three games.

The top three teams in the three-on-three games were Carolyn Campbell, Missy Vincent and Tabatha Potter; Katie Thorpe, Jenny Schaefer and Sara Thorpe; and Jill Dreyer, Traci Allison and Mary Beth Gagnon.

Seventh grade girls participating in the camp were: Traci Allison, Allison Beatty, Carolyn Campbell, Jessica Ferber, Mary Beth Gagnon, Jamie McKinney, Heidi Miller, Beth Norton, Heidi Schepferly, Angie Schmidt, Jenny Swenor, Sara Thorpe, Amy VanGuilder, Missy Vincent and Laurie Wheat.

Eighth graders in camp were: Melissa Anderson, Angela Buday, Taylor Carter, Nicki DeNio, Jill Dreyer, Tabatha Potter, Sarah Ritt, Jenny Schaefer, Callie Siwarga, Katie Thorpe and Waja Wujcik.

Four Charlevoix players recently won a Boyne City three-on-three basketball tournament. They also took runner-up honors in Bellaire. Team members are (from left) Don Jess, Zach Pajtas, David Skeel and Brandon Webb. The girl at the right is the Bellaire Sports Festival Queen, Jess and Skeel were named to the Bellaire all tournament team. The team also received the tournament's sportsmanship award.

Charlevoix hosts yachts

Charlevoix's first splash in the world of maxi-boat yacht racing met with fair seas July 4. The 70-foot yachts Stripes and Pied Piper squared off for three races on the Lake Charlevoix waves.

Stripes, skippered by Bill Martin, took all three races. The Charlevoix Yacht Club (CYC) hosted a meet the maxi party the evening prior to the race. At the party, Steve Carland won a drawing for a chance to ride Stripes during the race while Salli Hawkins won a ride aboard Pied Piper. Following the race CYC hosted a cookout for the crews and families of the yachts.

About 50 boats hovered near the yachts during the race and sounded their horns in appreciation at the conclusion of the race.

Following their Charlevoix race, the two boats will race in similar head-to-head, or in this case bow-to-bow, competitions in Chicago and Detroit.

City softball

Ironworks-Quality Limo (IQL), Pine Hill Nursery and Charlevoix Cinema picked up wins in men's softball action Monday night.

IQL beat Charlevoix Assembly of God 19-1 with 19 hits to match their 19 runs. Dave Cole got the pitching win.

Pine Hill Nursery defeated Bay Shore Steel 4-2 in a pitching duel. Ken Peebles was the winning pitcher, allowing eight hits.

In another low-scoring game, Charlevoix Cinema beat Paul Bunyan Lanes 4-2 as Dave Novotny picked up the pitching win.

NOTICE

STATE OF MICHIGAN

IN THE DISTRICT COURT FOR THE

COUNTY OF CHARLE

Rabies still merits caution

Although rabies seldom result in human fatalities in the United States, the disease remains a potentially dangerous public health problem. Each year more than 20,000 Americans have to undergo antirabies treatment as a result of exposure to potentially rabid animals. Other major problems associated with animal bites include cost of treatment, disfigurement, infection, fear and worry, and death.

Since 1986, there has been only one positive case of animal rabies in the northern counties of lower Michigan. The animal was a skunk. Skunks in Northern Michigan are of particular concern because they may be the reservoir for rabies in our area. Confirmed rabies in animals throughout Michigan in 1989 included twenty four bats, two skunks, one cat, one dog, and one raccoon. Other warm blooded wild (fox, coyote, bobcats, and other carnivorous), and domestic animals are also capable of transmitting the disease. Rodents and lagomorphs (rabbits and hares), almost never call for antirabies treatment. The last two reported cases of human rabies in Michigan occurred in 1948 and 1983.

Rabies is a virus found in the saliva of rabies-infected animals. If an infected animal bites your pet or you, the infection is transmitted and affects the nervous system. Even a break in the skin could absorb the rabies virus on contact with the infected saliva. Rabies is a fatal disease, but can be prevented.

Every pet owner has the responsibility of helping to prevent rabies outbreaks. This responsibility includes cooperating with community sponsored rabies control programs, immunizing pets, keeping pets under control, understanding the basic signs of rabies, and knowing what to do if bitten by an animal. According to Dr. Brian Youngs, Medical Director of District Health Departments No. 3 and 4, "If you have a pet be watchful of changed behavior. For instance, a dog may act strangely and depart from normal habits. Either the animal will be withdrawn or abnormally affectionate. Later, it may become mad, and begin roaming and biting people, or the animal may become paralyzed and appear to be choking. In any case, if your pet becomes nervous, vicious, or paralyzed, call the veterinarian for advice.

Individuals must refrain from handling, stray, injured, and sick animals, wild or domestic. Parents should urge children to avoid and not handle bats, skunks, raccoons, foxes, or other wild animals that are found. Other serious diseases besides rabies are transmitted by wild animals.

If you are bitten or scratched by an animal, please contact a physician for guidance, and notify the county animal officer. The essential measures in preventing problems following a bite or scratch includes:

1. Local Treatment of the Wound - Immediate and thorough washing of all wounds is perhaps the most effective measure in preventing infection to include rabies.

2. Evaluation and Treatment of the Wound - A physician should be contacted immediately. Evaluation and prompt treatment of bites and scratches will prevent future problems. Treatment may include further wound cleaning and care. Tetanus (Td) vaccine and antibiotics to prevent infection, and antirabies treatment if indicated.

3. Animal Confinement or Testing - Animals biting or scratching an individual should be confined for ten days or tested. Please contact the county animal control officer, local environmental sanitarian, or a veterinarian. DO NOT destroy the animal by shooting it in the head. Animal brains cannot be tested if damaged or left unrefrigerated and outside in hot weather. Healthy wanted pets can be confined or observed for ten days. Unwanted or stray dogs or cats and wild animals should be destroyed and tested. Rodents (i.e. chipmunks, mice), and lagomorphs (rabbits and hares), rarely call for antirabies treatment. The state laboratory will not routinely test these animals unless the bite history is very unusual.

According to Dr. Youngs, the essential measures to follow in preventing serious consequences through an animal bite are to avoid strange animals, vaccinate domestic animals, keep pets under control, notify the animal control officer when exposure occurs, cleanse all wounds thoroughly, seek prompt medical attention, confine or test animals for rabies, and contact the local environmental sanitarian if you have questions.

A big Bigfoot was recently captured in Charlevoix and appeared in the Horton Bay July 4th parade. The Charlevoix Bigfoot was 16 and a-half feet tall in his big, bare feet. There had been previous sightings of a human-sized 'Bigfoot' in Horton Bay. With the capture of the bigger 'Bigfoot', the Horton Bay 'Bigfoot' has now been reclassified to a 'mediumfoot.'

Council again seeks annexation

At the urging of mayor Gary Probert and former councilman Norm Probert, the city council is attempting to use sewer service as leverage to annex Charlevoix Township piece by piece.

Bill Brady and Richard Bogart want to build a car wash on a township lot at the north edge of the city on Petoskey Avenue. Not only do they want to build a car wash, they want to operate it. In order to operate it, they need to either hook into the city sewer system or make some other provision for dealing with their waste water.

The lot is in the township, but borders on the city. Brady owns the lot and the building. Bogart will lease the building and operate the business. The building is up and for the most part ready to go. Bogart says that if he could hook into the sewer system, he could have the car wash operating in a matter of a few days.

According to Bogart, he and Brady began discussing sewer hook up with city manager Mike Wiesner in October of 1989. They told Wiesner that although they could make other arrangements for waste water disposal, they preferred to hook into the sewer system. Their reasoning was that eventually sewer lines will run past the lot and they will be forced to hook up so it makes sense to just do it now while they're constructing the building.

Bogart said that in December and January he had additional discussions with Wiesner. They worked out an arrangement where a lengthy lateral line could be run from the car wash and hooked into the sewer line on Taylor Road. Bogart said Wiesner told him and Brady that they could hook in to the sewer line, but he wasn't sure what the tap-in fees would be.

Several weeks later the council voted to ban any additional sewer hook-ups for township lots until the city finished separating storm and sanitary sewers on the north side. Those sewers are being separated because some north side sewer lines back up during heavy rains.

The council decision effectively reversed the understanding Bogart and Brady had reached with Wiesner and meant the car wash couldn't hook into the sewer system until separation work is finished. That work was originally supposed to be finished this summer, but now has been delayed until at least November.

Bogart says the problem is that between the time the city manager said the car was could hook into the sewer system and the time the city council reversed that decision, he and Brady ordered the building and signed contracts for construction.

Bogart says his biggest gripe is that he was told one thing and acted on that and now he's stuck with a building he can't use.

In recent weeks, Bogart and Brady have been before the council several times, most recently this past Monday evening.

The council has stuck to their earlier position saying no township lots will be allowed to hook up until north side separation work is finished.

Councilman Butch Russell said he has no problem with the car wash hooking into the sewer once separation work is finished and suggested that until that time the car wash use tanks and have them pumped. Former councilman Norm Probert suggested that Brady and Bogart seek to have the lot annexed, i.e. become part of the city.

Bogart said he might be willing to consider that if that's what it takes to get the car wash going. However, he noted that in regard to north side back up problems and separation work, he can't see the difference between hooking up as a township lot and hooking up as a city lot.

Rathke resigns from school board

by WENDI WRIGHT

After two years of service on the Charlevoix Board of Education, Janet Rathke has resigned her post, effective August 6, 1990.

At the board's regular meeting Monday night, Rathke told Board President Max Novak and the other board members that she has accepted a position as Home Economist for the Minnesota Extension Service, and will be relocating to Minnesota.

In her letter of resignation, which was read by Doris Pearl, board member, Rathke stated that she appreciated the opportunity to serve the community and the Charlevoix school system, and that it was with mixed feelings that she submitted her resignation.

Ahead-lines

Venetian requires preparation

Things are falling into place in preparation for the 60th Annual Venetian Festival. The festival will begin with the Venetian Queen pageant July 26 and conclude Sunday, July 29.

Once again Saturday's street and boat parades will be among the highlights of the festival. There are still spots available in both parades.

"It's not like we don't have any entrants, but there's still plenty of time for people to get into both of them," Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Jacqueline Merta said of the parades.

Additional volunteers to work on committees on the day of the parades would also be appreciated. Merta may be contacted at 547-2101 for information.

The fireworks following the boat parade will feature something new this year. Music orchestrated for the fireworks will be played over downtown loudspeakers.

Another attraction, which is new in a way, will be tours of the Acacia Saturday and Sunday. The Acacia was recently reassigned to Charlevoix.

23 MONDAY

City Council Committee of the Whole meets at city hall, 7 p.m.
 Nutritional Meals for senior citizens served at the VFW, 12:30 p.m.
 Informational Talk and Discussion on adult child issues, 7 p.m., St. Mary's Catholic School 4th grade classroom. ACOA - ALANON support group immediately following.
 Lions Club meets at Stafford's Weathervane for a luncheon meeting.

24 TUESDAY

Evening Lions meet, 7 p.m. at the American Legion Hall.
 Charlevoix Historical Society Board meets at 7 p.m. at Harsha House.
 Nutritional Meals for senior citizens served at the VFW, 12:30 p.m.
 Kiwanis Club meets at Grey Gables Inn for a luncheon meeting.
 Overeaters Anonymous meets in the basement of United Methodist Church, 7 p.m.
 TOPS Chapter 440 of Charlevoix meets at the Methodist Church. Weigh-in as at 5:30 p.m., meeting at 6 p.m. Anyone interested in losing weight is welcome to attend.

25 WEDNESDAY

Zonta Club meets at Alexander's, 11:45 a.m. All visiting Zontians welcome.
 Oddfellows meet at the American Legion, 8 p.m.
 City Planning Commission meets at city hall, 7 p.m.
 County Board of Commissioners meets at 7:30 p.m. in the county building annex.

...annexation proposed

Council member Pat Gaskin said she thought the reason for holding back on the hook up was to keep from putting an additional burden on the sewer system.

Mayor Gary Probert said the difference in annexation is that as a city taxpayer, the property owners would be sharing the cost of sewer system improvements.

Although the city sewer system is supposed to be self supporting, i.e. funded by user fees, the city is levying three mills for infrastructure improvements. Part of the infrastructure program involves sewer system improvements.

Bogart asked how he's supposed to go about getting the lot annexed. Wiesner said that according to the city attorney, the easiest way is for the property owner to petition both the city and township. If both of them agree, then annexation is fairly simple. If one of them doesn't, then a boundary commission gets involved. Wiesner said that a boundary commission probably wouldn't take place until well after Nov. 1 when the separation is supposed to be completed.

As Gary Probert polled council members to get their opinion on the prospects of annexation, council member Cheri Hoffman said, "I think this whole discussion is ridiculous if you want to know the truth. I don't see that adding the equivalent of two toilets is going to significantly burden the system."

Tap-in and user fees for township lots are significantly higher than fees for city residents. Bogart asked the council if the fees would be lower if the lot is annexed into the city.

Wiesner recommended that hook-up fees for current township lots stay higher. He said the reason the fees are higher is so that if additional hook-ups create a need for additional sewer facilities, there will be money available for the work.

Council members indicated they feel otherwise. Councilman Bill Haggard said that if a large area hooked into the system, then a special sewer assessment district could be established.

Wiesner said many township lots already have sewer service and couldn't legally be special assessed for a service they already possess.

At the conclusion of the discussion, Russell said that since Bogart and Brady have the alternative of storing the water in tanks and then pumping it, he doesn't feel the city is forcing them to seek annexation.

Bogart replied, "As far as I'm concerned you're forcing me. Because otherwise I can't get sewer (service)."

In a phone interview with the Courier following the meeting, Bogart said he's considering alternatives to dealing with the council and hooking into the sewer.

He said he can get a permit to put car wash bathrooms on a septic system. The problem is with the wash water. He estimated that he would have to pay about $5,500 to the city to hook into the sewer system and another $5,000 to build a line from the car wash back to Taylor Road. With that being the case, he said he may consider putting in a 1,000 gallon holding tank for the wash water and having it pumped as needed.

Zonta celebrates first year

By Peg Ohle

Lani Ochs, president of the Zonta Club of Charlevoix, recently returned from the 50th annual conference of Zonta International in Dallas, full of enthusiasm for the place of Zonta among the world's women.

She plans to impart this enthusiasm to members of the year-old local Zonta club. "There are 35,000 Zonta clubs in 53 countries," Ochs explained. "And we are working for the advancement of understanding, good will, and peace through a world fellowship of executives in business and the professions united in the Zonta ideal of leadership."

To achieve these goals, Zonta International will focus on the problems of literacy, drugs, and the environment. A sign of the times was the report that a Zonta club had recently started in Prague and another one is planned for Moscow.

The participation of Zonta women was illustrated in Dallas by the fact that approximately 3,000 women from 44 countries attended the meeting, at which Madame Jehan Sadat of Egypt was the guest speaker.

Zonta International is proud of the fact it is one of only three non-government organizations in Classification I of the United Nations. Each year, Zonta donates over $1 million to the United Nations, especially to Unifem, a U.N. agency for educating women. Although the primary focus of Zonta is on women, it does contribute to other causes involving children and men.

Projects undertaken by the Zonta Club of Charlevoix include sponsorship of an Explorer Boy Scout troop, purchase of "anatomical" dolls for the Police Department, helping to entertain the Soviet visitors, serving as greeters for Prayer Day, helping to buy mittens for children at Christmas time, supplying personal hygiene kits for residents of Nehemiah House in Petoskey, buying material for a pavilion at the Girl Scout Camp in Charlevoix, and assisting Keep Charlevoix Beautiful at its fund-raising auction.

Continuing most of these projects and adding new ones will keep local Zonta members busy next year. They will host an art auction in the fall, sell nuts at holiday time, have a card party in February, and sponsor a hair-styling show in the spring.

As Ochs expresses it, "The Zonta Club of Charlevoix is not just a social organization, but a hardworking service group. It is open to women in decision-making positions in business or the professions who devote at least 60 percent of their time to their jobs."

Besides Ochs, officers are Velda Kammerman, vice-president; Kim Simpson, secretary; and Edith Dale, treasurer. Board members are Kathy Boss, Mary Ann Price, Helen Emmons, and Janet Potter.

Any Charlevoix area woman interested in joining Zonta may contact any of the above for further information.

Letters to the Editor:

Don't sit idle

Dear Editor,

Thank you for your recent article regarding the Charlevoix City Council's response to WATCH's (Water and Air Team for Charlevoix) request for a bridge sign. Our attempt to encourage and remind motorists to turn off their engines, when practical, while waiting for the bridge was met with a less than caring attitude. While we respect the concern for "sign pollution" WATCH felt this friendly reminder might show our visitors we care about our clean air resources.

Our response to Mr. Wiesner's comments were (1) When it is practical to do so, drivers should be encouraged to turn off their engines. Obviously if a person is five blocks away from the bridge and trying to condense the line, this is not practical. Our feelings were directed to the motorist who has just pulled up within sight of the bridge knowing they will be idle for at least 3-5 (or more) minutes. Second, these signs would be noticeable if they were directly in front of the driver—such as attached to the wire which holds the signal light, or at each end of the bridge. If we can only remind five out of every 100 cars, we are further ahead.

Third, according to the American Lung Association most engines are better shut off than idling after 60 seconds. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, if the engine is already warm, and freezing temperatures are not a factor, most engines are better turned off, consuming less fuel and causing less emissions restarting than allowing them to idle.

(Idle engines run high and rich).

Last, we believe that most of the general public, educated regarding the consequences of allowing their engines to idle would give up their air conditioning for five minutes.

In an effort to make more people aware of the unseen problems from idle engines, WATCH would like to present information compiled from the Environmental Defense Fund, Union of Concerned Scientists, and the National Wildlife Federation.

Idle engines:

•Waste Gas.

•Emit a variety of pollutants including Nitrogen Oxides, Carbon Monoxide, and hydrocarbons (health effects include reducing the blood's ability to absorb oxygen, fatal in high concentrations, irritation of lungs, eyes, nose, etc. causes choking and coughing—can be damaging to a pregnant woman's child, and reduces resistance to respiratory diseases, to name a few).

•Poses a health threat to anyone exposed to these emissions.

•Produces 120 lbs. of CO₂ for each gallon of gas burned and equals eight percent of the global CO₂ emissions—close to 1.7 billion tons.

•Reduces your "miles per gallon" by approximately 15 %.

•In the US, two thirds of the carbon monoxide released comes from motor vehicle exhaust.

•If all the sulfur dioxide and nitrogen oxides (two pollutants that contribute to acid rain) spewed into the air each day would be collected, they would fill 4,144 cars on a freight train.

REASONABLE TO ME
L. SCOTT SWANSON

Watch your step please

I thought my wife might have sprained her ankle the other evening. As she walked through the living room she suddenly crumpled. I noticed this right away because she was almost in line with the TV and the Tigers were batting.

Fortunately she caught herself before she fell completely to the floor and wasn't seriously injured. After hopping around for a moment, she bent down and picked up one of the baby's small plastic toys.

It is one of the hazards of having children. People in stocking feet have to be careful where they walk. Step on a baby toy just right and I'll bring you to your knees.

I think the step factor is something manufacturers of baby toys should consider. They could include in their sales pitch "This toy is multicolored to catch the baby's eye. It's educational. And best of all, it mommy and daddy won't burst into a profane tantrum if they step on it."

Kathy and I try to keep the baby's toys picked up, but it's a losing battle. The kid has a little kid cart she wheels around in. The cart has a tray on the front. She starts out with the tray fully loaded with toys, then distributes them through the house. I find that if I lose sight of the kid for a second, the easiest way to locate her is just to follow the trail of toys.

I thought about not reloading the cart for her and seeing what she would do if she ran out of toys. That ploy proved counterproductive. If she's denied access to her regular toys, she creates toys.

The baby's very literary. Any book or newspaper left on a coffee table is fair game. And to a baby, the phrase "digest a little literature" is not just a figure of speech. I saw her bite off the corner of a page from a mail order magazine the other day. I snatched the magazine away from her and explained that in a capitalist economy it's OK to be a consumer, but you're supposed to consume the product not the advertising.

Magazines and newspapers might be a little bit slippery, but stepping on them generally isn't crippling.

On the other hand, or foot in this case, stepping on a small brass padlock, a C-clamp or an ice cream scoop could be done without. Those are other things the baby has deemed toys. And these aren't things you expect to find in the middle of the living room floor. You have to really look where you're walking, or they catch you off guard.

Garbage is another thing which to my mind is not a toy. However, if the baby runs out of her regular toys she doesn't hesitate to make a toy out of garbage. The dog and cat are jealous. They have to be sneaky because if they're caught getting into a waste basket, there's big trouble. The baby brazenly attacks baskets. Sometimes she just tips them over. Other times, she reaches her little hand in, fetches out something disgusting and then waves it above her head and smiles like it's some kind of trophy.

Normally, we catch her when she gets into the waste basket and she's unable to lay a garbage trap on the floor.

If there's any hope in this situation it is that the kid is now beginning to learn to walk. She's not soloing yet. She pulls herself up on the edge of what ever parent or piece of furniture is handy and uses that as a brace. I figure that within a month or so she'll venture away from the sides of the room into the open going.

Then she'll have to step carefully to avoid all of the things she leaves strewn on the floors.

Getting crafty

I cannot believe the fantastic appeal of Charlevoix's Craft Show.

Year after year, it attracts as many—maybe more—viewers, shoppers and participants than the city's two other colossal summer events, the Venetian Festival and the Waterfront Art Show.

Of course, this year the weather cooperated.

All day Saturday was cool and overcast, with a few brief showers in the afternoon. It was not exactly the kind of day you would want to spend golfing, sailing, swimming or sunbathing.

Instead the weather was tailor-made for coming into town, poking around exhibits in East Park and finding out what's new and different in the world of arts and crafts.

The quality of the works on display gets better every year—a situation that makes me feel woefully inadequate in the crafts department.

I keep thinking of a birdhouse I built during a manual training class at Marx Elementary School in Detroit. Every time I drove a nail, the wood split. I finally had to weld all the little pieces together with strips of corrugated metal. It looked terrible.

Then, to draw attention from my poor workmanship, I painted the birdhouse with gaudy shades of green and red—which were still tacky to the touch when the Detroit Board of Education raised the curtain on its gigantic arts and crafts show at Convention Hall.

My manual arts teacher—a card-carrying masochist—insisted on putting my birdhouse on display regardless, probably to show his colleagues the degree of competence he had to work with at Marx Elementary.

After the show, I mounted the birdhouse in a cherry tree outside the kitchen window, but no self-respecting bird in the neighborhood showed any interest in moving in. Not even a colorblind grackle.

That's why I'm so impressed by the handicrafters' competence. They make it all look so easy.

THIS YEAR'S Craft Show was the 22nd for Charlevoix, which only underscores how fast the years are rolling by.

It was only yesterday that the late Bernice Wexstaff stopped at the office of the Charlevoix Courier and asked me what I thought about starting a "hobbycraft" show for all the artists who were juried out of the prestigious Waterfront Art Show, which is more artsy than crafty.

I said it was a fine idea, and I believe the Courier gave staunch editorial support to the concept of a "hobbycraft" show. I know the paper covered the first few shows quite thoroughly, although only a handful of exhibitors—most of them local artisans—took part.

But every year the show has grown larger. At times Saturday, there wasn't a single vacant parking spot in the entire valley, a good sign that the Charlevoix Craft show has come of age.

ALL OF WHICH brings us around to the stop light at the corner of Clinton and Bridge streets.

Gary Zeitler wonders why that light isn't kept operational at least until midnight during the summer.

So do I.

As things stand, after about 9 p.m. the light blinks yellow for traffic on Bridge Street and red for traffic on Clinton Street.

During the past two summers at Castle Farms, traffic on Bridge Street has peaked between 11 p.m. and midnight. It is virtually impossible to cross Bridge Street on foot and cars back up in both directions on Clinton Street waiting for a chance to break into the long line of north-bound traffic.

The situation becomes particularly hazardous when the Charlevoix Cinema lets out.

Zeitler thinks the light should be programmed to continue its red-yellow-green cycle, a few hours longer, particularly in summer when the town is filled with tourists.

I agree. Since that light is on a federal highway, I wonder if it could be reprogrammed without an act of Congress? So many matters of public policy are cast in bronze nowadays, it's hard to tell.

Model ordinance drafted

On Friday, July 13 at the Park Place Hotel in Traverse City, the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments announced the release of a recently compiled model zoning ordinance for commercial land uses along major roads and highways. The model ordinance is designed to serve as a template for county and township zoning authorities to design their own ordinances to control negative impacts frequently associated with strip malls and similar commercial development.

The ordinance was written and adopted by the Planners Advisory and Review Committee of the Council of Governments with consultation from regional economic development organizations. The Committee is comprised of the county planners from the ten county region including Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix, Emmet, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, Leelanau, Manistee, Missaukee, and Wexford Counties.

The intent of the model ordinance is to promote safety as well as preserve the natural beauty of the surrounding area.

Some examples of items addressed in the ordinance include size and number of signs, driveways, parking and landscaping.

One area the ordinance focuses on is limiting the number of driveways along major roads. Traffic can become slowed and unsafe due to turning cars. "As the number of driveways along a road increases so does the probability of an accident," said Mark Brederland, Environmental Programs Director at the Council of Governments.

*Increased demands for fuel means increased oil drilling in highly sensitive natural areas and pristine wilderness. It also increases the likelihood of oil spills such as the Exxon Valdez and causes greater dependency on foreign sources.

*In one year, traffic congestion alone wastes three billion gallons of gasoline—about five percent of the nation's annual gas consumption.

*8.1 billion hours will be spent in traffic congestion per year by the year 2005.

*Chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) leak from many car air conditioners depleting the ozone layer.

*Airborne toxics lead to degradation of our water quality (acid rain, etc.)

*Cars emit about 40% of the nitrogen oxides that contribute to acid rain, as well as poisonous carbon monoxide and hydrocarbons that cause smog (158 million Americans live in the area that violate the Clean Air Act Standards—don't let Charlevoix be one of those areas!)

We hope that the general public will join us in the effort to maintain the clean air and water quality of Charlevoix by turning off their engine while waiting for the bridge. Please help each of us who live, work, shop, and enjoy downtown Charlevoix breathe a little easier.

Editor,

On June 14, 1990, I launched my boat at the launch. I did so under the following assumptions:

1. I was told by the attendant that if you won property that could launch without a fee. I even was issued a launch sticker a couple years back.
2. If the launch fee is $3, why is there a $10 citation?
3. I paid $2,360 in real estate taxes for 1989. Included in this figure are 4 mills to the County. Doesn't this entitle me to use the boat ramp a couple times a year?

The boat ramps in the State of Michigan are initially installed and funded by State funds. How can the City of Charlevoix call it its own and discriminate against taxpayers who do not own property in the City of Charlevoix. Once again, a summer resident becomes a second class citizen. We

Nowka - Griffin

Michelle Renee Nowka and Thomas Richard Griffin were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, June 16, at St. Joseph's Catholic Church in East Jordan.

Father James Mausolf officiated at the double ring rites before approximately 85 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Donald and Constance Nowka of East Jordan, and the bridegroom is the son of Richard and Gabrielle Griffin of Hawthorn, New York.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father and given in marriage by both her parents. For the occasion, she wore a white satin gown fashioned with renaissance sleeves and a Victorian neckline. The bodice featured a Basque waist and an overlay of Venise lace with pearl and sequin trim.

The bride's veil of illusion was attached to a headpiece of white cockle shell leaves and pearls, and she carried a bouquet of calla lilies, camellia orchids, and ferns.

Cathy Nowka, sister-in-law of the bride, attended her as matron of honor, and Gayle Savasteno, sister of the bridegroom, served as bridesmaid. Renee Nowka, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Jim Nowka, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

The matron of honor and bridesmaid wore royal blue silk gowns made with scooped necklines and puffed elbow-length sleeves. The gowns were accented with a silk overlay. Both attendants carried pale pink fans with flowers to match their gowns.

The flower girl's dress was of pleated white Belgium lace with royal blue ribbons on the sleeves.

Mathew W. Davey assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Jamé Nowka, brother of the bride, was groomsmen.

Robert Dube, uncle of the bride, provided traditional organ music for the ceremony and sang "Let There Be Love". The bride's parents hosted a reception at Alexander's of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Jordan Inn.

Following a trip to Mackinac Island, the newlyweds are at home in the Charlevoix area. The bridegroom operates a professional carpet cleaning company, and the bride is a medical laboratory technician. (Photography by Aartvark Studio).

Packer - Mulka

Kim Packer & Paul Mulka

Kimberly Ann Packer and Paul Lewis Mulka will be married July 28.

Parents of the couple are Robert and Mary Packer of Muskegon and Kenneth and Gale Mulka of Charlevoix.

The bride-to-be is a Master of Arts graduate of Western Michigan University and is employed by the State of Michigan as a therapist.

Her fiancé is a Master of Arts graduate of Michigan State University and presently manages the placement program at the State Technical Institute in Plainwell.

Stutzman 50th

Joe and Josie Stutzman will celebrate their 50th anniversary at an open house hosted by their children Aug.

25. The open house will take place from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the VFW Hall in Charlevoix. Dancing and a program will follow from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Houses still need numbers

It will take about two years to set up an accurate, professional numbering system for Charlevoix County.

This information was given to members of the County Board last week by Joan Blanchard, Equalization Director. Her department was recently assigned the job of completing the system, which has been in the hands of several other county departments during the past several years.

The system must be completed before a 911 emergency phone system can be installed in the county. Recently, a representative of Michigan Bell told the County Commissioners that it would take a minimum of two years to install the system after the county decides to use it. County Planner Larry Sullivan was asked to look into the possibility of joining a multi-county 911 setup.

Blanchard explained to the Commissioners that to meet the two-year time limit, she will need another employee in her department because her present workload is taking up all the time of the staff. Eileen McDonough, who worked on the system when it was being handled by the Building Inspection Department, was transferred to the Equalization Department to continue the work there. However, she has resigned from the job and is moving out of town.

Martin 50th

Lucile & Dr. Robert Martin

A reception to honor the 50th wedding anniversary of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Martin will take place Sunday, July 15 at the Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Robert Martin and Lucile Gustafson were married July 10, 1940 in Detroit. They have made their home in Charlevoix and been active in the Charlevoix community for many years.

The Martin's children will host the reception. They are: Maynard and Ann Sherwin, John and Elaine St. Laurent and Paul and Leila Martin.

Lynette M. Holtz

Lynette M. (Mayne) Holtz, 46, of Desoto, Texas, died July 8, 1990, at Methodist Central Hospital, Dallas, Texas.

Funeral was 10 a.m. Thursday, July 12, at St. Mary's Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James Gardiner officiated with burial in St. Mary's Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Lynette M. Mayne was born Jan. 20, 1944, in Charlevoix, the daughter of Hugh and Catherine (Smith) Mayne. She was a 1961 graduate of Charlevoix High School and a 1966 graduate of Ferris State College School of Pharmacy. She worked at Central Drug Store in Charlevoix during her years in college.

She was head of the pharmacy department at Zeiger Osteopathic Hospital in Detroit for more than 10 years.

On April 22, 1976, she married Russell Holtz in Troy, Mich. For the past two years they have resided in Desoto, Texas.

Texas.

Mrs. Holtz is survived by her husband; one daughter, Laura and one son, Andrew, both of Desoto, Texas; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Mayne of Charlevoix; one sister, Mrs. Robert (Roberta) Albright of San Diego, Calif.

The family suggests memorials to the March of Dimes. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

United Methodist Church to host concert by The Knock-Abouts

Terry and Cindi Knock will present a concert of sacred and Gospel music at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 20, at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

The program consists of a variety of sacred and Gospel music, some old and some new. The couple performs under the stage name The Knock-Abouts. They are not known for being loud, but perform a relaxing and enjoyable concert.

The public is welcome to attend. There is no admission charge although a free-will offering will be taken.

Duo to perform in park

OF BLESSINGS

Rodeo Rose and the Woodland Valley Poet will present a free show at 7 p.m. Saturday July 21, at East Jordan Memorial Park. Their performance of songs, poetry and stories presented in the spirit of old-time family radio is the first of a summer performing arts series sponsored by Jordan River Arts Council.

Long-time practitioners of the oral tradition, the duo—aka Louan Lechler and Berrien Thorn—present a blend of traditional, country and blues which they fondly termed "Buddha Country." Their repertoire includes many Lechler originals which she has presented, accompanying herself on guitar, to appreciative audiences at Kewadin's Stone Circle poetry gatherings for six years.

After years of solo performing, Lechler teamed up with Thorn for a combined Rodeo Rose and Woodland Valley Poet show that has won them accolades at performances throughout northern Michigan. Thorn plays a variety of string instruments and is a master of ukulele with a vaudevilian style.

BEACONS

by REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Sometimes, whether you like it or not, bad things happen to good people. Some of those crises are catastrophic. Some are just minor annoyances. We have had a lot of minor things get after us lately.

Snoopy is my little red Horizon that I drive for my pastoral work. He ended up in the car hospital recently for collision repairs. When the body shop returned him to me, I was so glad to get him back that I really didn't look him over as good as I should have.

I was coming out of Glen's when I saw it. Snoopy's front bumper was drooping. It was high on the right and low on the left. How could I miss such a crooked front end?

There were visions of complications floating in my head. How in the world were they going to straighten it out? It had been a major hassle plowing through just the paperwork because we had been out of town when Snoopy had his close encounter.

I drove back to the body shop first thing the next day. I pulled up and went inside telling the mechanic, "I've got a problem." I didn't have to say another word. He came outside, took one look at the car, and started laughing. "No problem," was his reply. He called his partner. With a twist of a ratchet on one side and a twist on another with a little gentle tapping from below for good measure, Snoopy's front end was straight again.

How many times have you had little things annoy you, just really rob you of the happiness a normal day ought to hold? Sometimes just a few moments with the right person can work wonders. In this case, a mechanic was the right person for Snoopy. When it comes to your emotions and spirit, the right person is the Lord. He is the factory authorized man. He knows you better than you know yourself. You might be surprised, if you'll just take the time to bring him even those minor annoyances, how quickly God can fix them. A little tap of his loving hand can go a long way towards straightening most anything out.

A power boat and a live llama are among the items which will be auctioned off at a July 23 dinner-auction at the barn of Dunnaglas on Boyne City Road. Proceeds from the dinner will benefit Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's annual petunia project. Proceeds from the auction will go toward establishing an endowment fund for a proposed community swimming pool.

Lake Association to meet

The Lake Charlevoix Association will host its annual meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 19 in Boyne City at the City Hall auditorium. Refreshments will be served.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Leighton L. Leighty, attorney and professor at Michigan State University. Dr. Leighty will talk about property rights and zoning, shoreland development and environmental regulation, and legal aspects when opposing factions clash. Also on the program will be a demonstration of a noise monitoring device used by the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Marine Patrol.

The meeting will close with a drawing for door prizes, ranging from a weekend at the Water Street Inn to an emergency paddle good for when you're up a creek.

All members of the Lake Charlevoix Association are urged to attend and the meeting is open to the public.

BUSINESS

K-Mart opens this weekend

The Charlevoix K-Mart store on M-66 will open for business July 19 and celebrate its grand opening Sunday, July 22.

"We'll be ready. We'll be open," store manager Jim Cupp declared last week as busy workers put the finishing touches on displays.

Customers will immediately notice that the Charlevoix store is different from other K-Mart stores. The Charlevoix K-Mart is the K-Mart of the future, one of the first K-Mart stores built with new design concepts which the K-Mart Corporation is incorporating for the 1990s.

The primary purpose of the design changes is to make it easier for shoppers to find things.

Fixtures in the new K-Mart store are completely different from fixtures in older stores. They're larger and hold more merchandise. Cupp frequently used the term "massive displays" as he explained the new K-Mart design. Larger displays of items make it easier for a customer to find not only an item but specific brands of an item.

The Charlevoix K-Mart store has approximately 86,000 square feet of space. It's on the large side for new K-Mart stores. New design concepts and new fixtures allow a higher percentage of that floor space to be used for sales rather than storage. Once again, shopping ease is the reason for the change. If you're a customer, you come into a store to find an item and buy it, not to track down a clerk and send them back to the storage room to see if the item is in stock.

Certain items have also been placed in different departments so that things will be where people expect them to be. As an example, shop vacuums are displayed near automotive parts and power tools. Car stereos are in the sound system department rather than in automotive.

In some cases, entire departments are in different locations. For example, in older K-Mart stores the restaurant section is at the back of the store. In the Charlevoix K-Mart, there is a small restaurant just to the right as you enter the front door.

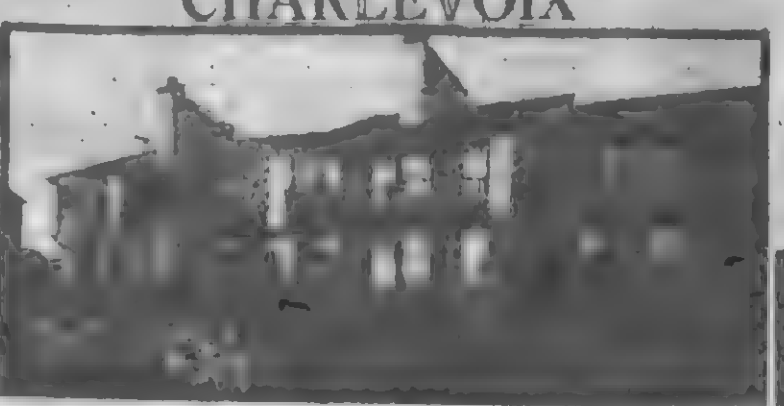

Departments are set up to logically lead from one department to another. Children's apparel leads into children's toys.

Anyone who has a problem finding something needs only to look up for guidance. Large red signs point the way. Cupp estimates the store will employ approximately 100 people. They will also be available to answer customers' questions.

Havoline Motor Oil has donated a gas powered mini truck and trailer which will be given away at the grand opening. Clowns will also be handing out free balloons, hats, yardsticks, memo pads, crayons, fishing lures and other items.

SUMMER TIMES

Sailors race for fun in annual Irish Cup Race

While the Irish Cup Race features talented sailors on some of the area's fastest boats, the atmosphere of the race is by no means cut-throat. Racers who lose, enjoy festivities at pre and post race parties right along with race winners. Race winners, provided they don't gloat too intemperately, suffer no shame in winning. After all, somebody's got to do it.

Approximately three dozen sailboats will gather on Lake Charlevoix June 21 to compete in the Sixth Annual Irish Cup Race. Boats will be separated into four divisions for the day-long event.

Experienced sailors will participate in the Main and Jib, Spinnaker, and J-boat divisions. The J-boat division will be computer scored.

The fourth division is called the Peak Performance Fun Fleet and is for sailors who are either legitimate novices who are, when they put their minds to it, able to sail like novices.

When the Irish Cup Race began in 1985, one of its primary goals was to teach young people to enjoy sailing. Proceeds from the race benefit the Lake Charlevoix Mariners, a non-profit sailing instruction program coordinated by the Charlevoix County Sailors. Many Cup racers take members of the Mariner program aboard during the race.

We promote it as a fun race, explains Irish Cup Race coordinator Michelle Rick-Biddick. It's a fun alternative to the highly competitive Chicago and Port Huron to Mackinaw racers. Rick-Biddick estimates that about 60 to 65 percent of the boats in the race are Charlevoix based. For some of the boats, the Irish Cup Race is the only race they compete in each year.

Saturday's races, which begin at 11 a.m., serve as the centerpiece of an event which begins Friday evening and ends Sunday morning.

Race sponsors and participants gather Friday evening at 7 p.m. for a cocktail party and skippers' meeting. Sponsors this year are: Irish Boat Shop; WKPK; Society Bank; Graphic Printing; and Bayside Beverage.

Racing begins at 11 a.m.

Saturday morning. The course will utilize Charlevoix Yacht Club buoys although there are four possible courses. Race officials will check the wind prior to selecting which course will be used for this year's race. The longest leg of the spinnaker race will take racers down to Horton Bay. Other divisions will go almost to Ironton on the lake's south arm.

The post-race party will begin at 5 p.m. Chicken, barbequed by the Charlevoix Lions Club, will be served at 5 p.m. Awards will be presented at 7 p.m. to the top three finishers in each division. The winner of the Lake Charlevoix Mariners benefit raffle will be chosen following the awards. Music and dancing will resume after the award and raffle winners are announced.

Race entries will be accepted through July 19. Rick-Biddick said that organizing the race is a process which began several months ago and that as race day approaches things are coming together quite well.

"It's an amazing challenge," she said. "It takes a nice group of people to get this thing off the ground."

SPORTS

Charlevoix Courier Wednesday, July 18, 1990—PAGE 15

Softball

Paul Bunyan Lanes, Pine Hill Nursery and Town House picked up wins in men's softball action Monday, July 16.

Paul Bunyan beat Assembly of God 4-1. Larry Nunemaker was the winning pitcher and was supported by a home run by Ray Kerr.

Pine Hill defeated Ironworks-Quality Limo 8-4. Eric Towe had a home run for Pine Hill. Ken Peebles got the pitching win.

Town House won by virtue of a forfeit by Charlevoix Cinema.

Arnolds of East Jordan, Kwikie Printing and Investment Management and Research were winners in women's play July 12.

Arnolds rallied in the last inning for four runs to beat Nanny's Restaurant 5-4. Kelly Jo Carson was the winning pitcher. Colleen Tripp had two hits for Nanny's.

Kwikie Printing also won in the last inning, scoring three runs to take a 12-9 win from Wojan Aluminum. Marcie Wynkoop homered for the winners while Chris Nunemaker was the winning pitcher.

Investment beat Town House 9-5. Carrie Nelson was the winning pitcher supported by a home run by Teresa Notrot. Connie Borths had two hits for Town House.

In men's play July 11, Pine Hill Nursery and Charlevoix Cinema ran up a football score as Pine Hill took a 23-13 win. Despite the score, there was only one home run in the game. Doug Waha hit it. Ken Peebles got the pitching win.

Bayshore Steel beat Town House 6-2. Chris Havens hit a home run for the winners behind the pitching of Butch Potter.

Paul Bunyan Lanes defeated Ironworks-Quality Limo 5-4. Clay Jones had a home run for the winners while Larry Nunemaker was the winning pitcher.

Runners perform well

Scott Miller finished first in his age division of the Amoco Golden Mile to lead a contingent of Charlevoix runners who participated in Traverse City races affiliated with the National Cherry Festival.

Miller, who will soon be a freshman on the cross country team at William & Mary ran the mile in 4:22.75.

In the men's 5K (3.1 miles) run, Doug Drenth and Matt

Peterson finished third and fourth with a time of 15:42.

In the 15K (9.3 miles) women's age 20-24 division, Michelle North finished in 1:06.27. In the 40-44 age group, Helen Donahue finished in 1:09.53; and Carol Paxton finished in 1:22.21.

In the 15K, men's age 35-39 Paul Gelderblom finished in 57:32.

In the 15K, men's age 50-54 Glen Taylor finished in 58:48.

3 on 3 for hoopsters

The Ninth Annual KZ Memorial 3 on 3 basketball tournament will take place Saturday, July 28 in Petoskey. Games will begin at 9 a.m.

There will be three different age divisions. The entry fee is $32 per team and each team member will receive a T-shirt. For more information, phone Steve Mann at 347-5165.

Local Little Leaguers fare well in district play

Charlevoix's 11 and 12-year-old Little League team reached the district semi finals with a 12-7 win over Gaylord Monday. Earlier in the tournament, Charlevoix beat Johannesburg and Rosecommon-St. Helen.

Charlevoix jumped out to an early 4-0 lead against Gaylord and never looked back. They increased their lead to 11-0 with seven runs in the third inning and completed their scoring in the fourth inning with a solo home run from George McClellan.

Gary Leitner got the pitching win as he allowed seven hits in five and a third innings. Zac Kehrler came on to pitch the final two outs. In addition to his pitching, Leitner had three hits including a double.

In the semi-finals, Charlevoix will play against Alpena at 5 p.m. Saturday in Cheboygan. Cheboygan will play West Branch in the other semi final game.

Yachting Notes

What a great way to start a series, clear skies and a nice breeze out of the Northwest. It looks as though the whole fleet was out as 34 boats took the starting cannon and all but one finished. As each skipper was picking out his side of the course the wind picked up and helped keep the fleet together.

In Fleet A, the big boat fleet, Mint Julip was victorious as "Captain Jack" domed. Next was Pygmalion, Apprentice, Flash, Gotcha, and our friend from Ohio, Slap Shot.

Fleet B had the closest racing with 14 seconds separating the first three places. Coming out of retirement was Tireless just squeaking into first followed by MI-Joy, Cabaret, Original Sin.

Lost Vermonters, Cygnus, Sandpiper, Blasen III and Polestar. Welcome to the fleet.

Sizzle was first to finish in the C fleet with Newsense, H9 Moisture, Bandit, Sunkist, Confusion (welcome to the fleet), Allensy and M.I.P. close behind.

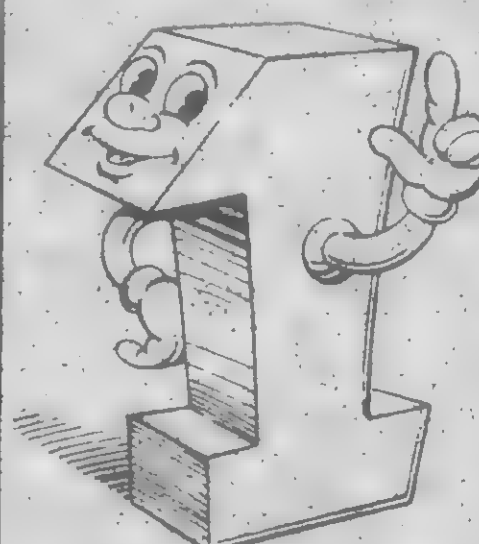

The J.A.M. fleet was lead around the course by that old cruising salt Bald Eagle, just nipping out Hot Mustard for that elusive first place. Spirit was next followed by: Cheemaun, Nancy, Sunrise, Stalworth, Canusa, Apothecary, Maureen, and Our Thyme. Welcome to Wednesday Nite Racing. The Mouse II.

Council looks at revising DDA list to include lights

The city council is going to consider reopening the Downtown Development Authority (DDA) development plan with an eye toward putting new street lights back on the project list. Last fall the council deleted new street lights from the project list despite protests from several downtown merchants.

This spring the council appointed an ad hoc committee to look into Charlevoix's municipal lighting needs. That committee has met nine times and reported to the council Monday evening.

Dale Troppman, who is a member of both the DDA and lighting committee, addressed the council. He said the lighting committee has reviewed the city's present lights and has been experimenting with some different types of lights.

He said more than one type of light will be needed to replace present municipal lights as the city has at least three different lighting needs: residential; downtown; and parks.

Troppman said the committee has reached consensus on three points: they don't like the present downtown lights; they're not satisfied with the new type of lights in front of Points North; and whatever new type of lighting the city adopts should be aesthetically pleasing with an air of nostalgia.

City electric department supervisor Ed Whitley, who is working with the committee said that after checking into prices, the committee has found some light poles which are 40 to 45 percent less expensive than the poles which were originally proposed. The poles which were proposed carried a price tag of about $2,000 each.

Josh Barnes, the president of Lexalite and a committee member, said the committee has looked at a number of lighting fixtures. The problem has been finding a fixture which looks good both when it's on at night and when it's off during the day.

"We will find such a fixture," Barnes claimed.
The lighting committee requested that the council reopen the DDA development plan at this time so that footings for lights on the east side of Bridge Street can be installed in conjunction with sidewalk work scheduled for this fall.

Monday evening, council members did not indicate that they will reopen the plan, but said they are willing to have a public hearing Aug. 6 to consider reopening the plan. The decision to host a public hearing was not unanimous. Council members Ken Whitley and Butch Russell indicated that they are satisfied with the city's present lights.

Pay per bag garbage pickup being considered

City manager Mike Wiesner presented a pay-per-bag garbage plan to the city council Monday evening, but the council expressed hesitation about giving the plan its blessing.

Wiesner said he worked out the plan with Waste Management Inc., in response to requests that the city promote recycling. Waste Management owns the landfill and hauls garbage from the city of Charlevoix.

Currently Waste Management bills residential customers $11.50 per month regardless of the number of bags of garbage a household generates. Under the proposed plan, customers would buy garbage bags or tags for garbage cans for $1.50 each.

Northwest Recycling, a local recycling business, will pick up all of a household's recyclable materials for $2.10 per month.

Wiesner said Waste Management is happy with the monthly billing system, but is willing to go along with the bag or tag system. He said he has talked to officials in other cities with similar systems and been told they work reasonably well.

Four of six council members expressed reservations. Council members Ken Whitley, Butch Russell and Jim Potter said they're comfortable with the present system. Council member Cheri Hoffman said she's concerned about how the bags would be distributed.

Wiesner said bags would be sold by Waste Management and at city hall and by any local retailer who wished to carry them.

Council members Bill Haggard and Pat Gaskin supported the plan.

"I feel it would be a change for good," Haggard commented.
"If we're really serious about recycling, we're going to have to educate the community," Gaskin said. "I'm in support. I think it's a starting point."

The plan also calls for changing brush and leave pick up. Currently the city pays Waste Management $1010 per month to pick up furniture, appliances and bagged leaves, grass clippings and brush. City crews pick up loose leaves, grass clippings and brush. Under the proposal, Waste Management would no longer pick up leaves, grass clippings and brush and the city would be charged only $677 per month.

Walter Kajawski holds up one of the pheasants he is raising for a 4-H project. A close up view of the little bird is given in the inset photo.

Pheasants raised for 4-H

Walter Kajawski recently received a whole boxful of little peepers. Four-H director Todd Kesner recently picked up 20 ringneck pheasant chicks from the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and delivered them to the 13-year-old Kajawski who intends to raise them as a 4-H project.

"I'd been thinking about doing something with birds for a long time," Kajawski said when asked why he decided to raise pheasants.

He only recently joined 4-H and found about the program which is a cooperative effort between 4-H and the Michigan DNR. The DNR hatches 5,000 chicks and distributes them to 4-H members throughout the state.

In order to qualify for the program, the 4-H member had to have appropriate facilities to raise and subsequently release the pheasants.

Kajawski lives on a 40 acre farm on Loeb Road with his parents, Paul and Debbie Gelterblom. Currently he's keeping the pheasants in a box with a light for warmth. He plans to build a 10' by 30' flight pen when the chicks get a little older.

When the pheasants are grown, Kajawski will release them. There are some cat tails and woods for cover near the back of the farm.

In the past, Kajawski has raised button quail, pigeons and turkeys, but pheasants are a new bird for him.

"I've done some reading and my dad knows a lot about them," he said.

Kajawski began the paperwork for the program in May and received the pheasants Tuesday, July 17. The pheasants were only a few days old when he received them.

Ahead-lines

Dunmaglas brings entertainment

By Peg Ohle

Charlevoix area residents are fortunate in having a new facility, the Barn at Dunmaglas, as a performing location for the Northwood Orchestra.
With 700 seats in a covered steel-beamed tent complete with hardwood flooring and side curtains for protection from inclement weather, the facility provides comfortable seating to listen to acoustically clear music.
The grassy berm surrounding the tent provides enough room for another 300 or so people to sit on blankets, stools, lawn chairs, or whatever they bring to eat a box supper and listen to the evening's performance.
The sizeable stage is built into a century-old barn to which the tent is connected, thus the name "The Barn."
The Northwood Orchestra opened its season at The Barn July 14 with a full house listening to a varied program, including piano numbers by Russian artist Alexei Sultanova, winner of the 1989 Van Cliburn competition. The audience showed its appreciation of Sultanova's work with a long period of applause which brought the artist back for an encore.
Since that successful concert, the Northwood Orchestra has presented a Family concert at The Barn on July 18, featuring Garfield in "Music Is My Life", a Classics concert on July 19, featuring Mark Ackerman on the oboe, Frank Kowalsky on the clarinet, and Robert Hoye, on the horn, and a "Pops" concert on July 21 featuring The New Reformation Dixieland Band.
Other concerts are scheduled through Saturday, August 4. A complete schedule appears elsewhere in the Courier.
The Northwood Orchestra is also continuing to present concerts in the Tent at Black Forest Hall in Harbor Springs which has been its Northern Michigan "home" for several years.
The Barn at Dunmaglas was also the setting for the Keep Charlevoix Beautiful auction this past Monday and will also be the setting for the Crooked Tree Arts Council auction on August 2.
The Barn at Dunmaglas and the adjoining Inn at Dunmaglas are located on the Charlevoix-Bozette City Road approximately seven miles from downtown Charlevoix.

E.J. Arts Council sponsors Clark concert

Singer and storyteller Patty Clark will star in a free show at 7 p.m. Saturday, July 28, at East Jordan Memorial Park. Her performance is the second of a summer performing arts series sponsored by Jordan River Arts Council.
Clark, who plays 12-string guitar, dulcimer and autoharp, will be accompanied by Jim Clark, percussionist, and Jim Adams, who plays electric bass and flute. Her repertoire includes several story songs with adult themes, making the program suitable for both young and old. She will also sing some songs from her recently recorded album, "The Sun Shines on Everyone."
Clark is well known throughout northern Michigan for frequent appearances at schools and festivals.
The public is invited to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets for this free program in the park. In case of rain, the performance will take place at East Jordan High School.
Upcoming programs in the park include Poet Terry Wooten on Friday, August 10 and Family Reunion - a folk trio on Saturday, August 17. All performances are at 7 p.m.

Driver sentenced in Drenth case

Circuit Court Judge Richard Pajtas sentenced Kenneth Schrum to one year in jail Monday on a charge of negligent homicide. Schrum drove a car which collided head-on with a car driven by Bob and Maxine Drenth last September killing both of the Drenths. The accident occurred near the cemetery on Marion Center Road.
Charlevoix County prosecutor Kragg Lieberman tried Schrum on a charge of manslaughter with a motor vehicle, but after deliberating for almost 10 hours June 28 and 29, a jury found Schrum guilty of the reduced charge of negligent homicide.

Prior to his sentencing, Schrum, 26, of Warren expressed remorse for the pain and suffering the accident has caused.
Schrum must serve the first six months of the sentence in jail. The remainder will be held in abeyance provided that Schrum completes a two-year probation and 100 hours of community service. He also must pay $750 in court costs, a $250 fine, $30 to the crime-victim's fund and $30 a month for probation costs while on probation.

The death of the Drenths left many Charlevoix residents stunned. The couple was well-liked and respected in the community. They raised four sons at their farm on Black Road. They were active in business, the school system and the Community Reformed Church.

Shooting suspect turns himself in

A shooting which happened about 1:30 a.m. Saturday morning, resulted in the arraignment of Lloyd Joseph Waltonen on charges of felonious assault and possession of a firearm while committing a felony.
In an unrelated incident which occurred later Saturday morning, a man was stabbed in a house at the corner of Lincoln and Bridge Streets, Debra Lynn Kagabitang, 33, of Charlevoix was arraigned on charges of felonious assault in that incident.

Waltonen and Kagabitang were both arraigned Monday before District Court Judge Harvey Varnum.
The shooting and stabbing victims both were treated at Charlevoix Area Hospital.
According to city police chief Dennis Halverson the shooting occurred at a house on Antrim Street. Waltonen, 27, of Marquette is alleged to have shot another man in the hand with a 30-30 rifle.
An Oakland County sheriff's deputy vacationing in a nearby home heard the shot and called city police. Halverson said Waltonen apparently ran out the back door as police arrived at the front door. Waltonen turned himself in at the sheriff's department later Saturday.

Halverson said officers were still investigating the shooting at 7:30 a.m. when they were called to investigate the stabbing. He said the stabbing appears to be the result of a domestic dispute.

Wheelchair repair clinic scheduled

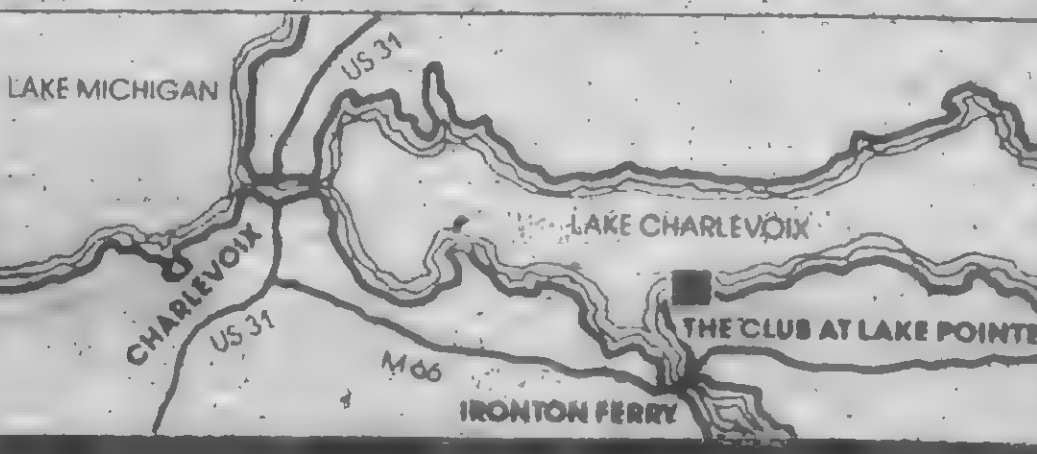

On Friday the 3rd of August, The Easter Seal Society will be holding a free wheelchair repair clinic at the fire station in Petoskey from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. This event will be sponsored by the local fire department and Saginaw Medical. Anyone living in the Petoskey or surrounding area may bring their wheelchair in for a free evaluation and cleaning. Minor repairs will be done free of charge.

The cleaning will be done by a team of volunteers from the Petoskey Fire Department, donating their labor, and the technical work will be done by a qualified technician from Saginaw Medical.

Faux brick turns heads

by EDITH GILBERT

The first time I saw the process called Faux Brick or fake brick applied, I thought, "Why didn't someone think of this before?" The idea looks as simple as a paper clip, yet people have been laboriously laying brick by hand for thousands of years, instead of well let me describe how fast and efficiently the Bender brothers, Mike and Donne put down a red brick front walk leading up to my house.

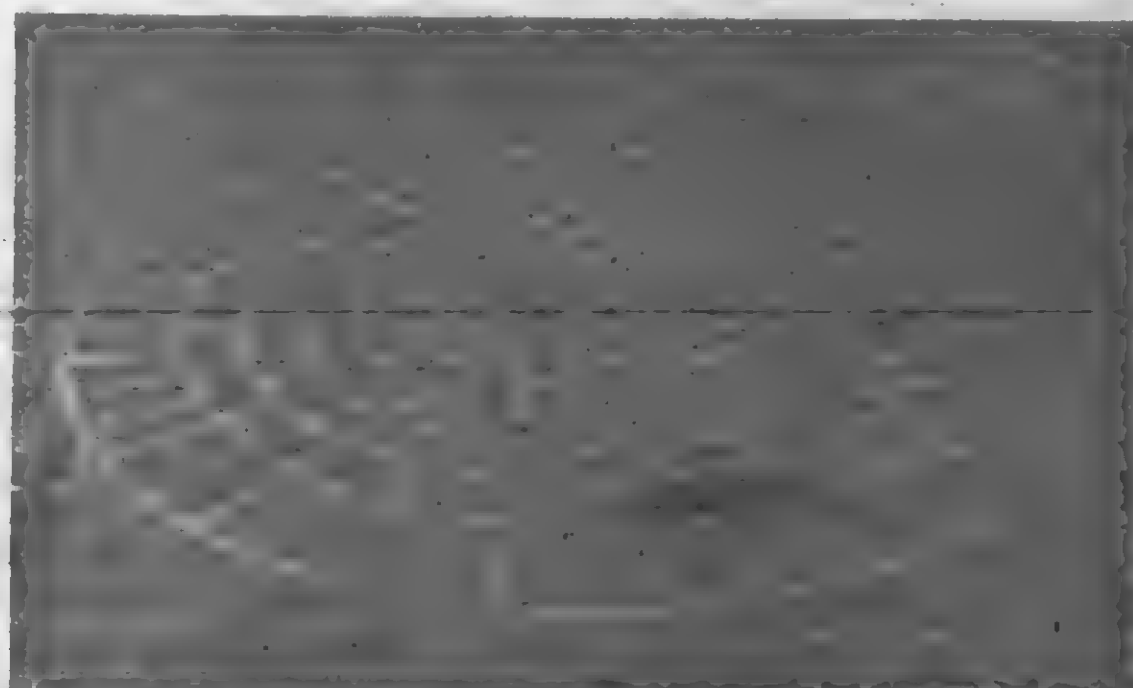

It took five men only 5 hours to complete the job using a red-mix cement truck, a skid loader, steel forms and finishing hand tools. We were able to walk on the Faux Brick the next day. The Benders first put down a layer of sand, then a sheet of wire mesh, then a six inch layer of concrete and then the paper template to outline the brick.

Although the idea of fake brick has been around for 50 or 60 years, the method was perfected by a fellow named Frank Piccolo early last year. His contribution to the process was in cutting the paper template or matrix into long pieces that would be put down easily and quickly on the wet cement. Any one of fifty colors may be broadcast on the surface by hand. When the concrete has cured sufficiently, the paper matrix is gently lifted up, and finally a resin sealer and curing compound is applied and the job is done.

The crew that worked on my walk are the same fellows who put in some of the sidewalks downtown. When the Bender brothers are not working on sidewalks, they take their two nephew-assistants fishing. The firm is based in Reese, a small town east of Saginaw.

Many of my friends and neighbors who have seen the new walk say, "I can't believe it's not real brick!" Now all I need this winter is someone with a real snow blower to remove the real snow from the not-so-real-brick walk.

Although it looks like brick, it's really concrete made to look like brick

REASONABLE TO ME
L. SCOTT SWANSON

A question of who's game

Call me a person of limited vision, but intentionally antagonizing someone who is carrying a bow or a gun strikes me as a bad idea.

Recently I read where anti-hunting people have taken to the woods in some places with the intention of antagonizing hunters. These people go out and tamper with bait piles or march around the woods making a lot of noise and scaring the game away.

To the best of my knowledge (a preface which puts a tight restriction on almost any statement) not much of this activity has happened in Michigan. Antagonizing hunters has been more prevalent in the East than in the Midwest.

That's probably fortunate because Michigan hunters can be a straight forward and simplistic crowd. Rather than debating with the legislature, they might just view hunter antagonists as a new form of game.

And it might not be good to have these antagonists viewed as game. It would involve too much paperwork and too many new regulations.

First, the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) would have to establish a new game management division: the antagonist division. Then they'd have to do antagonist surveys. That would mean going out in the woods and counting not only antagonists, but antagonist droppings.

Then, based on survey results, DNR officials would have to determine if there was a shortage of antagonists or if they were overpopulating. If there were too few antagonists, then a rearing and planting program would have to be initiated. If there were too many, then a selective thinning of the herd might be in order. That would entail issuing special permits so that hunters could take not only the big male antagonists, but also some females and young ones.

All kinds of new rules would have to be written. No fair shining antagonists and hunting them at night. It wouldn't be right to shoot them when they were perched in a tree. Chasing them with dogs would be OK, but it wouldn't be right to take them when they're nesting.

Of course there would have to be funds to pay for this new game division. A special "antagonist stamp" to be purchased with hunting licenses would probably answer that need.

Along with regulating the herd, there would be the inevitable debates about the best ways to hunt antagonists.

When any new form of game is introduced, there are always a lot of questions to be answered. For example:

What's the best gun to use? You don't want to be under-gunned. The wrong gun could cost you a real trophy.

What's the best caliber of bullet? That depends on whether you're hunting antagonists in open fields or in a heavily wooded area.

What about bow hunting or hunting with muzzle loaders? Should there be special seasons?

Once you do bag yourself an antagonist, what's the best way to prepare him for the table? Any good outdoorsman never wastes game. Perhaps TV outdoors shows could invite some cannibals in as guests to explain their favorite recipes.

If hunter antagonists come to Michigan's woods and make game of themselves, true hunters will take all of these questions into consideration before shooting. It's the sportsmanly thing to do.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Where are the public relations people when you need them?

Like a lot of transplanted Detroiters, I have been following the efforts of the Comerica bank to buy the site of the Ford Auditorium on the Detroit River for its corporate headquarters.

If it doesn't get the site, the bank threatens to move to the suburbs.

Last week, the Detroit City Council capitulated. On a 5-3 vote, city fathers decided to sell the property to the bank for literally peanuts, thus saving more than a thousand downtown jobs.

The vote has raised hackles from Michigan to Merry Olde England where Kathleen De-

Ross Ford keeps a seasonal home. The widow of the late Henry Ford II says she is in complete accord with her brother-in-law, William Clay Ford, who says the Motor City will get no more Ford money if it franchises the Ford Auditorium. The auditorium was a gift to the city from the Ford family.

Now the prestigious law firm of Dickinson, Wright, Moon, VanDusen and Freeman has joined the fray, offering its services free in defending the Ford Auditorium from the mob down at city hall.

BEING SO FAR removed in time and space from Detroit, I hesitate to choose up sides. I have heard that, as auditoriums go, the Ford edifice leaves much to be desired, particularly from the standpoint of acoustics.

I also know that the auditorium is located on a prime parcel of riverfront property, most of which is falling into private rather than public hands. It's almost as bad as it was in the old days when the riverfront was given over almost entirely to rail yards and freight sheds.

I think this property should remain in the public domain, whether Comerica likes it or not. Furthermore, it is unseemly of Comerica to threaten to leave the city unless it gets what it wants.

Perhaps even worse and here is where the PR people come in—how did Comerica ever allow itself to be drawn into a knock-down, drag-out battle with the same people it is going to have to do business with in the future?

When battle lines began to be drawn, Comerica should have graciously withdrawn its offer to purchase the property and raze the auditorium. The goodwill such a move would have engendered among Detroiters would have paid handsome dividends to the bank for years to come.

As things stand, no one will win. Not only will Detroit lose its downtown auditorium and a prize chunk of riverfront real estate, but Comerica will forfeit a wealth of warm-fuzzies among customers and potential customers.

The hard-feelings will hurt even more if the bank and the city are dragged into court.

IT IS A PITY Detroit didn't copy a provision from the Charlevoix City Charter—the one that forbids the sale of city-owned water frontage without a vote of the people.

I am confident that if the sale of the Ford Auditorium were brought up to a vote of the people, the property would remain in the public domain forever.

EVERY TIME a stretch limo tools through town, heads turn in appreciation.

The same thing happens every time a gigantic freighter plows through Pine River Channel.

Sunday night the self-unloader Calcite II departed Charlevoix after dropping off a load of limestone.

A crowd began to gather in the vicinity of the highway bridge as the freighter slowly entered Round Lake from Lake Charlevoix and began casting the beam of its big headlight across the waters in search of channel markers.

Even before the ship entered Pine River Channel, crowds of the banks began sporadic cheering and clapping in appreciation of the skipper's cautious expertise in handling such a large vessel in such cramped quarters.

For a few brief moments, spectators on shore and the washbuckling crew aboard the Calcite II shared a common bond.

Minutes later, the bridge closed, the crowd dispersed and the bright lights of the Calcite II disappeared over the dark water.

Maria sees German changes

(Early this year, when Peg O'Neil of the Courier learned that Charlevoix resident Christa-Maria was going to vacation in Germany near the town of Lubeck on the border of East and West Germany, she asked Christa if she would write to the Courier about the changes that have taken place there since the border was opened to traffic between the two countries. Last week the Courier received the following report from Christa-Maria.)

"It's difficult for me to write about my impressions here, for there are so many.

"But I took a picture of the bridge that for most of my life was cut off at one end—the way to East Germany. Now this bridge is rebuilt and I could cross it. Nobody was at the other side to check anything. What a feeling that was—just to be on the other side where time stood still for 40 years!

"The watchtowers, walls and death strip were all gone, unbelievable how fast that all could happen. Went to the other side of the Bay near my old hometown on the Baltic Sea with old sleepy villages, beautiful old farmhouses, storknests, and the pavement still cobblestone.

"However, East Germany is unbelievably poor and the houses are so bare. No color, no paint or materials to fix things for the people. There is now one currency, all Deutsch Marks, but the East German stores charge two times or more than the west. Therefore, the traffic in my hometown is unbelievable, people coming here to shop. But West Germans go to East Germany for some services which are a lot cheaper.

"There will be a lot of people without jobs now, if the factories can't show a profit on their own. The machinery is hopelessly outdated. People also are not used to working as hard as West Germans for they never had the same initiative.

"It will take a long time for people to get adjusted. Our business took two businesses in from the East as partners. My grandfather had businesses in the East which he lost, and the name was still known when I visited. But then we are in the right business, kitchens and bathrooms and building supplies.

"People heat with coal everywhere and there is no pollution control. The air is awful; don't know how children could grow up in it. Many young East Germans left because of the pollution. They shut down some of the plants and now get a supply of power (non-nuclear) from the West. Do I like that? I am happy to be here during these exciting days and to celebrate Germany winning the World Cup for soccer.

"There will be a lot of people without jobs now, if the factories can't show a profit on their own. The machinery is hopewell, below Ralph Washburn's Machinery Shop and the drain back to the lake. It was constantly running, and had a faucet where jugs would be filled.

Town had a fountain

Many Chicago Club and Belvedere resorters complained when it was destroyed as it was mineral water and chauffeurs as well as resorters filled the jugs daily; it was a fine laxative.

My memories of it was the old timers sitting on the brick wall that surrounded it and as it was constantly running the wind whipped the water over the whole area, causing the cement to be colored brown and had an offensive odor that you soon got used to.

It was an attraction to Charlevoix and many travelers stopped to fill jugs of so called "Charlevoix Mineral Water" on their trips through the area.

Thought you might be interested in a drinking fountain that was constantly flowing and not dependent on mechanical pressure.

Let it be known that a resolution was made by the C.C.B.S.A., Inc. (Concerned Citizens for the Bay Shore Area); the importance of a swimming pool in Charlevoix for use by people of all ages in our area was discussed. Our opinion is that a pool is necessary to teach our children to be water-safe, provide physical therapy opportunities for the elderly or those recuperating from injury of surgery, and provide fitness and exercise opportunities for those of all ages.

Let it be known that a resolution was made by the C.C.B.S.A., Inc. at their annual meeting on June 28, 1990, to support the efforts of a community swimming pool in Charlevoix. We urge others in the area to support this effort as well.

Blissett recalls early Ironton

by Geoffrey D. Reynolds

People passing by the sleepy town of Ironton will never be able to experience the bustling activity that once was part of that town. But with the memories of Marie Blissett, a resident during her childhood, things should become quite clear and vivid.

"During the early 'teens' of this century I remember Ironton quite well. It consisted of the cottages of Sweet Brier Farm, a resort at that time along the lake. The church was also there along the lake, until it was moved to where it is now. We lived in the house where Winchesters now live, and that house sits where the church was originally.

"Sweet Brier Farm consisted mainly of several two-family cottages, a playhouse, and a centrally located dining room. They had a cook and two waitresses who worked all summer. Miss Adams owned it and my father took care of the farm. He also took care of her gardens, and a few cattle, which gave the resort milk and butter daily.

"Most of the people got to and from Ironton by either boat, wagons, horses, or walked. My grandparents told of a train going to Ironton when they first came from Denmark, but I don't think it ran long after that." (Note: the railroad service to Ironton was probably short lived due to the railroad not reaching Charlevoix until 1892 and the disbanding of the Ironton iron works soon after the presidential election of 1892.)

Charlevoix Memories

Marie Blissett is the subject of this week's edition of Charlevoix Memories. Blissett recalls early days when Ironton was a more active community.

"My grandfather had to go over to Ferry Road and down to Ironton at that time because there was no road between Charlevoix and Ironton, and no road between Ironton and East Jordan. The main street was Washington Street, which ran through the main part of town. The school was just out of town on Ferry Road.

"When M-66 came through Ironton, camps for the road workers were set up along the way. They started at Loeb Farm and finished near Flag Road. This was the first road through Ironton. The workers would usually camp near a farm, like the Hipp's farm, and the farmers would help feed the men from their supply or crops and whatever else was available for that season.

"The men who worked at the Ironton iron works were largely made up of Danes. My grandfather, like many others who worked there, lived on what is now the western portion of the Sequanota Road, between Bird's and Kemp's Corners. There were seven or eight families around there, most of which came over together or soon afterwards. Some of the families included Nas(s)on, Lyngklip, Johnsen, Andersen, Petersen, Knud(son), Skow, and others."

Slowly the town of Ironton returned to its peaceful setting after the iron works were abandoned, the resort burned, the playhouse closed its doors to the public, but the ferry is still going!

Hospital board plans for future

Al Ranger, president of the Board of Directors, reported at the Charlevoix Area Hospital annual meeting on Tuesday, July 17, that there are extensive studies being conducted on several topics which will impact the future of the hospital.

Ranger said a master plan is being developed to guide the hospital board in meeting future medical care needs. He said that as the hospital's outpatient activity continues to grow and outpatient and surgical facilities are becoming cramped, a remodeling program is being investigated which will possibly expand some area, contract others, and remodel some areas.

Another item the Board has spent considerable time studying is the concept of a joint venture with Northern Michigan Hospitals to build a nursing home in Charlevoix, he said. This discussion springs from the plans by Jack Liberatore to build a nursing home behind the hospital property. He has been unable to secure financing for the project, and the two hospitals have been studying whether or not it would be feasible for them to take over the project. Decisions will be made in the next few months, he said.

Ranger said other items being studied include acquisition of land for doctor's office space in order to attract other physicians, and investigation of the creation of elder care housing. He said an ad hoc committee will be formed to study such residential facilities for senior citizens in the next year.

In his report, Richard Krueger, administrator, said the hospital is developing a strategic plan which will encompass building and/or remodeling of O.B. in order to facilitate a Labor-Delivery-Recovery Room, concept enlargement of surgery, laboratory, and physical therapy, and possible downsizing of acute care area. Aging plumbing, electrical and air conditioning systems are also in need of attention.

Krueger said, "Currently the financial condition of the hospital is strong." contributions and donations amounted to over $89,000, but this was $18,000 less than last year," he said.

"Outpatients are 92% of our customers and generate 37% of our income," he said. We expect to continue to see our outpatient services grow as inpatient service declines, he said, and in the next few months we will be putting things together to move forward in a fiscally sound manner.

In other business Mary Jason, of East Jordan, was elected to a term on the Board of Directors. She has served on the board since early this year in an unexpired term. Sula Hamilton, past president of Lexalite Signal Corporation, and John Buick, Boyne City realtor, were elected to new posts on the Board. Plaques were awarded in appreciation to Walter Hufford who served on the Board since 1978, Dr. James Gels who served as Chief of the Medical staff since 1986, and Stephen Weber, who served out a one year unexpired vacancy.

CHURCH

Edward K. Shanahan

Edward K. Shanahan, 86, of Charlevoix, died July 19, 1990, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral was at 2 p.m. Monday, July 23, at the First Congregational Church, in Charlevoix. The Rev. Raymond Giffin officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Mr. Shanahan was born July 15, 1904, in Charlevoix, the son of Lisle and Mary (Dunham) Shanahan. He grew up in Charlevoix and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1923. He then graduated from Ann Arbor in 1927.

He married the former Phila A. Armstrong on Feb. 22, 1930, in Charlevoix.

Mr. Shanahan was a U.S. naval commander, retiring in 1950. During World War II, he was on duty in the Pacific Theater and had served on board the USS Wasp and was captain of the USS Casco.

Following retirement, he returned to Charlevoix and farmed until the early 1970's.

He was a member of the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix; the Charlevoix Kiwanis; member of Charlevoix Lodge, F. & A.M.; American Legion Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226; VFW Post No. 1153.

Mr. Shanahan served as a veteran's counselor for Charlevoix County. In 1983 he was honored for having served as counselor for 16 years.

He also had served as a member of the board of directors for the First State Bank of Charlevoix and a member of the Camp Daggett board of directors.

He was an area district delegate to the Constitutional Convention in 1961 and was a member of the Northern Michigan Beef Breeders.

Except for his tour of duty with the U.S. Navy, he was a lifelong resident of Charlevoix.

Survivors include his wife; two sons, Dr. Robert E. Shanahan of Toledo, Ohio and Bruce K. Shanahan of Charlevoix; five grandchildren; two great-grandchildren; one brother, Norman Shanahan of Edwardsburg, Mich.

The family suggest memorials to a charity of choice. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix, where arrangements were handled.

Robert R. Bennett

OF BLESSINGS

Robert R. Bennett, 76, of Charlevoix, died July 17, 1990, at his daughter's home in Charlevoix.

Funeral was at 11 a.m. Saturday, July 21, at the Callahan & Hughes Funeral Home, Terre Haute, Ind., with burial in Roselawn Memorial Gardens, Terre Haute.

Mr. Bennett was born June 30, 1914, in Cory, Ind., the son of Ray L. and Ada (Moresitt) Bennett.

He was retired accounts manager for the International Mineral and Chemical Co. in Terre Haute.

Mr. Bennett had resided in Charlevoix for the past two years.

Survivors include three daughters: Mrs. William (Betty) Stewart of Charlevoix, Barbara Rehorth of Cincinnati, Ohio and Mrs. Jeff (Bobbie) Howell of Nashville, Tenn.; eight grandchildren; one sister, Hester L. Nees of Terre Haute.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix, where local arrangements were handled.

Charlevoix Church Services

Missionary to speak at Assembly

The challenge of giving fruitful Christian witness in Eastern Europe will be the focus of a missions speaker at Charlevoix Assembly of God, Highway M-66 South, in the 7 p.m. service on Wednesday, August 1. The Reverend Arland Dwell, veteran missionary, under appointment by the Assemblies of God, will be the featured speaker.

Dwell's activities have been concentrated in three efforts: the development of evangelism materials for use by national churches, outreach into new areas, and the training of young ministers and church workers.

Social and political changes now occurring throughout Eastern Europe evidence a new day there, according to Dwell.

He expects the seeds sown by Christian believers in the last four decades to come to fruition in dramatic fashion. "I look for the reflowering of the church in the communist countries to be something quite remarkable," Dwell predicts.

Charlevoix Assembly hosts several missionary guests every year and aids in funding on a regular basis a variety of missions endeavors at home and abroad. The congregation seeks an active role in reaching out to the more than two billion people in this world who know little or nothing of the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ.

The public is invited to attend this meeting.

Volunteer receives award for efforts

Raymond Ecker was recently honored by the staff of the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services for his selection as a Level I and II winner for this year's Employee Recognition Awards Program.

Ecker is a volunteer with the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services and was selected by the county staff. A Level I selection qualifies him as a candidate for the zone's Level II selection. The zone area includes 15 counties, from which Ray was chosen for the Level II award. Selection for the award is based on outstanding contributions to the department during past years in the areas of courtesy, initiative, integrity, and teamwork.

Ecker has been a volunteer transporter with the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services for nine years and has accumulated enough hours of service to equate to four years of full-time work.

Transporting Social Service recipients to foster home placements, counseling appointments, ongoing medical appointments, etc., is a service available through volunteer services when other means are not available.

As expressed by Vasco Zucchiatti of Social Services, "Ray is always willing to help out day or night, weekdays or weekends. Ray has volunteered in other areas of need such as supervising parent-child visitations, jail sitting, assisting with the adult foster care outings, and is willing to do anything asked, if he feels he is capable of doing it."

The next level, Level III, is the State award, which will be given at the Amway Grand Hotel in Grand Rapids. There, Ray will receive his Zone II Award and may be selected for the Level III Award.

Top of Michigan refunds money

A total of $1.5 million in patronage capital will be refunded in July to about 35,000 Top O' Michigan Electric Co. members.

Some 7,000 former members will receive part of that total too.

This year's total includes more than $1 million going to members who received electric service in 1982 and about $434,000 to be refunded to members who received service in 1989.

The 1989 refund is a portion of the total amount due members in that year.

Individual refund amounts are based on total billing payments made to the cooperative during 1982 and 1989 by each member.

When an investor-owned utility shows a profit, it's returned to their investors through dividends. But what happens to money earned by a not-for-profit electric cooperative? Instead of dividends, patronage capital refunds are returned to members of the cooperative. Patronage capital is money earned over the actual operating budget which is returned to the customers who are the cooperative's member-owners.

This is the seventh refund in as many years. In that time, Top O' Michigan has returned $9.1 million to members who received service any time during 1963-1982 and 1984-1989.

Top O' Michigan serves more than 40,000 members in 12 counties in northwestern lower Michigan.

Candidates prepare for primary election

By Peg Ohle

With the exception of contests for state wide and national seats as presented on television, the August 7 Primary Election campaign has been a rather quiet one in Charlevoix County.

When residents go to the polls, they will be asked to vote for candidates for Governor, Senator, Representative in Congress, State Senator, Representative in the State Legislature, County Commissioner (townships) or Mayor and Councilmember (cities), and a proposition to increase county taxes by a half mill and levy taxes for four years at the rate of 5.20 mills for county operations, one mill for township operations, two-tenths of a mill for the Intermediate School District, and 9.10 mills for local school district operations, for a total of 15.50 mills.

In addition, there will be some township contests to fill vacancies on township boards, and local millage propositions.

There are three candidates for Governor: incumbent James J. Blanchard seeks the Democratic nomination while John Engler, and John Lavey compete for the Republican nomination.

There is a similar race for U.S. Senator: incumbent Carl Levin seeks the Democratic nomination while Clark Durant, and Bill Schuette compete for the Republican nomination.

There are three candidates for Representative in Congress: Democrats Marcia Gould and Sven Johnson and Republican Bob Davis.

Running for the State Senate are Democrat Tom Weiss and Republicans Bill Huber, Jr. and George A. McManus.

Candidates for Representative in the State legislature are Democrat Ellen Addington and Republicans Ralph Ostling and Barbara A. Selesky.

In addition to making the above choices, voters in the City of Charlevoix will also choose two of three candidates to compete for mayor in the November general election. The three candidates are incumbent Gary N. Probert, former planning commission chairman Dave Novotny and former mayor Ken Staley.

In Peaine Township, in addition to the county millage proposal, there are four other millage propositions on the ballot: a renewal of four mills for five years for township operations, one mill for five years for operation and maintenance of the Fire Department, a renewal of one mill for five years for operation and maintenance of the Sanitary Landfill, and one mill for five years to help pay for closing the dump and providing a transfer station for the Landfill.

In St. James township, there are three local millage propositions: Renewal of four mills for five years for Township operations, renewal of 1.25 mills for five years for operation and maintenance of the Beaver Island Airport, and one mill for five years for closing the dump and providing a transfer station for the Sanitary Landfill.

In Hayes Township, Republican voters will choose between two candidates for county commissioner. The candidates are Carl Price and Albert C. Reeves.

In South Arm township, which, with the City of East Jordan, makes up District No. 4 of the County Board, residents will vote for one of five candidates for County Commissioner: Democrat Howard C. Hosler, Republican Lyle Etcher, Republican Lee R. Arnold, Republican Dennis Jason, or Republican Patricia Sweet.

Probate Court hires new juvenile officer

By Peg Ohle

David Bitler, new Charlevoix County Juvenile Officer and Probate Court Administrator, says he's glad to be getting back into a job dealing with children.

"I told the judge (Mulhauser) that I had been away from kids for a while and miss it. The Charlevoix Probate Court will give me an opportunity to work with kids again," Bitler told the Courier.

Bitler's previous child-oriented jobs include that of foster care officer at Eagle Village Residential Treatment Center for nine years, and as probation officer in Osceola County Probate Court. He has two children of his own and has taken foster children into his home. (He served as best man at the wedding of one of them).

Bitler has also worked with families in developing and re-developing church congregations for the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America.

"David has just the background this job needs," said Brad Campbell, whom Bitler is replacing.

"He has done a lot of work with kids, and in his church job he worked closely with families. He has dealt with substance abuse, family abuse, homelessness, poverty, and all the other problems we deal with here every day," Campbell added.

Another important part of Bitler's job will be staying within budget on child care costs despite the many unexpected expenses that may arise in Juvenile Court.

"In working with churches, we had to be careful with our money, too. Church budgets are just like public budgets," he explained.

Campbell is leaving his job to study law at Cooley Law School in Lansing and to teach criminal justice at Lansing Community College.

In recent years, much of Campbell's time has been taken up with finding ways to reduce the high cost of child care (costs incurred by the county when children are placed outside their homes). By initiating prevention and diversion programs, child care costs have been considerably reduced.

"We have had fewer kids needing placement because we got to them before they reached the court," Campbell explained. "Last year at this time, we had spent $232,000. This year to date we have spent $117,000. Of course, we could get two or three kids any time that would greatly increase the costs," he continued, but he feels he is turning the court over to Bitler in good condition.

Bitler said he understands his new job will require him to be creative and open. "We must be willing to explore any program to benefit the kids," he declared.

Bitler was one of 53 applicants for the court job. Campbell did the initial screening and Probate Judge Fred Mulhauser made the final selection.

Bitler received his undergraduate degree in social work from Ferris State University and his graduate degree in theology from Trinity Lutheran Seminary in Columbus, Ohio. He grew up on a farm near Hersey and expressed great pleasure in being able to live and work in Charlevoix County. He, his wife, LeAnn, and Joel, 10, and Corey, two, will live near East Jordan.

Drug awareness series begins

The third annual Drug and Alcohol Awareness Hour Education Series will begin July 28 in Petoskey.

A substance abuse center in California helped establish 27 Awareness Programs across the United States and helped lay the groundwork for this program.

The program's goal is total community involvement and education. Alcohol and Drug Awareness Hour is a non-profit, volunteer-based organization comprised of northern Michigan citizens closely associated with the subject of substance abuse.

The program series will take place at the McCune Arts Center, Saturday mornings, July 28 through September 1, from 9-10:30 a.m.; coffee and refreshments are available from 9-9:30; the program starts at 9:30; question and answer period from 10:30 to 11 a.m. Admission is free.

The speaker schedule is as follows:

July 28 — "Relapse" John Kelley, Relapse Prevention Specialist, Traverse City.

August 4 — "Addictive Behavior" Joel Robertson (and Guest: Celebrity), Clinical Director, HCR, Inc., Detroit.

August 11 — "Recovery" Panel-Group Discussion by Four Persons in Recovery.

August 18 — "The Dysfunctional Family" Chuck Getson, Psychologist, Saginaw.

August 25 — "Diagnosis and Treatment" Russell F. Smith, M.D., Consultant, Researcher, and Author, San Francisco, California.

September 1 — "Spirituality in Recovery" Father James Coke, Holy Family, Grand Blanc.

SPORTS

City softball

Kwikie Printing, Venture Video and Investment Management and Research picked up wins in women's softball July 18.

Kwikie beat Tapawingo-Romas-Rocky Top Farms 10-1 behind the three-hit pitching of Chris Nunemaker. Carolyn Loper had three hits for the winners.

Venture Video defeated Town House 10-3. Winning pitcher Terri Wilson allowed only four hits. Paula Fralick had three of Venture's 13 hits.

I.M.R. squeaked past Wojan Aluminum 5-4. Carrie Nelson was the winning pitcher.

In men's play July 18, Charlevoix Cinema, Iron works Quality Limo and Pine Hill Nursery came away as winners.

In a low-scoring, tight game, Charlevoix Cinema edged Bay Shore Steel 3-2. Dave Novotny got the pitching win.

In a high scoring massacre, Ironworks Quality Limo clobbered Town House 25-0. Dave Cole was the winning pitcher.

Pine Hill Nursery handily beat Charlevoix Assembly of God 18-3 behind the pitching of Ken Peeble.

In women's play July 19, the Town House women's team did what they could to avenge the men's loss earlier in the week. The Town House ladies beat Nanny's Restaurant 13-7. Meda Kehrer and Dori Drenth each had three hits for the winners. Jill Douchard homered for the losers. Sherry Fiedorik was the winning pitcher.

Kwikie Printing beat Arnold's of East Jordan 20-4. Carolyn Loper had four hits, including a home run for the winners. Winning pitcher Chris Nunemaker also homered. Tammy Yettaw had a home run for Arnold's.

Wojan Aluminum beat Venture Video 16-7. Marci Wynkoop had four hits while Paula Thorpe hit a home run to pace Wojan's. Linda Cluk picked up the pitching win.

Ponytail team wins tournament

Little League team loses 9-1

Alpena put an end to Charlevoix's hopes for a district Little League title beating the Rayders 9-1 Saturday. In Cheboygan, Alpena then lost to West Branch 9-7 in the district finals.

Charlevoix managed only two hits against the Alpena pitchers. Charlevoix's team saw an opportunity for a big inning fall short in the third when they scored once, but then stranded three runners on base.

Mark Boss started the game for Charlevoix and held Alpena to just two runs through the first four innings. In the fifth run, Alpena broke the game open with three runs. Alpena put the game away in the sixth with four more runs.

George McClellan relieved Boss in the sixth, but had to come out of the game when he was hit by a batted ball. Steve Carland closed out the game, getting two of the final three outs on strikeouts.

The Charlevoix team was managed by Don Potter with the assistance of Dick Putman.

Yachting Notes

The light winds of July were upon us Wednesday night as boats were struggling to get across the starting line. Distance wise we were close but time wise it seemed like an eternity before we crossed the start line. In the light air, the later starters moved up through the fleet with relative ease. The course was shortened to three legs in order to get everyone to work on Thursday morning and put this mouse out of his misery as soon as possible.

Not much dialogue today as we have the Irish Cup results to report also.

Wednesday night:
Fleet A: Apprentice, Slapshot, Pygmalion, Gotcha, Flash, Mint Julip.

Fleet B: Blassen III, MI-Joy, Tireless, Lost, Vermonter, Gygnus, Sandpiper, Original Sin, Cabaret, Posestar. (Hang in there Doug.)

Fleet C: Bandit, Sunkist, Newsense, HS Mositure, Con-Fusion, Allons-Y, Sizzle, M.I.P.

Jam: Cheemaun, Spirit, Maureen, Bald, Eagle,

Apothecary, Hot Mustard, Our Thyme II, Stalworth, Sonrise, Irish Cup.

Not So Serious Fleet: Warm Winds, Windsong, Cherry Blossom.

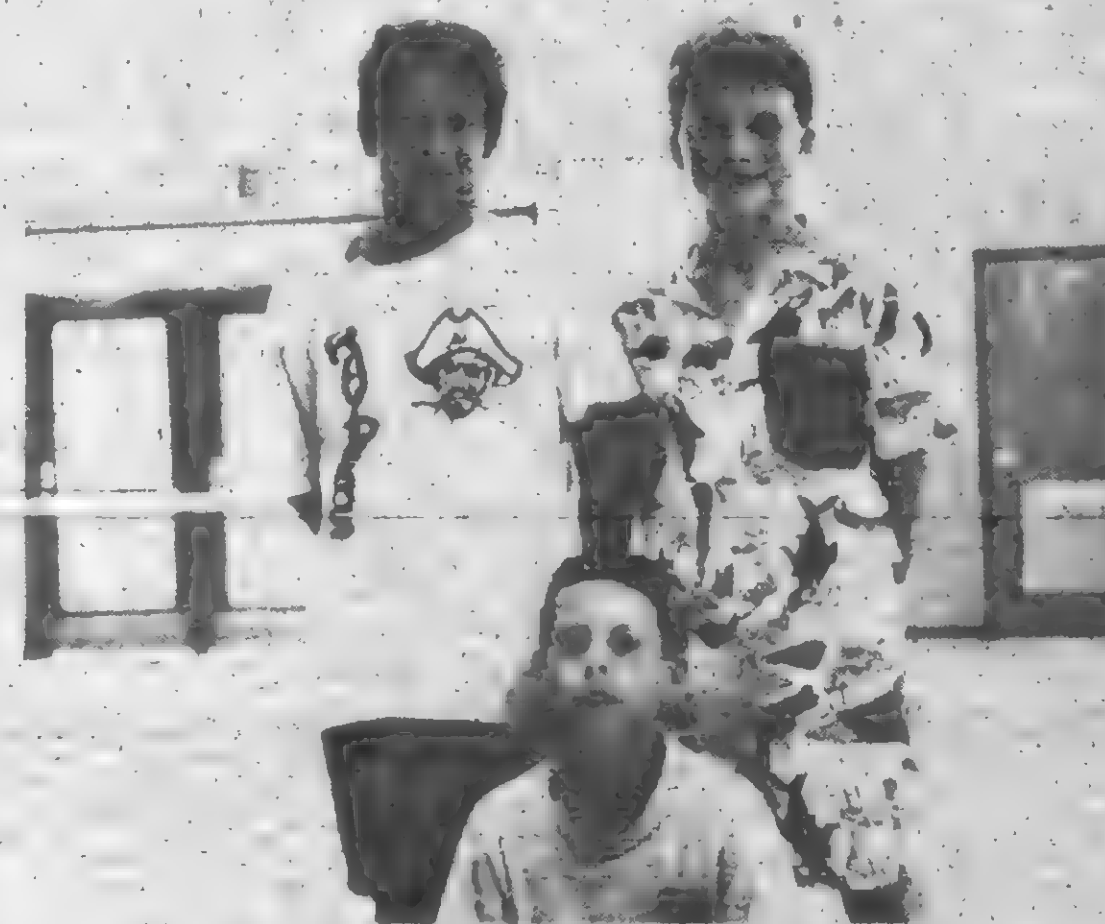

Jam A: Apprentice, Flash, Fever.

Jam B: Fury, Cheemaun, The Terror.

Spin C: Reckless, Gotcha, Spar Wars.

Spin D: Sunkist, Newsense, Con-Fusion.

J-Boat Fleet: Reckless, Gotcha, Sunkist.

Lake levels still low

Precipitation on the Lakes Superior, Michigan-Huron, and Erie basins was above average for the month of June, while precipitation on the Lake Ontario basin was somewhat below average. The water levels of Lakes St. Clair, Erie, and Ontario remained above their long-term averages during June, while the levels of Lakes Superior and Michigan-Huron continued to be below average. This is a continuation of the trend of the last several months.

The Great Lakes forecast, published in the Monthly Bulletin of Lake Levels for the Great Lakes, shows that Lakes Superior and Michigan-Huron are expected to remain below their long-term average levels during the next six months. Lake St. Clair is expected to approach its long-term average in August, while Lake Erie is projected to remain above its long-term average in August, through the forecast period. Lake Ontario, being regulated, is projected to dip below its long-term average in September, and to remain slightly below average for the remainder of the forecast period.

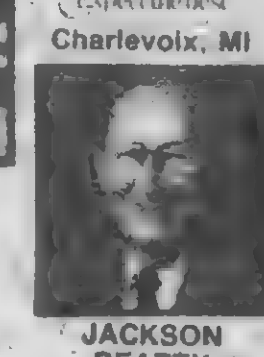

A more detailed summary of Lake Michigan and Huron water levels follows.

Lake Michigan-Huron at the end of June were at elevation 578.36 feet (176.28 meters) above the mean water levels at Father Point, Quebec, or 19 inches (48 cm.) above Chart Datum. This was about 3 inches (8 cm.) below what it was a year ago, and 4 inches (10 cm.) above one month ago. The June monthly mean level of 578.16 feet (176.22 meters) was about 7 inches (18 cm.) below the long-term average for June. The lakes, however, remained about 27 inches (69 cm.) above their all-time low June monthly mean level, which was recorded in 1964. The forecast shows that at the end of July, the level of Lakes Michigan-Huron will be about the same as what it was at the end of June. The lakes are expected to complete their seasonal rise in July. The water level in December 1990, is expected to be about 5 inches (13 cm.) below the long-term average for that month, or about 4 inches (10 cm.) above what it was at the same time in 1989.

Health Dept. proposes new building

By Peg Ohle

Gerald Chase, Administrator of District Health Department No. 3, has presented plans for a new Charlevoix County Health Facility to the County Board.

As explained by Chase, the building would be built by the Northern Health Foundation and leased to the District Health Department for 15 years, at which time the Health Department would own the building. It would be paid for at the rate of $6.10 a square foot over the 15 years. The Health Department would also be responsible for maintenance, insurance, and taxes. The new facility would not increase the county's allotment to the Health Department, Chase noted, because more than 80 percent of the Department's budget comes from non-local sources.

The Northern Health Foundation is a non-profit tax-exempt Michigan corporation and is registered as a public charity.

The purpose of the Foundation is to improve community and environmental health within Michigan, and to support local public health services in the state. Providing space to local public health departments is within the tax-exempt purposes of the Foundation, which is currently working with other county health departments in northern Michigan on building projects.

The District Health Department would like to construct its new facility on county-owned land on Garfield Street near the headquarters of the County Sheriff and is asking the County Board to "take the steps necessary to transfer the property" to the Health Department.

More recently, members of the County Board have been talking about the possibility of building a county facility in Boyne City to house the County Extension Service, the Soil & Water Conservation District, and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, all of which are now located in the Boyne City City Hall. The county is responsible for housing the Extension Service and presently pays $700 a month to Boyne City for its offices there. The other two agencies are federal agencies and if they were housed in a new county facility, they would pay rent to the county.

However, construction of new county buildings, renovation of old buildings, where and when, still seems up in the air. At least one county commissioner would like to sell the present County Building and build a new County Building on Garfield Street along with the Courthouse to make a complete county government complex.

The building would be used for administrative headquarters of District Health Department No. 3, which serves Charlevoix, Emmet, Antrim, and Otsego Counties, as well as headquarters for the Charlevoix branch. Presently, these offices are housed in the County Building Annex, next to the County Building at State and Antrim Streets in Charlevoix, as well as in other quarters in Charlevoix and East Jordan. All locations are extremely over-crowded, according to Chase.

Preliminary plans call for a 10,880 square foot building, including 1,200 square feet in the basement. The building exterior would be of brick, and the interior would feature dry-walled walls, tile and carpeted floors, and air conditioning. Charlevoix County is also working on plans for a new Courthouse, to be built on another piece of county-owned Garfield Street property near the Sheriff's Department, as well as plans to renovate the present County Building. Although the plans have not been finalized, it is expected a proposal for funding will appear on the General Election ballot in November.

Most county offices are over-crowded, and in some cases, hallways are being used for storage. The judges have complained about the inadequate courtrooms as well as lack of security. A "building committee" was appointed by the County Board about two years ago and this spring submitted preliminary plans for a new courthouse. However, the County Board considered the building "too elaborate" and the furnishings "too expensive." Those plans are now being scaled down.

Oh Boix!

A compilation of praises won by Charlevoix people for good deeds, good work and hard work.

Jill C. Raacke, daughter of Mike Raacke of Charlevoix was named to the spring semester Dean's List at Albion College. To be named to the list, a student must have a grade point average of 3.5 or better on a 4 point scale.

James Kober, son of Denise Kober of Belmont, recently finished second in a state competition for architectural design. Kober's great grandparents are Hilma and Diok Hull and the late Tat and Lyle Miles, all of Charlevoix. His grandparents are Norm and Joyce Ketchman, formerly of Charlevoix and currently of Stevensville.

Venetian Queen pageant kicks off 60th festival

Eight young ladies will compete in interview, talent, evening gown and modeling competitions during the Venetian Pageant which begins at 7 p.m. Thursday, July 26 at Charlevoix High School.

Candidates to reign over the 60th Annual Venetian Festival are: April Sliwinski, Kendra Olinger, Jennifer Bonar, Cheri Summers, Natalie Jones, Christine Felton, Holly Groh and Jennifer Castro.

Kelly Garver, Miss Michigan 1986 and winner of the 1986 Miss America talent competition will entertain with her electric fiddle and serve as the pageant's MC. The theme of this year's pageant is a "Country Jamboree."

Other entertainment at the pageant will include music by

The Lopers; tap dancing by Stephanie Panik; ventriloquist Jenell Rocus; and dancing from the Dance Connection.

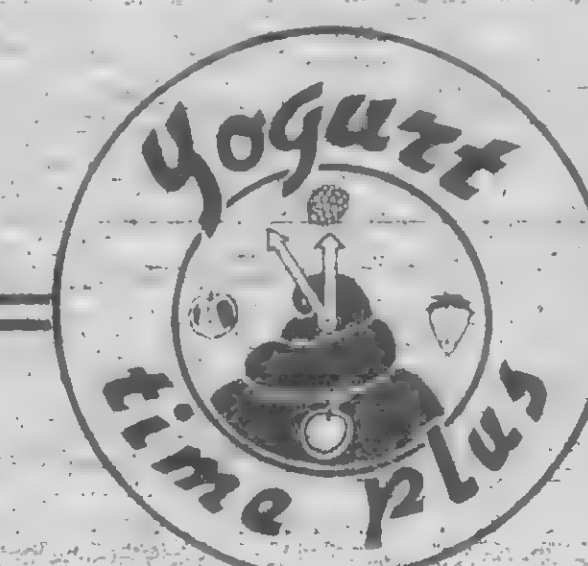

There will also be a farewell to Marc Wynkoop, 1989 Venetian Queen. Christopher Knight will serve as master of ceremonies. Josh Mosses and Linsey Wynkoop will be the crown and flower carriers.

Donald D. Willman, Darlene Willman and Robert Neel will judge the competition. All three are recognized regionally and nationally for their background and expertise in pageants. Tickets for the pageant cost $4 for adults and $2 for children. Individual information on the candidates follows.

Kelly Garver, Miss Michigan 1986, will entertain at the Venetian pageant.

Her hobbies include reading, writing, running, softball, art, dancing, hiking, swimming and photography. She is also interested in child care and being a lifeguard. She will be dancing in the talent show. She has received awards for her poetry and short stories.

Pageant director enjoys work with candidates

Yvonne Engler is directing and coordinating the Venetian Pageant for the third straight year.

"It's quite a bit of work," she concedes, but also notes, "I just love it."

Engler says she enjoys working with the teenage girls. Under Engler's direction, the Charlevoix pageant stresses building each queen candidate's self-image.

Engler and the others who work with the pageant try to help the candidates learn how to present themselves well.

The pageant coordinators hope that through competing, the candidates will acquire skills which they will carry with them into their adult lives.

Prior to the pageant, the contestants will be briefed and practice each of the competitions.

"We go through every segment of the pageant so nothing is a surprise," Engler explains. Assisting Engler with this year's pageant is a pageant committee made up of Bea Warner, Jean Wynkoop and Carol Ward. Warner is an artist and is doing extensive work with the pageant set. Wynkoop is working with set up, decor and a hundred other odds and ends. Ward will be working backstage with the candidates to keep everything running smoothly.

Last year's queen, Marci Wynkoop, has been teaching the candidates a dance routine choreographed by Candy Smith.

Engler has attended and judged other pageants and in doing so has picked up ideas to make Charlevoix's pageant polished and professional.

She says she likes to have a limelight person and a variety of talent to compliment the candidates. This year's limelight person will be 1986 Miss Michigan, Kelly Garver.

Engler is also pleased with the judges for this year's pageant. Donald and Darlene Willman have a lengthy background in pageants. The third judge, Robert C. Neel, 68, collects autographs of pageant winners. He has the autographs of 42 of 57 Miss America winners.

The winner of the Venetian Queen pageant is automatically entered in the Cherry Festival pageant in Traverse City. Some former Venetian Queens have also gone on to compete in the Miss Michigan pageant.

Engler said she's pleased with this year's field of candidates and noted that they have really been a nice group of young ladies to work with.

Alumni band to perform in park

The Charlevoix Alumni Band will perform its third annual concert Saturday Evening during the Venetian festivities. This year the band will perform with a dual purpose. First of all the challenge, excitement, and enjoyment of getting together each year is a terrifically rewarding experience. Secondly, this year the band is hoping to promote final fund raising efforts to complete the C.A. Odmak Band Pavilion in October 1990.

As part of the concert, people who have pledged and donated to the Pavilion will be recognized. Pledges and donations will also be accepted during the hour-long performance.

Construction on the Pavilion is scheduled to begin at the end of August. The completion is slated for October 1990.

C.A. Odmak touched the lives of thousands of people in this community and provided musical harmony in Charlevoix for more than thirty years. He gave many of his students the ability to recognize the musical gift from within.

The opportunity is now here for the community to show its appreciation and pay tribute to "Odie" through a contribution in his honor to the Odmak Band Pavilion.

Any gift of $100 or more will be recognized by inscribing the name of the donor on a special plaque to be attached to the Pavilion.

The concert will be at 8 p.m. in East Park. Any and all band alumni are invited to play or to just come and listen to the results of "Odie's" efforts.

Bridge Street intersections ranked by 1989 accidents

The intersection of Clinton and Bridge Streets provided a meeting place for many Charlevoix drivers in 1989. More drivers met there in fender benders than at any other Charlevoix intersection.

The map at the left ranks Bridge Street intersections by number of accidents in 1989. (Encircled numbers indicate the rank of the intersection as compared to other intersections.) The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) compiled the figures. In order to be listed, an intersection had to be the scene of at least four 1989 accidents. For tabulation purposes, MDOT counted any accident which occurred within 150 feet of where the side street entered Bridge Street as an accident at that side street's intersection.

Last year, the Charlevoix City Police Department recorded 283 traffic accidents within the Charlevoix city limits. That was up from 270 in 1988. This year, only 77 accidents have been recorded through June. However, that doesn't necessarily mean that traffic accidents are way down for 1990. The 77 figure doesn't include July and August, which are normally big months for local traffic accidents.

Although there were 16 accidents at the Clinton intersection, there were no injuries. At Antrim Street, there were only six accidents, but four people suffered injuries in those accidents.

Police recorded 10 accidents at the U.S. 31 and M-66 intersection in 1989. Commercial and residential developments on M-66 are expected to increase traffic at that intersection. MDOT plans to put a stop light at the intersection sometime this fall.

Mercer Boulevard was the only north side intersection where there were at least four accidents. The only local intersection not on Bridge Street to record at least four accidents in 1989 was the intersection of State and Antrim Streets. Four accidents occurred there, but there were no injuries.

1990 Venetian Queen Jennifer Bonar is crowned by 1989 Queen Marci Wynkoop. Bonar was selected from eight contestants who competed in the Thursday evening pageant.

County seeks tax hike

In the August 7 election, county voters will decide whether or not to increase the county's allocated millage limit by half a mill for four years beginning in 1991.

Currently the allocated limit is 15 mills. Of that 15 mills, the county receives 4.7, townships one mill, intermediate school districts two-tenths of a mill and school systems 9.1 mills. If the proposal passes, the total limit would rise to 15.5 mills with the county limit rising from 4.7 to 5.2 mills.

In terms of revenue, the county would receive approximately $291,000 in additional taxes in 1991 if the proposal passes. The money would be used to fund county operations.

Although the proposal is to raise the limit by half a mill, the actual millage levy would increase by less due to the Headlee tax limitation amendment. A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of state equalized value (SEV). SEV is half of a property's theoretical market value.

The Headlee amendment says that if SEV increases more than the rate of inflation, then millage must be decreased so that net tax revenue on existing homes and properties doesn't increase beyond the rate of inflation without voter approval. Since Charlevoix County SEV has risen faster than inflation during recent years, the county could levy only 4.5609 mills in 1990 rather than the 4.7 mill limit.

However the Headlee amendment allows taxing entities to keep tax revenue from new construction without rolling back millage.

In Charlevoix County, the combination of new construction and increasing SEV has meant that even though the county millage rate decreased from 4.7 in 1985 to 4.5609 in 1990, county tax revenue increased from $1,969,390 in 1985 to $2,652,795 in 1990.

But those revenue figures don't take into consideration the effect of tax increment financing authorities (TIFAs and DDAs) in the city of Charlevoix and Boyne City. TIFAs and DDAs derive their funds from increasing SEV within established TIFA and DDA districts. As the SEV in those districts grows, so does the amount of money which goes to the TIFA or DDA rather than to the county or school districts. In 1986, DDA and TIFAs received $16,371 which otherwise would have gone into county coffers. In 1989, that figure was $67,357.

Lake clean up begins

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council's Clean Bay Campaign is continuing this year, announced Ann Baughman, Water Resource Specialist who is coordinating the program for the Watershed Council.

"The Clean Bay Campaign is an effort to keep the waters of Lake Michigan free from trash," Baughman explained. "The Watershed Council is working to prevent contamination of our area's water resources. This pollution also includes aesthetic degradation."

Much of the trash found in the lake and on the beaches is plastic. It comes from many sources - thrown on the beach by careless picnickers, blown out of residential trash cans and commercial dumpsters, blown from construction sites, thrown out of cars driving near the lake, and tossed off of boats and ships. Some of the trash found in Lake Michigan, undoubtedly, originated far from our area.

The Watershed Council's Clean Bay Campaign is a multi-focused effort to educate people about the various ways trash gets into the lake and to prevent it from occurring. The Council has contacted commercial shippers to remind them not to dispose of their trash overboard. Businesses located near the water have also been asked to ensure that all their trash is enclosed in dumpsters.

"This summer, the Clean Bay Campaign will include two major projects," stated Baughman. "We will again provide trash bags to local boaters and we will sponsor a Beach Clean Up on August 4."

The Watershed Council will distribute garbage bags to participants in the Chicago to Mackinac Race, beginning July 28. The garbage bags that bear an anti-litter message will also be provided to marinas in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties for distribution to local boaters. Program sponsors include the Cities of Charlevoix, Harbor Springs, and Petoskey, and the Little Traverse Yacht Club of Harbor Springs.

The Clean Bay Campaign will also sponsor a Beach Clean Up at Petoskey State Park on Saturday, August 4 from 9 a.m. to noon.

Living dangerously

(Writer's note: The following column is one I wrote a couple of years ago. My grandmother liked it and has repeatedly requested that I rerun it. Here it is.)

Esther Gribble leads a life of danger. She is sure of it. She escaped death, or worse, just last night in a supermarket parking lot.

Esther, a frail, elderly woman, still trembled today as she recounted her terrifying experience to her friend, Rosemary.

"I first saw them inside the market," she began. "They were in aisle nine looking for a victim. I could just tell."

Tobin Keeslar, a tall, sturdy young man, and his friend Rob were in the market debating which kind of potato chips to buy.

"Let's get sturdy chips," Tobin said. "I hate it when they break apart in your hands."

Esther came around the corner of the aisle just as Tobin finished speaking.

"I heard them talking about breaking people apart with their hands," she told Rosemary.

Tobin and Rob happened to go through the checkout line three spots behind Esther.

"They followed me to the front of the store," she explained to Rosemary.

Esther hurried across the parking lot to her car. She checked the back seat, got into the car and quickly locked the door behind her.

Tobin and Rob were walking across the parking lot as Esther turned the key. Her car's motor went "click...click...click, click."

Esther turned the key again and again, growing more frantic with each click.

"Sounds like that lady's got a problem," Tobin said.

"Maybe her battery's dead,"

Rob mumbled. "We could jump her," Tobin said. "I've got a set of cables in my car."

With quivering voice, Esther told Rosemary, "I heard them say I had problems and that I'd be better off dead. They were going to jump me and tie me up with cables."

Tobin tapped on Esther's car window. "Open the hood," he called.

Esther popped the hood latch.

"I figured I'd better do what they said," she told Rosemary. "I didn't want to make them angry."

Tobin and Rob looked at the car motor.

"Check out the end of that line," Tobin said, pointing to a battery line.

"There's a lot of corrosion around the terminal," Rob noted.

With a pale face, Esther recalled to Rosemary, "I heard them say it was the end of the line and it was going to be terminal."

Tobin walked around beside the car and called through the window to Esther, "I've got a wire brush in my car. I'll get it and do some scraping and see what that does for you."

Esther tried to scream, but no sound came out.

"They were going to torture me with a wire brush," she told Rosemary.

When he returned with the brush and a pair of pliers, Tobin disconnected the battery cable and used the brush to clean the terminal. Rob stood beside him, leaning over the motor and watching.

As Tobin reconnected the terminal, he was nearly deafened.

"I thought if I honked the horn someone might come to my rescue," Esther explained to Rosemary.

The horn startled Rob and as he straightened up he banged his head on the car hood. Dazed, Rob staggered back from the car.

"One of them had glassy eyes," Esther told Rosemary. "I think he was on drugs."

Tobin again came around to the side of the car. "Try it now and see if you're still dead," he called.

Esther paused for effect as she told her story to Rosemary.

"When I heard him say I was as good as dead, I figured my only hope was to try again to start the car."

The car roared to life. The hood remained open, but Esther peered beneath it, hit buried the gas pedal in the floorboard and zoomed away.

"It was just lucky I got the car started," she said. "No telling what they'd have done if I hadn't gotten away. Those animals shouldn't be on the streets. They should be locked up."

Letters to the Editor:

Hospice says thanks

Editor,

On behalf of the Charlevoix County Hospice I want to take this opportunity to say "thank you" to everyone who was involved with our fifth Auction/Benefit held at the Boyne Mountain Civic Center. This auction was the best. The committee worked very hard to make everything run as smooth as possible, which it did.

Other people helped on the night of the auction. We had great cooperation from the Boyne Mountain staff and of course our auctioneers, Judge Harvey Varnum and Jim White.

We wouldn't have had the best auction yet without the donations of area artists and businesses.

And a very special "thank you" to all the people who attended the auction this year and were most generous in bidding.

Seeking justice

Every newspaper columnist in the country seems to have an opinion about David H. Souter, the New England hermit whom President Bush has nominated to the U.S. Supreme Court.

I don't have an opinion one way or the other because I am trying to keep an open mind about the nomination.

But I think there are a few things we should remember about Judge Souter, who sits on the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, as the Senate debates his future.

He lives in a ramshackle New Hampshire farmhouse with peeling paint and a sagging porch. Queen Anne's lace grows in wild profusion in the front yard.

He was an only child.

He is as smart as the dickens, having studied in England. You have to be pretty smart to study in England.

He has never married although he once had a girl friend.

He doesn't read newspapers or watch television.

No one knows how he stands on any given question, because he apparently is too smart to put anything important in writing. He also refuses to contribute articles to learned journals.

He eats the same thing for lunch every day: an apple and yogurt. (Or an apple and cottage cheese, depending on which tabloid you read.)

Although he appears to live like a recluse, friends say he has a sense of humor and describe him as a raconteur and almost a bon vivant. It's a pity he never studied in France.

He likes to jog and hike.

His fellow justices have never been inside his house, apparently because they can't fight their way through the Queen Anne's lace.

There you have it, a thumbnail sketch of David H. Souter, a spare, monastic, tight-lipped man of 50.

Critics claim he is too far removed from the mainstream of the American experience to effectively interpret the Constitution for the guy next door.

You know the fellow I mean. He has a wife, two kids, a house in the suburbs, a mortgage downtown at the bank, two cars, a stack of porno magazines in the basement and a grocery bag full of empty Bud cans on the back porch.

If there is any Queen Anne's lace in the front yard it is because his wife backed over the power mower in the driveway and he won't be able to cut the grass until he gets it fixed. The company says it may call him back to work. Sometime next year. If he quits the union.

BUT THERE'S something to be said about having a man like Dave Souter sit on the Supreme Court.

Since he lives in a virtual vacuum, ignores the media and keeps the rest of the funky human race at arm's reach, his mind would be like the proverbial blank slate when it comes to dealing with critical constitutional issues such as abortion and civil rights. Unlike many jurists, Souter wouldn't be hobbled by preconceived notions. He would be able to study the problem and study the Constitution and come up with a solution. No shilly-shallying around. No gray areas. No soul-searching.

Souter would never let emotions enter the decision-making process because he apparently isn't very emotional.

You want an answer? Bingol! You have an answer.

With Souter on the bench, cases are going to zoom through the Supreme Court.

Souter is what they call a strict constructionist. This means he interprets the Constitution along narrow lines, always trying to stick as close as possible to the literal meaning of the words.

This is a fine goal, but virtually impossible to reach, since the founding fathers used a lot of fuzzy words, such as "freedom," "speech," "assembly" and "worship."

The Supreme Court has spent the past 200 years without much success trying to figure out just what the drafters of the Constitution intended. Maybe Souter, with his keen intellect, will be able to strip away some of the fuzz.

Or he may just let the fuzz grow, as he does the Queen Anne's lace in his front yard.

German student visits Charlevoix to see an American dairy farm

By Peg Ohle

A young woman whose home is a dairy farm next to a small town in West Germany near the Belgian border, is spending several weeks on Neil and Joanne Jones' dairy farm near Charlevoix.

Twenty-two-year-old Lydia Hack is here under a 4-H Exchange Program, which she learned about while studying home economics in college in Germany.

Lydia says she wanted to learn how things are done in this country, not only on dairy farms, but in many other endeavors. In the two months she has been here, she has spent time on a dairy farm in Connecticut and a goat farm in southern Michigan. The Jones' dairy herd is about the same size as Lydia's parents' herd, and it is operated in much the same way, she says.

Although Lydia is spending her time on farms while in the United States, her career ambition is to work with handicapped people and to help make them self-sufficient. When she returns to Germany in November, she hopes to get a job in this field.

While living with the Jones', Lydia is helping with the herd and assisting Joanne Jones with housework and other chores. She also has been doing many of the things other Charlevoix people do this time of year—including "taking in" the Venetian Festival.

Lydia is taking lots of pictures and keeping a diary of her experiences. She speaks English without an accent and communicates well with all who meet her.

"Charlevoix is beautiful," Lydia said when asked what surprised her most about northern Michigan. While she agreed the petunias were nice, she indicated she was thinking more of the natural beauty—the lakes, hills, trees, and clean air.

She is sure when she tells her younger brother and sisters about northern Michigan and shows them her pictures, they, too, will want to become exchange students.

About the changes taking place in Germany, Lydia says from all she hears, her people are very happy about the reunification of East and West Germany.

Book written by area author

The latest book about people and places in northern Michigan is "Northland Culture with Facts, Fiction, and Fantasies," written by Harvey Jacobitz of Eastport.

Jacobitz has many tales to tell about hunting and fishing; about people who engaged in those sports; about animals and birds; about Lake Charlevoix; Torch Lake, the Jordan River; about the impact of modern rules; and regulations on outdoor life; but mostly about the people he has played and worked with in northern Michigan through the years.

Among his favorite subjects are Ross Alexander of Ironton and Joe Powell and Julius "Heck" McKinnon of Charlevoix. (He calls the latter "Charlevoix's first biologist"). He also has much to say about Glen Shepard of "The Northwoods Call," a publication in which many of Jacobitz' stories originally appeared.

"Northland Culture" is easy summer reading. It is nicely illustrated by Ross Alexander's daughter, Deborah Faculak, and there are even some doggerel-type poems for those who like their reading to rhyme, as in this hunter's lament:

He kissed his wife
before going forth as once each year he left for the north.

"Northland Culture" is for sale at several book stores and gift shops in the area.

Library will be selling books

The Charlevoix Women's Club will host its annual book sale Friday and Saturday, August 10 and 11, at the Charlevoix Library.

Auction raises $40,000

A July 23 auction raised $40,249 toward a $500,000 endowment fund for a proposed indoor community swimming pool. According to Pool Steering Committee officers, money and pledges now total more than $300,000. Interest from the endowment fund would be used to cover pool operating costs not covered by user fees.

The proposed pool carries an estimated construction cost of approximately $1.7 million which will have to be raised in addition to the $300,000. Pool proponents have suggested locating the pool at the elementary school. However, the school board has not committed to allowing a pool at the school.

Approximately 300 bidders participated in the auction, bidding from $5 to $9,000 for auction items. A power boat with twin outboard engines brought $9,000. Four round-trip tickets donated by Continental Air Lines brought $1,800. Eight tickets to a Detroit Pistons game donated by Cedar Ridge Landfill and Waste Management Inc. raised $1,500.

Proceeds from a dinner which also took place at the Barn of Dunmaglas in conjunction with the auction benefitted Keep Charlevoix Beautiful's 1991 petunia project. KCB officials said that while ticket sales were under budget, the turnout for the dinner was good. People who still wish to provide financial support for the petunia project may mail their donation to KCB Inc., P.O. Box 1, Charlevoix MI 49720.

Island arts workshop begins

The Beaver Island Arts Project has begun its third summer of creative workshops for visitors and residents of Beaver Island. The workshops, funded by the island's two townships, the community school board and the Cheboygan Area Arts Council, are offered free of charge.

The Arts Project provides visual-art workshops for children in grades K-6 and sketching classes and theater improvisation workshops for adults and secondary school students. "We have designed the program to allow the continuing students the chance to advance their skills and yet allow the occasional student to develop a skill or complete a project in just one lesson," explains Kathleen McNamara, principal of the 78 student kindergarten through twelfth grade Beaver Island Community School. "The instructors' flexibility means that island residents can benefit all summer while one-time visitors can attend a single class and enjoy themselves."

The workshops are led by the husband-wife team of Josh Broder and Pat Hough, who split their time between New York City and Beaver Island.

Hough, a painter, loves the collaboration between the local children and children from all over the country who are vacationing on the island. "I see how they observe, influence and playfully compete with each other in expressing themselves. I want them to thoroughly enjoy themselves in a positive creative experience in the time they spend in art class."

Broder, an actor, especially enjoys the diversity of workshop participants on Beaver Island. "When I teach in New York the groups tend to be very segregated, everyone in the workshop is a professional actor or they are all senior citizens or incarcerated male teenagers. On the island it's a cross section of the community. This year I'm working with a carpenter, the woman who cuts hair up here and a mother and her 12-year-old daughter. Improvisation is the perfect format because the content of the show comes from the participants and the audience. It's true community theater."

The Arts Project will culminate in late August with an exhibition of work from the visual-art classes and performances created on the spot by the theater workshop based on suggestions by the audience.

By Labor Day Hough and Broder will be back in New York City where this fall she is joining the faculty of the Browning School, a private school on Manhattan's upper east side.

Broder, an actor, is a member of the Ironclad Ensemble Project, an experimental theater company.

U of M hosts reception

The University of Michigan undergraduate admissions office and area U-M alumni will host a reception for prospective students at the Petoskey Holiday Inn on Thursday, Aug. 9, at 7:30 p.m. Interested high school students and their parents are invited to attend and learn more about the University.

A short presentation of general admissions and financial aid information and a showing of the video "Consider Michigan" will precede a question-and-answer session. Admissions officers and U-M alumni from the area will be available to provide information during the reception.

This reception is one of several being offered this year. Additional information is available by writing Sherry Fletcher, Office of Undergraduate Admissions, 1220 Student Activities Building, The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI 48109-1316, or by calling (313) 764-7433.

Church plans craft show

The Morris Fork Crafts Community in Kentucky will bring a wide variety of items to the Boyne City Presbyterian Church Tuesday, August 7, to show and sell.

This is the seventh year area residents will have an opportunity to see the quilts, toys, wood carvings, grapevine weavings, rocking chairs, and other crafts made by the men, women, and children of the "hollers" and "ridges" of Kentucky.

Last year, almost 900 persons attended the sale and contributed $8,000 to the Morris Fork mission center, which catalogs the items and prepares them for sale.

The mission is managed by the Presbyterian Church. It is located southeast of Boonesville, at the end of a little-used road. It not only assists the area with its financial needs but ministers to the health and faith of the families. A volunteer in mission acts as the manager of the crafts project, transports all the sale items to the place of sale, sets up, sells, and acts as the group's emissary. The craftsmen receive 85 percent of the gross sales, with the balance being used for promotion and transportation.

The show and sale will open at 10:30 a.m. and run until 4 p.m. The women of the church will serve a luncheon from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the afternoon.

Did you ever consider the church as a kind of lifeboat station? The Coast Guard is not in every village and town across the country. But it is a rare place indeed that does not have at least one church. Instead of the tall radio antennas that mark a station, there is usually a steeple pointed heavenward and crowned by a cross.

When you worship at your church on Sundays, did it ever occur to you that part of what goes on in service is a training session? Your pastor trusts that you will be inspired and encouraged. But it is also his aim to equip you with the spiritual tools and knowledge that you will need to deal with all kinds of things that tend to pop up in life. Just as the Coast Guard is supposed to be "always ready," the Bible reminds us to "be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you" (I Peter 3:15).

How would you feel if you were in a boat on any of our area lakes and needed help only to discover the Coast Guard wouldn't come? That's their job right? It is every Christian's job to be always ready to share the grace and love of our Lord.

This Saturday, the Coast Guard looks back on a heritage that has covered two centuries of service and care. The men and women of Station Charlevoix deserve to be commended for their devotion to duty and a job well done.

The church will soon note twenty centuries of ministry and blessing since she was first challenged by the Lord to reach out to all the world with the gospel. May our spirit and our every action merit commendation from God for the souls we try to save and renew in His precious name.

The Cutter Acacia steamed out of town Sunday for Grand Haven. They will be there for two weeks as a part of that city's Coast Guard Days. But there is another Coast Guard unit in our town that is just as special and deserves just as much recognition as its larger sister unit. I am talking about Station Charlevoix.

This Saturday marks the 200th birthday of the Coast Guard and for nearly 100 of those years the lifeboat station has been a part of our town. If you have ever had to call on them for help, you would probably be quick to say that you are glad that they are "always ready."

Chief Gonzalez and his crew train constantly for all kinds of emergencies. When they come on a scene, there is no doubt that they have the resources and the ability to get the job done.

U. S. Coast Guard celebrates 200 years

The United States Coast Guard will celebrate its 200th birthday Aug. 4. Waters of northern Lake Michigan have been home to the Coast Guard for more than half of those 200 years.

Currently, Charlevoix hosts a life boat station and the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia. But the first Coast Guard presence in the area wasn't in Charlevoix. Beaver Island became the home of the area's first Coast Guard station in 1875. The Charlevoix station wasn't founded until 1899.

Beaver Island's Coast Guard station closed in 1922. The Charlevoix station was originally on Pine River, near the south pier. The station changed quarters, moving to its present location on the north shore of the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix, in 1962.

Chief Mario Gonzales currently commands Charlevoix's 16-man station. The station monitors marine radio frequencies 24 hours a day and is responsible for all of Lake Charlevoix and an area of northern Lake Michigan extending beyond Beaver Island. Boaters may reach the station on channel 16 which is the marine distress frequency or on channel 23 which is a Coast Guard working frequency.

"We run about 165 search and rescue cases a year," Gonzales explains.

The station's primary duties are finding and assisting endangered boaters, encouraging boating safety and law enforcement. Station members are also the area's initial response and investigation unit for oil spills.

A 44-foot motor life boat is the mainstay of the station's rescue fleet. The boat is self-righting and self-bailing. In other words, it can do a complete roll and come back up without sinking.

"It's got to be pretty bad for it not to go out," Gonzales said. The boat is capable of towing disabled boats, fighting fires, pumping water from sinking boats and normally carries two emergency medical technicians (EMTs) on board.

Crew members are normally stationed in Charlevoix for three year stints. The officer in charge stays for a four-year hitch. If a Coast Guardsman likes northern Michigan, he or she can request a transfer to another station in the area. St. Ignace is the closest area station.

Although May through August obviously are the station's busiest months, crew members also stay active during the winter. The station has a 14-foot ice skiff with a 4-hp outboard motor.

man crew trained for ice rescues. Winter also provides an opportunity to do maintenance on both the 44-foot boat and a smaller Boston Whaler. Often guardsmen will go to other parts of the country for schooling during the winter. The station is assisted by a local Coast Guard auxiliary unit. Auxiliary members coordinate boating, safety courses, go on weekly patrols and provide the station with valuable assistance during special events such as the Venetian Festival. "They're just a big help," Gonzales says.

Members of the public are welcome to tour the station. If groups want to see the station, they may call in advance to arrange tours.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia is the most visible Coast Guard presence in Charlevoix. When she's in port, the 186-foot long ship ties up just to the south of the bridge. When on the water, the Acacia is home to 41 enlisted crew and seven officers.

Acacia's primary responsibility is maintaining aids to navigation. She ranges a good distance in maintaining buoys and lighthouses.

"If you were to say all of Lake Michigan, that'd be pretty accurate," Lt. Tom Cafferty replied when asked about the Acacia's general domain of responsibility.

Acacia spends approximately eight weeks each spring putting buoys out. In the fall, she spends another six to eight weeks bringing them in.

In the winter, the Acacia usually spends four or five weeks breaking ice. Cafferty said icebreaking on the Great Lakes is a cold job. Crew members come from all parts of the country. Some of the crew members from warmer parts of the country find icebreaking to be something other than their idea of a good time.

Along with their duties on the water, Acacia crew members usually renovate one or two light houses each year. That didn't happen this year due to the ship's change of home ports.

Currently the ship is back in Grand Haven for a two week stay. When the ship returns to Charlevoix, she will have a new commander.

Acacia is currently under the command of Lt. Commander James M. Dwyer. Dwyer is being promoted to full Commander Aug. 1. Dwyer will hand over command of the Acacia to Lt. Commander Lane Hawkins in Grand Haven Aug. 6.

The family of Charlevoix's Coast Guard ship and station does not end with the crew members. Many of them have wives and children living, working and attending school in the community.

Cafferty said that one of the big changes in the Coast Guard during the past 20 years has been that there are more career guardsmen and consequently more crew members with families.

The Coast Guard Life Saving station moved from its former quarters near the channel to its present quarters in the autumn of 1989.

Bay Shore team places second in Ellsworth

The Bay Shore Steel softball team of Charlevoix placed second in the Ellsworth open softball tournament this past weekend. Bay Shore lost their first game, then won five straight before losing in the championship game to Victories of Boyne City.

Butch Potter won the home run title with seven while Cris Havens tied for second with five. Potter and Kevin Morrison each hit for a .666 average in the tournament.

John Hess won one of the shooting titles at the summer boys basketball camp.

Among the winning 3 on 3 teams at the summer boys basketball camp were (from left) Steve Carland, T.J. Carey and Dan Pardee.

Yachting Notes

"Are we going to clear them?" "I'm pretty sure, we are—OK on all boats but the first one that's going to be close, close, close. Ah! We made it with inches to spare!" The race is off with a beautiful port start! What is so scary about a port start? Basically if anything goes wrong it's your fault. You have no rights with all the other boats coming directly at your mid section, not for the faint of heart. Speaking of starts, the J-Boats were mixing it up at the start line with one of our senior members in Bandit taking exception to Sunkist tacking right in front of him, but they settled the problem without the help of a jury—thanks guys. Enough of this drivel, on with the results.

Fleet A: We had some new names in the top three tonight as Slapshot took a second and Grampa Gordon took a third in Flash and the Apprentice captured first. Rounding out the fleet were Gotcha, Pygmalion and Mint Julep. I was hoping for wind also, Jack.

Fleet B: We had to let MI-Joy finish first tonight as who had a film crew aboard filming for a TV 9-10 sailing story about racing on Lake Charlevoix. Are we not a gentleman Commodore Pirie? Finishing next in the film will be the Lost Vermorel and Cabaret, squeaking out a third, followed by Sandpiper, Blasen III, Tireless, Cygnus, Foxy Lady (which by the way looked like all of Hayes Township was on board), Original Sin, and Polestar.

Fleet C: When the captain is away the crew does great—doesn't rhyme but it seems to be the truth with Sizzle taking its second first without its captain. Congratulations to Pat Jackson's crew. Next were Bandit, Newsense, Confusion, Allons-Y, Sunkist, HS Moisture, M.I.P., and Mud duck.

Jam fleet: On a hot streak this summer is Hot Mustard, way to go, followed by spirit, then Art Attack, (formerly Nancy) Sunrise, Cheemaun, Stalworth, Maureen, Canusa Our Thyme II. Don't forget the duke race to Northport August 11. Should be a great time for all. All CYC members are welcome to attend the dockside festivities Saturday Night. See you there. Still looking for the wind, The Other Mouse

Regions blood supply considered safe

The American Red Cross Wolverine Region's blood supply continues to increase its safety. The Region headquarters in Flint reports that there have been no known cases of transfusion associated AIDS within the region according to Dr. Willis F. Mueller, Director of Blood Services for the Wolverine Region.

A recent article in the Philadelphia Inquirer cites a Food and Drug Administration inspection of the American Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington, D.C. The focus is on the reporting structure maintained by the national organization. Much of what has been written in the article does not pertain to the Red Cross blood center that serves most of the hospitals in central and northern Michigan (Wolverine Region).

The Wolverine Region has been inspected by the State of Michigan and has a license as a clinical laboratory. The Region is also inspected by the American Association of Blood Banks and most recently the Food and Drug Administration at our Petoskey location in February 1990 where there were no citations.

There has been a great deal of progress in recent years toward making the blood supply in the United States safer than it has ever been. Emphasis on the use of one's own blood (autologous transfusion), the development of more effective blood donor screening methods, and the introduction of new tests for the AIDS and hepatitis virus have effectively diminished the risk of transfusion associated disease transmission. The newest test, the Anti-HCV for Hepatitis C, was licensed and implemented this spring.

The Wolverine Region has a full time compliance officer who is explicitly charged with maintaining the highest quality and as safe a blood supply as possible and assures that all activities comply with and exceed FDA regulations and directives from the national organization. The risks are minimized through the voluntary donation concept that assures the safest possible method of collection in conjunction with extensive health history questioning and testing. New screening questions will be asked of all donors in the near future. These new questions are very specific about types of high risk behavior.

Bellingers celebrates 40 years in business

Bellinger Marine Service celebrated 40 years in business this past weekend. The business was opened in 1950 by the late Jim Bellinger and is currently owned and operated by his son, Bill Bellinger and Bill's wife, Debbie. Bellingers' celebrated their anniversary in conjunction with Venetian night. Several of the shop's customers, some of them second generation customers, dined on anniversary cake while watching fireworks from the shop's dock on the south shore of Round Lake.

Hunters and farmers to meet

Area farmers and hunters are encouraged to attend a meeting at 7:30 p.m. August 9 at the Ellsworth Community Hall to help organize a Coordinated Wildlife Management (CWM) team. The meeting is sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau, the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the Cooperative Extension Service. The CWM team, consisting of local farmers, hunters and personnel from the Extension Service, DNR district office and law enforcement agencies, will evaluate the new expanded statewide block deer hunting permit program and make recommendations for future seasons. Team members will also be asked to provide advice on the coordination of hunter/farmer referrals and the local distribution of carcasses from the summer shooting permit program.

DNR and Cooperative Extension personnel will be on hand at the meeting to provide information to farmers about the new statewide block deer hunting permit program and some minor changes in rules for the deer damage shooting permit program.

Council rejects street light wiring by 4-3 vote

By L. Scott Swanson

In the latest skirmish of an ongoing battle over new downtown street lights, the city council has rejected placing small electrical vaults in the sidewalk on the east side of Bridge Street.

Placing vaults in the sidewalk would have been a step in the direction of installing new street lights. By a 4-3 vote Monday evening the city council said no to the vaults. Mayor Gary Probert joined council members Ken Whitley, Jim Potter and Butch Russell in defeating the proposal. Council members Cheri Hoffman, Pat Gaskin and Bill Haggard favored the vaults.

"I'm satisfied with the present lights," Whitley said in reiterating a view he has expressed throughout the street light debate.

Referring to a city lighting committee the council appointed earlier this year, Gaskin said, "When we create committees to do work, they expend a lot of volunteer hours. We need to be responsive to their recommendations."

The street light debate involves the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). At one time new street lights were included in the DDA project list and were to be funded by DDA funds. In August of last year, when the DDA project was revised, the council took street lights off of the project list. That action occurred despite vigorous and lengthy objections from several downtown merchants.

Later in the year, the council approved installation of electrical conduit in the new sidewalks on the east side of Bridge Street. If new lights are approved in the future, the conduit would be in place.

The Grandvue Medical Care Facility is nestled among trees, bushes and flowers providing a pleasant atmosphere for the facility's 100 patients.

Grandvue celebrates 100 years

By Peg Ohle

Charlevoix County residents are justifiably proud of their Grandvue Medical Care Facility and now they have a chance to say thank you for its 100 years of service to the county.

Special events to celebrate the 100th birthday of Grandvue are scheduled for Friday, Saturday, and Sunday of this week, ending with an Open House on Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5.

The story of Grandvue is one of changing services to meet changing needs.

As far back as 1885, the County Board of Supervisors recognized the need for a place to care for the area's poor, homeless and ailing residents. That year, the county purchased 80 acres of land on Peninsula Road in South Arm Township from George Haynor for $2,500, thus taking the first step in founding a County Poor Farm.

However, it wasn't until 1890 that a building was constructed, and a few months later, in 1891, the first inmates (as they were called at the time) were admitted and the county became "Keepers of the Poor."

It is a sad commentary on the

Ahead-lines

Blood drive planned Thursday

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Charlevoix Thursday, August 9th. Inventories of blood and blood products are extremely low at this time. People in Charlevoix—especially those with types O and B positive and O, A and B negative—can come to the American Legion Hall between 1 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. and help alleviate the deficit in our area. Summer blood drives have been falling short of their goals all over the Wolverine Region. Yet the same need for blood continues. Healthy volunteer donors, repeat and first-time donors can help ensure an adequate and safe blood supply. And Mathews is recruiting volunteers to work the Bloodmobile. Esther Carey is scheduling the volunteer registered nurses needed to aid the Red Cross staff. Marilyn Izor handles the publicity and Nancy Fowler organizes the calling committee and keeps the master list of donors. All former donors will receive either a phone call or post card to remind them of the approaching blood drive. The American Legion generously donates the use of their building. Having the same location for each blood drive visit provides continuity. Men from the Lions Club volunteer to unload and reload the van. Women from the Kappa Sigma Chapter of Beta Sigma Chi Sorority work at the canteen throughout the day. First State Bank provides coffee and Olesons Food Stores juice and rookies when enough homemade cookies aren't solicited. Homemade cookies are served in addition to fresh fruit which is furnished by Candy Smith and her Vital Option people. It takes over 25 dozen cookies per bloodmobile. If you care to help by baking cookies, they can be dropped off at the American Legion Hall the day of the Bloodmobile after 11 a.m. The Charlevoix Bloodmobile committee is hoping that the people of Charlevoix will show "they care" by donating a pint of blood. Your blood can give someone another shot at life and allow them to continue enjoying their summer. Blood is the gift of life.

...council rejects wiring

dult will allow wiring to be installed without tearing up the sidewalk.

In February of this year the council appointed a committee to draft a comprehensive city lighting plan. That committee has been meeting for several months.

Last month the lighting committee recommended that the city pour footings for new light poles and install conduit on the east side of Bridge Street in conjunction with sidewalk work scheduled for this year.

The city council discussed that recommendation at their July 23 work session. However, pouring footings for new light poles would have effectively reversed the decision made last August eliminating "street lights" from the DDA project list. At their July 23 meeting, council members decided to consider revising the project list.

After the July 23 meeting a new option arose. In a July 24 memo to the mayor and council members, city manager Mike Wiesner wrote, "Another avenue that has been suggested by members of the Lighting Committee is to have the electrical system fund such base construction. In further discussions with the Committee, they are discussing mini vaults with top plates that could remain indefinitely and not inhibit the use of the sidewalk while still being able to provide the potential for future lighting. These vaults would also be useful to the electrical system in accessing wiring for the current lighting system and maintaining that system."

At Monday evening's meeting, Whitley asked if the primary purpose of the vaults was to accommodate new lights. Wiesner said, yes that would be the primary purpose, easier servicing of the current lights would be a supplemental benefit.

Potter said that if the downtown area was to be the primary beneficiary of the vaults, then he didn't see why the electric system fund should have to pay for them.

If the electric system fund paid for the vaults they could be installed without revising the DDA plan, a lengthy process involving public hearings.

Probert asked Wiesner if he could have simply authorized spending the money for vaults without council approval. As city manager, Wiesner can authorize expenditures of less than $10,000 without council approval.

Wiesner said he could have authorized the expenditure, but given the controversy and previous discussion regarding downtown street lights, he wanted to receive direction from the council.

The Rainbow Shoppe recently purchased a new "used" van for picking up goods for the shop. The sale of used goods at the shop annually generates revenue for several local charitable projects.

By the bag trash rates supported

Although not by a sweeping margin, the city council has endorsed a proposal for city residents to be charged by the bag rather than by the month for garbage pick up.

Currently most city households pay Waste Management Inc. $11.50 per month for weekly garbage pick up. If Waste Management Inc. adopts the system proposed, city households will pay $1.50 per bag.

Waste Management officials, and city manager Mike Wiesner worked out the pay per bag proposal in response to public pressure to promote waste reduction and recycling. Under the pay per month system the cost to put one bag of garbage or five bags of garbage is the same. There's no economic incentive to recycle. With the pay per bag system, one bag of garbage would cost $1.50 while five bags would cost $9.

At Monday evening's council meeting, Walt Hufford of Northwestern Recycling pointed out that under the present monthly system, households that put out small amounts of garbage are subsidizing households that put out large amounts.

Wiesner said he feels the pay per bag system helps solve that inequity in charges.

Although Waste Management could go ahead and make the change with or without council approval, in the interest of cooperation they wanted the blessings of the city's governing body. The council gave that support Monday evening, but only by a 4-3 vote. Mayor Gary Probert joined council members Cheri Hoffman, Pat Gaskin and Bill Haggard in supporting the pay per bag proposal. Council members Butch Russell, Jim Potter and Ken Whitley voted against the proposal.

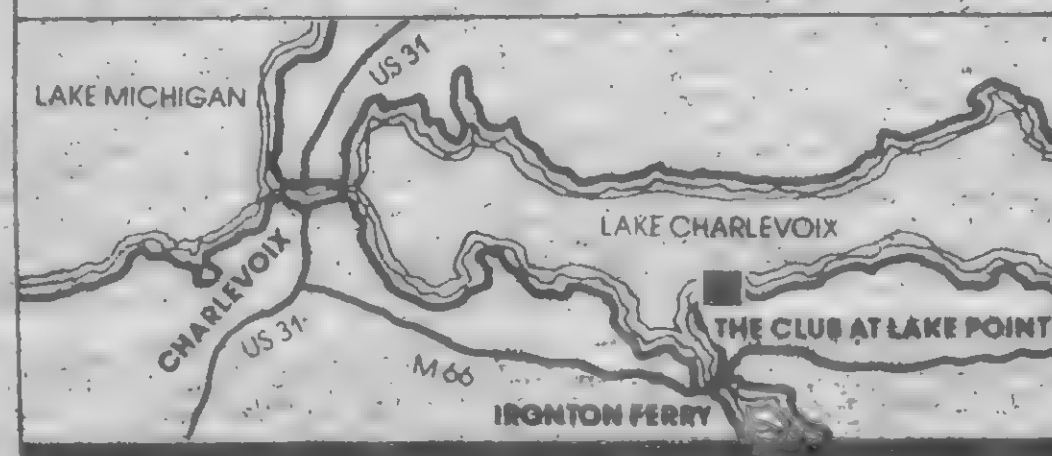

Audience members opposing the proposal contended that households which don't reduce waste through recycling will end up paying more to dispose of the same amount of garbage. They also questioned the convenience of buying the specially marked bags.

On the recycling end of the proposal, Northwest Recycling will accept recyclables free of charge at their center at north end of town from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Fridays and from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturdays. They will also pick up all of a household's recyclables on the third Friday of the month for $2.10. Waste Management will have a recycling container open during office hours Monday through Friday at their office on the south end of town.

Rest rooms needed

by EDITH GILBERT

The situation is completely out of control and nobody is doing anything about it but talk! For years I've heard the "issue" discussed by the merchants, by the city council, by the tourists, and this week it was vividly brought home to me first hand.

One of my houseguests was shopping with his wife in one of our poshest shops. While the cash register was ringing up a three figure sale he asked if he could use the men's room.

"The men's room is not accessible," he was told by the store manager.

At this point, this usually pleasant fellow lost his cool. Only then did one of the kinder salespersons direct the customer to the rest room. As the couple left the store loaded down with packages, the manager handed his card to the gentleman and said, "If you don't like our policy, here's my card and you can complain to the owner."

The owner is the same person who told me several weeks ago that shopping should be fun!

Since I heard this story I checked around with friends, who confirm the local store owners' attitudes. When a good customer asked to use the washroom in one of the so called "better shops," the salesperson said, "Hurry up. The owner will be upset with me if she finds out!"

The store owners (and other businesses like realtors) defend their position by saying things like, "We have hordes of people coming in off the street asking to use our facilities, to change their kids' diapers. We pay taxes. Why has it taken the council over two years to decide

WHERE to build more public rest rooms?"

Admittedly public rest rooms are certainly needed. Most people don't know there are more facilities in the County Building, in the lower level of the City Hall, and the public library, in addition to the restrooms in the Chamber of Commerce building.

But as a serious shopper looking for a pleasant experience on Bridge Street, I doubt if I would appreciate being shunted to a public facility a block or so away.

If the business on Bridge Street really wanted to compete, if they really want to attract and care for the tourist, they need to look ahead and provide adequate rest room facilities for their paying customers. For example, I checked the new K-Mart and they have clean, bright restrooms for men and women as well as handicap access.

For years this area had no codes, nor were the codes on the books enforced. In some cases architects did not stress the need for adequate public rest rooms off the lobby when they designed motels. But let us not dwell on the past but focus on the future. Both fathers and mothers with small children need pleasant facilities to freshen up, change diapers, and relieve themselves in safe surroundings.

It would be marvelous if Charlevoix would lead the way with the help of organizations such as the Michigan Tourist Council, the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau, the DDA, the Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Association and the city council. It's time to spend a buck instead of passing the buck.

REASONABLE TO ME:
L SCOTT SWANSON

Explaining literature

I must reacquaint myself with several books which I read long ago. They are fine books, but in the many years since I last read them, their details have slipped from my memory.

My nine-month-old daughter has taken something of an interest in literature. She crawls to the book shelf, drags books down and chews on them.

This activity leaves me somewhat at a loss as to how to act. I'm pleased to see my child taking an interest in books and yet they're not something she should be eating.

The other evening she fetched down an old brown hardcover copy of Robinson Crusoe. When I discovered her sitting on the floor in front of the book shelf, she wasn't yet fully engrossed in the book, she was just nibbling around the edges.

I knelt down on the floor beside her. "Katrina, what are you doing?" I asked.

She wasn't sure what she was doing, but she looked at me and grinned. At present, a baby's grin seems to satisfy the old man for an answer regardless of what the baby is doing. When she gets old enough to talk, I'm going to demand more specific responses.

The baby held the book over her head in both hands and then slammed it down into her lap.

"Here. Let me see that," I said. She relinquished the book without a fuss.

I looked at the cover of the book. "Robinson Crusoe. This book is about a guy who gets stranded on an island," I explained. This impressed the baby so much that she began playing with her shoelaces.

"It's a pretty good book," I continued. I wanted to tell the baby more about the book, but it has been so long since I read it that my mind was extremely fuzzy on the details. But regardless of the details, I decided to forge ahead in my explanation.

"This Robinson Crusoe guy had a tough time on this island until he finally met a Swiss family. They might have been relatives of his because they were also named Robinson."

When the baby heard this, she almost began paying attention. Anxious to foster my child's interest in literature, I pressed onward.

"Finally Crusoe and the Swiss family meet up with a bunch of little English kids who have killed a pig and left its head on a stick to draw flies. The pig's head was ugly, but the sausage and bacon were good."

I paused as I tried to recall the book's ending. It just wasn't clear in my mind like the rest of the book. The baby looked up to see why I'd stopped talking.

"As near as I can recall, the book had kind of a sad ending," I told her. "I think the island catches fire and kills everybody except Crusoe and one of the Swiss family daughters. But then they get married and live happily ever after."

Apparently the baby enjoyed the story and wanted to hear another. She reached for the book shelf and hauled down another book.

I looked at the cover. "Moby Dick. Now there's one I recall clearly. It's about this minister who doesn't want to go to Nineveh so he ends up getting swallowed by a whale. But as things turn out, the whale is a submarine commanded by a guy named Captain Nemo. This Nemo fellow is trying to hunt down another Captain named Ahab. They went to Captain school together and hated each other because of a fight they had over a mermaid."

The baby lost interest in the story and began crawling off toward the other room. Apparently she's just too young to appreciate the finer points of great literature.

BOB CLOCK

Forced to fire

I never thought I'd find myself trudging into the house with an armload of stove wood on Aug. 5.

But it happened this year. By Sunday afternoon, I couldn't take the cold, the wind and the dampness any longer and I started a fire in the parlor stove.

Talk about heaven on earth! I was home alone with the three cats, who were duly appreciative of my fire-making efforts. They arrayed themselves around the stove like sun spots to soak up the heat and promptly fell asleep. I didn't hear a meow out of them for hours -- until their stomachs told them it was time for supper.

Perhaps I shouldn't complain during the shank of the tourist season, but it seems that this summer has been one fall storm after another, starting the day after the summer solstice in June.

If I were smarter I would try to look for a pattern in this summer's weather, based on recollections of past years. But I also know no two years are alike.

The summer of 1965, for example, was extremely cold. You couldn't step outdoors any evening in August without a jacket and earmuffs. But that fall and winter were extremely mild, with golfing and boating right up until the first of the year.

We've had other chilly summers that were followed by frigid winters.

On New Year's Eve in 1965, I took a picture of Charlevoix's Venetian Queen and her court wading in the surf at Depot Beach and ran it in the Courier. Area ski resort owners -- and others who depend on the ski trade for a living -- wanted to crucify me because I was creating a false image of winter in Northern Michigan.

On the other hand, we have had cool summers followed by bone-chilling winters.

The truth is, of course, is that winters and summers in Northern Michigan don't follow any particular pattern. If you must generalize, you could say that winter is generally a little colder than summer -- but I wouldn't bet the family farm on it.

ALL OF WHICH brings us around to the Greenhouse Effect. Where is it when we need it?

THERE IS STILL honor among thieves.

Well, if not honor, at least patriotism. Robert Moers of Dixon Avenue reports that while he was away from home last week someone stole the American flag he had mounted in front of his house.

"If you got your bike back last year, maybe you can get my flag back," he said when he collared me on the street the other day.

I told him I'd give it a try. You can't miss Bob's flag if you run across it. It's pretty gaudy, with 50 stars in one corner and 13 alternating red and white stripes.

IS THE UNITED States drifting toward war in the Middle East in the wake of Iraq's high-handed seizure of Kuwait? Somehow, I doubt it.

If the economic sanctions proposed by the United States and the United Nations take effect, Iraq will be ready to listen to reason before too long.

The unusual thing about the present impasse is that Iraq has an array of formidable enemies, thanks to the crumbling of the communist governments in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

Not long ago, the United States and the Soviet Union were on opposite sides of every question. Now we are united in condemning Iraq, with the support of Great Britain, France, China, Japan and just about every civilized nation in the world, with the exception of Libya.

If the Allies (that's us) can stand fast, Iraq will have to withdraw from Kuwait or risk losing its valuable oil markets around the world.

If Iraqi madman Saddam Hussein doesn't back down soon, a show of force might be necessary.

But I don't think it will come to that. After fighting Iran to a draw for seven years, Iraq certainly isn't ready to take on the rest of the world so soon.

Shortly after the turn of the century, there was an ice cream factory on Round Lake owned by W. L. Johnson, who was credited with originating "Velvet Ice Cream" and inventing the slogan, "Charlevoix the Beautiful."

The year 1869 was especially important in Charlevoix history. That was the year Charlevoix County was organized and the village of Charlevoix became the county seat. It was also the year the Charlevoix Sentinel printed its first issue. And, finally, it was the year the widening and deepening of the Pine River Channel was begun. This widening and deepening made it possible for large boats to enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

Pat and John Gaslin enjoyed the fun at the Crooked Tree Arts Council's 11th Annual Auction for the Arts. The auction, which took place at the Barn at Dunmaglas, netted the Arts Council approximately $22,000.

The average World War II veteran is over 70, the average Korean veteran is nearing 60, and the average Vietnam veteran is 40.

Lignell - Wade

Katherine Lignell and Robert Wade exchanged marriage vows Saturday afternoon, July 14, at the First Congregational Church of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Ray Giffin officiated at the double-ring rites before approximately 170 guests.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. John Lignell and Sally Berlage, both of Charlevoix, and the bridegroom is the son of Robert Wade of Livonia and Dee Wade of Miami Springs, Florida.

White wicker baskets filled with peach and white summer flowers decorated the sanctuary for the occasion.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore her mother's gown of ivory taffeta by Bianchi. It was fashioned with bell-shaped skirt, fitted bodice which fell into a chapel-length train, and scoop neckline encrusted with crystal and pearls which held the fingertip silk illusion veil in place.

Kristen Lignell served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Cindi Bauers, Susan McGovern, Joan Murphy, Debra Wade, and Wendy Williams. They wore pale peach Jessica McKintock tea-length dresses, with dropped waist and trimmed with ivory lace.

Robert Grow served as best man, and Sean Dunn, Tim Hansen, Steve Hadaway, Matthew Lignell, and William Robbins were groomsmen; Jeff Burt and Mark Lignell assisted as ushers.

Athelyn Buttrill, aunt of the bridegroom, provided organ music for the ceremony, and Robert, Eric, and Donald Stromberg, cousins of the bride, offered vocal renditions. A dinner-dance reception at Stafford's Bay View Inn, hosted by the bride's parents, followed the wedding. The rehearsal dinner was held at the bride's home, hosted by the bridegroom's parents.

Following a wedding trip to Puerto Veestra, Mexico, the newlyweds are at home in Chicago. The bride teaches second-grade students and the bridegroom is employed in the wine industry. (Photography by Aartvark Studio).

Gallagher recalls fish and ice

by GEOFFREY REYNOLDS

Originally hailing from Beaver Island, James W. Gallagher has endured starting his own business amidst the Great Depression, the end of the commercial fishing industry and the second logging of Beaver Island.

"I was born on Beaver Island in a house close to St. James Harbor that still stands today. This was about 1908. Then my family moved to a house alongside the Shamrock Bar. In 1918 or 1919 we moved down near the light plant. A man by the name of Bill Stevens from Manistee built it. He owned the Beaver Island Lumber Co. that logged the island the first time by train.

"As a boy of ten or eleven I used to help my father pack fish for Booth fisheries near the present day mail dock. Then along in the mid-1920's they bought the property north of the present ferry dock. I also started delivering ice to the islanders. I bought out the Booth property and rebuilt the ice house and dock with a little help from a local Indian and my father pitched in. After that I would gather the ice for free out in the harbor and store it for the summer months. I stored it in 400-pound cakes, then chipped it into smaller pieces. I sold my ice to some of the islanders and the resorters that didn't have electric ice boxes. I sold it for fifteen cents a cake regardless if it was fifty or a hundred pounds. It kept the milk from souring and the butter from running.

"After selling ice and helping my father, I learned the fish packing and selling business, so I bought out Booths in the early 1930's. I was about nineteen years old at the time. My father helped me once in a while, but it was mostly me running the dock. Then I got innovative and started giving the fishermen their pay checks the same day they sold to me, instead of waiting seven to ten days for the check to come from Chicago. Also at nine o'clock every day I would go to my mother's house to get the price quotes from Chicago over the telephone. She had the only phone on the island at that time and I needed to be in contact with my buyers.

"I about 1948 or 1949 I started to log timber on Beaver Island because the fish had gone out. I had been buying timber land when I was running the fish business so I was ready to start cutting timber if I had to. I had three or four men with families working for me so that they could have a job. They cut for ten years with about one hundred and ten thousand feet of logs cut each year. I hauled the logs down to my uncle's lumber mill to be cut into lumber. Then I had the men haul the cut lumber down to my grandfather's dock that I had rebuilt. There the lumber boats picked up the lumber and shipped it away. Some of the lumber boats were the White Swan, the Mackinac Islander, and a three engine landing barge that Uncle Sam used during World War Two."

CHURCH

Michael Rosenthal

Michael Ross Griggs Rosenthal, 4, of Boyne Falls, died July 29, 1990, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Funeral was 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Robert Holmes of the Petoskey Assembly of God Church officiated. Burial was in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

Michael was born Aug. 11, 1985, in Petoskey, the son of Klaus Rosenthal and Erna Griggs.

He enjoyed baseball games and attending county fairs.

Survivors include his father, Klaus Rosenthal of Petoskey; his mother, Erna E. Griggs of Boyne Falls; two half sisters, Linda and Lisa Rosenthal of Petoskey; his paternal grandfather, David Rosenthal of Morehead, Ky. and maternal grandmother, Erna Cilke of Boyne Falls.

The family suggests memorials to the American Cancer Society. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

Ardis L. Pelton

Ardis Lewis Pelton of Mount Pleasant, Mich. died Tuesday, July 31 at her home. A scripture service in her memory was held at St. Henry's Catholic Church in Rosebush, Mich. on Sunday, August 5, 1990, the Rev. Father Ron Wagner officiating. Mrs. Pelton's body was donated to science.

She was preceded in death by her first husband and a brother. She is survived by her husband, Paul Pelton, 4 sons, 4 daughters, 15 grandchildren, 2 great grandchildren, 3 step grandchildren, and 4 sisters, including Mrs. Howard (Rosemary) Horton of Charlevoix, and 22 nieces and nephews.

In lieu of flowers, Mrs. Pelton had asked that any memorial contributions be made to St. Henry's Catholic School in Rosebush.

Church hosts social

The First Presbyterian Church of East Jordan will host a desert fasting social from 2 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. Aug. 16. Proceeds will go to the church's medical missions program.

The price of admission is $3.50 for adults and $2 for children younger than 12. The adult price includes a cook book.

Those attending the social are asked to bring a good appetite. For additional information, phone 536-2437.

We really do get too caught up in the "busy-ness" of life and don't realize that the real business revolves around living and encouraging our families. Right now is prime family time. When school starts and the fall routine gets into place, it will be difficult to get that time set aside.

Your kids might surprise you. They might not know how to say so, but they need your love and care just as much as you need them. They may be growing up but they will never outgrow you.

When most people think of the Psalms, they think of David. Psalm 90 was written by Moses. He was very much a family man, a man whose time was nearly consumed by "busy-ness." In verse 12, he has penned, "Teach us to number our days aright, that we may gain a heart of wisdom."

If he could address you on the subject of a parent's time with his children, I have little doubt that he would tell you about all the time even his important work took him away from his family. I suspect he would very quickly say don't be so busy that your children grow not just up, but away.

Time is passing even as you are reading this. Don't let a moment that you can share your love, your laughter, your self with those you truly care for slip away.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

REV. BRUCE HAMILTON

Our church family has just begun a video series with Dr. James Dobson called "Turn Your Heart Toward Home." In it, he spoke about hearing the door to childhood gently close in his daughter's life.

I think I got a taste of what he was talking about. You see, we sent our daughter on a plane to Florida to see her grandmother last week. She is only 12 so we had to fill out permission papers for her to travel alone. Yet when we got her to the gate, she had money she had earned from her paper route. She had her ticket. It was not my little girl. It was my young lady who was ready to go.

She made the flight just fine. She got to her grandma's and was going to the beach, the mall, and all the other places a big city offers. She is feeling her independence, but she also knows where to turn to for love. She has called several times for advice. We've called several times just to check.

Have you ever considered just how precious and how short the time with our children really is? I guess I never understood why my parents did some of the things that they did for us as a kid. I am a whole lot wiser now that we are talking about my own children.

Crooked Tree seeks more members

The Crooked Tree Arts Council, which operates the McCune Art Center and a model arts program in Emmet and Charlevoix County, is conducting a new member drive as part of observance of its 20th Anniversary.

"At this point the organization is looking back, but also looking ahead," CTAC President Judy Landis of Harbor Springs says. "We are recalling some of the accomplishments of the past, but also giving emphasis to the need for new members to broaden our base of support and looking forward to future goals."

CTAC which has 1,600 members, had only seven people attend its first organizing meeting on a cold, wintry night in January of 1971 at the Petoskey library.

During the current year the organization offers an arts program that surpasses any other Michigan city of similar size. The program includes:

- Twelve exhibitions mounted in the McCune gallery annually for the public.
- A community school of the arts with an enrollment this year of over 1,000 students for classes in visual arts, dance, theatre and music with professional instruction and modest tuition fees.
- Fifty dramatic productions and live concerts featuring professional and amateur artists on the stage at McCune Center or other locations in both Emmet and Charlevoix Counties.

Church presents concert

Set Aflame, a music ministry group from North Central Bible College will perform at 6 p.m. Aug. 12 at the Assembly of God Church.

The group is composed of five students from the college. Set Aflame features vocal harmonies accompanied by a live band.

Members of the public are welcome to attend the concert.

Hufford returns home to practice optometry

Dr. Steven Hufford, optometrist, has joined Dr. Robert Anderson's Charlevoix practice. Hufford is, by no means, a stranger to Charlevoix. He is the son of Walt and Anna Hufford and graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1978.

Hufford graduated from Michigan State University in 1983 with a Bachelor of Science degree in physiology. He rowed for four years on the MSU rowing team and following graduation spent a year rowing for the United States Rowing team.

Hufford entered the Illinois College of Optometry (ICO) in 1984. ICO is also Anderson's alma mater. While at ICO, Hufford did two externships: one at the V.A. Hospital at the Great Lakes Naval Base, and a second at Little City, a community of mentally and physically handicapped children and adults. Hufford was selected by his classmates to give the student address at their commencement ceremony.

Hufford and his wife Debbie have been living and working in the Detroit area for the past two years. In forming the partnership, Anderson and Hufford will be offering Saturday office hours for the convenience of their customers.

Central Drug Store purchases Dockside

John and Lani Ochs, owners of Central Drug Store, have purchased Dockside Pharmacy. They intend to move the stock from the business to a new drug store in the Charlevoix Commons shopping complex on M-66.

The new pharmacy will be called Charlevoix Commons Apothecary. Dockside Pharmacy's Jim Williams will stay with the business to ease the transition.

John Ochs said the new pharmacy will be in a building being constructed next to the K-Mart store. The building will also house a grocery store.

Ochs said Dockside Pharmacy will stay where it is for a little while with the move occurring after Labor Day, sometime early in the autumn.

The new store will be similar to Central Drug Store in that it will be a traditional drug store emphasizing personal service. More space in the new store will allow it to carry an extensive line of cards and gifts.

CROP group meets

An evening of CROP information and slides about what CROP/Church World Service is doing will begin at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 15, at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church.

Joanna Balzer, Michigan Assistant Director of CROP

CWS, will be the speaker and will show slides of her visit to Peru following an earthquake there.

The program is sponsored by the Charlevoix County Ministerial Association. Anyone interested in CROP/CWS relief activities is welcome to attend.

H&R Block Offers Income Tax Course in Charlevoix

Thousands of people learn how to prepare income tax returns from H&R Block and then earn money as income tax preparers. H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, offers its Income Tax Course starting September 10th. Morning, afternoon, evening, and weekend classes are available.

Experienced instructors teach tax law, theory, and application. Classroom discussion and practice problems provide students with a thorough understanding of each tax topic included in the course. Students learn how to handle increasingly complex income tax situations as the course progresses.

Ideal for people who want to increase their tax knowledge, the course teaches students how to save money on their taxes and also prepares them for a rewarding career.

The affordable fee includes textbooks and supplies. Graduates receive Certificates of Achievement and continuing education units (CEUs). Qualified graduates of the course may be offered job interviews with H&R Block but are under no obligation to accept employment.

Those interested in more information about the H&R Block Income Tax Course may contact the H&R Block office in Charlevoix—call (616) 547-6660.

... Grandvue celebrates 100 years

times that the first two inmates were a 16-year-old boy diagnosed as an alcoholic and a 10-year-old girl. Then came elderly men and women, many of whom had been "tossed out" by their families; families of orphan children (ten children of one family); men and women of all ages who could not cope with the outside world; alcoholics who needed a place to "dry out" for a few days; transients looking for a better life in the north; and even permanent county residents who spent winters at the Poor Farm because their own homes were not built well enough to withstand the cold.

These were the people who lived and worked on the Poor Farm—500 of them, from 1890 until 1949. It was a real working farm, supplying much of the food used on the tables. There were cows for milk and meat, pigs, chickens, and probably sheep and rabbits.

There were horses and farm equipment to work the fields and harvest the crops. There were potato patches, vegetable gardens, and fruit trees to add to the food supply.

Through the years, the needs of Charlevoix County residents changed, and so did the Poor Farm. In 1949, an infirmary, complete with x-ray equipment, was added to the building, and Hilda Hartlip was hired as supervisor. In the next eight years, 166 x-ray pictures were taken and 75 children were born there. Many of these children have grown up and attended school in the area and remain in the county today.

By 1951, the Poor Farm concept had been eliminated by new welfare laws, and the Charlevoix County Poor Farm became known as "Grandvue Hospital." (The story is that a County Supervisor looked out a window toward the rolling hills and exclaimed, "What a grand view".)

The original Poor Farm building was 66 years old in 1956 when it was declared a fire hazard. It was also overcrowded and badly in need of repair. At this point, a campaign for a new building was begun, and two years later, on October 29, 1958, the first patient was moved from the old Grandvue Hospital to the new Grandvue Medical Care Facility, just a few feet down the road.

The patients (they were no longer called "inmates") of Grandvue Medical Care Facility increased in number, and in 1968, the North Wing, with 12 beds was added. Then, in 1980, the Residential Care Unit, with 27 beds for those not needing constant medical care, was added, bringing the total number of beds to 100.

These are the facts and figures of the growth of Grandvue, but they are only part of the story. Today, a staff of about 100 people provides professional nursing care, diversional therapy, physical therapy, restorative care, therapeutic diets, religious services, craft sessions, parties, games, exercise sessions, and a newspaper in a quiet, caring atmosphere.

They also do the facility laundry in modern laundry quarters, cook all the patients' meals, using fresh fruits and vegetables whenever possible; keep the surroundings clean and fresh-smelling; provide professional upkeep of mechanical equipment; and take care of the landscaped grounds.

Grandvue employees like their jobs well enough to serve for long periods of time. Five of them have been there for more than 20 years—Kay Peck, 41 years; Mary Ann Sutliff, 29 years; Helen Deming, 22 years; Lynn Carson, 21 years; and Elizabeth McDermott, 20 years. Many more have been on the job for more than 10 years.

Since 1949, when Hilda Hartlip (Watkins) supervised the original Poor Farm, there have been only three supervisors of the care facility. Watkins remained on the job for 28 years, retiring in 1977 and replaced by Ron Conkle. He resigned in 1987 when he and the Social Services Board could not agree on financial matters. Regina Shafer then took over the supervisor's job and remains in that capacity.

...Grandvue reaches 100

There have also been only three medical doctors on the Grandvue Staff. The late Dr. VanDellen and Savory served until their deaths. Dr. Robert Martin of Charlevoix is presently on the staff on a medical consultant.

The supervisor works under the direction of the Social Services Board, presently made up of Richard Tilden, director of the Charlevoix County Department of Social Services; Condit Drury of Charlevoix; Eileen Rouse of Boyne City; and Jane Mayhew of East Jordan.

At last count, there were 73 patients in the medical care unit of Grandvue, five men and 68 women. The average age of the women was 82 and the average age of the men was 79. Since Grandvue Medical Care Facility opened in 1958, 1,879 patients have been admitted. The state requires medical care facilities to accept eligible patients aged 15 and older, and although Grandvue has had several young patients from time to time, there are no young ones there now. Presently, the waiting period to enter Grandvue is about four months. Out-of-county applicants are accepted only if no county residents are on the list.

Two years ago, Charlevoix County residents voted three-quarters of a mill to help operate Grandvue, and a renewal of this millage will probably be on the November General Election ballot. Other sources of Grandvue revenue are Medicaid, Medicare, and personal payments.

A loyal group of almost 75 women in the Grandvue Auxiliary serve the facility and its patients in many ways. They visit with patients, take them for rides, write letters, "do" their hair, bring treats, help with crafts and sewing, and raise money with which to buy needed items.

Through the years, these items have included special tables and chairs for the dining room, rocking chairs, whirlpool baths, beauty shop equipment, patio furniture, fencing, shrubbery, a shower gurney, and decorations for the guest area.

Most of the money is raised by tag days; the most recent one netted more than $2,200. The Grandvue Auxiliary welcomes new members. The group meets the second Thursday afternoon of each month at the facility. Ruby Van Alstine of Boyne City is president of the auxiliary and Mary Margaret Gelken of Charlevoix is membership chairman.

In 1975 Hilda Hartlip Watkins made a statement that is as meaningful today as it was then: "If those placing relatives or friends in Grandvue were better acquainted with our facility, they would not have feelings of sorrow and guilt, as some do."

It takes a visit to Grandvue of only a few minutes to see and feel the warmth and caring attitude of those entrusted with our loved ones. This Sunday would be a good time to make that visit.

This group of Ellsworth children who sing "for the fun of it" entertain Grandvue patients with patriotic music.

Open house features fashion show

The public is invited to an Open House at Grandvue Medical Care Facility Saturday, August 12, from 2 to 5 p.m. to celebrate the facility's 100th anniversary.

The afternoon will begin with a hymn-sing and short church service in the gazebo area at the southwest corner of the facility, followed by barbeque entertainment by the Chord Wouda's.

A vintage fashion show will begin at 1 p.m., followed by horse and wagon rides furnished by Mere Friley and Springbrook Hills Resort. Inside the Grandvue building there will be a display of historical memorabilia and information about the facility.

Members of the Grandvue Auxiliary are hosting the Open House and suggest that visitors who can do so, wear turn-of-the-century type clothing or clothing representative of the era up to 1960.

Sailors race Saturday

A sailboat race in memory of James Duke will take place Saturday, Aug. 11. The course for the Duke Memorial Race will be a single leg from Charlevoix to Northport. The race will begin at 10 a.m. off of the Medusa Cement Company. For additional information, phone 547-5333.

Local Little League wraps up season

The Charlevoix Little League baseball program recently completed their 1990 season. League officials report that with help and donations from several people and businesses, the season was successful and the number of players in the league continues to grow.

Charlevoix's Little League program encompasses players from ages eight to 15.

Eight and nine-year-olds begin in the Minor League using a pitching machine to get used to hitting a ball without fear of the ball hitting them.

Ten, 11 and 12-year-olds play in the Major League and face live pitching. This year's Major League produced several outstanding players. A team of Charlevoix Major League all-stars won the Area 4 championship and advanced to the District semi-finals in Cheboygan. The program is expected to grow next year as 30 of this year's Minor League players will be eligible to advance to Major League.

Thirteen to 15-year-olds play in the Senior League. This year there was only one Charlevoix Senior League team. The team played home games at the field by the Sheriff's Department and traveled to play teams from other communities.

Local man and son join in Northern Michigan boat race

Two people from Charlevoix will play an integral part in this weekend's Top of Michigan Marathon National Championships power boat races in Indian River. Don Voisin is serving as race chairman, while his son Vincent Voisin will be racing.

The elder Voisin dominated the race between 1968 and 1982, at one time winning 10 consecutive races. He won't be racing this year, but will be cheering for his son who is hoping to follow in his father's footsteps, or perhaps wake might be a better term. Vincent recently teamed up with 15-year-old Garrett Armstrong of Chenaque, Wisconsin to win the 18 and under division of a one-hour enduro at the Short Course Nationals in Wakefield, Michigan.

The Indian River Race began 40 years ago. Racers from across the country will participate in two days of racing Saturday and Sunday. Racers will be in small run-about powerboats propelled by 15 to 40 horse power outboard motors. The smaller boats average about 45 miles per hour and the larger boats average about 55 miles per hour.

All races begin and end at DeVos Park in Indian River. Saturday, the racers will race from Indian River to Cheboygan and back a distance of approximately 40 miles. Sunday, the racers will start in Indian River, race around Crooked Lake, go back through Indian River to Mullett Lake and then finish in Indian River a distance of about 43 miles.

Vincent Voisin (left) of Charlevoix and Garrett Armstrong of Wisconsin recently won the 18 and under division of a one-hour enduro powerboat race in Wakefield, Michigan. They finished third overall.

Yachting Notes

Too many races to report on this week so let's get started. Regular Wednesday night races:

Fleet A: Gotcha, Apprentice, Flash, Pygmalion, Slapshot, Mint Julep.

Fleet B: Mi-Joy, Blasen III, Foxy Lady, Sandpiper, Cabaret, Cygnus, Tireless, Original Sin, Lost Vermonter, Polestar.

Fleet C: Sunkist, Bandit, Newsense, Moisture, Sizzle, Allons-Y, Con-Fusion, M.J.P. Mud Duck.

Jam Fleet: Spirit, Our Thyme II, Art Attack, Stalworth, Cheemaun, Maureen, Canusa, Apothecary.

Weekend Racing - CYC Ladies Race (two people on board).

First place went to Commodore Pirie and his super crew, 8-year-old Steve Pirie. Next was Cabaret, Slapshot, Warmwinds, Chimera, Our Thyme II.

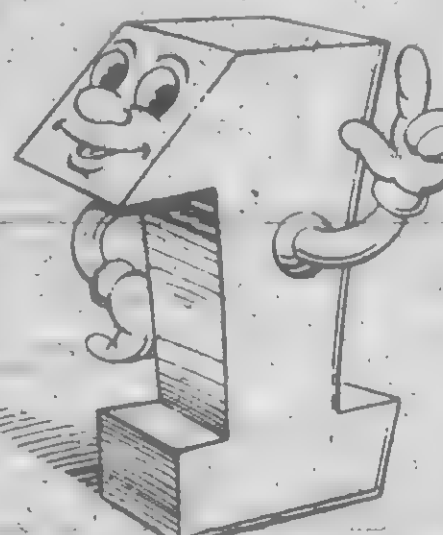

Over the last weekend several Charlevoix boats went to Harbor Springs to race in the Little T. Invitational. The mouse does not have any of the results. From what I hear it's a good thing. The boats that participated were: Gotcha, Slapshot, Newsense, Sunkist and Pygmalion.

That's all from the poop deck.

Assault investigated

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is investigating an assault which occurred at 3:30 a.m. July 4 just outside of the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

As a nurse at the hospital stepped outside a hospital door, an unknown white male grabbed her. The nurse called to another nurse for help and the man fled. The nurse was bruised in the altercation.

Sheriff George Lasater said the incident remains under investigation.

32nd annual Waterfront Artfair Saturday

Artists from across the country will gather in Charlevoix for the 32nd year, at the annual Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair, Saturday, August 11.

One of the premiere showings of contemporary fine art in the Midwest, Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair is a highly competitive, juried fine arts show. This year the works of some 110 artists will be displayed in the park facing Round Lake Yacht Harbor.

Among area artists accepted this year are: Petoskey oil painter, Ron Christenson; Petoskey photographer Luciano Duse; Charlevoix photographer Terry Salmonson; East Jordan fiber artist and print maker Lori Bolt; East Jordan jeweler Linda Beers Aydlott; Charlevoix potter, Barb Godwin; Charlevoix copper enamel sculptor, Norman Brumm; Charlevoix watercolorist Cara Hochhalter; Charlevoix ceramicist Jo Moffitt; and Charlevoix painters, printmakers and painters Russell and Sue Bolt.

The Charlevoix art fair has evolved from an informal gathering of artists and craftsmen into a nationally known fine arts show.

Conceived as a way of bringing fine art north, before there were galleries and studios here, this art fair is credited with spawning the many arts councils of the area, as well as serving as a magnet drawing numerous artists to move north and open studios.

"The jurying is tough," reports committee member Suzi Reis, a former gallery owner. "We really could accept many more wonderful artists, but we want a fair that is not only a great collection of artists but a pleasure for visitors. Thus we must keep the size manageable."

"A lot of collectors and gallery owners don't finalize their major acquisitions until the Charlevoix show," Reis reveals.

"One of the keys to this fair is that we have nurtured a core group of invited artists. We consider these artists the glue which holds the fair together," Reis revealed. Invited artists have generally shown at Charlevoix over a period of years and have a following of their own, Reis explained.

"People know that when they come to Charlevoix it's going to be a dynamite art fair," she continues.

Studying this year's stack of brochures and resumes, Reis pointed out several who represent the "diversity and excellence of the show."

Glass blower John Byron, of Sauter, Georgia has been called "one of the 14 top glass blowers in the United States," for his work with etched and merged colors.

Pennsylvania photographer

Bill Coleman is known for his sensitive studies of Amish life. Coleman spent years gaining the trust and acceptance of the Amish communities in Pennsylvania.

Georgian teacher of graphics, Win Crannell hand pulls fine etchings and prints.

An unprecedented number of nationally recognized watercolorists gather at the Charlevoix art fair. Californian Pat Eberline, who had been a regular at Charlevoix, but who had not been able to show last year because of the great distance, told the art fair committee, "she couldn't stand not being in Charlevoix. So she is returning," Reis said.

Randall Higdon, of Coloma, Michigan, is considered one of the foremost watercolorists in the United States. Dee Knott of Flushing, Michigan, has been compared to Andrew Wyeth for her drawing ability but described as "painting with a flurry of bravura brushstrokes unlike the dry precision of Wyeth."

Charlevoix's show is an eclectic montage of fine art. Uganda-born printmaker Mathias Muleme, now of Windsor, Ontario, celebrates "mother and child," in his work. Michigan sculptor David McCarthy's work reflects a strong Native American influence. Dayton, Ohio, paper artist Corine Workmaster's delicate white on white and soft pastel intricate cut paper scenes are framed bas-reliefs of early American architectural designs. John Jay Trafford, of South Lyon, Michigan, also works in relief, building wood on wood fully rigged boat portraits. Terri Haugen of Benzonia works in Batik. And, Luke Buck wanders the United States painting watercolors which reflect regional diversity.

The show officially opens at 10 a.m. Saturday, August 11.

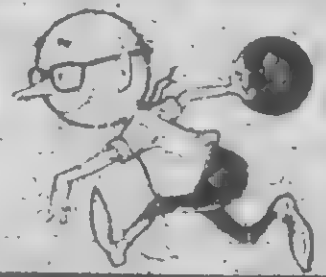

LAKE VIEW

Nearly new salt-bath home in beautiful setting with upper and lower decks to enjoy the lake view. Launch your boat across the street and moor it in the protective cove. Adjoining 10 acres of state land. A great way of having the advantages of Lake Charlevoix without the cost. Call Jack Beatty, 547-4444.

Festival exhibitors enjoy the business of art

As Deanna Kostyshyn gently shapes a set of cups at the pottery wheel, her husband Steve stands beside a table a few feet away forming and attaching handles to the sides of pots.

The Kostyshyns say that in some ways their studio can be compared to a hardware store or a gas station. Standing in the midst of beautiful porcelain vases, jewelry and swan-shaped bells, a visitor to the studio initially finds that comparison surprising. Additional explanation brings it into focus.

The Kostyshyns are professional artists. Simply stated they make their livelihood through their art. Art is their business and they recognize that a business, in order to succeed, must operate in a business-like manner.

"This really is a business. It operates like a hardware store or a gas station," Steve explains.

Steve is from New Jersey and Deanna is from downstate Michigan. They met as students at Adrian College. This Saturday and Sunday their work will appear in the Art Festival at Castle Farms.

Prior to opening their own studio next to their home on Ferry Road, the Kostyshyns worked with area artists Todd Warner and Norman Brumm. Working with those artists gave the Kostyshyns an opportunity not only to develop and expand their artistic talents, but also to pick up some of the business knowledge necessary to be successful artists.

While working for other artists, the Kostyshyns began laying the groundwork for their own business. That meant that their day didn't finish when they left their place of employment. After working with clay all day, they came home and faced more of the same in the evening.

Steve says that wasn't easy. It took a lot of "drive." In order to succeed he and his wife had to have "a strong, strong desire" to want to have their own studio.

"We wanted to do this for a living," he explains. "We knew where we wanted to live. We knew how we wanted to live."

Some people might think that the life of a professional artist consists of casual days in the studio dabbling on projects and turning out a work here and a work there, but that's not the case.

An artist, like any other small businessman, finds himself wearing several hats. Sitting at the pottery wheel is only one job among many for the Kostyshyns. When they're producing porcelain pottery and jewelry, they're artists. But before they can make something, they have to design it. Then they're designers. When work needs to be done on one of the electric kilns, they become electricians. When talking on the phone to clients, they're sales people. When a ton of fresh clay arrives, the same hands that form the pottery unload and stack heavy boxes.

The Kostyshyns have sold their work at several shows over the years, but are now selling more things wholesale to galleries and shops across the country.

"Wholesale is a more consistent market," Steve explains.

The Castle Farms show appeals to the Kostyshyns because it's local and a lot of the hassle and expense of traveling can be avoided. There is also a good clientele of art buyers in northern Michigan. Shows also offer an artist exposure which leads to sales following the show.

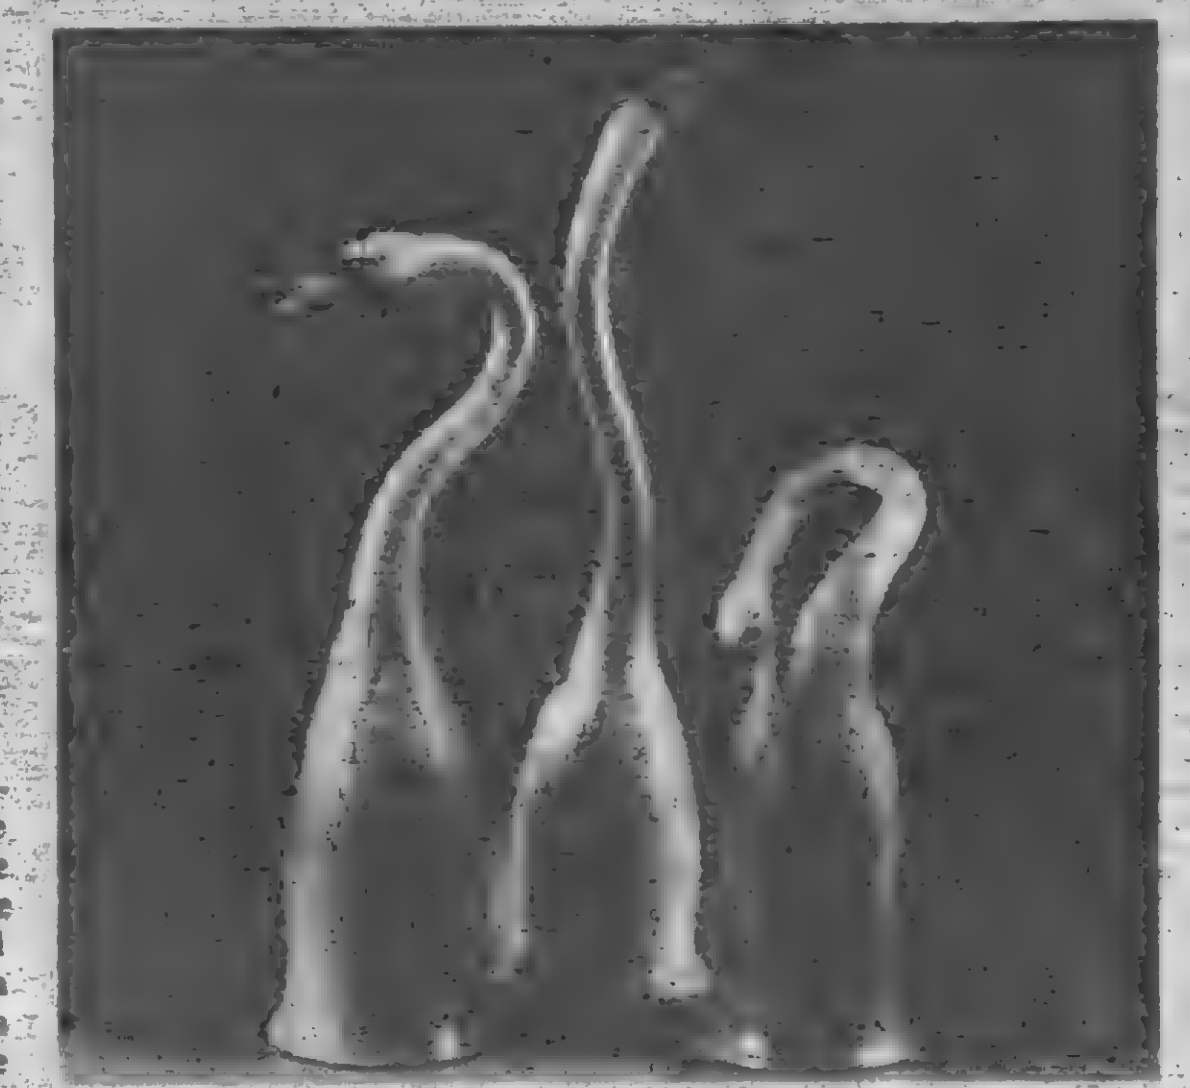

Steve was one of four artists who juried (selected the artists who will exhibit in) the show. Artists desiring to be in the show submitted slides of their work. The jury reviewed the slides without knowing which artist submitted them. Each entry was scored and the top-scoring artists were selected for the show.

Approximately 110 artists will be exhibiting at Castle Farms. Kostyshyn said there will be a nice selection of art work and a lot of fresh, new faces among the artists.

A shuttle bus will pick up people behind Central Drug Store downtown and take people to Castle Farms on M-66.

For those wishing to make the drive themselves, free parking will be available. Refreshments and entertainment will also be offered in conjunction with the festival.

Porcelain swan bells are among the works of Steve and Deanna Kostyshyn. The Kostyshyns work out of a studio next to their home. They sell much of their work through galleries and wholesale markets, but will be participating in this weekend's Castle Farms Art Festival.

Artist blends career and family

While porcelain art isn't something you'd want to juggle, Barbara Godwin, an artist who works in porcelain, successfully juggles her artistic career and family life.

Godwin operates a studio at the corner of Antrim and Grant streets with the cooperation and assistance of her husband Dave Chulick and their children Emily, 7, and Samuel, 4.

Godwin's work will be displayed at this weekend's Waterfront Art Fair. Godwin has displayed her work in the art fair for the past 10 years.

Charlevoix became Godwin's home in 1976 when she moved here to apprentice with Bonnie Staffel. In 1980, Godwin opened her own studio.

"It's a real balancing act," Godwin says of being a wife, mom and artist. She says it requires "a real go-with-the-flow lifestyle."

Her husband has his own business painting signs. Although he often lends a hand, he prefers to keep a low profile in the studio.

During the school year, the children are often around the studio when they aren't in school. Godwin says that being around an art studio is something the kids just take for granted.

Seven-year-old Emily has even fashioned some pots of her own and has them for sale.

She also answers customers' questions about the various pieces on display.

In past years, Godwin concentrated on the form of her porcelain work and left them without color. In recent years she's been drawing and painting on her porcelain works.

Godwin says the subjects of her work are things "near and dear" to her heart. She started doing sets of tableware featuring babies shortly after her own children were born. She also did what she refers to as "a pregnant series" with a lady waiting for the baby to be born.

Godwin's style is distinctive. Although her subjects are often serious and project a sense of warmth, they're also upbeat and there's a certain sense of humor evident.

"I have kind of a cartoon style," she explains. "I like to make people smile."

Shows such as the Waterfront Art Fair provide artists like Godwin with a chance to get direct feedback from the public. Godwin says that during the winter she doesn't get that kind of feedback and she misses it.

Producing the artwork and packaging it for the Art Fair is a challenge. Godwin says she doesn't enjoy the pre Art Fair pressure, but adds, "When I'm there and talking to people, then I get into it."

School debates state program

Is the state good for the money to buy three computers for Charlevoix's school system? That's the $8,001 question Charlevoix board of education members grappled with at a special meeting which took place at noon Monday in the school business office.

A program called "Classrooms of Tomorrow" which is being pushed by Governor James Blanchard is at the center of the debate. Blanchard proposed the program several months ago. He wants the state to purchase 10,000 computers for schools throughout the state. But during the process of developing the state budget, legislators voted not to fund the program. Blanchard subsequently used a line item veto to put the program back into the budget.

Two state senators, Dan DeGrow and Harry Gast, have filed a legal challenge against that veto. They maintain that the governor can use a veto to decrease state expenditures, but not to increase them. That legal challenge will be heard in court later this month.

The wrinkle for the Charlevoix school board is that in order to participate in the program, they have to vote to accept the grant before the legal challenge is heard. Not only that, but the grant is on a reimbursement basis. In other words, Charlevoix's school system would have to borrow the money to pay for the computers and depending on what happens in the courts and in Lansing, the state may or may not pay the school for the computers.

"This is a gamble that could go either way," board member Doris Pearl said. She added that based on Lansing's prior record, she's not particularly confident that the state will come through with the money.

"I'm bothered by the risk," board member Larry Levengood said. "I'm bothered by the whole approach."

When the state announced the program, 24 teachers in the Charlevoix school system applied for grants. The state approved three of the 24 applications. The three approved applications are for a total of $8,001.

Board member Scott Beatty didn't object to the three applications approved, but questioned why the state approved those particular three.

"It bothers me to have the state determining our local priorities," Beatty said.

After discussing the matter, the board voted unanimously to approve a resolution to participate in the program, but stipulated that the approval not be forwarded to Lansing until questions regarding the program are resolved.

Boss fills vacancy

The Charlevoix school board has named former board member Ken Boss to fill out the term of Janet Rathke. Rathke resigned from the board Aug. 6 because she was taking a new job which required her to move out of the area.

The board took the action in a special meeting at noon Monday at the school's central office on Clinton Street. Boss will serve the remainder of Rathke's term which expires in June of next year.

This is the second time Boss has served the remainder of a term. He served this past winter and spring following the death of board vice president Bob Drenth. Boss had been elected and served several terms on the board prior to 1989.

Ten-year-old Kristin Hammerberg will be taking half the farm to the Emmet County Fair, Aug. 18-28. Although the fair is called the Emmet County Fair, many of the exhibitors are from Charlevoix County. Kristin is an active 4-H member and her mother, Rose, is a 4-H leader.

Exhibitors prepare for fair

Ten-year-old Kristin Hammerberg plans to haul half the farm to this year's fair. She's entering her pony, her goat, some chickens, a pregnant guinea pig, a hamster or two and some other odds and ends.

Although the fair, in Petoskey, scheduled for Aug. 18 through 26, is named the Emmet County Fair, Hammerberg and several other members of Charlevoix County 4-H groups will participate in the fair.

According to Charlevoix County 4-H director Todd Kesner, about 60 percent of the 4-H livestock and craft entries will be the work of Charlevoix County young people.

"We're talking somewhere around 200 or more," Kesner replied when asked how many Charlevoix 4-H members will be participating in the fair.

Kristin's mother, Rose, is her 4-H leader. Rose said she was a 4-H leader several years ago before she had Kristin and then got out of it for awhile. When Kristin became interested, Rose became a leader again. There are seven members in Rose's 4-H group.

Kristin plans to spend most of the week at the fair. Between exhibiting her animals and projects, she will help clean the barns and monitor the animals and visit with the other exhibitors.

This is Kristin's second trip to the fair. She took her pony last year.

"I'm taking more animals this year," she said. "Next year I want to take a lamb."

Kristin has been working with all of her animals and getting ready to exhibit them. Under Rose's direction, Kristin and the other members of the 4-H group have spent a lot of time working on horsemanship.

There are several different divisions 4-H members may enter their animals in. One of the divisions Kristin will have her pony, Tammy, entered in is called "Fitting and Showing."

Judges will look at how well Kristin presents the pony, how well the pony is groomed and how well Kristin and Tammy work together. It will be important for Tammy to lead well and respond obediently.

Of all the animals she will be showing, Kristin deems Tammy to be her favorite. She began riding the pony by herself when she was three years old.

Rose and Tammy's father Bob also speak highly of Tammy. Bob says the pony is as gentle as a lamb and that he wouldn't have a horse around that bit or kicked.

"She's just one of those ponies that's worth her weight in gold," Rose remarked.

Asked if she gets nervous before showing the pony, Kristin said, "No, not that much. It gets to be a lot of fun."

Rose said she tells her 4-H group members to "just do you own very best" and "have a

Charlevoix hosts a weekend of art

Just as it has for several years, the 1990 Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair drew thousands of art lovers to Charlevoix.

Greg Seaman, a recent graduate of Charlevoix High School, won the 1990 Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair scholarship. Seaman displayed his work at the Art Fair and will be leaving for college in a few weeks.

People attending the first Castle Farms Art Festival enjoyed wine tasting and the entertainment of mimes in the castle courtyard.

Colleen Murphy DeSantis worked on a new painting while exhibiting several of her other works at the Castle Farms Art Festival.

Letters to the Editor:

Waste needs regulation

Editor:

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has voted to declare one-third of radioactive waste "Below Regulatory Concern" (BRC) so that the problem of disposing of radioactive waste from power plants and weapons factories can be partially solved by putting the waste in with ordinary garbage such as coffee grounds and banana peels.

Although it is characterized as "Below Regulatory Concern," such radioactive waste is still capable of causing cancers and birth defects.

Radioactive waste can and will leak into ground water, soil and air and wind up in our food chain. It could be recycled through the normal waste stream and become part of such things as cooking utensils and toys.

The NRC should be tightening exposure levels instead of loosening them.

The Biologic Effects of Ionizing Radiation Committee of the National Academy of Science has just released a report showing radiation produces 3 to 14 times more cancer than was originally thought.

The standards proposed by the NRC for this BRC waste could cause 4,000 extra cancer deaths in the people now living in Michigan and 100,000 nationally.

Michigan must act quickly to keep "Below Regulatory Concern" radioactive waste from entering the landfills and waterways of this State.

Contact your state representatives. Also, demand that your congressional representative investigate the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

When the NRC allows 50 times more radiation than the EPA feels is safe, they are not doing their job of protecting us. The NRC must not have the right to kill potentially thousands of Americans simply to save the nuclear industry some money.

Sincerely,
Don't Waste Michigan

Charle-facts

The first church in the Charlevoix area was built sometime before 1839 on a hill near Susan Lake, not far from the tribal council grounds that for generations had been the gathering place for Indian chiefs from as far away as L'Arbre Croche, Old Mission, and Michilmackinac.

When Peter Greensky arrived in 1839 to take over as minister of the church, he found a dirt-floored structure in which ground fires were used for heat, with smoke escaping from a hole in the roof.

After a while, the congregation outgrew the church accommodations so a larger church of pine logs was constructed over a period of 10 years, being completed in 1861.

That church stands today on Greensky Hill, just off Old 31 not far from from the Boyne City Road intersection. Regular services are held there during the summer months under the jurisdiction of the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix.

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

An opossum concession

While talking to a guy about trapping skunks, the conversation turned to opossums.

A guy in the neighborhood had two traps out in his back yard, so when I saw him I asked what he was trying to trap. He said a family of skunks had burrowed under his deck and he'd trapped them out and disposed of them.

He added that a year or so back, he'd trapped some opossums.

There's getting to be a lot of those around, the guy said. "Yeah, there is," I conceded. This marked the first time I have ever officially conceded that opossums have successfully invaded the Charlevoix area.

It used to be that you never saw opossums around these parts. And that was fine with me, because I hate the things.

I looked up the definition of opossum in the dictionary. It says they're "any of various American marsupials (family Didelphidae); esp. a common omnivorous largely nocturnal and arboreal mammal (Didelphis virginiana) of the eastern U.S."

My brother once offered a more concise definition of opossums. "They're nothing but tree-dwelling rats," he said.

I've let it be known that if I see an opossum in the area and have an opportunity to kill it, I'm not going to miss the chance. And this threat applies to all opossums, not just to any specific one.

Apparently word of this threat has gotten around in opossum social circles, because so far they've steered clear of me and I've never had the chance to do one in.

Last summer, I almost got one. I was driving north on U.S. 31 near Big Rock and saw a dancing on the edge of the roadway. Fortunately for the opossum, I was driving in the midst of several other cars and didn't dare try any tricky maneuvers. Otherwise I'd have swerved over and splattered that ugly little critter.

When I came back that way later in the day, the opossum was gone. That was too bad. I'd really hoped it would still be there.

Dead opossums alongside the road used to trigger arguments between my wife and me.

For a couple of years, we had a running debate. I maintained there were no opossums in Antrim or Charlevoix Counties. She said that there were, but they just kept a low profile.

One day we were driving and saw a dead opossum rotting just left of the center line.

"There. Now did you see that?" my wife said with air of vindication and the beginning of a gloat.

"What?" I said. "That dead opossum," she said. "And you're the one who's always saying there aren't any opossums in Antrim or Charlevoix Counties."

"Well, there aren't any live ones," I said.

"Oh right," she harrumphed. "How did that dead one get here then?"

"Somebody probably found it in another county and dropped it off," I contended. "In fact, you were probably the one who did it."

"That's disgusting," she said. "Why would I put a dead opossum alongside the road?"

"Because you're not a big enough person to admit when you're wrong," I said. "There aren't any opossums in Antrim or Charlevoix Counties."

Social changes

Gwendolyn sat at the kitchen table, her hair disheveled and her eyes red from crying.

"I don't know what I am going to do," she wailed. "My social life is a shambles!"

"It can't be as bad as all that," I said. "Why don't you join a support group?"

"There is no support group for us," Gwendolyn cried. "No one cares what happens to us."

Overcome by grief, Gwendolyn put her head down on the table, her whole body wracked with sobs.

"Perhaps I'm missing something here," I began shortly. "But what seems to be the problem?"

"It's that damn Kmart," Gwendolyn answered defiantly, sitting up and looking me straight in the eye. "My life hasn't been worth living ever since it opened."

She was referring to the new Kmart — Charlevoix's first — which opened recently in the new commercial strip on M-66.

"Why, I think it's a beautiful store," I objected. "It's the Nieman-Marcus of discount department stores."

"Oh, it is! It is! It's gorgeous!" Gwendolyn agreed. "I love the wide aisles and the little restaurants. I couldn't want a nicer store. But I miss the old Kmart store in Petoskey. Do you realize that for the past 15 years the Petoskey Kmart was the center of my social life? Every Friday night Marvin and I used to jump in the car and head for Petoskey."

"It was something I looked forward to all week: driving along the beautiful Lake Michigan shore, puzzling over the cryptic graffiti on the railroad viaduct and then heading east along Little Traverse Bay."

"I could feel the anticipation mounting by the minute," she said.

"Then we would climb the Spring Street hill and turn into the spacious Kmart parking lot with its magnificent view of the bay."

"And there, wonder of wonders, was Kmart itself with literally miles of aisles and acres of beautiful, economically priced merchandise!"

"Of course, we always met all of our friends from Petoskey and Charlevoix at Kmart on Friday night. We'd stop and chat. Compare notes on bargains. Walk on. Meet more friends. Make a few purchases. Shop for groceries at Carter's. Visit the mall. And then go to dinner at one of Petoskey's posh restaurants."

"It was the one time during the week that Marvin and I actually spent any quality time together," she lamented. "And now it's over! And I think our marriage may be the next to go."

"But don't you see how lucky we are to have our own Kmart?" I interjected. "Now you can shop at Kmart every day if you like."

"I do shop there every day and that is part of the problem," Gwendolyn lamented. "The romance is gone. When I only went once a week, every trip was an adventure. Now it's all becoming sort of old hat. I leave the house and zip! I'm in the Kmart parking lot."

"Where's the mystery in that?" she demanded.

"You could still go to Kmart in Petoskey," I suggested cautiously. "There's no law against people from Charlevoix shopping in Petoskey — in emergencies, that is."

"No, but wouldn't I look silly — driving up to Petoskey just to go to Kmart when we have a Kmart in our own backyard?" Gwendolyn asked. "Marvin would have me committed."

"Have you talked your problem over with Marvin?" I asked. "He has a good head on his shoulders."

"Marvin wants to sell the house in Charlevoix and move to Ellsworth or Central Lake," Gwendolyn answered. "Then we would be able to drive up to Charlevoix every Friday night to shop Kmart, meet friends, buy groceries and go out for dinner."

"I wasn't too keen on the idea at first, but now I think it might actually work," she said. "Of course, we would have to get some kind of assurance from the folks at Kmart that they wouldn't build stores in Ellsworth or Central Lake in the near future."

"I couldn't go through this again, not for a million dollars," she said.

FAMILY

Crafton - Hoffman

Strauna Lynn Crafton and Paul William Hoffman were married Saturday afternoon, July 14, at St. Mary's Catholic Church.

Father Gardiner and Father Nicola officiated at the double ring rites before approximately 220 guests. Jeff Hoffman served as altar boy for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Lynda and William Farguhar of Okemos and Robert Crafton of Southfield. The bridegroom is the son of Joan Hoffman of Gaylord and Robert Hoffman of Charlevoix.

For the occasion, the church was decorated with large bouquets of garden flowers, and the pews were marked with white lace bows and greenery.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a simple white gown with a chiffon overlay and embroidered flowers around the neck and hemline. A chapel-length train and a veil with blusher and trailing white ribbons completed her ensemble.

The bride carried an arm bouquet of pink and white roses, freesia, light blue delphinium, baby's breath, greens, and white ribbons.

Lisa Fitzsimmons served her sister as matron of honor, and Lisa Hoffman, Carla Hoffman, Christie Dymond, and Maureen Cross were bridesmaids. They wore tea-length pastel pink and blue floral print dresses fashioned with deep V-necks, and carried bouquets of multi-colored summer garden flowers with trailing pink and blue ribbons.

Corey Fitzsimmons and Corinne Hoffman were junior bridesmaids, wearing younger style dresses of the same fabric as the other attendants.

Tim Hoffman assisted his brother as best man, and Jeff Drury, Jim Baillargeon, Bob Scott, and John Zook were groomsmen. Matt Dymond and Tim Schuur were ushers.

Organ and piano music for the ceremony was provided by Jeanie Olach and vocal music was offered by Susan Campione, Willis Sonnenberg, and Robin Mauer.

Lynda and William Farguhar hosted a lawn reception at the Lake Charlevoix Home of Robert Hoffman. Robert Hoffman hosted the rehearsal dinner at the Weatherstone Restaurant.

Following a wedding trip to the Hawaiian Islands, the newlyweds are at home in Kalamazoo. They own and operate two fudge and cookie stores in South Haven. Both the bride and groom are also continuing their education.

Students may pick up schedules

Summer's pretty much history. High school students make pick up their class schedules for first semester next Thursday and Friday, Aug. 23 and 24.

Seniors may pick up their schedules between 10 a.m. and noon, Aug. 23.

Juniors may pick up their schedules between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Aug. 23. Sophomores may pick up their schedules between 10 a.m. and noon, Aug. 24.

Freshmen may pick up their schedules between 1 p.m. and 3 p.m. Aug. 24. Freshmen who would like to minimize their confusion and bewilderment during their first day of high school are invited to a freshman open house at 7 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 23 at the high school. The open house is an informal opportunity for freshmen to get acquainted with the high school building and procedures.

New students to the Charlevoix school system may follow the same schedule as returning students.

Pool proponents meet

Fundraising efforts for an indoor community swimming pool have raised more than $300,000 in contributions and pledges. Pool proponents are attempting to first raise $500,000 for an endowment fund and subsequently raise approximately $1.75 million to construct a pool. Revenues from the endowment fund would be used to offset pool operational costs in excess of costs covered by user fees.

At the Pool Steering Committee (PSC) meeting of Aug. 9, committee members began making plans for a 1991 auction. Gayle Gennett was appointed chairman of the 1991 auction and the committee set an auction fundraising goal of $50,000.

A pool preconstruction advisory committee has been formed. People serving on the committee are: Ron Chapman, Mark Manthel, Ari Kleinpell, Tim Fisher and Bern Cannan. Anyone else interested in serving on the committee may call 547-1991.

While Kristin's had plenty of time to train Tammy, the pony, Ruby the goat is another story. The family just acquired Ruby this summer and Kristin's only been working with it for about a month and a half.

But the goat is coming around. Kristin can lead her now and prior to the fair she's taking the goat to a shoeing and fitting clinic where she will receive some pointers on how to show the goat.

Kesner said livestock entries are up this year, particularly lambs and hogs. 4-H members raising livestock for the fair get an animal when it is young and then raise it to market weight. The 4-H member is responsible for seeing that the animal is fed a proper diet and kept in good health. The 4-H member keeps a record book on the animal. Fair judges not only inspect the animal, but also review the record book and ask questions.

Kesner notes that young people don't have to own livestock to be involved in 4-H and enter projects in the fair. There are also several 4-H craft divisions which include skills such as sewing, photography and art. Kesner said the annual fair remains a popular event with 4-H members.

Charle-facts

The year 1869 was especially important in Charlevoix history. That was the year Charlevoix County was organized and the village of Charlevoix became the county seat. It was also the year the Charlevoix Sentinel printed its first issue. And, finally, it was the year the widening and deepening of the Pine River Channel was begun. This widening and deepening made it possible for large boats to enter Round Lake from Lake Michigan.

Garden Club meets to discuss "mechanics"

The Charlevoix Area Garden Club will meet at the home of Peg Johnson at 1 p.m. August 21. Co-hostesses will be Esther Ringler and Barbara Wilson. Guest speaker Lois Pollack will present a program on "Mechanics." Those planning to attend in need of directions to Mrs. Johnson's house please call 547-2528. This is a very interesting and informative lecture. All members please try to attend.

CHURCH

Jack Boyle

Jack Boyle, 77, of Beaver Island, died Aug. 9, 1990, at his home in St. James.

Funeral was Monday at Holy Cross Catholic Church, Beaver Island. The Rev. Christopher Welch officiated with burial in Holy Cross Cemetery, Beaver Island.

Mr. Boyle was born June 24, 1913, in Detroit, the son of Daniel and Margaret (Gallagher) Boyle.

He grew up on Beaver Island where he attended Sannyside School and McKinley School. On Feb. 24, 1936, he married the former Beatrice O'Donnell.

In 1941 they moved to the Chicago area where Mr. Boyle was a carpenter by trade and owner of Matela-Boyle Construction Co. He retired in 1979.

He was a member of the Chicago District Council of Carpenters and had been living on Beaver Island since 1984.

Survivors include his wife Beatrice; seven sons, D. Morris Boyle and his wife Sally of Dolton, Ill., John J. Boyle and his wife Marge of Bloomington, Minn., Bernard W. Boyle and his wife Kathy of Reno, Nev., Donald E. Boyle and his wife Chris of Country Club Hills, Ill., Steven L. Boyle of Chicago, Timothy W. Boyle of Chicago, Neal K. Boyle and his wife Connie of St. James, Beaver Island and Pat A. Boyle of St. James, Beaver Island; five daughters, Mrs. Ray (Grace) Matela of Cali Mesa, Calif., Mrs. Gary (Sandra Jean) McDonough of Lake St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. James (Theresa L.) Gack of Chicago, Ill. and Mrs. Doug (Susan R.) Heynig of Chicago, Ill.; 19 grandchildren; five great-grandchildren; two sisters, Mary McDonough of St. James and Mrs. James (Theresa) Gallagher of Charlevoix.

He was preceded in death by a daughter, M. Sharron Simpson.

The family suggests memorials to the Beaver Island Medical Center or to Holy Cross Cemetery Fund, St. James.

Local arrangements were handled by the Winchester Funeral Home.

Inez L. Harriman

Inez L. Harriman, 89, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 8, 1990, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral was 1 p.m. Friday, Aug. 10 at the Assembly of God Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Lowell Anderson officiated with burial in Southern Cemetery, Central Lake.

The former Inez L. James was born July 8, 1901, in Mount Victory, Ohio, the daughter of Adrian W. and Ethel P. (Kramer) James. She grew up in Ohio and at the age of 12 she moved with her family to Central Lake. She graduated from Bellaire High School and attended Antrim County Normal School. She taught in Alden and Bellaire.

Mrs. Harriman moved to Charlevoix in 1945 and worked at the Dahlquist Store until 1978.

She was a charter member of the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church.

Survivors include one daughter, Mrs. Eldon (Anah) Potter of Charlevoix; one brother, George James of Flushing; three grandchildren; eight great-grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church.

Envelopes for memorials are available at the Winchester Funeral Home.

OF BLESSINGS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

There is someone from Charlevoix's past that I really wish I had the opportunity to meet. Harold Kohn was a truly beloved pastor of the First Congregational Church and a very gifted wordsmith. I have been scouting old bookstores trying to acquire as many of his books that I can.

He had a way of looking around our town and seeing God in everything. Reading his works, my eyes were opened not just to the deer but why they do some of the things they do. I started viewing the constellations in the night sky as friends that guide and teach me. Those of you who had the privilege of visiting Hidden Brook entered a very personal sanctuary.

If I have learned anything from reading "Pathways to Understanding" and other Kohn works, it has been the importance of being an encourager, one who helps others strive to get the most out of their daily walk with God, every chance I can.

I do wish you would take a good look around in your world and see all the ways God is trying to reach out to you. I love the abundance of color that wild flowers splash across our fields right now. Have you eaten the first fresh tomato out of your garden yet this season? It won't be long before the salmon run begins, although some of you have been fishing heavily all summer!

If you are facing a discouragement, instead of asking why or letting it get the best of you, look for a way of turning it into a blessing. When a disappointment casts a shadow across your path, consider a way to convert it into an opportunity.

Whether you are a senior saint or in the early stages of raising your family, God has surrounded you with the tools you need to make the most out of life. They really aren't too hard to find. You just have to be willing to look for them.

The next time you pick up a Petoskey stone for that visiting friend of yours, think of it as God's reminder that He was here a long time before you were. If anyone knows about life, He does. The next time you enjoy a majestic Lake Michigan sunset, realize that's God's promise of an even better tomorrow because He'll be waiting for you when you get there.

Smile friend, God loves you and I love you too.

Airstream group visits Charlevoix

Between 200 and 250 Airstream trailers containing approximately 500 people are gathering in Charlevoix this week for the Michigan All-State Rally.

The rally is being hosted by the Northern Michigan Unit of the Wally Byam Caravan Club International, Inc. Charlevoix's residents Herman and Marilyn Izor serve as president and secretary of the unit.

Wally Byam invented the Airstream trailer in the 1930s. The club bearing his name got started in 1955. Currently, almost 17,000 trailers are registered in the club. Early last month 3,200 of the trailers were gathered at Notre Dame to celebrate Byam's birthday.

The Airstream trailers convening in Charlevoix will stay on the edge of the airport off of West Carpenter. Although trailers began arriving Sunday, the rally officially runs from Aug. 15-19.

During the four days, people attending the rally will participate in educational seminars, craft classes and see various entertainers. There will be something to do almost every hour of every day.

The Izors attend six or seven rallies each year.

"It's the fun and fellowship and a little bit of education," Herman says. "It keeps you young."

Many members of the Airstream group are senior citizens. The rallies and other group events give these people an incentive to get out and travel and meet people.

Along with rallies, the Airstream club also organizes caravans. You can sign up and a group of people get together and go somewhere, Herman explains. That way a couple doesn't have to travel alone. They have the security of being in a group. If they have a breakdown, help is with them. The caravans have trained leaders and a "caboose" which brings along spare parts.

The club's international headquarters is in Jackson Center, Ohio. The club also has its own magazine, the Blue Beret which lists upcoming club events.

This weekend's rally in Charlevoix will begin with a formal opening ceremony Thursday evening. Several of the activities will take place at the high school.

Approximately 200 Airstream travel trailers are in Charlevoix this week for an Airstream rally.

Airstream travel trailers were invented in the 1930s. Airstream owners often form caravans and travel across the country together.

To true shopping fiends, shopping is like a great safari or hunt. The purchase of an item at a price which is a "good deal" is the equivalent of the kill.

Shoppers will fill down town sidewalks Friday and Saturday as Charlevoix merchants take their business to the streets.

Last year's sidewalk sales were blessed with beautiful weather. Merchants and shoppers are hoping for more of the same this year.

INTERNATIONAL EDUCATION FORUM GERMAN BOY NEEDS HOME IN OUR COMMUNITY

Hendrik from Germany is anxiously awaiting news that there is a family in Northern Michigan who will help fulfill his dream of spending five months in America. Hendrik enjoys swimming, computers, movies, cycling, soccer, basketball, board games and has championships in tennis and skiing. He hopes to pursue some of these interests during his exchange program. He is also looking forward to developing new "American" interests and hobbies that he can share with his friends when he returns to Germany.

Each year, I.E.F., International Education Forum provides qualified international students with the opportunity to spend an academic semester in America attending a local high school and learning about life in America. If your family would help make Hendrik's stay in Northern Michigan possible, please call Janet Froats Shepherd, (616) 582-6256; Pam Jordan, (517) 366-9008 or I.E.F.'s toll free number 1 (800) 234-8339.

I.E.F., a non-profit organization, provides cultural exchange and educational opportunities for the international teenager from many countries. Teenagers who are destined to be the citizens and world leaders of tomorrow.

Yachting Notes

Wind, finally wind. We had a chance to sail a full race course this week with the wind staying up the whole time. With the wind blowing, people are more alert and thusly avoided any protest, YEA!

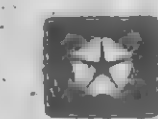

In the A Fleet, or Big Boat Fleet, Apprentice barely beat out Pygmalion, closely followed by Gotcha, Flash, Humdinger, Slap Shot.

In Fleet B, Foxy Lady had a beautiful port start that gave her a lead that no one could overcome. It was Ingot Air as the next two boats were Sandpiper, Cygnus, MI-Joy, the B Fleets. Big Boy, Blasen II, Caberet, Original Sin - this is hull #1 for Pearson 26's thus the name, Tireless, Lost Vermonter, and Polestar.

In Fleet C, Marty Jensen sailing a J-24 named Newsense, won getting prepared to sail in Wisconsin at the J-24 Midwestern Regatta, good luck Marty!

County schedules courthouse meeting

Whether or not Charlevoix County will seek millage for a new Court House and remodeling of the present County Building should be decided this week when the Building Committee meets to discuss final plans.

Kraig Lieberman of the committee appeared before the Board of Commissioners last week and said the project will probably cost about $4.5 million. The number of mills and the number of years they would be collected are up for discussion.

The project has been under consideration for at least three years, and whenever a cost figure is mentioned it is higher than the previous one.

If the committee decides to go ahead, the proposition will be put on the November General Election ballot. If it passes, following through with the construction will be the responsibility of the County Board, which will have at least two new members after December 31.

Preschoolers enroll

Enrollment for the Charlevoix Development Center preschool program will take place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday, Aug. 20 in the basement of the First Congregational Church.

The program is a state funded program for four-year-olds who are considered to be educationally at-risk for any one of a number of reasons. Some reasons are: family income, health problems, single parent family etc.

The program is limited to 18 children. It is coordinated locally by the Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency, Inc.

Parents should bring the following information to the enrollment session: child's immunization records; proof of income; Social Security numbers for all household members; blue Medicaid card (if you have one); insurance card (if you have one); food stamp card; birth certificate; and child being enrolled.

H&R Block Offers Income Tax Course in Charlevoix

Thousands of people learn how to prepare income tax returns from H&R Block and then earn money as income tax preparers. H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, offers its Income Tax Course starting September 10th. Morning, afternoon, evening, and weekend classes are available. Experienced instructors teach tax law, theory, and application. Classroom discussion and practice problems provide students with a thorough understanding of each tax topic included in the course. Students learn how to handle increasingly complex income tax situations as the course progresses.

Ideal for people who want to increase their tax knowledge, the course teaches students how to save money on their taxes and also prepares them for a rewarding career.

The affordable fee includes textbooks and supplies. Graduates receive Certificates of Achievement and continuing education units (CEUs). Qualified graduates of the course may be offered job interviews with H&R Block but are under no obligation to accept employment.

Those interested in more information about the H&R Block Income Tax Course may contact the H&R Block office in Charlevoix—call (616) 547-0660.

Charlevoix Area Hospital Administrator Richard Krueger explains the new C-Arm X-Ray fluoroscope to George Crook and Ann Leckie of the Belvedere Club. The Belvedere Club donated $9,500 toward the purchase of the $90,000 unit which is used to view the interior of the body on a TV screen as surgery is in progress.

Arts Council seeks director

A trip to Paris for two is the top prize offered by Jordan River Arts Council in a fundraising raffle to raise money to hire a director. The winner will have a choice of the expense paid trip or $4,000 cash.

A second prize of $500 and five third prizes of $100 will also be awarded.

Only five hundred tickets will be sold. The $25 tickets are available at Busy Bridge in East Jordan, Koucky's Gallery in Charlevoix and from all arts council board members. They may be purchased by mail by sending a check to the council at P.O. Box 1178, East Jordan 49727.

Because the council is incorporated as a tax-exempt organization, the price of raffle tickets is tax deductible.

The raffle drawing will take place at the council's annual meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday, September 11, at the Jordan River Art Center, 301 Main Street, East Jordan.

The council hopes to raise part of the $10,000 needed to obtain a matching grant offered by the Frey Foundation to hire a full-time director.

Dedicated to encouraging cultural and artistic awareness within the Jordan River Valley and its environs, the council has offered free summer shows in parks throughout Antrim and Charlevoix counties, concerts by Northwood Orchestra and Interlochen Band, a spring performing arts series, an annual madrigal dinner and the world premiere of an original play in Bellaire and East Jordan.

Ramps postpone grant

The city council has postponed giving final approval to receive a $215,000 state grant for Ferry Beach until they find out why two launching ramps were added to plans for the project.

The council will have a special meeting next week to address the matter. Postponing acceptance of the grant won't jeopardize the grant, but may delay the start of construction by a few days.

Second ward council member Ken Whitley raised questions about the two additional ramps. Whitley said that when the council approved the Ferry Beach improvement site plan last year the plan called for four boat launching ramps. The site plan put before the council Monday evening calls for six launch ramps.

"I don't support additional launching ramps at Ferry Avenue," Whitley said. "I think it's infringing on the beach area."

Other council members said they also tend to lean toward four rather than six ramps.

City funds for the project will come from the Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) which is managed by the Downtown Development Authority (DDA). Monday evening, city manager Mike Weisner said available funds for the project break down as follows: $456,000 in accumulated TIFA funds; $240,000 in anticipated TIFA funds; and $215,000 from the state grant.

Mayor Gary Probert said the DDA recommended six rather than four launching ramps. Weisner said the DDA worked with the city parks and recreation commission in deciding whether four or six launching ramps are needed.

Weisner said his original feeling, like Whitley's, was that four ramps are enough. And that was what was planned until a few months ago when some people came to the DDA and made a case for six ramps.

Whitley said the council spent quite a bit of time going over the plan last year, particularly as it related to the launch ramps and now suddenly there are two more launch ramps in the project.

Whitley and former council member Bob Timms, both contended that once the old launching ramps are repaired, things will go better at the launch ramp. Council member Bill Haggard noted that during the city does employ a supervisor at the launch area to keep things running smoothly.

Probert suggested that the council approve the grant and then decide later whether the city wants four or six launch ramps. The council chose not to go along with that suggestion, opting instead to get more information and have a special council meeting next week.

This limbo stuff can be tricky. Zach Kehrner demonstrates proper limbo form as he participates in a limbo contest which is part of the Charlevoix Day Camp at Mount McSaba. (Additional Charlevoix Recreation Department photos appear in the Charlevoix Courier Summer Times on pages 9, 10, 11 and 12.)

Supreme Court justice visits

Michigan Supreme Court Justice Patricia Boyle visited Charlevoix last week to speak to the Zonta Club. Prior to speaking to the group, she was interviewed by the Courier.

Boyle has served on the Michigan Supreme Court since 1983 and is seeking reelection. Prior to joining the State Supreme Court, she worked as an Assistant United States Attorney; with the Wayne County Prosecutor's office; as a Chief Appellate Attorney; as a Detroit Recorder's Court judge; and as a Federal Judge.

Although judges are sometimes stereotyped as stoic and aloof, Boyle is personable and outspoken. Her visit to Charlevoix was part of a campaign tour, although she currently faces no Republican or Democratic opposition in the November election. The nomination process for the State Supreme Court is somewhat peculiar in comparison to other state elected offices. A sitting justice can self nominate and political parties can nominate candidates at their state conventions. Boyle has nominated herself, but will also seek the Democratic nomination at the party's Sept. 8 convention.

While the United States Supreme Court has received a lot of press recently, the State Supreme Court has generally stayed out of the spotlight.

One of the reasons the U.S. Supreme Court has received so much attention is because of decisions which affect social policy. In recent years, some people have criticized judges and courts for legislating from the bench, or effectively dictating laws, rather than interpreting them.

Boyle says she feels there is too much legislating from the bench. She said that was one of the main reasons she gave up a lifetime appointment as a federal judge to become a justice on the State Supreme Court.

"I don't view the role of a judge as being out in front in creating social policy," Boyle stated.

When asked about the Jenkins versus Missouri decision, Boyle said she sees it as "dictatorial" and a "bypass of the elective process." In the Jenkins decision, a federal judge effectively imposed taxes to increase revenue for the St. Louis school system. The U.S. Supreme Court subsequently upheld that decision. The decisions have prompted discussion of a constitutional amendment to prohibit judges from levying taxes.

Boyle said she's concerned about some recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

City settles dispute over Depot property

An out of court settlement approved by the city council resolves a law suit involving Depot Beach property and will lead to a new parking lot at the beach. City council members agreed to the settlement at a special meeting Aug. 13.

The settlement resolves a claim to quiet title, filed on behalf of Robert and Mary Pew in 1988. The suit named the Michigan Department of Transportation and the City of Charlevoix as defendants.

Key terms of the settlement are: Pew will deed to the city property which formerly was the railroad right of way between the depot building and the beach. A parking lot with 85 parking spaces will be constructed on the property.

Pew will donate $30,000 to the city to help finance the parking lot.

Pew will receive the property where people currently park behind the depot building. (That property will be landscaped.)

The city will construct a turn around at the end of the Cherry Street. People will no longer be able to drive down the hill at the north end of the beach, however pedestrian access will still be allowed. Vehicles will enter the beach area, as the majority now do, at the end of

Heart Start remains active

A training mannikin donated to the city fire and ambulance department by the Charlevoix Heart Start program does things far beyond what average C.P.R. mannikins can do. Using a computer attachment, the mannikin can not only be given a pulse, discernible in the mannikin's neck, but that pulse can be varied to simulate different conditions.

Along with creating the various conditions, the computer attachments can monitor and in a sense grade how well the rescuer is performing C.P.R.

Heart Start official Patty Sitzema presented the new mannikin to the city at Monday evening's city council meeting. The mannikin carried a price tag of approximately $3,000. Last year Heart Start donated two defibrillators to the city ambulances. So far the group has contributed rescue equipment with a total value exceeding $20,000 to the city.

And the group plans to do more.

Heart Start's next goal is to raise enough money to buy a less complex mannikin which can be used to train Charlevoix High School students in C.P.R. Sitzema told council members she and high school principal Dave Smith have had discussions which they hope will some day lead to every Charlevoix High School student receiving basic C.P.R. training.

The first major fundraising event for the program will be a Labor Day bridge walk across Charlevoix's Memorial Bridge. Last year approximately 150 people walked the bridge for the Heart Start program.

Bridgewalkers will meet at the Town House at 11 a.m. with the walk to begin at noon. Town House proprietor Helen Weislik will serve as the walk's grand marshal. After traversing the bridge, walkers will reconvene at the Bridge Club.

Bridgewalk T-shirts will be on sale for $11.

...state court justice visits Charlevoix

Court decisions which reduce the ability of states to determine their own policies. She said there have been decisions which put more power in the hands of the federal government.

Boyle favors having legislators assess social needs and develop statutes to meet those needs and having judicial bodies interpret those statutes.

She referred to a 1984 State Supreme Court decision on governmental liability and subsequent legislative action as an example of how the judicial and legislative branches can work together in a proper way.

In 1984, the State Supreme Court clarified a state liability law in a way that restricted the opportunity for government bodies to incur liability. The decision led to the legislature reviewing and amending the law. Boyle said that the legislative branch is better equipped than the judicial branch to hold informational hearings and formulate laws reflecting society's needs and desires.

In addition to hearing and resolving cases, the State Supreme Court also has state constitutional responsibility for "general superintending control over all courts."

Boyle has been active in working with a Citizens' Advisory Commission to Improve Michigan Courts and in establishing a Management Assistance Program which works with judges to make sure court offices are being administered as well as they can be with the resources available.

In addition to campaigning, Boyle's purpose in speaking to people in Charlevoix was to improve the public's knowledge of Michigan's court system.

"I think it's important for people to have a practical understanding of the system," she said.

School lunch prices stay the same

School lunch prices will remain the same, at least for the present. The Charlevoix Board of Education discussed raising lunch prices during a special meeting Monday, Aug. 13, but decided to leave prices at their present rates.

Currently, school lunch prices cost $1 for elementary students, $1.25 for middle and high school students and $2 for adults. Reduced rate lunches for students who qualify through government programs cost 40 cents or in some cases nothing.

School business manager Rich Kelly, who recommended leaving the prices the same, said that compared to other area schools' Charlevoix's lunch prices are currently among the highest.

Board member Larry Levengood said that it's nice to have the even figure of $1 at the elementary school. It means the children don't have to keep track of as much loose change and the lunch program doesn't have to make as much change.

Board president Max Novak said the keeping the price the same might keep more students eating hot lunches rather than brown bagging or leaving school and eating elsewhere.

Board member Scott Beatty questioned what the income figures are for families to qualify for reduced lunches. Kelly said that a family of five must have an annual income of $27,454 or less to be eligible and a family of seven must have an annual income of $35,372 or less to be eligible.

Beatty noted that the program operates in the red. He said that if the kids who can't afford to pay the full price are covered by government programs then the board should consider raising the price until a point is reached where there is a fall off in the number of students eating hot lunches. Otherwise, the school system is subsidizing the lunch program.

A motion to leave prices the same, at least for the first semester of the school year, passed 5-1 with Beatty dissenting.

Chicago Avenue. The city will be given the right of first refusal if the Pew or Ives family (who own adjacent property) ever attempt to sell the property to a third party.

City attorney Jim Young said the agreement is "an excellent resolution for the city."

Police search for girl

Charlevoix city police and the county sheriff's department continue to search for a missing 13-year-old girl. Heather Kleiber was last seen Thursday, Aug. 17.

As of Tuesday morning, law enforcement officials had followed up on more than 58 tips in the matter and will continue to investigate tips as they are received.

Monday evening, law enforcement officers assisted by auxiliary members and a private pilot conducted an air, water and land search of the area between Michigan Beach and Upright Street where the girl was last seen. The search turned up nothing.

The sheriff's department has assigned a detective to assist the city police in the matter.

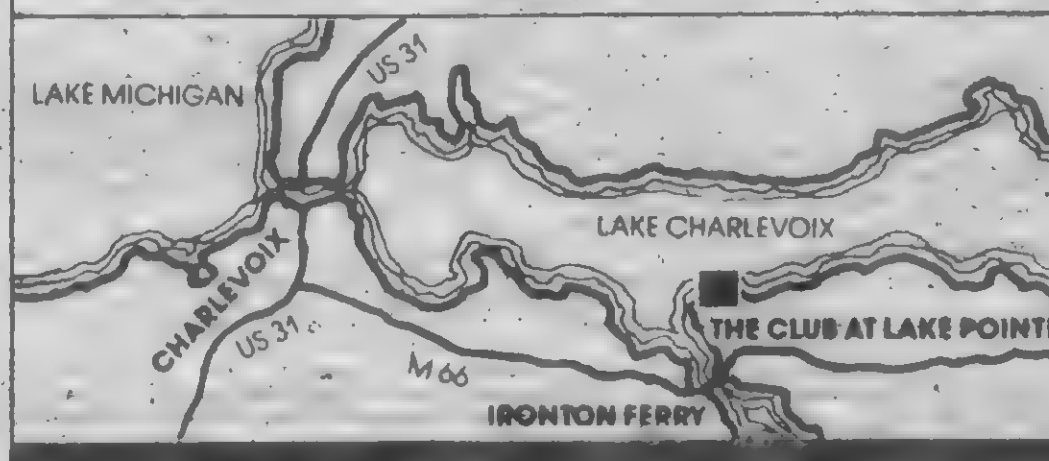

Kleiber is the daughter of Nancy Ellis of Petoskey and Anthony J. Kleiber of Charlevoix. She has brown hair and hazel eyes, is approximately 5'3" tall and weighs 125 pounds. When she was last seen she was wearing faded blue jeans, a black T-shirt and a brown leather "bomber" jacket.

Anyone with information concerning her whereabouts is asked to phone the Charlevoix city police department at 547-3266 or the sheriff's department at 847-9062.

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

When a new posh restaurant opens in Charlevoix and it does not do any advertising, and it depends on word of mouth recommendations, and within two months it is turning customers away who haven't even made reservations - one must wonder who is in charge!

The man in charge at the Inn at Dunmaglas on the Boyne City Road is executive chef Helmuth Nitsch. Trained in Europe, he spent five years honing his skills on various cruise ships on the Italia and Haneatic lines. He gave cooking demonstrations before Julia Childs appeared on TV. He knows the resort business well having worked at the French Country Inn by Lake Geneva for a number of years.

Helmuth is enthusiastic about the Inn's successful record this summer and he shared some exciting plans for the future with me. The Inn will probably close this fall, and the kitchen will be modernized and enlarged for the sake of efficiency. Plans are afoot to also enlarge the dining room by another thirty seats. French tableside service will be featured and the equipment has already been ordered.

Working for the MacGillivray's is fun, says Helmuth. "They don't do things halfway." Helmuth enjoys carving whole birds at the table such as a whole Toulouse goose or a wild Canadian goose. One of his specialties is broiled quail served with an apple, raisin and chestnut dressing. The Inn offers venison every other week prepared with lingonberry sauce. For those interested in low cholesterol and high protein fishes, Helmuth suggests other weekly specials, such as a Pintail Guinea Hen or moist Breast of Pheasant served with a mixed berry sauce.

Working in tandem with Helmuth is Karen Voss who is in charge of the kitchen and who also does all the baking. Her delectable fruit tarts are feather light and her combination white, whole wheat and rye bread loaf is a special treat.

Helmuth expects to intensify future wait staff training. Currently the staff spends a few days in the kitchen, then receives instruction on bar tending including a working knowledge of wine service and finally they are taught proper table service.

Helmuth, along with the rest of us in Charlevoix, is looking forward to the completion of the entire Dunmaglas complex including the World Championship Golf Course, which is scheduled to open in the spring of 1991.

Gopher terrorized

Gophers lead a tough life.

A gopher has taken up residence in our backyard. His main home is in the garden. He's excavated a small housing complex which has one exit in the tomato plants and another over by the carrots.

Prior to this weekend, the gopher also had a small cottage of vacation home in the grass just outside the garden. That came to an end Sunday afternoon.

I was outside washing the car and truck and my wife came out to talk to me about something. As she was about to go back inside, she looked around and asked, "Where's the dog?"

I glanced about and said, "I don't know. He was taking a nap over by the front porch a little while ago."

My wife walked out to the back yard to see where what kind of mischief that big, furry canine was into. She spotted just the tip of his wagging tail. He'd found the gopher's vacation quarters and he was evicting him.

That dog had excavated hole that was about three feet deep and four feet long. It wasn't too wide. Just wide enough for the dog to fit into and still have a little elbow room for working. All you could see was the tip of the dog's tail and flying dirt.

"Sasquatch," I yelled.

The dog surfaced from the hole, looked at me and wagged his tail.

"What do you think you're doing?" I asked.

He didn't dignify the question with a response. His mission was obvious enough. He'd found a gopher hole and he was digging it up.

I don't think the gopher was home for the dog's visit. I haven't found any gopher corpses in the yard so I assume the gopher was, fortunate enough to be away at the right time.

Talk about an ugly thought. Put yourself in the gopher's shoes. Paws for a moment and picture what it would have been like for a little gopher to be home when that big dog came calling.

It's Sunday afternoon and you're kicking back in your little gopher hole watching other gophers play preseason football on TV. Suddenly you hear a big whoosh sound as the dog snarls at the entrance to your gopher hole.

"Now, what was that?" you wonder.

And then the smell of dog breath fills the entire premises.

"Oh, oh," you think. "This isn't good."

The next thing you know an animal 100 times your size with paws as big as your whole body and fangs that could dismantle a gopher with one chomp is flinging dirt and tearing the joint apart.

As a gopher, your Sunday afternoon would be ruined.

Gophers lead a tough life.

Animal shelter prices raised

The cost of owning a dog in Charlevoix County is going up as is the cost of taking a dog or cat to the Animal Shelter for adoption.

The County Board of Commissioners recently voted to raise the price of dog licenses from $1 to $3 for spayed or neutered dogs, and from $3 to $6 for males and females.

The cost to an owner to leave a dog at the Shelter for adoption will be $10; for puppies, $8; and for cats, $5. There will be no charge for leaving kittens at the Shelter for adoption.

Those who let their dogs roam to be picked up by the Animal Control Officer will be charged $15 the first time it is picked up and $30 the second time. (No costs were given for additional pickups). Also, owners of dogs housed in the Shelter will be charged $6 a day for room and board.

Commissioner Don Smith, who presented the resolution, noted that the fees had not been raised in 20 years.

CLOCKWISE

BOB CLOCK

Aging...just aging

Don't you hate it when old people tell you how much they have accomplished in the course of the day?

"I GOT UP THIS morning before the alarm went off, showered, got dressed, did a load of washing, fixed breakfast for my aerobics class, washed the dishes, mopped the kitchen floor, cut the grass, trimmed the hedge, shingled the roof, wallpapered the spare bedroom and painted the front porch," they'll tell you.

"And, by golly, here it is almost noon and I don't mind telling you I'm bushed."

"I guess when you're 87 you can't do as much as you used to."

"But I can't quit now because I'm having a little supper party tonight for the Russian army."

OLD PEOPLE tell me these things because they know I am rapidly approaching senior citizen status and they want to rub it in.

I suppose when I'm 87 I'll want to brag a little, too. But right now I'm too tired to brag. I just brushed my teeth and I need a nap.

Actually, I reached the age of majority over the weekend, which means I can sign up for Social Security if I were independently rich.

To celebrate, I rode my new, one-speed, birthday-gift bicycle out to North Point, 40 miles from Charlevoix over rugged terrain. There, I leashed up J.D., a pudgie beagle I am dog-sitting, and climbed one foot to the top of Mount McSaub.

I really didn't plan to go all the way, but one plateau led to another and before I knew it we were at the summit, panting at the sight of so much beautiful scenery spread out at our feet.

At least J.D. was panting. I was stretched out on the turf napping.

When I returned home I told my kids that I expect them to climb to the top of Mount McSaub the day they turn 62. They all nodded dutifully, but I don't think they were listening.

Turning 62 is something of an accomplishment in my family. None of my grandparents made it.

My father's father died of a mild kidney upset at 31. My mother's father succumbed to a mastoid infection at 37. My father's mother died at 57 of a trick gallbladder. My mother's mother, the only grandparent I remember, died of old age at 61. Everyone was surprised she lived so long, because she was always fainting in Demery's Department Store in Detroit. The floorwalker used to follow her around with a gurney.

My parents did a little better. My mother died at 63 of a stroke, and my father, who defied every known health axiom - smoked cigars, took snuff and never turned down a snifter of gin or rum - lay down for a nap in his 85th year and never woke up.

No one knows how long he would have lasted if he had taken better care of himself.

THE PROBLEM with being 62 is that I don't feel a day older than I did at 18. If anything, I feel a little better because I have stopped worrying about such inconsequential as acne and dateless Fridays.

ONE THING that does bother me is that my country appears on the brink of another war - just when international affairs seemed to be humming along so well.

Iraq's Saddam Hussein must be as crazy as a fruit fly to think he can hold 20,000 Western hostages for very long without having his camel shot out from under him.

To date, President Bush's response has been right on the mark.

He certainly couldn't have risked letting Hussein get away with the seizure of Kuwait. Too many of us still remember the first stirrings of Nazi Imperialism and how anxious everyone was to smooth things over.

If we learned anything from World War II it is that appeasement doesn't work.

Report issued on jail study

County jails in the 10-county Northwest Michigan Region have been studied for the last year by a task force appointed to develop a Community Comprehensive Corrections plan to meet the needs of local corrections systems in the area.

A summary of the completed plan was presented to the County Board of Commissioners recently by Gary Knapp and Jim Boyd of the task force.

The plan is the product of an effort to reduce crowding in jails as required under the Community Corrections Act of 1988 and points out ways prisoners could serve penalties other than jail time.

The report stressed the pressure being put on local jails by the increasing population of Northwest Michigan. It noted that between 1987 and 1989, crime increased to a rate of 167 per 1,000, or by seven percent, and added that "pressure on our local corrections system will continue into the future."

Data from the report reveals that 75 percent of the jail prisoners are there for misdemeanor infractions, with 33 percent being there because of alcohol problems and 83 percent because of substance-abuse problems.

Alcohol and substance abuse services should be provided for as part of the general plan, the report says.

The ten jails in the 10-county

Region had an average daily jail population of 338 in 1989, with only 20 of the inmates coming from outside the Region. Six of the 10 jails were overcrowded in 1989 and two have taken advantage of the early release law.

Following the report, a local committee of representatives from Charlevoix and Emmet Counties will decide how to judge candidates for alternative sentencing.

State money will be available to fund the alternative programs, including community service, which has been used in Charlevoix County for some time.

FAMILY

Healey - Davis

Mary Jo Healey and Mike Davis

Mary Jo Healey and Mike Davis were married June 30 in Charlevoix's Hoffmann Park. Dave Kurchinski officiated the double ring ceremony which was attended by family members and close friends.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Bruce and Carol Healey of Charlevoix. She wore a waltz length ivory gown with a fitted bodice featuring venise lace and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of pink bridal roses with white mini-carnations, stephanotis, ivy and cedar.

The groom is the son of Grace Davis and the late Fred Davis of Boyne City. Ken Swan served as best man while Dave Manker and Hector Chiunti were groomsmen.

Ann Leipprandt attended the bride as maid of honor. Lori Healey and Susi Healey served as bridesmaids. Elizabeth Leipprandt was the flower girl. They wore tea length floral print dresses with sweetheart necklines. They carried bouquets of pink mini-carnations, white button mums, stephanotis and ivy.

Following the wedding, there was a reception given by the bride and groom at the Pointes North Inn. Chef Dave Phillips prepared and served the reception meal.

After the reception, the bride and groom took a wedding trip in northern Michigan with plans for an extended honeymoon later in the year.

The couple is residing in Charlevoix where Mike is the Recreation Service director for Charlevoix County and Mary works in the accounting department of District Health Department 3.

Photography for the wedding was done by Marell Staffel.

Stutzman 50th

Joseph and Josephine Stutzman will observe their Golden-Wedding Anniversary Aug. 25 with an open house and dance hosted by their children at the V.F.W. Hall in Charlevoix. The open house will take place from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. with a square dance afterward. A program will be presented from 8 p.m. to 8:45 p.m.

Joseph and Josephine were married in Detroit on Sept. 15, 1940. They moved to Charlevoix in 1944. Their children and children's spouses are: Thomas and Janice Tuffelmire of Allgani and Gary and Kathy Stutzman of Harbor Springs.

Josephine & Joseph Stutzman

Friends and neighbors are invited to attend the open house. The family requests no gifts.

Slide show features Red Sea

A photographic presentation of underwater slides will be shown at 8 p.m. Wednesday,

Aug. 29 at the McCune Art Center in Petoskey.

The photographs have appeared in the National Geographic Scientific magazine.

Ruth Petzold, summer resident at L'Arbre Croche, spent two summers photographing fish and marine life under the Red Sea with Dr. Eugenie Clark.

Dr. Clark is a marine biologist from the University of Maryland.

Petzold will accompany the slide show with a lively talk on her experiences photographing marine life under the Red Sea.

Students report on trip to Soviet Union

A free market exists in the Soviet Union. It's just not a legal one.

If Charlevoix's bridge operated like the many bridges of Leningrad, it would be up between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m. to let commercial ships through and be closed the rest of the time.

Katherine Campbell, Troy Bonar, Scott Campbell, Edith Pair and Tonya Rostar of Charlevoix joined several students from northern Michigan and other parts of the United States earlier this summer to tour the Soviet Union. The local chapter of People to People, a group which works toward better international understanding by arranging for students to visit other countries, coordinated the tour for the Charlevoix students.

The students left for the Soviet Union June 17 and returned July 7. While in the Soviet Union, they toured four cities and stayed both in hotels and with Soviet families. Some of the students are continuing to correspond with Soviets they met.

Campbell said the grandmother of a family she stayed with hugged her and began crying when they met.

"She said I was the first American to come to their village. She was just really happy that I was there," Campbell said.

Although the communist party is still the party in power, not all of the Soviet people concur with the communist school of thought. Bonar said he met a 16-year-old boy who was anticommunist and a member of the Greenpeace environmental group. Bonar said he saw an anticommunist demonstrate the bridges when they are closed.

Unlike Charlevoix's bridge, the Russian bridges generally don't go up in the middle of the day and block traffic. They go up and are left up between 2 a.m. and 4 a.m.

The students stayed in an economic cross section of Soviet homes. Scott Campbell and Edith Pair stayed in the same village, but in different types of housing. Campbell stayed in an apartment which was part of an apartment complex. The father in the apartment was a dump-truck driver and the mother was a veterinarian at a collective pig farm. Pair stayed in a nice house where the father was the head of the collective farm.

Pair said she felt the Russian people were anxious to talk to the American students, but it was difficult because of language barriers and because there was a lot packed into the trip and the Americans were often taking tours.

Pair and Katherine Campbell had a pleasant and lengthy discussion with a young lady they met in a disco. Like many other Soviets, the young lady favored recent reforms. Any complaints the Soviets expressed about reform was that it was too slowly.

The students said that while

Leningrad is an architecturally impressive and beautiful city, Moscow is drab. Soviet housing and the lack of goods which Americans take for granted also make the Soviet lifestyle seem somewhat dull by American standards.

Bonar said the home he stayed in was cluttered. He said the family did their best to keep things orderly, but that living space was very limited compared to American homes.

Katherine Campbell said one family she met owned a video cassette recorder (VCR). She said people who can afford cars wait for five years to get one. Almost all of the cars are small and box-shaped.

Bonar, Rostar and Katherine Campbell have been and plan to continue corresponding by mail with Soviet people they met during the trip.

All of the students said they would consider going back for another visit. The People to People trip included a lot of organized tours which were nice for first time visitors.

CHURCH

Arthur J. Drenth

Arthur J. Drenth, 68, of Ellsworth, died Aug. 17, 1990, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals. Funeral was 2 p.m. Monday at the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church. The Rev. Leonard T. Riemersma officiated with burial in Ellsworth Cemetery.

Mr. Drenth was born June 5, 1922, in Ellsworth, the son of John and Margaret (VanderArk) Drenth. He was a veteran of World War II, serving with the U.S. Army in the European Theater.

On Feb. 21, 1946, he married the former Jean Black in Ellsworth. They resided there and owned and operated the Ellsworth Hardware until retiring in 1987.

Mr. Drenth was a member of the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church where he served on the consistory and taught Sunday School.

He was active in the Ellsworth community, serving on the Ellsworth village council for many years and was formerly the village president.

He was a former member of the Ellsworth Fire Department, the Ellsworth Chamber of Commerce, he served on the Ellsworth School Board and was a member of IMPACT, a school support organization.

Survivors include his wife, three daughters, Mrs. Cornell (Sharon) Alofs of Petoskey, Mrs. Bradley (Artis) Jones of East Jordan and Mrs. Ronald (Shirley) Boss of Ellsworth; two sons, Dennis (Hud) and wife Jan and Terry (Tex) and wife Rhonda all of Ellsworth; 10 grandchildren; two brothers, Peter of Ellsworth and Henry of Traverse City; two sisters, Mrs. Melvin (Marge) Essenberg of Ellsworth and Mrs. Bud (Betty) Klooster of Grand Rapids; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Cora Drenth of Ellsworth; several nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by a brother, Gerrit in 1974.

The family suggests memorials to the Ellsworth Christian Reformed Church or to the Ellsworth Community School.

Funeral arrangements were handled by the Hastings Funeral Home, Ellsworth.

Harriet D. Towsley

Harriet D. Towsley, 105, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 13, 1990, at Bortz Health Care of Petoskey.

Funeral was 1 p.m. Wednesday, August 15, at the Winchester Funeral Home, Charlevoix. The Rev. Lowell Anderson of the Charlevoix assembly of God Church officiated with burial in Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The former Harriet D. Murphy was born Jan. 9, 1885, in Echo Township, Antrim County, the daughter of John and Margaret (Hosler) Murphy. She grew up in that area and attended Pleasant Valley school.

On June 3, 1905, she married Amos M. Towsley in East Jordan. The couple moved to Charlevoix in 1921 and Mr. Towsley preceded her in death on June 4, 1969.

Mrs. Towsley was a member of the Community Church of God. She enjoyed gardening, particularly her flower gardens.

Survivors include one son, Harold Towsley of Charlevoix; eight grandchildren; 28 great-grandchildren; 27 great-great-grandchildren and one sister, Belle Sweet of East Jordan.

The family suggests memorials to the Community Church of God in Charlevoix.

Charlevoix Courier SUMMER TIMES

City Recreation Department wraps up summer season

A few hundred softball players, another 350 children at day camp, a little more than 100 kids learning to swim, about 40 golfers and about 40 more tennis players participated in Charlevoix City Recreation Department programs this summer.

"For the size of the community, we offer more than any other community our size in the state," says recreation director Ike Boss.

The city softball program draws the largest number of people. The recreation department has five leagues. Children may begin playing tee-ball at age six and then advance through Peanut and Ponytail leagues to Men's and Women's slow pitch leagues. Softball games begin around Memorial Day and end during the second week in August.

The Camp Charlevoix Day Camp at Mount McSaubia just wrapped up one of its most successful years.

Approximately 350 children participated in one of the eight one-week sessions. Camp director Theresa Noiro, who has been camp director for the past five years, said that despite this summer's shaky weather the camp program went extremely well. Noiro was assisted by college students Amy Roberts, Angie McClanahan, Rob. Sell, Jon Terry, Meg Fowler and Dave Miller.

Children attending the camp do craft projects, play in the woods surrounding the mountain, shoot BB guns and bows, and participate in sand castle building and limbo contests on the Lake Michigan beach. The children attend camp from 9:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Monday through Wednesday and camp in tents Thursday night and finish up camp on noon Friday.

Approximately 110 students braved this summer's often overcast weather to take swimming lessons under the direction of Wendy Crik and Kathy Washburn.

Golf professional Joan Waha helped 42 young people work on their golf game during one-week sessions at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course. At the end of the week, the students took part in a class tournament. Boss said the golf program has come a long way since last year, when Waha began giving lessons.

Another 40 young people participated in one of two four-week tennis clinics under the direction of Peter Cook. Lifeguards at the city's three public beaches are also employed by the city recreation department.

Boss said the recreation department had 17 seasonal full-time employees this summer plus several umpires, scorekeepers and others who work on a part-time basis. Most of the employees are college students.

Several improvements are planned for city recreational facilities. Ferry Beach expanded last year and more improvements will take place there as part of the city's Tax Increment Financing Authority program.

The city recently negotiated a legal agreement which will lead to improvements in parking at Depot Beach. Sometime in the future, the concession and rest room facilities will also be improved at Depot Beach. A floating swim platform was added this summer.

A program to improve the city ball diamonds got underway this spring and will continue this fall. When all is said and done, there will be a tee-ball field to the east of the small softball field which will be modified so that it will be a regulation fast pitch field. A new concession stand and rest room facilities are also included in the plans for improvement.

Yachting Notes

A dying shifting wind greeted the fleet as each start made its way towards the first mark. The 33 boats seem to divide into two fleets going to the first mark with neither one having a distinct advantage. In this type of air anything can and usually does happen.

Blasen II, a boat in the B fleet that corrected first overall, took off and no one could catch her but commodore Pirie was in hot pursuit in case someone made a wrong move. A couple of J boats were up near the front also with the big boat fleet not making it to the front before the shortened race was completed. Chuck Gosling and crew in Hot Mustard is giving the Jam boys fits again and led the fleet from start to finish. In the Jam fleet it was Hot Mustard followed by: Cheemaun, Stalworth, Bald, Eagle, Maureen, Sonrise, Canusa, Spirit, Our Thyme II, Patriot and Apothecary.

Fleet C: Sizzle, M.F.P., Bandit, Moisture, Con-Fusion, Allons-Y, Sonnat, welcome back Charlie.

Fleet B: Blasen II, MI-Joy, Sandpiper, Cygnus, Cabaret, Original Sin, Foxy Lady, Tireless, Lost Vermonter and Polestar.

Fleet A: Apprentice, Gotcha, Flash, Pygmalion, Humdinger, and Slap Shot.

Over the last weekend, the first James Duke Memorial race to Northport was held. This was a couples race with Paul and Dee Hoadly winning the spinnaker fleet in Foxy Lady and Bill Schultz in Fury, taking tip honors in the jib and main fleet. A great time was had by all at dockside and all were looking forward to this event growing into a major regatta.

Remember the Annual Red Fox Regatta Labor Day weekend. We're expecting upwards of 100 boats this year so register by Aug 27 to assure yourself a place on the starting line.

Still looking for wind,
The Other Mouse

Growth Alliance hosts open house for Beagle

The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance Board of Directors will host an open house for Dick Beagle on Thursday, August 23, 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., at the Economic Alliance office in Boyne City. Beagle recently announced his resignation as Economic Alliance Coordinator to accept a position at Harbor House Publishers. The Board wants to recognize Beagle's contribution to the Economic Alliance over the past six years.

Friends and business associates of Beagle's are invited to attend.

Please call Sheri Rhoads, Interim Coordinator, for directions and more information (582-6482).

Charle-facts

Mt. McSaubia is named for Mic-a-Saubie, an Ottawa chief from the Kalamazoo Valley, who settled in Charlevoix in 1855.

Medad Thompson, who arrived in Charlevoix in 1854, is said to have harvested 80 bushels of apples from his 13 trees. He also had 900 maple trees which "produced enough maple syrup to promise an enterprising business." The syrup was sealed in air-tight cans and sold for $2.50 a gallon.

Art Fair awards annual scholarship

Gregg Seaman, a 1990 Charlevoix High School graduate, has been awarded this year's Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair Scholarship.

The scholarship, underwritten by the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair Committee with proceeds from the annual August art fair, is a competitive scholarship intended to assist a Charlevoix area student to continue a career in the fine arts.

Seaman, 18, will attend Siena Heights College in Adrian. Siena Heights also awarded Seaman a $3800 four-year competitive scholarship toward tuition costs.

Seaman, who displayed his pen and ink work at this year's art fair, said his primary goal, while studying for a Bachelor's of fine Arts degree is "to broaden my art education and explore everything."

"I have known forever that I wanted to be an artist," he smiled shyly, pulling out a library of cartoon books. "I have been doing this since my crayola days."

Suzi Reis, spokesperson for the art fair committee, commented, "We were thrilled to award Gregg this scholarship. It is a continuation of the founding premise of the Charlevoix Art Fair—to bring fine art to northern Michigan and to promote it every way possible. What better way is there than to send one of our Charlevoix graduates off to study art?"

H&R Block Offers Income Tax Course in Charlevoix

Thousands of people learn how to prepare income tax returns from H&R Block and then earn money as income tax preparers. H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, offers its Income Tax Course starting September 10th. Morning, afternoon, evening, and weekend classes are available.

Experienced instructors teach tax law, theory, and application. Classroom discussion and practice problems provide students with a thorough understanding of each tax topic included in the course. Students learn how to handle increasingly complex income tax situations as the course progresses.

Ideal for people who want to increase their tax knowledge, the course teaches students how to save money on their taxes and also prepares them for a rewarding career.

The affordable fee includes textbooks and supplies. Graduates receive Certificates of Achievement and continuing education units (CEUs). Qualified graduates of the course may be offered job interviews with H&R Block but are under no obligation to accept employment.

Those interested in more information about the H&R Block Income Tax Course may contact the H&R Block office in Charlevoix - call (616) 547-0660.

Gill's father built many of town's early homes

by Geoffrey D. Reynolds

With all the new building occurring in and around Charlevoix one wonders who built the old, classic homes that make our town so charming. Well, one such builder was William Higman, father of LaRue Higman Gill.

"My parents came to Charlevoix from Bluffton, Indiana in 1908. It took six days by train and they had to bring all their own food for the trip, except for a few times when they stopped at a town to take on wood for the steam engine. After the six day trip they arrived at the Belvedere depot and entered Charlevoix for the first time. My father used to say that my brother, George, always cried while the train stopped but was very quiet when the train was underway.

"My father came to Charlevoix to find a good climate to avoid the problems of consumption (tuberculosis) that they experienced in Indiana and because of the carpenter jobs available building cottages for the resorts, like, Chicago, and Belvedere. He also built the majority of the houses on Dixon and Michigan Avenue. Some of these were the May houses (#429 and #431 Michigan Avenue), built in 1917 for David May and son. I remember a man telling me when I was older and my father had passed away, that he had bought one of the May houses. This man asked me if I knew who had built this house he had bought. And I told him that my father had built it. This man went on to explain how he had planned to fix portions of it due to the age, but had never found any reason due to the workmanship that went into it.

LaRue Higman Gill is the subject of this week's Charlevoix Memories segment. Gill's father, William Higman, built many of Charlevoix's oldest homes.

"Another of his accomplishments was the home of Dr. Rassieur, near Mt. McSaubra (Turtle Hill). He was in charge of the building of that home. Another he built was closer to town on the Mt. McSaubra Road, called the L.E. Block House (Hilltop Cottage). One Saturday he took me out there for the day. I rode on the handle bars of his bike all the way. While he worked, I played in the wood shavings, sticking several curls of the shavings in my hair. I did this because my hair was straight and I thought it was a good time to grow curls.

"My father also was in charge when the Colonial Club was made into a gambling club. The homes he had built were also under his charge and even though Mrs. Cook thought a fireplace was an extravagance, Mr. Cook had my dad add a fireplace, $50 each, to each house he appointed. And each year after that when Mr. Cook arrived for the summer he brought my dad a panama hat insisting that he needed a new one.

"He also worked for the Loeb family as the house carpenter until Mr. Loeb died. My father was in charge of the wood interiors of the house and was responsible for their care as well as the other building and the exterior of the house. While my father worked for the Loeb family, my step-mother, Milada, would trade baked goods for Mrs. Loeb's beautiful pansy plants.

"When they finished the barns at Loeb Farm the Loeb family invited all workers and their families to this big open house. They had tables set-up with food galore. They had sandwiches and everything we could think of to eat.

"When my father wasn't working he used to take me places downtown. Sometimes on Saturday nights he would take me to the natural spring fountain that used to be in Veteran's Park. There would be all these men sitting there talking and waiting for their wives to finish shopping or doing something. And my arm would get so tired while my father held my little hand and talked for so long. Then he would take me down the street to Bert Beaudouine's ice cream parlor and buy me an ice cream sundae which was my treat for the week."

SCRAPBOOK

Court House, Charlevoix, Mich

Located at State and Antrim Streets, this was the Charlevoix County Court House in 1912, long before the present one was built at State and Mason Streets. Plans for another new Court House are now being discussed, this time to be located near the Sheriff's Department on Garfield Street.

Theater group to read script

"Fire in the trees," an original script by Traverse City playwright, Patrick Newcomb, will be read by members of the Jordan River Players at 7 p.m. Monday, Aug. 27, at Jordan River Arts Center, 301 Main St., East Jordan. The public is invited.

About sex and violence in the nuclear age, the three act play explores the dynamics between two men and a woman trying to escape the terror of a nuclear attack by blockading themselves in a northern Michigan cabin.

Jordan River Players, who meet on the fourth Monday of every month, read an unproduced script each month with plans to select one for a future staged reading or production. After the unrehearsed reading, the audience will be invited to give feedback to the playwright. Todd Gillespie and Amy Schinkath of Boyne Falls.

Council wants four, not six, launch ramps

For now there will continue to be four launching ramps at Ferry Beach. After two Downtown Development Authority (DDA) board members agreed to support four rather than six ramps, the city council approved acceptance of a $215,000 state grant for the Ferry Beach project.

The council action occurred following a lengthy discussion at a special meeting Monday evening. The matter was placed on the agenda of the special meeting after council member Ken Whitley raised questions about the Ferry Beach site plan at the council's Aug. 20 meeting. Whitley said that when the council originally reviewed the site plan, it called for renovating the four ramps currently at Ferry Beach. When the plan came back Aug. 20, two new ramps had been added.

At the Aug. 20 meeting, council members weren't sure whether they or the DDA had authority to alter the site plan. An attorney's opinion received between Aug. 20 and Aug. 27 indicated the DDA is responsible for the site plan. However the council still had leverage, because they could approve or disapprove acceptance of the state grant.

At Monday's meeting four council members indicated they leaned toward four rather than six ramps. Whitley and council member Butch Russell argued that six ramps will only add to parking problems for boat trailers and lead to boats encroaching on the swimming area. Council members Jim Potter and Bill Haggard said that once the four ramps are in good repair, they should be able to handle the demand. Potter and Haggard noted that they felt the council could accept the grant and then talk about whether there should be four or six docks.

The DDA met prior to the special council meeting and supported six rather than four ramps, but only by a 5-4 vote. Mayor Gary Probert, who is a voting member of the DDA, supported having six ramps.

At the beginning of the council discussion, Probert had the city clerk read a letter from the Department of Natural Resources. The letter cited boating figures which indicate that Michigan is a popular state for boating and that boating popularity is expected to grow.

Former council and DDA member Jeff Porter, who along with former council members Bob Timms and Shirley Roloff opposed having six ramps, said that just because there are a lot of boats in Michigan doesn't mean they all have to be launched at Ferry Beach.

Jim Withers favored six rather than four ramps. He said the Chamber of Commerce spends money to bring people into the area.

people into the area, we've got to accommodate them," he said.

Rachel Niswander, who works at the launch ramp during the summer, said she felt six ramps would help move things along and mean less waiting for boaters.

Whitley reiterated his position that six ramps would lead to more clutter in limited space.

Local scouts hike Isle Royal

(Editor's note: The following story was submitted by Charlevoix's Troop 11 Boy Scouts.)

While thousands of out-of-towners flock to Charlevoix to enjoy our fine town, 11 Charlevoix Boy Scouts and five of their leaders experienced a unique high adventure. The group visited our nearest island national park, Isle Royale.

Troop 11 departed from Charlevoix Friday morning at 7 a.m. and traveled by caravan stopping in Munising, Marquette, Houghton and finally, Fort Wilkins State Park in Copper Harbor.

After an evening of camping and touring Ft. Wilkins, a restored Garrison Fort near the oldest light house on Lake Superior, the Scouts caught the 8 a.m. ferry to Rock Harbor.

For many of the boys this was the first time they had been to Copper Harbor on the Keweenaw Peninsula and the first time they had taken an extended ferry ride.

The Troop and all out island visitors were presented with a short orientation of the island's moose and wolf population by the National Park Service personnel. Special consideration was needed for water treatment and, of course, the serious necessity of limiting impact on the fragile ecosystem found on and about the island.

Due to our troop size, we were required to form two groups so that we would not heavily impact the trails or campsites on the island.

The island is more than 45 miles long and 8 1/2 miles wide with more than 170 miles of backcountry wilderness hiking trails.

Charlevoix Scouts concentrated their trek on the Northeastern third of the island, Rock Harbor, Mt. Franklin, Mt. Ojibway, Lake Richie, Daisy Farms, Chickenbone Lake, McCargo Cove, Minong Mines and Todd Harbor were the main places and sites that the Scouts visited. Each Scout got a chance to lug their 40 pound backpack up the 1136 foot Mt. Ojibway on the Greenstone Trail.

Several Scouts said this was physically the hardest thing they had done in their lives. Others said it was the most exciting adventure they had ever had.

Many of the Scouts have already begun making plans for next summer's High Adventure trip and nearly all would like to trek Isle Royale sometime again.

All the Scouts and leaders hiked the 50 miles minimum requirement for the 50 mile foot patch offered by the Boy Scouts of America.

The scout leaders who accompanied the troop step by step were: James Smith, John Pfluecke, Gerald Chase, Gregg Rowell, and scoutmaster Jack Laucher.

The Scouts will complete ten hours in a group community service project to fulfill the requirements for the extremely difficult to achieve, 50 miles afoot patch.

Eleven Charlevoix Boy Scouts and five scout leaders recently went hiking and camping on Isle Royal. The scouts and the leaders are (front from left) John Pfluecke and John Chase, (second row) Jack Laucher, David Bellairs, Mike Staton, Andrew Laucher, Eric Rowell, James Pfluecke, Gerald Chase, (third row) Chris Lindemier, Ron Zellers, Gregg Rowell, Scott Burns and Jim Smith (back row in corner) Gary Arnold and Steve Knit.

Letters bring back fond memories of town's past

by EDITH GILBERT

Two nostalgic letters landed on my desk recently which I'd like to share with those who care to stroll down memory lane, or more specifically Bridge Street during the '30's, '40's, '50's and '60's.

The first is from Jim Haggard, who now lives in Laguna Beach. He is the brother of Bill Haggard presently serving on the City Council.

Jim writes, "Just a short note to let you know how much I enjoy your stories in the Courier. Your article on the Mettler shop took me back to the years of the Polly Kay shop, when shopping was an event. My mother Polly did such a beautiful job buying in New York and Kay had a real talent with decorating the shop's interior."

"The same customers came back year after year from the Clubs, Michigan Ave., Park Ave., Dixon etc. The Miss Daisy's cars would line up in front of the old Polly Kay shop with its window boxes overflowing with petunias BDB (Before Dale Boss)."

Although the Polly Kay shop is no longer a part of Charlevoix, it still lives on in Morristown, Tenn. George Haggard's wife Shirley has kept the name alive and her daughter Carol (she looks just like Polly) runs the business now.

Going to Europe on the "Aquatania" and "Europa" was never as exciting as the commotion of leaving the Municipal Pier in Chicago and the fanfare of entering the CROWDS at the bridge and dock. The very slow speed allowed the aroma of galley steaks and chops to engulf the stately, aliding "Manitou". What an entrance!

The Joneses as well as summer resident Chris Ransom are attending the Sept. 27th weekend at Warren Wilson, a liberal arts college, in the Blue Ridge Mountains in North Carolina. Two Charlevoix students have received Ransom scholarships to the work-study program at this multi-cultural college that stresses ecology and community service.

The Joneses conclude their remembrances with the comment that "on every beautiful morning in Princeton, we say: 'This is a Charlevoix day.' In fact, my mother shouted this every spring and fall when we lived in Chicago."

Those are the letters I like to receive!

REASONABLE TO ME
L. SCOTT SWANSON

Produce under glass

I've tried to keep active in recent weeks, because my wife has been canning anything that holds still for a moment.

She started with cucumbers which somehow become pickles as soon as they're stuck in jars. A cucumber is simply a pickle in its larva stage.

This is the first year our cucumber plants have done anything. We've only got four or five plants, but they've been productive, each plant bearing many a fine pickle.

She canned some carrots too. I'd never seen that done before and I don't like the looks of it. They were just little carrots and she canned them whole, without slicing them up or anything. The little carrots drift around in the jar. Somehow they remind me of those little animal embryos that used to float in the formaldehyde on the shelves in biology class.

Corn and peas only taste good when they're uncanned and straight out of the garden. Cooking, freezing or canning carrots or peas ruins them. Why even harvest them if all you're going to do is cook them or destroy them in some other fashion?

Of course that's just my opinion and my wife chooses not to let that stand in her way. She's canning the carrots and claims she and the baby will enjoy them through the winter. To each his, or her, own.

Peaches got canned, and why do they call it "canning" anyway? These things aren't put in cans. They're put in jars. The process should be called jarring, not canning.

I remember one year, when I was young, and every year that seems to be longer ago...there was a jar shortage. Jars were tough to come by and lids even tougher.

I'm not sure what caused this jar shortage. Maybe a late frost in the spring froze out the jar crop or something. Anyhow, half the homemakers in Michigan found themselves either jarless or lidless.

Rumor had it that there were jars to be had in Florida. Think of that. Why do they need jars in Florida? They don't need to can things to carry them through the winter. They don't have winter in Florida.

But they had jars in Florida and people in Michigan wanted them. So while men were trying to find people traveling to Colorado who would bring back Coors beer, women were trying to find people traveling to Florida who would bring back a bootleg case of Ball mason jars.

And it wasn't easy to find people going to Florida because it was summer. Nobody leaves Michigan to go to Florida in the summer. The weather's nicer here. So the homemakers of Michigan were in quite a pickle and I don't remember just how they got through it.

Peaches were my wife's latest canning victims. She bought two bushels of them at an area farm last week and this past Saturday afternoon she canned them.

It was an emergency, code peach, priority canning. The hot and humid weather we had late last week was no good for peaches. One day they weren't even ripe and the next day they were on the brink of spoiling. She couldn't let two nice bushels of peaches spoil. That would have been the pits.

So she hauled out the kettles and fired up the stove. She laid a chair across the kitchen doorway to barricade the baby out. We opened up the doors and windows and hauled out the fan. Despite these measures, that kitchen soon heated up like a sauna. Only a Finlander could enjoy such an environment.

But a few hours later, she had finished and several jars stood in rows on the kitchen counter. Each jar held several golden peaches in suspended animation.

Those peaches will make fine cobbler come the dark cold days of winter.

Club created park

Editor,

The Pert Charlevoix Park on W. Dixon Ave. is a memorial to the 200th anniversary of our country's birth on July 4, 1776. It was the vision and the accomplishment of the Charlevoix Area Garden Club. Help was given by the city and county, but the planning, work, planting and celebration on July 4, 1976 were all carried out by the club. The bronze plaque on the stone confirms this.

In the Garden Club files there is an extensive history of the site going back to pre-historical times. It also tells of the archaeological dig which went on at the time and revealed the information.

We won state and national recognition for the creation of the park.

There were no personal donations, as stated in the Chamber of Commerce brochure for 1990.

Society—that's us—is going to have to come up with answers pretty soon about the so-called "right to die."

Hardly a day goes by that the question doesn't appear in the news.

As things stand, too many people are being put through an emotional wringer when humane, common-sense decisions about bowing out gracefully come in conflict with the law.

In a recent case, a man and wife and their daughter, flew from California to Michigan so that the man's terminally ill wife could commit suicide. The family "understood" that aid-suicide is legal in Michigan ever since Dr. Jack Kevorkian of Royal Oak allowed Janet Adkins to avail herself of his controversial "suicide machine."

Dr. Kevorkian wasn't prosecuted and word has gone out that if you want to do yourself in, Michigan is the place to come.

Outsiders look upon the Water Wonderland as sort of a do-it-yourself "Boot Hill."

Of course, this isn't the case. Michigan and all other states frown on aiding and abetting a suicide.

That is why Bertram (Robert) Harper, 72, of Sacramento faces a murder rap in Wayne County. He accompanied his wife, Virginia Lee Harper, 69, to Detroit last week, checked into a motel and offered comfort and compassion while Mrs. Harper took pills and put a plastic bag over her head. Their daughter, Shanda McGrew, also was at her mother's bedside.

When it was over, Harper and McGrew notified authorities that Mrs. Harper was dead.

Although McGrew wasn't charged, her father was. He was held in the Wayne County Jail until an unknown benefactor in Sacramento posted his $25,000 bond over the weekend.

Is all this legal posturing necessary? There obviously was no malice involved in Mrs. Harper's death. Her chances of recovery were practically nonexistent and she didn't want to undergo the agony of a prolonged illness. She probably also knew that extended care would bankrupt her family. She wanted out. Now.

In an unrelated case, an 86-year-old Grosse Pointe Farms man who is blind and bed-ridden with a broken hip doesn't want to be force fed.

Ernie Hayes is not terminally ill and still thinks clearly. He simply doesn't want anyone jamming a tube down his nose to dribble Pabulum into his stomach. He said he had it done once and it really hurt.

That case has gone to Probate Court. In the meantime, Ernie is going hungry.

In other Michigan cases, people who have slipped into irreversible vegetative states for one reason or another are being kept alive by machines for weeks, months, years—even though they have left explicit instructions that they don't want to be kept alive by extraordinary means.

How did we get ourselves into this mess? Part of the reason is that modern medical technology has given us the ability to prolong life almost indefinitely—regardless of the quality of the life being prolonged.

Another factor, in my opinion, is that doctors have become gun-shy in our super litigious society. They go to extraordinary lengths to save lives rather than face capricious malpractice lawsuits by the next-of-kin.

I also have a feeling that in years past doctors were called upon to "play God" whether they liked it or not. Somebody had to make hard decisions and doctors certainly seemed to be the best equipped. Furthermore, no one questioned their integrity or competence.

I know of at least one case in my family in which a relative with a rapidly deteriorating physical and mental condition was speeded on her journey through the velvet curtain by a powerful doctor-prescribed sedative. All it took was one dose.

Was it a mercy killing? That question has been brought up in the family. But if it ever is, I'm sure we'll all agree the important word here is "mercy" and not "killing."

Holy Island, the small island in the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, was used by the Mormons as a meeting and feasting place. One such feast, called "Feast of First Fruits", was held in the early summer of 1857, ostensibly to let John Dixon, Charlevoix first permanent non-Mormon resident, know he was not welcome.

County seeks 2.5 mills for courthouse

By Peg Ohle

After two years of discussion and planning, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners last week voted to put a millage proposal for a new Court House on the November General Election ballot.

The 2.5 mill levy for three years would create a sinking fund amounting to approximately $4.5 million dollars. The money would be invested as it comes in and yield about $650,000 in interest, according to members of the building committee.

Plans for the $4.5 million include a new Court House, to be built near the Sheriff's Department on Garfield Avenue, and renovation of the present County Building.

The court House would house offices and judges' chambers of Circuit, District, and Probate courts, the Prosecuting Attorney, a law library, and courtroom.

Renovation of the County Building would include plumbing and heating systems, painting, carpeting, adding an elevator, and probably redesigning office spaces.

District Health Department No. 3, which is now housed in the County Building Annex, plans to construct a building of its own, also on county property near the Sheriff's Department. When the present health department building (remembered by some as the old county jail) is vacated, it will probably be torn down to make room for more parking.

The Building Inspection and Retirement Services Departments now housed in the second annex building at the rear of the parking lot will probably be moved into the main County Building.

A Building Authority appointed by the County Board of Commissioners would oversee the construction of the new Court House and renovation of the County Building.

Based on present property valuations, an owner of a $50,000 house ($25,000 equalized valuation) would pay $62.50 each of the three years to build the Court House and renovate the County Building.

County seeks half mill for operations

By Peg Ohle

Charlevoix County residents will have another chance, in the November General Election, to approve or disapprove the allocated tax levy which was defeated in the August Primary election.

The allocation, which would be levied for four years, calls for 5.2 mills for county operations, 9.1 mills for schools operations, 1 mill for township operations, and .2 of a mill for the Char-Em Intermediate schools.

The levy for schools and townships is the same as in the past four years, but the county levy is up .5 of a mill from the previous 4.7 mills.

According to County Board members, this is the first time in 20 years they have asked for an increase in their operating millage.

There was no explanation or publicity about the millage prior to the Primary election, and some commissioners believe it was defeated because it was not understood.

The .5 of a mill increase would cost the owner of a house valued at $50,000 ($25,000 equalized value) an additional $12.50 in taxes each year. County-wide, this would amount to about $290,000 each year.

If the millage proposition fails, the county will set up an allocation board to divide 15 mills among the county, schools, and townships, as permitted under state law.

Defense fund established for Lynch

A fund has been established to help defray legal defense costs of Richard Lynch, former commander of the U.S. Coast Guard Cutter Mesquite.

Lynch was the commander of the Mesquite when it ran aground in Lake Superior last December. The ship was subsequently decommissioned and the Coast Guard decided to pursue court martial proceedings against Lynch.

Lynch is fighting the court martial which began Monday in New York. If the trial lasts at least two weeks as expected, Lynch's legal fees will be at least $26,000. Even if he is found innocent of the charges, those fees are nonrecoverable.

Bruce Hamilton, a local minister who also serves as a chaplain to area Coast Guardsmen, said the fund has been established because several people wanted to help the Lynchs without official Coast Guard involvement. The defense fund is a vehicle to allow people who have expressed an interest in helping the Lynchs an opportunity to do so.

People wishing to contribute may send contributions to the First State Bank to be deposited in the Richard Lynch defense fund.

BUSINESS

Horton Bay plans annual bridge walk

Charlevoix area residents won't have to take the long drive to Mackinaw City for a Bridge Walk on Labor Day.

They can spend a leisurely day at home, have an early dinner, then drive to Horton Bay, where they will be entertained before joining in the processional candle-light walk across Horton Creek.

The true meaning of Labor Day (Labor's Day) will be expressed by "hard hats" calling for a four-day work-week Universal child care, A toast in every even, and other Utopian ideas.

C. T. Long of Lansing and Horton Bay will deliver a rousing call to arms by laborers, not to be outdone by "Ivana and Donald Trump," who will arrive by limousine to cast bars at each other. However, Donald will disclose his plans to end unemployment in Charlevoix County and, incidentally, recoup some of his recent losses.

Trump's plans revolve around constructing a skyscraper Taj Mahal next to the Horton Bay Store, consisting of layers upon layers of house trailers.

Tommy Tropic will add to the entertainment with his bicycle-riding juggling act, and "George Bush" will be there with his golf cart. So will some of the recently escaped "Saudi Arabians."

Bridge walkers will gather at 8:15 p.m. in the vacant lot between High Street and the white ranch house next to the store. From there, they will proceed with lighted candles (bring your own candle) to the bridge, singing songs of work and war along the way. Pathmaster Bill Ohle will lead the procession, deliver a few words of wisdom, and present certificates to all who make the journey.

Jon Hartwell and his committee suggest that those attending the Bridge Walk wear work clothes—overalls, work boots, hard hats, etc. in the spirit of the day.

T.O.M. elects board members

Newcomer Dale Farrier of Mancelona and incumbents William Korthase of Boyne City and Dr. Harold "Doc" McCaughrin of Petoskey were recently elected by Top O' Michigan member-owners to three-year terms on the Board of Directors.

A record 3,205 ballots were cast at the Aug. 11th membership meeting which took place at the company's Boyne City headquarters.

This aerial photo shows the 175 Airstream trailers which recently gathered at the Charlevoix airport for a state convention. Organizers of the convention wish to thank all of the members of the community who helped and extended their hospitality to the trailer owners.

Sunshine Club has openings

The Sunshine Club will open its doors again this fall on September 4. The Sunshine Club is an after school program for children Kindergarten through fifth grade. It offers fun and learning. Each day will feature a healthy snack, games, crafts, puzzles, movies, outdoor play, and a learning experience centered around the Bible.

The purpose of the Sunshine Club is to provide a low cost, safe, health, supervised program after school for children K-5th grade; to provide helpful, positive adult relationships with the children, and to provide an open, accepting atmosphere where Christ's love is communicated.

The Sunshine Club starts September 4, 1990 and will take place from 3:30 to 5:30 every day that school is in full day session. It is held at the Community Reformed Church of Charlevoix on Petoskey Ave. and transportation can be arranged through the school.

The cost of the program is on a sliding scale beginning at $5 weekly or $1.50 daily. This scale is based on family income. We also offer a transportation and tuition fund for those who present a need. No one will be turned away because of lack of funds.

The Sunshine Club is sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association, participating churches include: Assembly of God, Bethany Lutheran, Christ Episcopal, Church of the Nazarene, Church of God, Community Reformed, East Upright Church of God, First Congregational UCC, First Baptist, Safe Harbor Baptist, St. Mary's, United Methodist.

To enroll your child or get more information call Connie Kramer or Jan Boss at 547-9482.

H&R Block Offers Income Tax Course in Charlevoix

Thousands of people learn how to prepare income tax returns from H&R Block and then earn money as income tax preparers. H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, offers its Income Tax Course starting September 10th. Morning, afternoon, evening, and weekend classes are available.

Experienced instructors teach tax law, theory, and application. Classroom discussion and practice problems provide students with a thorough understanding of each tax topic included in the course. Students learn how to handle increasingly complex income tax situations as the course progresses.

Ideal for people who want to increase their tax knowledge, the course teaches students how to save money on their taxes and also prepares them for a rewarding career.

The affordable fee includes textbooks and supplies. Graduates receive Certificates of Achievement and continuing education units (CEUs). Qualified graduates of the course may be offered job interviews with H&R Block but are under no obligation to accept employment.

Those interested in more information about the H&R Block Income Tax Course may contact the H&R Block office in Charlevoix - call (616) 547-0660.

Boaters prepare for Red Fox Regatta

Sailboats in a wide range of shapes and sizes will gather in Lake Charlevoix this weekend for the popular Red Fox Regatta. Races will take place Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Friday afternoon between 25 and 35 boats will tackle the Charlevoix Yacht Club triangle. Not to be confused with the Bermuda Triangle, the course is a short race of five to eight miles depending on how high the waves are.

Saturday the boats will race from the west end of the lake to the east end around a series of buoys. The 21 mile course will end in Boyne City where racers will have a post race party at the Boyne City pavilion.

Sunday, the boats will leave Boyne City and race back to Charlevoix, again racing approximately 21 miles around a series of buoys.

Boats will range in length from 20 feet up to 65 feet. For the Saturday and Sunday races the boats will be broken down into eight divisions based on a handicap system. This year the race will for the first time have a separate Catamaran division.

Awards will be presented during a brief awards ceremony Sunday evening at the Charlevoix Yacht Club.

Mark Pirie, who along with Gary Gleason is cochairing this year's race, said the Red Fox Regatta is considered to be one of northwestern Michigan's premier sail boat races.

"It's not super serious. It's competitive, but everybody has a good time," Pirie explained.

About half of the boats entered will belong to members of the Charlevoix or Boyne City yacht clubs. The other entries come from all over, but predominantly from other neighboring northern Michigan communities.

SPORTS

Yachting Notes

What a night for racing! A fresh breeze out of the north and a start towards Raspberry Bay. For a few boats, all the marbles for the summer series rested on this one race. There were 35 boats on the lake taking advantage of the nice air and the last race of the summer series. This made for a gigantic traffic jam around the starting area. Not a place for the faint of heart. Two to five-ton boats passing within feet of each other, spinning on their own lengths, sucking the sterns of right of way boats, sails flapping loudly and winches grinding as crews move sails from side to side, shouting instructions and exchanging "pleasantries" with other boats around that were also trying to get through that narrow opening ahead at just the right moment. Love those busy starts!

In the "A" fleet, Gotcha, a J29 sailed by Tom Mueller and Mike Dow, took first place but second to Apprentice in the summer series. Second place for the evening went to Pygmalion followed by Humdinger, Flash, and Mint Julip.

In "B" fleet, the first place boat for the series, MI-Joy sailed by Mark and Carol Price, finished second to Cygnus, sailed by Dylan Stewart and a bunch of his friends - nice job guys - keep Dad off the helm.

The rest of the fleet finished in this order: Sandpiper, Blasen III, Lost Vermonter, Tireless, Cabaret, Foxy Lady, Original Sin, and Polestar.

In "C" fleet, it was Marty Jensen in a J24 over series winner Hank Cawthra's Bandit. The rest of the fleet rounded out with sizzle taking 3rd, followed by Moisture, Con-Fusion, Allons'Y, and MIP.

The JAM fleet looked like a chinese laundry with all those red, protest flags streaming from the rigging off the sails. As in the other fleets, the series winner, Hot Mustard, did not finish first in the last race. Stalworth (nice going Mitch) took first followed by Hot Mustard, Bald Eagle, Son Rise, Cheemaun, Apothecary, Maureen, Canusa, and Our Thyme II.

Three boats represented CYC in the Harbor Springs to Beaver Island race last weekend. They were Apprentice, Gotcha and Pygmalion. They took three of the top six overall spots. Nice wind was the order going over with numerous round ups and other wild gyrations. After arriving, the crews parted hard. Dave Strawbridge took a native with him for crew, Shawn McDonough, who promptly led the rest of the crew astray for the evening. In fact, some were MIA for many hours. Apparently, the race being called off for lack of wind on Sunday was a blessing in disguise for many a crewman. Remember, the Red Fox and CYC triangle are Labor Day weekend.

Still looking for the wind, The Other Mouse at Ferry Beach.

"I'm not saying we don't need it (additional ramp space). I'm saying we don't have the facilities (in terms of space and parking)," Whitley explained.

Hugh Mason of the DDA was at the council meeting. He was one of the five DDA members who voted for six rather than four ramps.

The DDA definitely does not want to lose the grant, Mason said. It that means having four rather than six ramps, then they'll go with four ramps.

Whitley said, "If we (the council) go for that grant tonight, we'll have six ramps. If the DDA wants four ramps, I'll be more than happy to go along with the grant."

Mason and Probert indicated they are willing to change their DDA votes to support four ramps.

Russell said that after hearing Mason and Probert, he would move to accept the grant. Council member Cheri Hoffman seconded the motion which passed 5-1 with Whitley dissenting.

The grant is a 50-50 matching grant with the state share not to exceed $214,700. The city's share will come from Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) funds.

School starts

Remember summer? It's over. Charlevoix public school students report for a half day Tuesday, Sept. 4.

High school begins at 12:30. Middle school begins at 12:35 and the K-5 school opens at 1:30. No lunch will be served at any of the schools on opening day.

Students will notice a few changes at each school. The changes resulted from work done during the summer.

BEACONS

by Rev. Bruce Hamilton

Our family spent Monday on Beaver Island. It was my first ride on the ferry and my first look at the emerald isle. Wandering its sand dunes and exploring its woods gave me a glimpse of an even more relaxed lifestyle than Charlevoix's. I don't know though, if I would be brave enough to try it in winter. If someone from Beaver Island Christian Church happens to read this, invite me over and we'll see.

The most unusual blessing of the day came from the evening's voyage back to Charlevoix. We were out on the lake when that big wave of thunderstorms broke out. I was impressed with lightning out in Oklahoma, but I think lightning out in the middle of Lake Michigan has it beat. We had front row center seats in a celestial shooting gallery. Bolts flashed and dashed all around us, crackling the air with their power.

Have you ever watched them make cotton candy? From the ferry, it seemed like a giant cotton candy machine was at work in the skies all around us. The gray clouds were fluffed and blown and spun in such patterns that you would almost see the hand of the Lord stirring them up with a big stick.

We were traveling with my in-laws. Mom looked at the rain shield that first hit us and as hard as it hit the waters, her first impression was snow. Of course, it wasn't snow (it is still early, isn't it?) but the lake waters were being beaten into a frothy white by the impact of the intense shower.

My eight year old son is the adventurer in our crew. He likes roller coasters that turn his dad green around the gills. The storm didn't turn the ferry quite into a roller coaster. It did remind David of a rocking cradle though. I thought that was kind of neat because I could remind him about the way God, his heavenly Father, watches over him.

And that, my friend, is the whole point of this column. In the sunshine or the rain, God is with you. At home safe in Charlevoix or off in some different part of the world, God is with you. You don't have to wait for a storm in your life to see signs of His care. If you will just open your heart and ask Him, He will be glad to let you know that He is there.

THE BIG ONES WON'T GET AWAY WHEN YOU "HUNT" WITH A CLASSIFIED AD

DISTRICT COURT

Judge Harvey C. Varnum recently heard the following cases in Charlevoix District Court:

Timothy Sorenson, 40, East Jordan, two counts of operating motor vehicle on suspended or revoked license, $305 fine and costs.

Roger Lee Yeager (also known as Ashcraft), 20, Charlevoix, operating motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol: $530 fines and costs, six months' suspension of driver's license with restricted license, and 30 days in county jail with credit for four days served.

Mark C. Kowalske, 29, East Jordan, operating motor vehicle without insurance: $305 fine and costs.

Jesse Lee Silva, 19, Central Lake, operating motor vehicle without insurance, $305 fine and costs.

Jerome Kimble, 40, Charlevoix, violating zoning ordinance (building without permit): $95 fine and costs.

Christopher Lee Roe, 24, Mackinac Island, writing non-sufficient funds check over $50 but under $200: $150 restitution to injured party.

Brian T. Malpass, 17, East Jordan, being a disorderly person in a public place: $104 fine and costs or four days on county work program.

Daniel Washburn, 23, Charlevoix, operating motor vehicle without insurance:

$305 fine and costs.
Dennis W. Andrlich, 44, Boyne City, writing non-sufficient funds check under $50: $205 fine and costs and $60.52 refund to injured party.

Patrick D. Zundel, 22, Charlevoix, driving with suspended or revoked license: $205 fine and costs.

Search continues for missing girl

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department and Charlevoix City Police Department continue to search for a missing 13-year-old girl, Heather Elizabeth Kleiber. She was last seen riding her bike near the middle school between midnight Aug. 16 and 1:30 a.m. Aug. 17.

A reward of $1,000 is offered for information leading to her confirmed location and/or return to her family.

In a prepared statement, the sheriff's department said officers have interviewed 123 people and followed up 63 tips on the case.

Kleiber has long curly brown hair and hazel eyes. She is 5'3" and weighs 125 pounds. When last seen, she was wearing faded blue jeans, a black T-shirt, and a brown leather "bomber" jacket.

Anyone with information should phone the Charlevoix Police Department at 547-3255 or the sheriff's department at 547-4461.

Search continues for drowning victim

John Case, 62, of Charlevoix is missing and presumed drowned following an Aug. 21 boating accident on Lake Michigan. Case and his 26-year-old son, Kelly, were in an 18-foot fishing boat which sank at about noon one mile south of Fisherman's Island.

After the boat sank, Case and his son, Kelly, were in a floatation device until the elder Case became exhausted. Kelly, Case was able to hang on until another boat found him approximately three hours later.

On the day of the accident winds on Lake Michigan were northeast at 10 knots with waves of two to three feet. Although the air temperature was 75 degrees, the water temperature was only 55 degrees.

A Department of Natural Resources patrol boat took Kelly Case from the rescue boat to an ambulance on shore. The ambulance transported him to Charlevoix Area Hospital where he was treated and released.

The U.S. Coast Guard lifeboat station in Charlevoix, the U.S. Coast Guard helicopter unit out of Traverse City, the Charlevoix Sheriff's Department marine patrol and Fisherman's Island park rangers also responded to the incident. They searched the water and the shoreline until 8:15 p.m. when the search was called off.

School board handles routine issues

by Wendi Wright

"Out with the old, and in with the new," was the theme at the Charlevoix Board of Education's regular meeting Aug. 20.

First, Max Novak, board president, welcomed Ken Boss back to the board after a two month absence. Boss was appointed to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Janet Rathke August 6. Boss had just left the board in June, when the position he was filling on the board came up for election. Next, Richard Kelly, school business manager, asked the board to approve the sale of six old school buses and one pickup truck for a total of $3037. The new buses the school ordered last spring will arrive this September. Kelly said that the money raised from the sale of the old vehicles would be used to offset the cost of the new activity bus.

Finally, David Smith, high school principal reported that asbestos was being removed from the high school building, and that the removal would be completed well in advance of the start of the new school year.

School contract negotiations continue

Although Charlevoix schools opened Sept. 4, new contracts for both teachers and support staff are still unresolved. Contracts covering both unions expired Aug. 31, but negotiations are continuing.

Salaries and benefits account for more than 70 percent of the Charlevoix school systems' $6.48 million annual budget. That percentage figure is comparable to most other school systems.

Contract negotiations have been taking place throughout the summer with school negotiators updating school board members. Both the negotiations and updates have been closed to the public.

The contract with the teacher's union covers 75 certified staff members. The school's negotiating team consists of superintendent Gordon VanWieren and board members Max Novak, Ardith Wieland and Doris Pearl. The union negotiating team consists of teachers Tom Sothard, Karen Pierce, Barry Pierce and Yvonne Wendt.

The contract which recently expired was for three years. Teachers received seven percent salary increases during each of those three years.

During the 1989-90 school year, the teacher salary scale for the Charlevoix school system ranged from $20,913 to $40,043. However, since there were no teachers in the Charlevoix school system without previous teaching experience, the actual lowest teaching salary was $23,437. Coaching duties and class or group advisorships may add anywhere from $200 to 12 percent of an employee's salary to the compensation figure.

According to recently published Michigan Department of Education figures for 1988-89, the last year for which complete figures are available, the average Charlevoix teacher salary was $33,123. That figure was the second highest among 38 schools in northwest Lower Michigan. Harbor Springs had the highest average salary at $35,396.

The contract with the support workers union covers 39 employees. School business manager Rich Kelly is negotiating for the school. Union official Dave Bowman is negotiating for the support personnel.

Under the three-year contract which expired Aug. 31, support workers received annual raises of five, seven and eight percent. Charlevoix school support staff are paid on an hourly basis according to a scale which ranges from a low of $7.55 per hour to $14.86 per hour. However, in 1989-90 nobody was at the top of the scale. The highest actual hourly salary was $14.34 per hour.

In a phone interview late last week, Kelly said he's optimistic that the support union contract will be resolved.

"That doesn't mean we're going to settle tomorrow, but I'm optimistic," he said.

The school also employs 22 people who are not covered by the teachers' or support workers' union contracts. In addition, the school pays four public library employees with revenues from a half mill which is levied for the library.

The beginning of the school year brought changes for these three youngsters. They had to switch from the Ferry Beach playground to the playground at school. The three are (front then clockwise) Nathan Jones, Kelly Ward and Anna Psihopaidas.

New ad rep joins Courier staff

Diane Fowler has joined the Courier staff as the paper's advertising representative. Fowler moved to Charlevoix in July and brings with her an interesting mix of employment experience obtained in Grand Rapids, New York, Chicago and Wisconsin.

"I'd spent time up here and wanted to make this my permanent home," she says of her move to Charlevoix.

Fowler grew up in Grand Rapids and attended East Grand Rapids High School. Following high school, she attended the University of Michigan where she earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree.

After graduating from U of M, she worked for two years as a flight attendant on Eastern Airlines out of New York City. Later she was employed by Beecham Cosmetics of Chicago in marketing and product development.

She then returned to Grand Rapids where she worked in the sales department of an equipment leasing firm. In her second tour of duty in New York City, Fowler worked in the marketing department of an executive recruiting firm.

While in Wisconsin, Fowler briefly taught an art class and was active in local museums. Fowler's interests include painting, sculpting, swimming, boating, fishing, tennis and cooking. Her parents, David and Dawn Fowler, live in Grand Rapids, but have a summer home in Charlevoix.

City purchases property for DPW complex

The late humorist Will Rogers reportedly said that land is always a good investment because they're just not making any more of it.

Tuesday evening, Char-levoix's city council voted to spend $103,000 to purchase 6.38 acres of land as the future site for a new department of public works (DPW) complex. The land is off of U.S. 31 just south of the city limits adjacent to the old city brush dump.

City administrators and the city council have been researching the land purchase for the past several months. (See related story on page 7.) That research was done in closed sessions. Tuesday evening's discussion and decision to purchase occurred in an open council session.

In addition to purchasing two parcels of property for a total of $103,000, the city will purchase an eight-month option on a third parcel of property.

Ahead-lines

Acacia leaves port for a while

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Acacia departed for Milwaukee Thursday, Aug. 30 to attend the Milwaukee Maritime Festival. Besides conducting tours of the cutter, Acacia will be demonstrating the setting and relieving of a buoy off of Milwaukee's Juneau Park. Last year, over 20,000 people toured the ship during the three-day event.

From Milwaukee, Acacia will steam for Sturgeon Bay, Wis. to be drydocked at Bay Shipbuilding Corporation. This is a routine maintenance period where new ship's service generators will be installed, fuel tanks cleaned, anchor chain replaced, and weight handling gear tested. The ship's damage control team will attend fire fighting school in Toledo during this period while other crewmembers will be busy standing fire watches and inspecting the shipyard's work.

Acacia plans to return to Charlevoix in the middle of October for about one week before sailing to Lake Superior to begin decommissioning buoys.

...city spends $103,000 for property

adjacent to the others.
City manager Mike Wiesner referred to the smallest parcel of property as the "Laramie parcel." The city will pay $13,000 for that. The second, and larger, parcel of property is owned by Manthel Development. The city agreed to pay $90,000 for that.

The third parcel of property, presently owned by C.H. Smith would add approximately 5.4 acres to the site. If the city chooses to exercise their option and purchase that parcel, Smith would be paid $44,500. That would bring the city's total outlay for the property to $147,500.

Council member Butch Russell cast the lone vote of dissent on the property purchase. He said he felt the property was too expensive.

Council member Cheri Hoffman supported the property purchase, saying, "If we wait on this, it isn't going to be there."

The cost of purchasing the property pales in comparison to the cost of building a new DPW facility. Wiesner offered a ballpark estimate of between $2 million and $2.5 million to construct new buildings to house city street, water and electrical department personnel and equipment.

Funds for the property purchase will come from the city's fund balance and various DPW funds. Russell asked Wiesner where money to construct the new DPW building will come from and if raising those funds will mean raising electric, water and sewer rates.

Wiesner said nothing definite has been set up, but increasing rates to establish a sinking fund to accumulate money for the building is a possible method of funding.

He also suggested the possibility of amending the Tax Increment Financing Authority (TIFA) plan to use TIFA money to purchase the property where the current DPW building is located. In other words the city would use TIFA funds to purchase property from itself and then channel those funds into construction of a new DPW complex.

A member of the audience asked if the city has any plans for the property overlooking Ferry Beach, where DPW facilities are presently located. Council member Ken Whitley, who also serves on a committee to update the city's master plan, fielded that question.

Whitley said the past master plan suggested selling the property for private development. He said he has adamantly opposed that and wants the city to keep the property. Whitley said several people on the master plan update committee supported selling the property, but he and others on the committee opposed that. He suggested the property be used for parking. As a compromise, the committee agreed to suggest that the city keep the land and use it as park land.

Although no timetable was mentioned for the design and construction of a new DPW complex, the city will have to decide within the eight-month option period whether or not to purchase the third parcel of property.

The purchase of the two parcels of property was based upon several conditions which included: that the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) not consider the property a wetland area; that the township rezoned the property from commercial to a zoning classification suitable for a public works site; that the property pass a soil contamination check.

Prior to deciding to pursue the property on U.S. 31, city administrators looked at several other parcels of property.

Merchants Association to meet

The Charlevoix Merchants Association will meet at 5:30 p.m., Sept. 11 at Stafford's Weathervane. Topics for the meeting are: A policy for future sidewalk sales; Establishing a merchant's association board; developing a Christmas season advertising campaign.

Sheriff warns of solicitors

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is cautioning local business people and residents to beware of phone solicitors asking for money to support local law enforcement.

A recent news release by sheriff George Lasater advises, "Your local law enforcement in Charlevoix County appreciates the fact that businesses want to support their police agencies, but these telephone solicitations are, on the whole, of no benefit to your local law enforcement agency."

The Sheriff's Office supports the Michigan Sheriff's Association. All contacts are made in person with a letter of introduction from Sheriff Lasater on department letterhead.

The news release recommends a policy of not getting involved with law enforcement telephone solicitation. People with questions may phone the sheriff's department at 547-4461.

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

Observing bridge walkers

This old guy was comparing the food of various senior citizen centers he had eaten at. I didn't hear all of the details since I've always slept well on school buses and was beginning to nod off.

I was on a school bus crossing the Mackinac Bridge, yes "the Mighty Ka-nack." That's the way that Labor Day bridge walk thing works. You park your car as near to Mackinaw City as humanly possible, then you get on one of a multitude of school buses, ride over to St. Ignace and walk back.

Having gotten out of bed early to drive north for the bridge walk, I was kind of drowsy to begin with. I've always been able to sleep well on school buses, and in just about any other moving vehicle. I dare say that if I was tired, I could probably fall asleep on a roller coaster.

My wife and I were on a school bus and there were these two old duffers in the seat behind us. As the bus crossed the bridge, they kept up a steady conversation. My wife and I eavesdropped. And since the old men were speaking kind of loudly, eavesdropping proved easy to do.

The one old guy had recently ridden on a school bus as part of some kind of organized senior citizen outing. The trip cost nine bucks, he explained, but you got a hat out of the deal. And the place where the group ate served pretty good food.

Then the guy started talking about the food at three senior citizen centers located near where he lived. One of the centers served excellent meals. He'd eaten a lot of good food there. The food at the second center was pretty good although not as good as the first. But the third center, oh that third center. The food was terrible. The senior citizens who went there had put the cook on 30 days notice. They gave that cook an ultimatum, "Learn to cook or else."

As I drifted off to sleep and lost the conversation, I remember thinking that maybe the A.A.R.P. magazine should have some rate senior citizen centers like other publications rate restaurants. You could develop some type of rating system based on varying numbers of stars.

The center later could write things like, "I recently visited the Burlywood Senior Center. I give it three stars. The food was good, but I never won at bingo."

The walk back across the bridge was a pleasant and uneventful stroll. A couple of times, I thought it might become eventful. Not that I'm being the least bit critical of whoever the people are who organize the bridge walk. They do a fine job and make the event as safe as possible.

There were, as there always are, several thousand people participating in the bridge walk. And where there are several thousand people, there is bound to be at least a few people doing something stupid.

The presence of cameras, be they still cameras or video cameras, always seems to increase the odds of someone doing something foolish.

During the bridge walk, one of the four lanes on the bridge is closed to vehicles. Pedestrians walk in the closed northbound lane. National Guardsmen are posted between the pedestrian lane and the vehicle lane beside it to make sure that the two don't mix.

If we lived in a society where the entire population was composed of reasonably intelligent people, there would be no need to post National Guardsmen between the lanes.

It would be obvious to the pedestrians that it is not in their best interest to walk in the path of a moving vehicle. It would be obvious to drivers to be a bit cautious when driving next to several thousand pedestrians. This is called "common sense." While common sense may indeed be "common" in our society, it is not so pervasive that it has touched all members of the populace.

One of the pedestrians was standing with his back to the traffic lane and attempting to take a picture. Apparently he was having trouble getting everything he wanted in the picture. While looking through his camera, he took several steps backward right into the traffic lane. Fortunately, the cars were moving slowly and the drivers were paying attention. They stopped and it finally dawned on the camera wielder that he was doing something bone-stupid and he rejoined the pedestrians.

While this struck me as a shaky move by a pedestrian, the vehicle drivers were not to be outdone. A little farther along in the expedition, I saw a van drive past. The van contained a man and a woman. The woman wasn't doing much. She was just being a passenger. The man was busy. With his left hand, and left eye I suppose, he was driving the van. With his right hand and right eye, he held a video camera and was videotaping pedestrians.

I think this is a question which the Secretary of State's office should add to the driver's license test. "True or false: It is safe to drive and operate a video camera at the same time? Answer—false."

Walking the bridge was like so many events. The event itself was fun, but the real entertainment was listening to and watching all of the people.

Wildlife invades city

There seem to be more skunks in town this summer than we have had in years.

Take a walk outdoors any night just after dark and you'll see them humping across the street or pawing around dumpsters or garbage bags along the curb.

Most of them seem fairly young and there isn't a great deal of odor, which probably means we had a bumper skunk crop last spring.

The skunk population seems to run in cycles, so this year must be some sort of peak.

Sometimes the little creatures venture out on Charlevoix's north pier. Fishermen and pier strollers sometimes are trapped on the pier and have to wait until the unwelcome visitors amble back to shore. I, for one, am not too high on the idea of having to say "Excuse me," when I pass a skunk in close quarters.

Skunks also are susceptible to rabies, so it's a good idea to keep your distance. Normally skunks will flee from humans, but a rabid skunk may give chase.

RACCOONS ALSO are plentiful this year. One little fellow plucked a hole in our rear screen door the other night and probably would have come right inside if my wife Judy hadn't heard him and chased him away.

The cats were watching from the kitchen, but didn't say a word.

A few years ago, a mama raccoon and her baby entered the house by the same door, which had been left unlocked inadvertently. While baby waited on the back porch, mama raided the pantry, opening several packages of Ramen noodles and eating the flavor packets.

We had to barricade all the inside doors to chase her back outside. She was almost as big as a black bear.

This summer, raccoons have found a new hideout on Dixon Avenue. They apparently are living in the new storm sewers.

Now raccoons are excellent climbers and love to climb trees, houses, telephone poles and even chimneys. But apparently they find nothing wrong with going underground if the accommodations are decent.

I have seen raccoons enter and leave several storm sewer drains from Nicholls Street to Prospect Avenue. Since the drains are interconnected, I wouldn't be surprised if they have a regular subway system in operation.

Could they be Mutant Teenage Ninja Raccoons?

ALTHOUGH Charlevoix is a fairly densely populated municipality, wildlife abounds within city limits.

Porcupines are sighted routinely throughout the city. Equipped with a frightening arsenal of sharp quills, porcupines aren't exactly wary of human beings, dogs or cats. A few years ago one hefty old fellow waddled right up on the front porch in broad daylight, walked around the perimeter of the porch and slouched back down the front steps and disappeared under a stand of sythia.

Our three cats watched the intruder in wide-eyed amazement from the security of the porch railing. Not one of them made an attempt to hasten its exit.

Deer also have wrecked vegetable gardens in town and Deer are regular visitors to town. A few years ago, a young buck swam to Charlevoix from South Point, crashed through a window at LaCroft condominium, knocked over a potted palm in the public room, exited through a second window, took a dip in the pool and then frolicked off-down the Lake Michigan beach.

have demolished beet crops year after year at the city gardens on State Street.

Bear are less frequent visitors. About 15 years ago, a bear strayed into town from somewhere—probably North Point—and trekked through town in freshly fallen November snow.

He even swam across Round Lake, from the foot of Prospect Street to the Belvedere Club.

No one actually saw the critter, but he left tracks as big as dinner plates.

Hayes clerk explains position

Editor,

I'm writing this letter as a result of an article written by Lisa Babcock in the Petoskey News Review August 10, 1990 titled "Hayes Township rezones agriculture property for development." The omissions more than the inaccuracies would lead a reader, who did not attend the meeting, to believe the majority of the Hayes Township Board committed an atrocious act.

I don't remember hearing the statement, per the article that "Walt Griffin, an attorney for the development firm Scots Ventures said he would take the Township to court if the Board didn't approve a one house per five acres ratio." It's true there was an article in the News Review August 6, 1990 that indicated the staff writer had a telephone conversation with Mr. Griffin and Paul Hoadley, the Township Supervisor, regarding this matter. I'm not aware of that threat ever being made at the Board meeting. The Board's decision certainly was not based on the inferred reasoning that we would be sued if we didn't rezone the property.

I am presently the Township Clerk, but prior to that I was the Zoning Administrator and a member of the Planning Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals. During my work with the Township over the years I have read a lot of material and attended several seminars. It has been my understanding there are certain criteria that need to be addressed when making a decision on a Zoning Ordinance Amendment. Most zoning ordinance amendments are difficult to deal with, however, I believe a rezoning request is probably the more emotionally charged of all amendments.

While I know the Hayes Township Board respects the opinions of the residents and landowners of the Township, they, as decision makers, have to remove themselves from the emotional issues and base their decisions on what is the best land use for the individual properties. To answer the question the uses allowed, or special uses allowed, in the existing zone district should be compared to the uses allowed, or special uses allowed in the zone district that is being applied for in the rezoning application. I stated that in the A-1, Agricultural, Zone District uses or special uses allowed included not only residential and farm housing but also skeet or gun ranges, junk or salvage yards, sewage treatment or sanitary landfills, dog kennels, and gravel or earthen material mining. I indicated that the A-1 zone district "scared the hell out of me" because the permitted uses or special uses will devalue the neighboring property more than the Rural Residential district which allows only residential and farm housing or agricultural use, non profit camps, clubs, and campgrounds, and allows no commercial activities. From a prior on-site inspection I felt the only good agricultural land has been put into a golf course and the remaining property is hilly terrain and ideal for residential "view" property. I also advised the Board I didn't feel five acre lot sizes was "citedified". Another thing that should be brought up is that in the A-1 Zone district the Ordinance allows two residences, under single ownership on ten acres as long as there is 100 feet between the two residences.

While I have always respected the opinions of the Township residents I need to remind those opposed to the decision of the Board that the original rezoning hearing held last fall indicated a majority of persons attending the hearing supported the rezoning. The Board has been getting mixed feelings from the residents and it was definitely a tough decision to make. I felt I was compelled to base my decision on the above mentioned criteria as well as remind myself that the applicants are property owners too.

I would also like to take this opportunity to state that I understand there is a petition being circulated for a referendum to be held. I support the democratic process and perhaps a referendum is what the Township needs. This may be a way for the Township Board to find out if the majority of the residents want the option of a five acre zone district. Prior to adopting a five acre residential zone district there was a spread between one home on two acres and one home on ten acres. As Leah Green stated the Board is bound to offer different zone district lot sizes for the purpose of choice.

When the referendum is put to a vote of the registered voters of Hayes Township I sincerely hope there will be a large turnout at the polls. The residents need to let the Township Board know if they want the option of a five acre minimum lot size. By supporting the Township Board's Resolution to rezone the property known as Scots Ventures from A-1 to RR-1 you will be stating that you don't want to have to buy ten acres to build a house on property in this Township. The referendum will probably be placed on the ballot for the General Election November 6th. Stand up and be counted by voting on this issue. If you plan to be out of town you may request, in writing, an absentee ballot.

I hope I have clarified the article so the residents of Hayes Township know what really went on at the meeting of August 6, 1990.

Thank you for giving me this opportunity to express my opinion in regard to this matter.

Sincerely,
Ethel R. Knepp
Township Clerk

City considers purchasing property

In recent months the city council has gone into closed session several times to discuss acquiring property for a new Department of Public Works (DPW) building.

City manager Mike Wiesner says that at this time the city is just looking at acquiring a piece of property to build on in the future.

"As properties get more and more developed, property becomes harder to find," Wiesner said, during an interview with the Courier.

The current DPW building is located off of Stover Road on a bluff overlooking Ferry Beach. What will happen with that property when a new DPW building is constructed hasn't been determined, but Wiesner said he feels it will and should remain in public ownership.

A need for additional space is the reason for the city considering a new DPW building.

"We've just outgrown ourselves," Wiesner explained.

noting that the electric department has had to rent additional storage space.

Currently the city is looking at a couple of different parcels of property. Funding for the property purchase would come from the city's fund balance and public works funds.

Robert W. Goff

Robert W. Goff, 56, of Howell died in a single-engine aircraft accident Aug. 18. The funeral took place Aug. 21 at MacDonald's Funeral Home with burial in Oakland Hills Memorial Garden, in Novi. Father Gilbert O. Rahrig and Reverend Robert W. Way officiated at the services.

Goff was born June 14, 1934 to James and Margaret (Chaffield) Goff in Rochester, New York. He was a retired supervisor with Consumers Power Company and a member of the Experimental Aircraft Association Airline Pilots Association.

Survivors include: his former wife Peggy Goff of Howell; two daughters, Susan McGowan of Charlevoix and Kristina Way of Charlevoix; six grandchildren; a brother, and his mother and father.

The Lundstrom Singers, a gospel group, will be performing at the Charlevoix High School Gym, Wednesday evening, Sept. 5.

Assembly sponsors concert

Lowell Lundstrom and the Lundstrom Singers, an evangelical music group, will perform at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 5 at the Charlevoix High School Gym.

For the past 30 years Lowell Lundstrom Ministries have been conducting family life seminars and inter-denominational crusades throughout the United States and Canada. They have produced five one-hour family oriented TV specials and are seen weekly on 60 TV stations.

The Lundstrom singers will feature a variety of traditional and contemporary Christian music for the entire family.

The public is invited to attend the Charlevoix concert free of charge.

Guest choir to visit Greensky

A 16-voice male choir called "His Men" will sing at the 9:30 a.m. Sept. 9 worship service at the Greensky Hill Indian Mission. The group formed in 1972 and has traveled throughout the country during the past 18 years.

The Greensky Hill Indian Mission is affiliated with the United Methodist Church of Charlevoix. The mission and the church are currently midway through "A Week Of Spiritual Renewal" led by Peter and Joan Bolt of Plymouth, England.

Eastern Star celebrates 100 years

SUMMER TIMES

Why it's "Charlevoix" and not something else

By William H. Ohle

The names of cities, rivers, lakes, and other places often have an interesting basis, and learning how these labels came about can enrich a person's appreciation of his surroundings.

If you know the story behind names like "Walloon, Fisherman's Island, Whiskey Creek, Mount McSaub, Hopyard School, Charlevoix and The Old Maid's Nipple" for example, you'd be well on your way to a really intimate understanding of lovely Charlevoix County from its very beginnings as a resort community.

To illustrate this point, we start with the word "Charlevoix."

"Charlevoix County" stands out like a sore thumb on the map of Michigan. It's French, to begin with, sharing that national origin with only a handful of Michigan counties. This is peculiar in view of the fact that most of the first white inhabitants of the state were Frenchmen. Most of the state's 83 counties have Irish names, or Indian ones, or memorialize local or national heroes, such as Alger, Luce and VanBuren.

Long ago, Charlevoix city, lake, and county had other names. When brand new, the CITY was the village of Pine River. The LAKE now known as Charlevoix was at different times "Lake Pun-A-Pun, Lake Mormon, Green Lake, Long Lake and Pine Lake." The COUNTY, back in the 1840's—hold your hat—was known as "Keshkonko," a mere division of Emmet County.

"Keshkonko" was an Indian word suggested by Henry Schoolcraft, a famous author of the day and interpreter at Mackinac, some of whose writings inspired Longfellow to write "Hiawatha."

It is likely that Schoolcraft came up with "Keshkonko" at the suggestion of his wife, Jane, or her father. Both were Native Americans, and had, in fact, suggested Indian names for a number of newly formed northern counties. But Keshkonko, along with a good many other of these Indian names finally went by the wayside.

The reason was that a state representative named O'Malley, who knew and actively disliked Schoolcraft, persuaded his statehouse colleagues to substitute Irish names in place of the Indian names.

Thus today a state map bears county names like "Clare, Roscommon, Antrim and Emmet."

In the midst of the christening orgy, however, an unsung committeeman with a solid knowledge of early Michigan Territory's French background, bucked the Celtic trend in favor of the French name, "Charlevoix."

This is uniquely appropriate as a name for this city, this county, and this lake because it was the name of a celebrated tourist who spent a night in this tourist area almost 300 years ago.

Ricard Francois Xavier Charlevoix was an unusually bright young student from Picardy, France, who graduated from a Jesuit school in Paris; Ordained in 1704, he was sent to Canada as a Professor of Reflecting upon some bygone Charlevoix sights rhetoric at the Jesuit school in Quebec. Five years later he was recalled to Paris, where he taught at his alma mater for 10 years and numbered among his students the noted French philosopher Voltaire.

In 1719, French government officials, nervous about British encroachments in the New World, and like all European government people, eager to discover the legendary "northwest passage" across North America, decided to send a fact-finding expedition to America.

The sending of a military brigade was considered but abandoned because it would alert British attention. Instead, it was decided to send a man of the cloth as a missionary with the avowed purpose of inspecting missions located on the Great Lakes and along the Mississippi. Father Charlevoix was chosen for the assignment because of his New World experiences.

He arrived in French Canada with orders to the governor of Quebec to furnish him with two canoes, eight men, and necessary provisions for an extended trip. He was, literally, a spy for the French government.

According to plan, he wrote a series of letters reporting in great detail everything he saw. As a ruse to confuse anyone who was curious about the real purpose of his trip, the letters were addressed to a Duchess, his supposed patroness.

Father Charlevoix was a gifted observer and interesting writer. His letters were published later on in book form in several languages and are credited with stimulating exploration of the New World by many countries. Unfortunately for everyone, he had to report that no easy water route to the Pacific had been found.

Father Charlevoix's voyage included an extensive tour of the upper Great Lakes. His route passed by today's City of Charlevoix and there is circumstantial evidence that he and his companions camped overnight on tiny Fisherman's Island, just to the south.

Father Charlevoix spent the rest of his life teaching and writing. His great achievement was the publishing of "History and Description of New France," which was widely acclaimed by historians and other authorities.

A copy of this imposing work, which fills six volumes, was an item in George Washington's private library. There is also a set in the Charlevoix Public Library.

Charlevoix city, county, and lake are very proud to bear this distinguished name. Somewhere along the line, our fair city has become "Charlevoix The Beautiful." Isn't it lucky that it is NOT known as "Keshkonko The Beautiful."

This picture of the interior of the Dockside Pharmacy was taken many years ago when the soda fountain was located on the Bridge Street side of the store. There has been a drug store on the southwest corner of Bridge and Mason Streets for more than 60 years, but the Dockside has now been sold to Central Drug and the operation will be moved to the new Charlevoix Commons shopping center on M-66. Jim Williams, the last owner of the Dockside, will assist in opening the new pharmacy, which will be known as Charlevoix Commons Apothecary.

Coming home 50 years ago and today

By Peg Ohle

It was just over 50 years ago that I made my first trip to Charlevoix County.

Bill and I drove down from St. Ignace, where we had left our car for a week while vacationing at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. Our destination was Bill's family's cottage in Horton Bay.

The cottage had not been used that summer, and as we approached it from the dirt road that leads down to Lake Charlevoix, we saw a well-kept looking structure patched on all sides with green window shades.

The grass had not been cut that summer, either, and quack grass, Indian paint brush, dandelions, and milkweed were all competing in a growing contest.

The front door was secured by a padlock for which we had no key, but after about an hour of filing the lock handle, we were able to enter the cottage. (Luckily, there was a file in the tool kit of the car.)

Inside, the cottage didn't look any more inviting than the outside. A rowboat was stored in the living room and damp mattresses were suspended from the ceiling to protect them from mice. Blankets and pillows were stored in tin containers.

We raised the shades, moved the boat out into the yard, and undid one mattress to take outdoors into the sunshine.

The floors and walls were full of cobwebs and dead insects, but a quick going-over with a one-sided broom took care of them to our satisfaction.

Of course, it wasn't like our room at the Grand Hotel, but it had been Bill's summer home for many years and I had heard "the Bay" described in glowing terms for a long time.

After a while, people began appearing at the door, men and women who Bill had known as kids and who were curious to meet "the girl" with him. There were the Fox girls, Arvilla and Marian, (their brother Raymond had died the winter before), some of the Belknaps, Kenny VanHoesen (Bill remembered going to his 12th birthday party with a pocket knife as a gift), and many others.

A while later, we walked around town making "formal" calls on the older generation—Vollie and Lizzie Fox, Wesley and Kathryn Dilworth, George VanHoesen, and Ben and Bessie Belknap. Chicago residents Ned and Ethel Chase and "Gyp" and Bernice Davis, long-time summer visitors at the Dilworth Lodge, were also there.

Everyone was glad to see us and much family news was exchanged.

That night we were victims of a charivari (yes, we were on our wedding trip!). Fortunately, Bill had been warned of the possibility and had bought a supply of cigars and candy bars at the Horton Bay store. I was a city girl and had never heard of a charivari, and was totally unprepared for the clatter of pans, pounding of drums, strumming of banjos, and raucous jokes that evening.

A few days later, Wesley and Kathryn Dilworth entertained us and their house guests at a "wedding breakfast" on Weimer Lake, a small, secluded lake in Emmet County. It was my first experience with Kathryn's cooking, which was favored by northern Michigan visitors for many years.

But the Horton Bay food I most remember was the dill pickles packed in two green two-quart jars, the gift of George VanHoesen. George was a widower who lived in a house he shared with several goats.

Bill and I spent our 50th wedding anniversary aboard a cruise ship in the Caribbean with our son Bill, daughter-in-law Chris and youngest grand daughters Rebecca and Sarah. We returned to Horton Bay about the same date we arrived 50 years ago.

The house and yard were neat, we had a key to the front door, the beds were made up, and everything was fresh and clean. However, if we could turn time back, I don't think I'd trade that first homecoming in Horton Bay for our orderly, uneventful homecoming.

Peg and Bill Ohle of Horton Bay recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with part of their family aboard the S.S. Norway in the Caribbean. They are shown at their anniversary dinner with their son Bill and granddaughters Rebecca and Sara. Daughter-in-law Chris took the photo. The Ohles were married Aug. 17, 1940 in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian Church in Chicago.

Rayders lose opener

Charlevoix's varsity football team rallied late in the game, but lost 24-14 to Lake City in the season opener, Friday evening.

The Rayders' offense sputtered and their pass defense broke down in the first half as the Lake City home team took a 12-0 lead. The third quarter was also lackluster for Charlevoix and the Rayders entered the final quarter trailing 18-0.

In the fourth quarter, Charlevoix's offense opened up. Quarterback Dan Terryberry found wide receiver Doug Benoit for a touchdown pass and then tossed to fullback Scott Campbell for the two point conversion.

Halfway through the fourth quarter, sophomore running back Brian VanLoos scored the Rayders' second touchdown. The conversion attempt failed.

Defensively, the Rayders were bringing everything and everybody in the fourth quarter in a last ditch effort to turn the game. But the gambling defense cost the Rayders when a Lake City back broke free for a 20-yard touchdown run.

Once it got rolling, Charlevoix's offense was balanced and potent. The Rayders picked up 153 yards rushing and 135 yards passing. Running back Brian Coolman picked up 105 yards on nine carries. Terryberry completed 10 of 20 passes. Benoit caught four of the passes for 84 yards.

Defensively, Campbell had six tackles and six assists. Scott Kehrer had five tackles and five assists. Robert Scholey had seven tackles and Todd Prevo had eight tackles and six assists.

Flag draft scheduled

Charlevoix sixth, seventh and eighth graders who wish to play flag football should report for the draft at 10 a.m. Saturday Sept. 8 at the softball field. Players who can't be at the draft should phone 547-9098 to register. There is a $10 registration fee.

The program is under the direction of the Charlevoix City Recreation Department. This year, there will be some significant rule changes. The program will be more in line with the rules of the National Flag Football Federation.

The most noticeable change will be that players will no longer wear helmets. Recreation director Ike Boss said that on a national basis, people have found that in flag football, the helmets cause more injuries than they prevent.

Another rule change will make all offensive players eligible to receive a pass. That change means that all offensive and defensive players will wear flag belts. The rule changes will generally make the game more wide open.

As in the past, shoes with short, rubber spikes will be allowed, but hard cleats will be illegal.

Games will be played on Monday and sometimes on Wednesday evenings.

Charlevoix junior varsity linebacker Chris Pease (42) drops his shoulder and gives a Lake City running back a new sense of direction during last week's season opener. Charlevoix trailed by a touchdown at the half, but pulled out a 12-6 win in the closing seconds of the game.

Welcome Red Rayders!

Hayes Twp. may vote on zoning

By Peg Ohle

One of the thickest files in the Courier office is labeled "Hayes Township," but its contents pertain mostly to the five-year legal struggle between the township and Fox & Associates.

The struggle centered around Fox's desire to develop the former 338-acre Camp Charlevoix property on Oyster Bay with condominiums, a project that could not meet with specifications of the township zoning ordinance. After reaching the State Court of Appeals, the case ended with agreement to build 16 homes and 16 boat slips on the property instead of the 228 condominium units originally planned.

Now, there is controversy over the development of another large piece of property in Hayes Township. It is the 700-plus acre Scots Ventures property, which encompasses the former Windmill Farm and several hundred additional acres from Burgess Road to Maple Grove Road, mostly north of the Charlevoix-Boyne City Road.

A restaurant on the Scots Ventures property, the Inn at Dunmaglas, which was opened this summer, has received many favorable comments. The large barn behind the Inn was renovated and a large tent constructed adjacent to the barn to provide an auditorium for musical and theatrical productions and other local events. Concerts by the Northwoods Orchestra which were held there this summer, were widely acclaimed.

The property around the Inn and the Barn is not included in the present controversy. It is the property farther off of the road and its development that is causing trouble.

"That's the problem," says Edith Beck, who owns adjacent property off of the road. "They made things along the road look nice but they don't care about the rest of it."

Beck was referring to the clearing during the past year of approximately 120 acres of the back property for an 18-hole golf course.

"They cut down and burned about 1,900 trees and left a mess of soil erosion," Beck claimed.

In addition to the golf course, Scots Ventures proposes to build an unspecified number of homes on the property. This part of the development was made easier by the township board Aug. 7 when it rezoned all but the golf course Rural Residential from Agricultural. Rural Residential requires only five acres of a land for a single-family residence instead of the 10 acres required in the Agricultural zone.

Some Hayes Township residents call this "high density development" and have added this complaint to the problems caused by soil erosion. They went to the Township Planning Commission with a letter containing the signatures of 150 residents opposing any type of high density zoning, but according to Beck, "We were not heard."

So, the group petitioned the county to put the proposition on the November General Election ballot. Township voters will now have a chance to vote "yes" or "no" to the following question:

"Shall the resolution of the Hayes Township Board of Trustees to rezone approximately 400 acres surrounding the Dunmaglas Golf Course and running north from the Boyne City Road to Quarterline Road and east and west of Burgess Road from A-1 Agricultural (one dwelling per 10 acres) to RR-1 Rural Residential (one dwelling unit per 5 acres) be upheld?"

Giving Hayes Township voters a chance to express their wishes in this rezoning matter is the democratic way, according to Township Clerk Ethel Knepp, who voted for the rezoning on August 7 along with Township Trustees Leah Green and Lloyd Kuebler. Township Supervisor Paul Hoadley and Treasurer Shirlene Tripp voted against the rezoning.

Hayes Township, in which the Big Rock Nuclear Plant is located, has the second highest assessed valuation in the county—more than $55 million in 1989—but some residents maintain the township could well use the proposed Scots Venture housing development to add to its tax base.

Guild awards scholarships

The Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild recently awarded scholarships to four area people who are studying in the health care field.

Jill Cary, Central Lake, received the scholarship for a third year to continue her studies toward a pharmacy degree. Nancy Dewey, Central Lake, and Nicole Kerridge, of Boyne City, received the scholarships for a second year to study nursing. A new recipient this year is Thomas Graf, of Charlevoix, who is seeking a medical degree at the University of Michigan.

Each year the Guild awards scholarships to worthy students who wish to pursue health care careers. Chairman of the committee is Barbara Plagge, and committee member is Kathy Lane.

Funds for the scholarships are raised in the annual bridge tournament and from proceeds of the hospital gift shop. Each scholarship is for $400.

Ochs speaks at conference

Pharmacist Lani Ochs of Central Drug Store recently attended the 107th Annual Convention of the Michigan Pharmacists Association which occurred at the Grand Traverse Resort.

In addition to attending the conference, Ochs assisted in making the keynote presentation. The focal point of this year's conference was "New Horizons: Exploring Pharmacy 2000."

At the conference, Michigan pharmacists explored and discussed the many environmental, technical and economic changes occurring in health care. The conference offered pharmacists an opportunity to broaden their skills and receive continuing education credit for participating in educational sessions. All Michigan pharmacists are required to obtain 30 hours of continuing education every two years for relicensure.

50th reunion planned

Members of the Charlevoix High School Class of 1940 will gather for their 50th reunion at 6:30, Sept. 8 at the Grey Gables. A short program will follow dinner. Friends are invited to join the classmates and their spouses at 9:30 p.m. For more information, phone Bill Ochs at 547-6645.

H&R Block Offers Income Tax Course in Charlevoix

Thousands of people learn how to prepare income tax returns from H&R Block and then earn money as income tax preparers. H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, offers its Income Tax Course starting September 10th. Morning, afternoon, evening, and weekend classes are available.

Experienced instructors teach tax law, theory, and application. Classroom discussion and practice problems provide students with a thorough understanding of each tax topic included in the course. Students learn how to handle increasingly complex income tax situations as the course progresses.

Ideal for people who want to increase their tax knowledge, the course teaches students how to save money on their taxes and also prepares them for a rewarding career.

The affordable fee includes textbooks and supplies. Graduates receive Certificates of Achievement and continuing education units (CEUs). Qualified graduates of the course may be offered job interviews with H&R Block but are under no obligation to accept employment.

Those interested in more information about the H&R Block Income Tax Course may contact the H&R Block office in Charlevoix—call (616) 547-0660.

Anna Warner recalls old school teaching

by Geoffrey D. Reynolds

That time of the year when children of all ages must head back to the classroom has come again. And waiting for them will be their teachers, ready to aid them in many learning situations. One such veteran of this unappreciated profession is Anna Warner. Her career spanned forty-one years among Charlevoix area rural schools and a few modern ones.

"My first teaching job was at the Ranney School in South Arm Township in 1928. I was living in the area at that time and after I returned from Ferris Institute, I got the teaching job there.

"The reason I went into teaching was because at that time women had very few job opportunities offered to them. You could be either a stenographer, nurse, or teacher. And since I came from a line of teachers and preachers my parents sort of pushed me into the profession. So after graduating East Jordan High School, I went to Ferris Institute for one year to earn a certificate in teaching. I went to Ferris because I was too young to teach, after going to Charlevoix County Normal School, the local teaching college, for six weeks and then teach. So after a year at Ferris I was eighteen and ready for the classroom.

When thinking about my first year as a teacher at Ranney School I just shudder. I learned many theories about teaching, but I soon understood that you learn to teach by teaching. I found out that children wanted to learn, but some children learn differently than others and as a teacher I had to adapt for them.

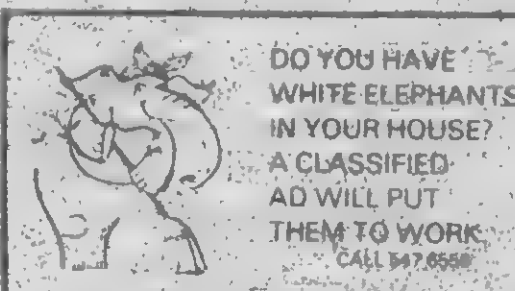

"Remember one year when I was teaching at the Clark School and I needed to get my eighth graders ready for the exams at the end of the school year. But I didn't have any arithmetic books for them to use. So I had each bring in a Sears & Roebuck catalog from home or wherever they found them and use that as a learning tool. With the catalogs the students learned about interest and time payments by making out orders from the catalog for their parents. They calculated and learned many practical uses for arithmetic in their own lives and we didn't need any arithmetic book after all. But soon after I started this practice my moderator, or supervisor, came down to see what I was doing with the catalogs he had put in the outhouses for toilet paper. But after he saw what I was doing with the catalogs he decided that it was time for the people in the area to buy the school some arithmetic books for their school. And soon after we did.

"In the rural schools the teacher was the only adult person in the building and the teacher had to have discipline to run a school. In a good rural school the older children knew what was appropriate behavior and what was not. So if a smaller child disobeyed, the older children would tell the smaller child what was appropriate and what was not. This solved a lot of discipline problems for the rural schools. When it didn't, I used the problem to teach the child a learning experience. One time a student broke a window in the school. So I had him measure the broken pane of glass. I then went to town later and bought a new one, with his money. We replaced the pane after school. Then I had him wash the rest of the panes in that window to match the new pane. Then I had him wash all the school windows to match the first one. Everything that happens in a school and outside of it has a lesson to be learned."

Anna Warner taught several grades all at the same time in some of the area's old country schools. She recalls some of her teaching experiences in this week's Charlevoix Memories.

Garbage hauling system explained

By-the-bag garbage pick up will begin Oct. 1. Currently Charlevoix area residents pay Waste Management Inc. (WMI) a monthly fee for garbage collection, but beginning next month people will pay $1.50 per 30 gallon bag.

Orange bags or tags required for pick up may be purchased at city hall, the WMI office or Glen's Market. WMI official Don Pizzuro said more outlets will be established if necessary.

The per bag system will reduce billing time for WMI while allowing customers to control their costs by controlling the amount of waste they produce. Under the monthly fee system, a family putting out two bags of garbage each week pays the same amount as a family putting out five bags of garbage each week.

The per bag system is also expected to promote recycling. WMI has purchased a recycling bin which will be next to their office on U.S. 31 south of town and be open during business hours Monday through Friday. Northwest Recycling, at the north end of town, accepts recyclables on Fridays and Saturday mornings.

Pizzuro said he's received several calls about the new system and about 90 percent of the calls favored the change.

"I think it will work and if it doesn't work, then we can always go back to the old system," Pizzuro said.

Although city council approval wasn't necessary in order for the change to take place, the company, as a matter of courtesy, sought the local governing body's blessings.

After debating the merits of the new collection system, the council gave its blessing by a 4-3 vote, with mayor Gary Probert casting the deciding vote. Later, Probert had a change of heart, but when he asked at a later meeting for the matter to be reconsidered, the council was unwilling to do so.

This recycling bin will be part of the new by-the-bag garbage pick up system in Charlevoix. Rather than being billed on a monthly basis, people will purchase specially marked bags and tags for garbage pick up. Recyclable material can either be placed in this bin at Waste Management Inc. headquarters south of town or taken to Northwest Recycling north of town or picked up by Northwest Recycling.

By that time WMI had invested in the recycling bin and orange bags and likely would have gone through with the new collection system even if the council had changed its position. Northwest Recycling will also pick up recyclable material for $2.10 per month.

Brush, leaves and grass clippings are picked up in the city by the city street department at no charge to individual city property owners.

Through a contract arrangement between the city and WMI, old household appliances, furniture and toys are picked up in the city by WMI at no charge to individual property owners.

Camp Pellston crew praised for its work

Although they may be doing time for doing things society frowns on, they're spending the time doing things society appreciates.

A work crew, comprised of inmates from Camp Pellston, worked approximately 1800 man-hours in Charlevoix this past year. One of the crew's primary responsibilities has been keeping the city's petunias weeded. Last Thursday, Keep Charlevoix Beautiful (KCB) threw a cookout for the work crew in appreciation of the outstanding job the men have done.

All of the inmates at Camp Pellston work on one of the camp's work crews. Some of the crews work in the woods lumbering while others work with area municipalities.

Bob Shanes, one of the crew members who spent the summer in Charlevoix, said the work has been hard, but rewarding.

"You can step back at the end of the day and see what you've done," he said.

Shanes said the workers received hundreds of compliments during the course of the summer.

"The compliments give us a lot of incentive to keep working," he said.

Weeding the petunias is only one of many projects undertaken by the crew. Among the other projects were: working at the waste water treatment plant, street garage and cemetery; painting the Chamber of Commerce building; painting at the municipal marina; clearing the north channel bank; clearing a bluff near Park Avenue; and taking care of golf course sand traps.

United Way is under way

The United Way of Charlevoix launched its 1990 campaign Thursday, Sept. 6 by distributing information packets to local volunteers. This year we have an ambitious goal of $45,000, stated campaign co-chair Kathy Stator.

Co-chair Bob Hoffman, CPA, told volunteers that "with the community goodwill we have been seeing this year, this should be a very achievable goal."

This year's United Way board is composed of Nancy Porter, president; Pat Carland, treasurer; Mike Greeley, secretary; and board members Marc Cross, Ellen Zienert, John Hutchison, Gayle Gennett, Steve Andrae, Ken Bartley, Al Stoddard, Jim Marshall, and Bob Rajewski.

All local business and industries will be contacted to encourage their participation.

as well as that of their employees. Summer residents are also being contacted.

Contributions will go to many area agencies. Among them are the Bergman Center, Volunteers in Probation, Chip Counseling Center, Alano Club, Senior Citizens, Boy Scouts, and Girl Scouts. Many of the volunteers involved in the fundraising campaign come from the agencies supported by United Way.

St. Mary's Church celebrates 100 years

By Peg Ohle

There is a sign in front of St. Mary's Catholic Church these days calling attention to the Church's "Century of Faith." St. Mary's parish is 100 years old this summer and members will celebrate their centennial with a special Mass next Sunday afternoon.

The history of St. Mary's parallels the history of northern Michigan, with its first members being part of the stream of settlers who came north following the end of the Civil War to work in the booming lumber industry.

It was on March 10, 1867 that Father Philip Zorn from the Harbor Springs friary arrived at the home of William Graham in what is now Marlon Township to celebrate the first mass of record in the Charlevoix area.

However, even before that, the spirit of Catholicism had been felt in northern Michigan by the work of such well-known missionaries as Father Francis Xavier de Charlevoix, who traveled along Charlevoix shores in 1821, and Bishop Frederic Baraga, whose presence among the Ottawa Indians on Beaver Island in 1832 is documented.

Father Zorn continued his periodic visits to Charlevoix until 1881, when Father Gustav Graf took over. From then on, a series of Franciscan Fathers served the Charlevoix church, and in 1889 Father Placid Krehler purchased an acre of land on Bridge Street in Charlevoix for a church. That land is still the location of St. Mary's Church.

The cornerstone for the new church was laid on August 25, 1890, but the church was not completed until 1894.

The laying of the cornerstone, marking the beginning of St. Mary's as a parish, is the basis of Sunday's celebration. The events of that day in 1890 are described in a recently-written history of St. Mary's as follows:

"On the morning of the St. Mary's cornerstone laying, Bishop Richter arrived (from Grand Rapids) accompanied by Fathers Schmidt and Ignatius. The entourage must have arrived by horse-drawn coach as rail passenger service was not started in Charlevoix until two years later. The bishop was welcomed by Father Bruno Torka, O.F.M., who had recently been assigned as pastor of the Charlevoix parish by the Franciscan mission in Harbor Springs.

"Mass was offered at 8 a.m. at Jefferies Hall downtown, one of the public venues used by the town's Catholic contingent for worship services before they had a church. Following Mass, the celebrants and congregation made their way up the South Hill to the church site. The cornerstone was laid in a solemn ceremony and Bishop Richter delivered a sermon exhorting parish members to persevere in their efforts to build a structure suitable for divine worship."

Although it took almost four years, members of St. Mary's parish responded to Bishop Richter's exhortation to complete the church building, and on May 31, 1894, the Bishop returned to Charlevoix to bless the new church in a ceremonial service.

Mass could now be offered in the church building but many final touches were necessary and these were pursued through the coming years. One of the first touches was added just two months after the dedication of the church building, in October, 1894, with the delivery of a church bell. The bell, which weighed 521 pounds, was purchased mainly through a contribution from parishioner John Woods.

The next big addition to the church came a year later, when an addition to the building was constructed to serve as a vestry and temporary residence of the visiting priest.

All through these years of early growth, St. Mary's Church was served by Franciscan Fathers from the Harbor Springs friary. One of them, Father Ludger Wegener, who was assigned to St. Mary's in 1918, seemed to have had a keen financial mind, and through his efforts several improvements were made to the parish facilities. Included were living quarters for the Sisters, many physical improvements to the building, several ceremonial objects, and the final payment of $600 on the cemetery.

When Father Wegener left St. Mary's in 1925, the parish was debt-free and had a positive bank balance. Three more Franciscan Fathers followed him, and in 1929, St. Mary's received its first resident pastor, Father R. Emmet Fitzpatrick, thus ending 45 years of service to Charlevoix Catholics by the Franciscan Fathers of Harbor Springs.

The ensuing years of the Great Depression and World War II brought hardships to St. Mary's as they did everywhere, and a period of "making do" in the 50-year-old building followed.

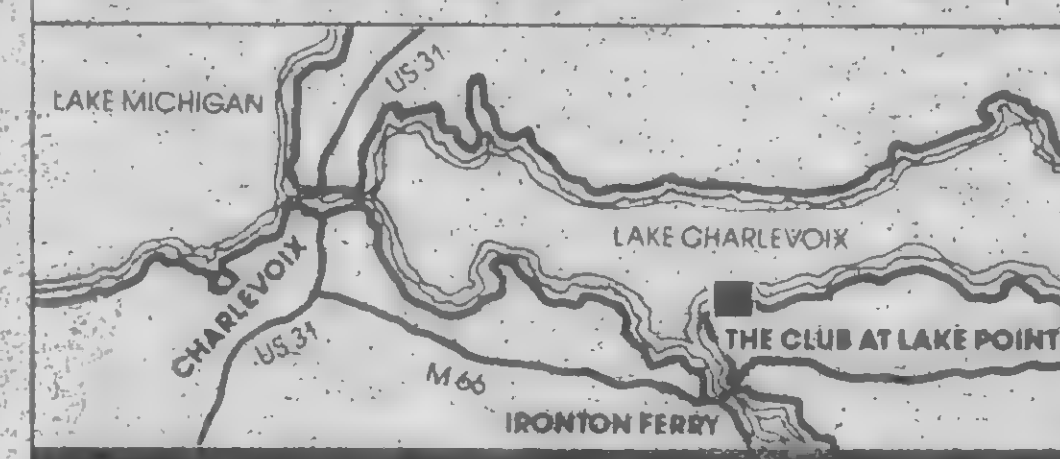

Father Earl Francis Denay came to St. Mary's in 1953 and began a tenure of 21 years which were marked by a strong parish growth. He replaced the aging school building that had been built in 1906, moved the Dominican Sisters convent, and in 1960, started a campaign to

EDITH

EDITH GILBERT

by Edith Gilbert

One of my treasured books is called "Our Deportment" published in 1882, with the subtitle "on the manners, conduct and dress of the most refined society."

"At places of summer resort, those who own their cottages, call first upon those who rent them, and those who rent, in turn call upon each other, according to priority of arrival. In all these cases there are exceptions; as, where there is any great difference in ages, the younger then calling upon the older, if there has been a previous acquaintance or exchange of calls." The writer goes on and on in similar vein.

Today's rules of conduct, if there are any, are blurred. Those of us who have summer cottages and who entertain our children and their children all summer have developed our own house rules. In my case I take reservations just like a motel except I don't require a credit card number. I like to know basic things such as "how many in your party," the time of arrival and departure. I envy the sign hanging in my neighbor's kitchen that says, "Guests of guests may not bring guests."

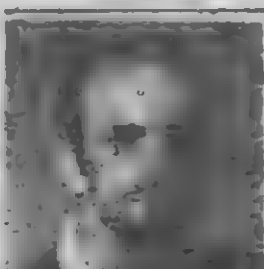

Speaking of summer resort conduct, there is a rule that used to be enforced by restaurant managers that has gone by the boards in Northern Michigan unfortunately. That is a dress code in our white linen restaurants. Both customers and restaurant owners have complained to me. For example, customers come in wearing baseball caps and refuse to take them off. Or they arrive wearing a tank top, shorts and sandals. People who have dressed up to celebrate a special occasion feel let down when they are seated next to someone who looks like they just finished mowing the lawn. It's time for restaurateurs to rethink the situation, react with authority and enforce some standards for the sake of those who are sensitive to their surroundings. A great deal of thought goes into the presentation of food, the ambience of the restaurant, the service by the uniformed waiters. It's up to the diner to dress appropriately for the occasion, yes, even casually without at all—but baseball caps and tank shirts?

If you agree, clip this column and send it to your favorite "white tablecloth" restaurant. They need your encouragement to turn these unrefined customers away.

REASONABLE TO ME

L. SCOTT SWANSON

It's not always this quiet

I smiled at the recollection of a night when the place was not so tranquil.

Last Friday, I traveled to Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant. I went there to be a guest on a new public television show called Editor's Notebook.

The road to Mount Pleasant is a familiar one. I traveled it several times between 1978 and 1982 when I attended CMU. However in the last four or five years I've been too busy to get back to Mount Pleasant. I've been getting married, being a daddy, working—that kind of thing.

While in Mount Pleasant last Friday, I took a brief stroll across the campus. It was a warm and sunny day. I passed students carrying books on their way to and from classes.

As I walked on the path between the Thorpe-Sweeney and Woldt-Emmons dormitory complexes I was struck by the peacefulness and serenity of the area. One spring night in 1982, that part of campus wasn't nearly so calm.

Thorpe Hall, where I was a resident assistant, is a men's dormitory. Sweeney Hall, which is separated from Thorpe Hall by a parking lot, is a women's dormitory. In the spring, when the weather warmed up and everyone had their windows open, some of the occupants of Thorpe Hall took to yelling out of their windows to the occupants of Sweeney Hall.

Many a quiet spring night was shattered by young men's voices hollering. "Hey Sweeney...ny!" I dare not print what these voices yelled once they had the female dorm's attention. Things which would make a sailor blush. And this low-level dormitory debate was not one-sided. The Sweeney dwellers often matched the Thorpe dwellers' perverted yell.

for perverted yell.

Myself and the other members of the dormitory staff did what we could to quell this furore, but that wasn't much. It was difficult, if not impossible, to determine exactly who was doing the yelling. My preferred method of addressing the situation was to walk down the hallways inside the dorm and if I heard someone yelling in a room, I'd go in and tell them to knock it off.

The dormitory director decided to try a different approach. Apparently he felt he could reason with these people. He walked out into the parking lot and faced the dormitory, a four-story wall of darkened windows.

He held up his hands for silence. And after a few more disgusting hoots came his way, there was silence.

"Gentlemen," the dormitory director began, choosing perhaps the least appropriate word possible: "yelling obscenities out of the windows is against dorm policy and is going to have to stop."

The dormitory director continued speaking, but I'm not sure what he said. There was too much hollering going on.

Finally, there came a night when mere hollering out of windows would not suffice. About a hundred young men came out of Thorpe Hall and into the parking lot. Another resident assistant and myself went out to monitor them, as best you can monitor an unruly mob of 100 college men.

At one point, they discussed staging a panty raid. I persuaded the mob not to stage a panty raid.

So the fellows decided that if they couldn't stage a panty raid, then a mass mooning would be the next best thing. My attempts to dissuade them failed. A hundred young men formed a line.

As if that wasn't enough, the mob decided to take this act on the road and began scampering from one women's dorm to another. The campus police were called. They began pursuing the mob; but kept ending up one dorm behind. The police finally caught up to the mob between the Thorpe-Sweeney and Woldt-Emmons complexes.

Last Friday, I once again stood on the path between the two dormitory complexes. I wore dress pants, a pressed shirt and a suit coat. College students in shorts, T-shirts and running shoes walked past me on their way to classes. I am older now.

Perhaps they wondered why I smiled. I remembered a spring night when a campus police car caught up to 100 young men who scattered like the victims in a Japanese horror film.

Charle-facts

The first church in the Charlevoix area was built sometime before 1839 on a hill near Susan Lake, not far from the tribal council grounds that for generations had been the gathering place for Indian chiefs from as far away as L'Arbre Croche, Old Mission, and Michilmackinac.

When Peter Greensky arrived in 1839 to take over as minister of the church, he found a dirt-floored structure in which ground fires were used for heat, with smoke escaping from a hole in the roof.

Traveling out east

My education in Michigan geography is now complete. I have been to Alpena.

Also Posen, Lachine, Herron, Long Rapids, Onaway, Tower and Afton.

Howard Horton, who used to live in Alpena, and his wife, Rosemary, who used to teach there, decided Saturday it was high time Judy and I completed our education and visited the eastern side of the state.

Besides, the Posen Potato Festival was in progress and what better excuse is there to brush up on Polish culture?

Rogers City also was on our itinerary, but Judy and I had both been there before. To a football game. Late at night. We never really got a close look at the town.

I am not an experienced traveler like Fr. Charlevoix, but I would have to say that western Michigan appears to be a shade more prosperous than eastern Michigan—at least north of Gaylord. East of the I-75 corridor, the quality of the soil appears to thin out, crops seem less vigorous and much of the land either lies fallow or supports stunted stands of cedar, poplar and jackpine.

The land is pretty, but there doesn't appear to be much money in it—unless you're into potatoes.

The Potato Festival attracted a rather large crowd and it wasn't easy to find a parking spot in downtown Posen. However, Main Street was redolent with the aroma of grilled kiebasa and festival-goers were serenaded by a junior polka band playing in a vacant lot.

The tableau was accented by white wicker baskets of shocking red plastic geraniums suspended from lamp posts.

"They are so high up, how do they water them?" I asked Judy, who has the green thumb in our family.

She gave me a withering look before explaining that you don't have to water plastic geraniums—if they're planted in heavy soil.

Live and learn.

A FLEA MARKET was a veritable museum of Polish handicrafts, including pet-holders, stuffed animals, rag rugs, wooden objects d'art and several tables of new and used tools. I picked up a pair of pliers made in China, which is a little bit east of Poland. For $2.50, I couldn't go wrong.

Furthermore, they have red plastic handlegrrips, the same color as the geraniums. They'll never get lost in my tool box.

After the flea market, we tooled out to St. Casimir's Church for a fantastic Polish dinner. Roast pork, sauerkraut and real mashed potatoes—not the kind that come in a box.

ALPENA WAS neater and cleaner than I expected, but I was amazed that on a Saturday afternoon the downtown section was virtually deserted. It appears that many downtown buildings have been removed to make way for parking lots. As a result, there is plenty of parking, but few places to go once you park.

An important exception is the Owl saloon, an Alpena institution. But there were only four or five other patrons on deck when we arrived.

It's a very homey bar. So homey they serve beer in Mason jars, which is quite a step up for us. At home, we serve martinis in cheese glasses.

We also visited a municipal park on Thunder Bay, examined the haunts of the late philanthropist Jesse Besser of cement block fame, drove past the old Huron Cement Co. plant (now LaFarge) and marveled at the sheer limestone walls of the LaFarge quarry.

The cement maker has taken steps to reduce air pollution, but dust still clings to the cyclone fences surrounding the plant. Much of the original plant, built in 1907, is no longer in use and is being dismantled.

En route home, we visited the largest limestone quarry in the world—at Rogers City. After the Alpena quarry, the Rogers City quarry is something of a disappointment, despite its size. Rogers City limestone is so fine and crumbly the quarry lacks imposing escarpments of its sister quarry at Alpena.

From a rickety observation platform at the rim of the quarry we could trace the curve of the Earth on the blue waters of Lake Huron.

We also could see, far out beyond the shipping lanes, a tiny scrap of land.

According to our map, it had to be Cockburn Island at the western end of Canada's Manitoulin archipelago—almost 40 miles distant.

It's a small world if you back off far enough.

Letters to the Editor:

Waste program opposed

Editor,

Today we received a letter from "Waste Management." They were "pleased" to introduce a new refuse program developed by the City of Charlevoix and themselves. They are telling us who live in the townships of Charlevoix that we have to abide by a decision made by the City of Charlevoix. Since when does the City of Charlevoix decide policy for the townships?

They are proud that there will be now more hassle with monthly or quarterly bills. The "hassle" is now passed on to the general public who has to find time, during regular business hours only, to go into town to city hall or WM to buy garbage bags. Townships in Charlevoix were never asked if they wanted this "convenience" imposed on them. Some people like to use either smaller or larger bags than the 30-gallon size. Some older or disabled people cannot handle the larger bags. Some people who work will have a hard time getting to city hall of

WM before 5 p.m. Older, disabled and township people have to drive through town to take in recyclable refuse. In this age of ever-rising gas prices that will not save us money. We either have to make and extra trip or carry it in our cars on our way to work so it can sit in our car all day until we can take it to the drop off spot. We are so glad WM will no longer have the "hassle" of sending us a bill once every three months.

We think it would be much better if WM sent us tags in the mail (along with a bill for them of $.25 each) so we can put them on the size and type bag we choose to use. Also, WM can set up a program like the one in Traverse City where people have a special container to set out with recyclable items in it. The collectors come and pick up both types of refuse. Also we would like the townships to be asked what they think of something the city has decided on before imposing policy on them. If the city is given a choice, then the townships should be given the same opportunity for choice.

Thank you,
George & Robbin Kraft

How about a derby?

Editor,

Charlevoix festivals all involve the beautiful natural setting around us. We have missed one. The hill coming down Bridge Street, next to the 7-11 is ideal for a Soap Box Derby type event.

I can see "races" structured either for fun, or competition, or both. If for fun: Funniest soap box car (Horton Bay probably will be tough to beat), Most Ornate entry, Fanciest car, Most beautiful, etc.

If by competition: By age, by group (eg. Rotary vs. Kiwanis, Boy Scouts vs. Girl Scouts, 11th grade vs. 12th grade, etc.), By sponsor (Mettler's vs. Murdick Fudge, Vacation Properties Network vs. Terry's Place, K-Mart vs. the whole town). There are all kinds of possibilities for fun and judging—hopefully, never taking it too seriously.

Fashion show planned

The Miss East Jordan Scholarship Board will present a fashion show and royal dessert buffet at 7 p.m., Monday Sept. 17 at the East Jordan Civic Center. The show is called "Fashion Fantasia." Clothes for the show will be provided by the E.J. Shop; Don Caster; and Fabulous Formal and Fashion.

Tickets cost $10 and are available through board members and several East Jordan businesses.

Bloom - Granger

Janece & Brian Granger

Janece Ann Bloom and Brian L. Granger exchanged marriage vows in a candle light ceremony, Saturday, August 11, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sehr, in Petoskey.

The bride is a first grade teacher at the Inland Lakes Elementary School, and her bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Granger of Alanson, is employed by Walstrom Marine.

The Rev. Milton Walls, Jr. of the Boyne City Presbyterian Church officiated at the ceremony before approximately 80 guests.

The Sehr home was decorated for the occasion with white twist bows, arrangements of rubrum lilies, white and pink roses, Queen Anne's lace, statice, and greenery.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her parents, wore a satin gown, fashioned with a scoop neckline trimmed with ruffles and edged with Venice lace, a Basque waist, short puffed sleeves, and a full skirt edged with lace and ending in a chapel-length train. The back of the gown featured a large bow.

The bride's waist-length veil was attached to a headpiece of pearls, and her bouquet was composed of rubrum lilies, white and pink roses, Queen Anne's lace, statice, and greens.

Alta Munson attended the bride as matron of honor and also assisted the bride in making the bridal veil and headpiece. Dina Hansen served as bridesmaid. They each wore a country blue and white print tea-length dress with a white lace collar, V-back, fitted bodice, and matching sash. Each carried a bouquet of rubrum lilies, white and pink roses, Queen Anne's lace, statice, and greens.

Todd Granger served as best man, Stewart Maggrett was groomsmen, and Scott Granger served as usher. Pianist Tom Kauffman provided wedding music.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall, and the bridegroom's parents hosted the rehearsal dinner in their home.

Following a wedding trip to Toronto, the newlyweds are at home in Corwag.

Lamoreaux - Brown

Peter & Karen Brown

Karen Suzanne Lamoreaux became the bride of Peter D. Brown, August 18 in the Asbury Methodist Church in Traverse City.

The bride is the daughter of John and Lynn Lamoreaux of Charlevoix and the grand daughter of Ruth Hair of Charlevoix and Raymond Lamoreaux of Bellaire. The bridegroom is the son of Donald and Martha Brown of Manisteville.

The Rev. Dan Harlin of the Williamsburg Methodist Church officiated at the double-ring rites.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a Victorian ivory satin and lace gown featuring a shoulder train and an open back trimmed with sequins and beads. She carried a bouquet of alstromeria and eucalyptus tied with peach colored ribbons.

Mary Jo Mankowski served as maid of honor and Barbara Lamoreaux, Pamela Lamoreaux Gregory, Cindi Lamoreaux Evans, Rhonda Lautner, and Lou Ann Stachnik were bridesmaids. They wore tea-length teal dresses with boat necklines and a large bow accenting the open back of each gown. The attendants carried bouquets of alstromeria and eucalyptus and peach colored ribbons.

Amanda Brown, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl, and Brendon Evans, nephew of the bride, served as ringbearer.

Tom Johnson assisted the bridegroom as best man, and Dan Bukovek, Greg Butler, Dan Brown, Paul Brown, and Phil Fortier were groomsmen. Raina Chambers and Randy Chambers served as ushers.

The bride's parents hosted a reception at the V.F.W. Hall in Traverse City. They were assisted by Gary, Linda, and Cheryl McDaniels. The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the V.F.W. Hall.

Following a wedding trip to Las Vegas, the newlyweds are at home in Comstock Park. The bridegroom, who is a graduate of Central Michigan University, is employed by Channel 13 WZZM in Grand Rapids. The bride is attending Grand Valley State University and working for Kraft Foods in Grand Rapids.

...local church celebrating centennial

build a new church. The church history describes the beginning of this project as follows:

"In Father Denay's ambitious rebuilding program for the parish, this would be the most challenging effort. General chairman of the campaign's executive committee was D. Gerald Gibbons, memorial gifts chairman was Andre Goss, team captain chairman was George LaBlance, and audit chairman was Ralph Hamilton. "Louis S. Orlovski, a Detroit area architect who was also a Charlevoix native, St. Mary's alumnus, and descendent of one of the parish's founding families, was selected to design the new church. Planned for was a 500-capacity, 50 foot by 130 foot brick and stone building. The site was right next to the old church in which services continued throughout construction. The total cost for the project eventually totaled $140,000." On Sunday, August 23, 1964, the new St. Mary's Catholic Church building was dedicated, 70 years after the dedication of the first church. The cornerstone of the old church and the church bell from the old building were made part of the new building. It will be in this building next Sunday that members of St. Mary's parish will gather to celebrate 100 years of parish life. Every aspect of church activities will be recognized by the present pastor, the Rev. James W. Gardiner, and the Bishop of Gaylord, the Most Rev. Patrick R. Cooney. St. Mary's School and the Dominican Sisters and lay teachers who have served it through the years will be recognized by present principal Sister M. Lydia Korson.

Former priests to return for program

The celebration of the 100th anniversary of the founding of St. Mary's Catholic Church of Charlevoix as a parish will be take place Sunday, September 16.

The centennial observance will begin with a special mass to be offered at 4 p.m. at St. Mary's with the Rev. James K. Gardiner, pastor of St. Mary's, officiating. Also on hand will be the Most Rev. Patrick R. Cooney, Bishop of Gaylord.

Following the service, the Charlevoix Knights of Columbus will sponsor a reception under a tent in the school parking lot.

Capping the event will be a centennial dinner in St. Mary's Parish Hall, tickets for which are already sold out. Master of Ceremonies for the dinner will be long-time parish member Clement Olach, who will introduce several former pastors of St. Mary's.

Sister M. Lydia Korson, O.P., principal of St. Mary's School, will introduce and welcome a number of Dominican sisters and lay teachers who have served at the school over the years. Music will be provided by St. Mary's Choir under the direction of Evelyn Wujcik.

CHURCH

John Case

John William Case Sr., 61, of Charlevoix, died Aug. 21, 1990. Funeral was 11 a.m. Thursday, Sept. 6, at St. Mary's Church, Charlevoix. The Rev. James K. Gardiner, the Most Rev. Patrick R. Cooney, St. Mary's School and the Dominican Sisters and lay teachers who have served it through the years will be recognized by present principal Sister M. Lydia Korson.

Mr. Case was born Nov. 17, 1928, on Beaver Island, the son of William and Sophie (Andrews) Case. He attended Charlevoix schools.

Mr. Case was a commercial fisherman on the Great Lakes and had also been employed at the Holiday Gas Station in Charlevoix for the past five years.

On Nov. 22, 1961, he married the former Alice Lorraine Kewagoshkum in Charlevoix. They always made their home in Charlevoix. Mrs. Case preceded him in death in 1981.

Mr. Case was a 10 year veteran of the U.S. Army and had served in the Korean conflict. He was discharged as a master sergeant.

He was a member of the Grand Traverse Bay Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians.

He is survived by two sons, John W. Case Jr. and Kelly Lee Case, both of Charlevoix; one daughter, Valeria Case of Ellsworth; four grandchildren; one brother, George Case of Ludington; two sisters, Marion Burch of Muskegon and Esther Case of East Jordan.

The building in the upper photo served as St. Mary's Catholic Church from 1894 to 1964 when the new building in the bottom photo was constructed.

Witnesses meet

Jehovah's Witnesses from the East Jordan Congregation have returned from their semi-annual Bible training program. The two-day seminar was held Saturday and Sunday, September 1st and 2nd at the Assembly Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in Holt, Michigan.

The local group assembled with over 1600 other Witnesses from northern Michigan, filling the 1750 seat auditorium.

"Stay Awake and Keep Your Senses" was the featured theme for the week-end program, based upon the scripture at 1 Thessalonians 5:6.

Highlight of the event came Sunday afternoon with the principal talk entitled, "Acting Wisely in a Senseless World." This discussion helped the audience focus on the need to apply the wise counsel found in the Bible to help mankind cope with the pressures of today's world.

The regular meeting schedule resumes this week at the East Jordan Kingdom Hall.

BEACONS

OF BLESSINGS

By Rev. Bruce Hamilton

When last we met, you heard about our clan's voyage to Beaver Island. Being die hard lovers of sun, we decided to take one final fling before the school bells chimed. Our destination was Sleeping Bear Dunes. I thought I knew where it was. That was my biggest mistake.

Those of you in the know already know that M-72 west from Traverse City is the preferred way. I know that now after spending almost two hours going up the wrong side of the peninsula on M-22. The kids kept saying, "are we there yet?" I kept saying I didn't know. "Are we lost Dad?" Like most dads I was bemused, befuddled and bewildered, but definitely not lost.

There is something a bit unnerving about not being totally sure of where you are. Especially when you search the car for a map and find you don't have one. And yet, the unexpected side trip went through some really pretty country. When we finally rounded the headland and caught sight of the dunes, you would not believe the kids' excitement and their father's relief.

They had their shoes off and in Daddy's hands in a flash. Dad would learn that kids knew best when I ended up taking my sneakers off too about half way up the hill. The view from the top was spectacular. It was something we all "oozed and aahed" at. It was great to have set a goal and enjoyed it together.

God has given you a map for your journey through life that you had better be sure you don't leave home without. His word is the lamp unto your feet and the light unto your path. He has placed wisdom in it about how to enjoy and get the most out of life's unexpected detours. He tells you in it the importance of laying aside every weight (sneakers really aren't much help in sand dunes) and the sin which so easily besets us.

With God, the journey's end is everything. There will be a view unlike any earthly view awaiting you when you have climbed to the top of heaven's mountain. There will be a joy in your safe arrival and a glow from having been reunited with ones you love.

Whether it is a family adventure or just your daily routine, value the time. Be sure you have everything you need. Let God's love, His word and His care for you make each day of your life truly special.

BUSINESS

Bridge Street's been busy with construction and consequently State Street's been busy with rerouted traffic in recent weeks. New sidewalks are being installed on the east side of Bridge Street as they were on the west side last fall.

Sheriff offers security checks

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is once again reminding residents of Charlevoix County that if they are to be absent from their homes for any period of time, the department has a program to check on homes.

In order to participate in this program, the home owner must contact the Sheriff's office in person and request the security check form, or call the Sheriff's office at 547-4461 and request that a form be sent to them. If a resident has applied for this program in the past the request must be re-submitted each year.

It should be noted, this program does not take the place of private security programs, but just adds to the coverage and works along with these private organizations.

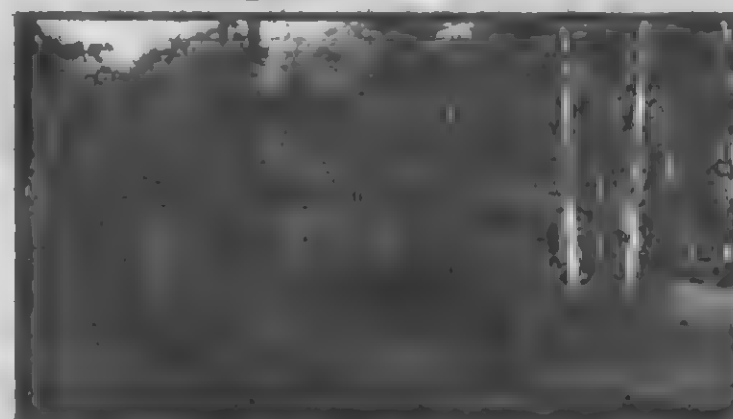

Industrial Fair plans finalized

An organizational meeting for the Charlevoix Industrial Fair will take place at 5:30 p.m., Wednesday Sept. 12 at Grey Cables. The industrial fair will take place Oct. 12 and 13 in the Charlevoix High School gym.

The purpose of the industrial fair is to provide an opportunity for area industries to show the public what they do. Business people interested in exhibiting at the fair should attend the meeting or make contact with fair organizers. For additional information, phone 547-6506.

SPORTS

Rayder running back Eric McElroy prepares to catch a pass during last Friday night's win over East Jordan. Later in the game, McElroy caught a 27 yard touchdown pass.

Rayders defeat East Jordan

Charlevoix employed a balanced offense and tightened up on defense in the second half to run away from East Jordan 34-13.

Punters were a luxury rather than a necessity in the first half as neither team played strong enough defense to force punts. Charlevoix, playing its 1990 home opener, began the scoring early in the first quarter on a 24 yard run by fullback Brian Coolman. Dan Terryberry kicked the extra point.

East Jordan promptly answered with a one yard touchdown run by Scott Beal with Tom Zipp adding the extra point. East Jordan ran well in the first half.

Following a long pass, Charlevoix regained the lead early in the second quarter on a two yard quarterback sneak and subsequent point after by Terryberry.

But East Jordan's offense again responded. Beal scored his second touchdown following a long drive. Charlevoix's Ken Olinger broke up the two point conversion attempt.

Charlevoix took the lead for good with less than a minute left in the half. Jason Parrish took a pass from Terryberry and sped—no, thundered or rumbled maybe—40 yards to the two yard line. Brian VanLoo finished the drive with a two yard run and a two point conversion.

Charlevoix scored halfway through the third quarter on a pretty 27-yard pass from Terryberry to Eric McElroy.

Coach Roger Gowell addresses the offense during a time out in the second half of Charlevoix's 34-13 win over East Jordan.

Basketball team loses to Boyne

Learning carries a price. Charlevoix's girls basketball team paid the price of inexperience in a 63-50 loss to Boyne City Sept. 6.

Charlevoix has only three upper classmen on their varsity roster this year. The other members of the squad are sophomores.

Boyne City quickly jumped out to a 7-2 lead against the Rayders. Turnovers against Boyne City's half court trap hurt Charlevoix. Boyne City also was beating Charlevoix down the floor. Boyne City's Dawn Archambault played a strong game underneath both the offensive and defensive baskets.

Early in the first quarter, Charlevoix's Gina Webster had some success, using her quickness to outmaneuver Boyne City defenders beneath the basket. Later in the quarter, she got into foul trouble and had to leave the game. When she returned, she never really got back into the flow of the game and ended up fouling out.

The first quarter ended with Charlevoix trailing 24-9.

In the second quarter, Boyne City's defense continued to give Charlevoix fits. The Ramblers' Kristin Harvey played an intelligent defensive game, making the Rayder guards pay when they either telegraphed their passes or failed to make crisp passes. Harvey also handled the ball well at the offensive end, keeping Boyne City's offense patient and controlled.

Although Charlevoix continued falling farther behind, there were some bright spots in the second quarter. Julie Gengle and Marianne Pfister came off the bench to make contributions.

Boyne City played an aggressive defense, attacking the Rayders' taller players when they got the ball in the lane. Gengle exhibited poise in handling the defensive pressure, either hitting shots from near the free throw line or driving past the defenders. Pfister simply fought fire with fire. In the face of an aggressive defense, she maintained her composure and went up strongly with her shots.

Heather Radle played well on the defensive end of the floor. In terms of quickness, she seemed to have a step on everyone on the floor. That quickness paid off in steals on the defensive end, but she had problems handling the ball at the offensive end.

At halftime, Charlevoix trailed 39-17.

In the third quarter, Charlevoix's offense moved the ball well, but could not score. Mary Jane Grunch broke down Boyne City's defense off the dribble, but the drives didn't result in baskets. Charlevoix didn't score in the quarter until Shelia Siegwart hit a driving lay-up with 15 seconds left.

Pfister and Grunch did a commendable job rebounding for the Rayders in the second half. Pfister utilized the Charles Barkley theory of rebounding ("Just go get it"). Even when she didn't start out with ideal rebounding position, she crashed the boards and beat people to the ball.

Junior guard Tammy Holm played a game which may parallel the Rayders' season under new coach Toni Felter. Holm got off to a shaky start, floating a couple of passes offensively and reacting rather than anticipating on defense. But in the second half, she made some adjustments and improved. She sharpened her passing game and got the ball to the inside players. Defensively, she began cutting off passing lanes and intercepting the ball.

Charlevoix scored 11 of their 30 points in the fourth quarter. Pfister took game scoring honors with eight.

Charlevoix also lost the junior varsity game 40-25 despite 15 points from Becky Bragg.

Charlevoix travels to Harbor Springs Sept. 13 and hosts Elk Rapids Sept. 18.

Marianne Pfister (50) seals off a Boyne City player during last week's loss to the Ramblers. Pfister played a strong game at both ends of the floor for the Rayders.

Cross country teams win

Charlevoix opened the 1990 cross country season just as it has closed the past three...winning. The three-time defending Class C champion boys' team, as well as the girls' team, won at Saturday's Kingsley Invitational.

Rayder sophomore Matt Smith won the boys' race with a time of 36:19, five seconds ahead of the second place finisher.

Rather than just taking the top five times, the boys' meet was scored by counting the four fastest times in the four classes (freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors) and the next best time regardless of class.

Other Charlevoix boys' times by class and place in class were:

Freshmen: 1. Zach Pajtas, 18:57; 5. Josh Daseleer, 20:41.

Sophomores: 1. Smith, 16:19; 2. John Parish, 18:42; 33. Josh Scheels 21:20.

Juniors: 1. Mike Sevenski, 16:30; 2. Chris Miers 16:42; Henri Daseleer 20:08.

Seniors: 2. Paul Wakulat, 16:31; 7. Matt Stargardt, 17:30; 13. Mike Ochs, 19:06. 24. Sven Hanjes, 22:14.

Two-time all stater Julie Bush led the Charlevoix girls with a third place overall. She turned in a time of 20:56, which was 17 seconds off the winning time.

Other Charlevoix girls' places and times were:

10. Elsa Conlin, 22:36; 17. Sandy Fershee, 23:21; 21. Carrie Farkas, 23:40; 22. Melissa Eaton, 23:49; 27. Wendy Jacobs, 24:17; 28. Melissa Cox, 24:23; 37. Erin Wright, 24:53; 60. Ann Schairbaum, 26:53; 89. Melissa Wagner, 33:23.

Art class scheduled

Charlevoix artist Janis Glass will offer two classes in Watercolor in Charlevoix this coming fall. Glass teaches through the Community School of the Arts, sponsored by the Crooked Tree Arts Council. Classes begin Thursday, Sept. 20 and last for six weeks.

"Exploring the Basics of Watercolor" is offered at the Community reformed Church of Charlevoix, US 31 North, on Thursdays 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Tuition for this class for six weeks is $50. The class is designed for first-time watercolor students or for students desiring a refresher course. Work focuses on color mixing and discovers the most temperate palate for clean, clear paintings. The class also looks at various techniques used in oil painting as well as basic composition and color design. The class is limited to 10 students.

"Watercolor Painting" is offered at the Charlevoix Public Library Thursday evenings, 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., at a tuition fee of $50. This class is designed for those students with some previous watercolor experience. Work is between student and teacher on an individual basis, where the student will do a painting on the subject of his choice each week. Composition and technique, exploring various means of arriving at a personal interpretation of the student's subject will be the main objective.

For a supply list and to register, students may call either Glass at 547-2256 or the Arts Center at 547-4337.

CROP walk is afoot

Walking is good for your health. By joining Charlevoix County CROP Walkers Saturday, Sept. 15, you can make your walk help someone else's health.

Sponsored by the Charlevoix County Ministerial Association, this will be the fourth year that walkers from Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan join to make a difference for local and world hunger.

Charlevoix walkers will gather at the high school gym area in preparation for the 9 a.m. CROP Walk start. The route will be May Street to Stover Road to M 66 to the Ironton Congregational Church, approximately six miles.

At Ironton, Charlevoix walkers will meet the CROP walkers from East Jordan and Boyne City for hot dogs and soft drinks before being transported back to their respective starting points. This year the Charlevoix Kiwanis is furnishing the refreshments as a community service.

The 1989 Charlevoix County CROP Walk raised $5,803 for hunger projects. One fourth of that amount, $480.37 each, was returned to local Food Pantries in Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.

People wishing to walk, or sponsor walkers, may contact any of the local ministers for more information.

McRae returns to Europe

Charlevoix resident Ralph McRae will be a source of up-to-date information about parts of Eastern Europe when he returns home from his trip through several of the once Russian-dominated countries as well as West Germany, Holland, and Austria.

By air and rail, McRae will travel to Prague, Vienna, Budapest, Bucharest, Kiev, Warsaw, Berlin, Amsterdam, Rotenberg, and Munich.

In Amsterdam, he will visit with a former Charlevoix High School exchange student who lived with McRae and his late wife while going to school here.

In recent years, McRae has been active in American-Russian organizations devoted to better understanding between the two countries. Last year, he was head of a committee which brought several Russian business and professional people to Charlevoix. He was also instrumental in arranging a trip to Russia this past summer by several local high school students.

HIGH SCHOOL COMPLETION PROGRAM

The schedule below lists the classes which are being offered each night beginning the week of Sept. 17-20, and continuing for 17 weeks. These classes are FREE to those who do not have their high school diploma. Any others are welcome in these classes for a fee of $30. Upon successful completion of each class you will be given 1/2 credit toward the credits needed for your diploma. If you have already completed a number of credits, call us so we can find out how many classes you should take to complete your work. Age does not matter; an older person may be given credits for life experiences, military service, or G.E.D. tests that have been taken. You may be surprised at how close you are to that diploma...so call and find out. The phone number to call to enroll or inquire about your situation is 547-3222.

The Charlevoix Legion Drum & Bugle Corps is pictured performing in East Jordan on July 4, 1982. Gerald Goss, who loaned us the photo, identified some of the members as "Spiker" Goss, Sam King, Clarence Meggison, Frank Cody, Leo Allard, Charlie Martini and Verne Jones.

Yes, even adults can be educated

Registration is now being taken for classes at the Charlevoix Adult Learning Center, with classes starting Monday, September 17.

The Learning Center, now in its fourth year of operation, offers a diversified classroom schedule. The program is offered in cooperation with Straits Area Community Education and the Charlevoix School District. Classes take place Monday through Friday for high school completion subjects as well as fun activities for older adults.

Everyone 18 to 90 is welcome to attend classes and there is no charge for those who do not have a high school diploma or senior citizens. Work may be completed on a structured basis or at the student's own pace to enable him to hold a job and work on a diploma at the same time.

Classes for fun are offered with the older adult in mind and include music, health, and art.

Those wishing to register for the classes should call Sherry Black at the Learning Center, phone 547-6361, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., or 547-2790 after 4 p.m.

Judge strikes down exemptions

A recent federal court ruling strikes down two exemptions in the Charlevoix County mass gathering ordinance.

In a court order dated Aug. 20, U.S. District Court Judge Robert Holmes Bell ruled that mass gathering ordinance exemptions for governmental and nonprofit agencies are unconstitutional.

Charlevoix Productions Inc. and Arthur Reibel, the owner of Castle Farms Music Theatre, challenged the mass gathering ordinance in court. Prior to Holmes' ruling, the production company dropped out of the action.

Reibel said he was pleased by the judge's decision.

"The court did exactly what we asked for," Reibel said.

He added that his position all along has been that if the county wanted to pass a mass gathering ordinance, then the ordinance must apply to everyone. He said he and his daughter Kim, who handles the day to day management of Castle Farms Properties, explained that position to county commissioners when commissioners were considering the ordinance.

County prosecutor Kraag Lieberman worked with county commissioners in drafting the ordinance and in defending the court challenge. Lieberman said he is neither surprised by, nor unhappy with, the court's decision.

"All it does is get rid of the exemptions for government and churches," he said.

While Holmes ruled against the exemptions, he also wrote that "the ordinance is unquestionably a legitimate exercise of local government's broad power to protect public health and safety."

The ordinance sets standards for things such as waste control, security personnel, number of public restrooms and public telephones for gatherings of more than 2,000 people.

"The judge didn't have any problem with the standards," Lieberman noted.

Charlevoix Volunteer Firemen received their new rescue truck last week. Approximately $90,000 of the $105,000 cost of the truck was paid for through contributions and fund raising.

Contributions bring new rescue truck

When firemen and ambulance personnel arrive at the scene of an accident, they need to have the right equipment to deal with the situation. They need to have the equipment readily accessible. If there are flammable liquids, present, they need to be able to make the accident scene safe. If it's night time, they need lights to be able to see what they're doing.

Charlevoix's newest fire truck, a rescue unit, provides for all those things. The truck arrived last week to an enthusiastic reception from the city's volunteer firemen.

Approximately two years ago, firemen initiated a fund raising drive to purchase the truck. The public responded by contributing $90,000 of the $105,000 it cost to purchase the truck. City funds made up the difference.

The majority of contributions came as a response to written solicitations or as memorial contributions. Firemen also hosted a Halloween Party with the cooperation of Stafford's Weathervane.

The new truck will be known as Engine 90. It will carry all of the fire department's emergency response equipment. That equipment includes the Jaws of Life, airbags and torches used to extract injured people from wreckage; air tanks; and ladders. The truck also has a heavy duty winch.

Engine 90 also contains 200 gallons of water, enough to put out a car fire; and a foam system to prevent fires or explosions at accidents where gas or other flammable liquids are present.

A 12 kilowatt generator in conjunction with overhead flood lights will allow firemen to see what they're doing during night-time emergencies.

Although the truck's primary purpose is rescue rather than firefighting, it has a deluge gun and is capable of pumping 1,250 gallons of water per minute to assist other department trucks in fighting fires.

Firemen have expressed their appreciation of the community's support for Engine 90 and invite people to stop by the fire hall to see take a first hand look at the truck.

...ordinance changed

A key question raised by the ruling is how it will affect events sponsored by governmental and nonprofit organizations, events such as Charlevoix's Venetian Festival or Boyne City and East Jordan's July Fourth celebrations.

Lieberman said the county mass gathering ordinance won't affect such events if cities or townships pass their own mass gathering ordinances. Local ordinances would supersede the county ordinance.

Reibel said cities and townships could pass their own ordinances, but those ordinances would have to be within reason.

Although Reibel took the matter to court, Castle Farms has complied with the county ordinance, Reibel said complying with the ordinance has been expensive. As an example, he said that the ordinance, as applied to Castle Farms, requires about 110 porta-jons for concerts. He said Castle Farms has always had about 125 porta-jons for large concerts. Those porta-jons cost a total of about $12,500 per concert night.

Lieberman acknowledges that Castle Farms has complied with the ordinance, but explains that the ordinance doesn't target Castle Farms. He said that in drafting the ordinance, he and county commissioners were more concerned about events which might spring up throughout the county and be less formally organized.

Lieberman said he informed county commissioners of the judge's decision.

"As far as I'm concerned, the matter's done," he said.

OPINIONS

Letters to the Editor:

Pool funds increasing

Editor,
As a result of the pool feasibility study conducted by Morris Everett, Jr., and our own personal contacts with the residents of the Charlevoix School District, it became clear that the main concern is operating expenses of a pool. This, in turn, caused some to oppose a pool at a school—any school! In fact, we believe that was the main reason the school board failed to agree to sponsor the application to the State for $750,000. One of the conditions of the grant was that the sponsor must be responsible for maintenance for twenty years.

Last spring the total in the Kiwanis Youth Foundation was only $25,000, so it was understandable that the school board took no action. Hence, the Friends of the Pool concentrated their fund raising efforts on creating an endowment fund of $500,000; the income from which will supplement the user fee monies to pay for operating expenses.

Thus far we have commitments for approximately $325,000. We have been successful and predict that we will have close to $500,000 in pledges and donations by the end of this year.

The pledges and donations received to date are broken down as follows:

- Patron ($25,000 and up) - 5
- Sponsor ($5,000-$24,999) - 11
- Stewards ($1,000-$4,999) - 22
- Others ($1-$999) - 329

Highlights of the campaign:
• Most of the pledges are for three years

• Several are memorial gifts
• Four pledges are by a grandmother in honor of her four grandchildren

Some gifts have been matched by employers: e.g., Waste Management matched the Way family gift in addition to the Waste Management pledge of $5,000

Payroll deduction is available for some employees

Planning has already begun for next year's auction

All Michigan foundations with any hope of our meeting their criteria have been solicited. (To date, only the Frey Foundation has pledged $70,000; with $10,000 of this received to date.)

Pledges were received from summer residents as well as year around residents. Members of the finance committee appeared personally at the Chicago Club and Belvedere Club annual meetings.

Our goal for the 1991 auction is $50,000, and I am chairman of that fund raising event. The date of Sunday, July 21st has been chosen, subject to approval of the Kiwanis and Keep Charlevoix Beautiful boards.

Yours truly,
Gayle Gennett,
Chairman Fund Raising Committee

Child psychology fails

Don't try to employ that child psychology stuff. It doesn't work.

The baby didn't feel well this past weekend. Apparently she had a touch of the flu or something. By Sunday, she was feeling better, but she still hadn't been eating as much as usual.

"See if you can get her to eat some potatoes or something," my wife said as I sat down to eat my dinner. "I haven't been able to get her to eat anything."

In recent weeks, the baby has decided that one of her responsibilities in life is helping dad eat. Every time I sit down with food, she crawls over and demands to be picked up so she can share what I'm eating.

I'm speculating, but I believe that the dog shared with the baby his philosophy regarding food. One day while they were crawling around on the floor together, the dog told the baby, "When it comes to food, anything you see them eating is far more desirable than anything they try to feed you. For me, people food is always better than dog food. For you, adult food is always better than baby food."

The baby has been quick to adopt this philosophy.

For dinner Sunday, I was having chicken and a baked potato. As soon as I picked up the baby, she made a grab for the baked potato.
